Select Poetry.

The following exquisite poem, is extracted read by all who can appreciate the genuine Irish grief and fondness breathed in every line:

Night Watching. Good night, good night, acushla machree, Dark is the night which is setting for me, And my tears that are falling so quietly

Will gush in a torrent soon. There is no one beside me to cheer me to-night-No one to tell me God's will is right; But I know 'tis a deadly sin to fright The soul which is going to Him.

So I hold my peace, and in murmurs low, Till none could guess I am grieving so; To Him and his angels I tell my woe, And pray for the soul departing. He was my all in the world below, No other friend did I seek or know.

But I will not grudge him to Heaven now, Since 'tis God's high will to take him. Long, long the dark night seems to stay, Yet more I dread the morning gray, Ere its full rays brighten round him. He will not bid me cease to moan; sorrow must now be all my own, Wy darkest grief I must bear alone, Astor machree, you're going. I will watch no more with longing ear?

The fall of your proud light foot to hear, When your quiet home you are drawing near Oh!-dark 'twill be without you. I will thrill no more to your words so fond, Nor proudly think how a fairy's wand Could never bring me a joy beyond

The bliss of being near you I will hold my head less lofty now, When you are laid in the church-yard low-Too much I gloried long ago In the happy lot God gave me.

No more for me is the laugh and song; But still as the darkening night comes on, The neighbors will see me creep along To the cold ground where you're laying.

And they'll tell the young how my heart beat high, nd the flashing joy was in mine eye, And small thought of care or death had I. When first we two were plighted.

Select Tale.

The following capital story appeared in Blackwood's Magazine several years ago. Unlike many old stories, it will be re-read with great interest:

Dr. Franklin's Opinion of Luck. The atonishing success of Jos. GORMELY, in the CLOTHING BUSINESS, excites the surprise of some and the envy and jealousy of others. His unparalleled success some attribute to one cause, and some to another. And some, more envious than the rest, attribute it to any cause that best suits their purposes, no matter how unjust, or how food the unserpresentations. Again, there is another class more easily satisfied, and content themselves by saying. Well, it is all theke-better to be born lucky than rich. Born under a lucky planet, '' &c. '' Pshaw says Dr. Franklin, of luck, all the junk I know of is in proper management.'' to be born lucky than rich. Born under a maky planet, "Re, "O Palane ways Dr. Franklin, of luck, all the luck I know of is in proper management."

Precisely so, Dr., and just the operating cause in the extensive business done at the great LANCAM-TER HALL OF PARHIONS. The only secret in this large business, and the only reason that it of large, is because he is careful in the selection is good materials, and has all his goods well made—good materials, and has all his goods well made—and then the fit of his garments cannot be surpassed; and are sold at prices that defy competition. This is the cause of his astonishing success at the great LANCASTER HALL OF FASHIONS, N. Queen St. Lancaster; next to J. Gish & Co.'s Book Store and the National House.
