THAT COUNTRY IS THE MOST PROSPEROUS, WHERE LABOR COMMANDS THE GREATEST REWARD."-BUCHANAN.

CITY OF LANCASTER, TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 26, 1849.

To Horse Owners. THE GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY.

THE only original and genuine article for the cure of Heaves, other complaints of the respiacure of Heaves, other complaints of the respiratory apparatus and derangement of the digestive functions in the horse is

KIRKBRIDE'S TATTERSALL'S HEAVE POWDERS

POWDERS.

It is warranted to be perfectly safe in all cases, will not inconvenience the animal or injure him even if he has no disease; it is from four to eight times cheaper than most of the imitations which are being circulated throughout the country, being put up in larger packages, sufficient to cure any ordinary case of Heaves, and to administer in a dozen cases of cold, catarth, &c.

At this season, while the horse is shedding his coat his vital energy is much reduced, and he is extremely liable to colds, &c., many cases of incipient Heaves are contracted now, but are suppressed by pasture or warm weather, till they break out in full force in the fall. Thousands of horses can be saved from future unsoundness, if when the first symptons of cold or wheezing is observed, a few doses of the Tattersall's Heave Powders should be administered. They are warranted to wholly hereaficate recent heaves.

They are warranted to wholly Great Spring Purifier.—The Heave Powders given in small doses, will be found most useful at this season. They stimulate the skin to cast off the superfluous hair and produce new; they loosen the hide. give a glosure the superfluous hair and produce new; they loosen the hide, give a glossy appearance to the coat, protect against disease; they also form their fine alterative and restorative powers, purify the blood and renovate the whole system, which horses require at this season as much as any of the human race, who find a preparation of Sarsaparilla useful to correct a vitiated state of the fluids, incident to the change of weather, which in the spring affect

INCREASING EVIDENCE.—Scarcely a day passes but we receive marks of approbation from our agents, and others who have used or sold the our agents, and others who have used or sold the emedy.

The following from our agent at Burlington, Vt., was received this morning:

"Mr. Flannagan of Middlebury, says he purchased a package of you last iall, and gave to a valuable young horse that had the heaves, and it cured him entirely; he is now perfectly sound. He has just bought a few more packages for other horses."

A. C. Spear, Burlington, Vt.

This was received yesterday morning:

"Messrs. A. H. Gough & Co.—I have by chance procured one package of your Tattersall's Heave Powders, and have tried them on a horse of my own. I think it has entirely cured my horse to all appearances. Almost every man here thinks heaves cannot be cured, and to satisfy the people that they can. I will purchase six package for $55 thick.

In addition to the above set In addition to the above and twenty other certificates which we have published, more than a hundred smilar ones can be adduced, but is impossible to publish them all. The successful and immense use of this popular Horse Remedy has rendered advertising unnecessary to establish it as the most useful and saleable horse medicine extant. CAUTION .- As is to be expected of every valua-LACTION.—As is to be expected of every valuable and popular remedy, numerous parasitical imitations have sprung up, all of which expect to find support and sale from the popularity of this medicipe. This has been the case more particularly in the middle and western parts of this State, but persons are cautioned against all "Heave Cures," "Heave Compounds," &c., and to purchase no remedy but

THEREFORE, the Farmers ought to look to their interests by examining the merits and improvements in Montgomery's very justly CELEBRATED FANNING MILLS. The undersigned continue to manufacture at their Shop, in Chesnut Street, a few doors West of the Museum, and near Whitehill's Foundry, in the city of Lancaster, Fanning Mills greatly superior to any ever before offered to the public, embracing all purp were before improvements arong which to any ever before offered to the public, embracing all THEIR very latest improvements, among which are the Double Screen and the better application of the wind, so as to produce the most desirable effect in cleaning grain of all kinds. Experience of many years, great practical knowledge, and strict personal application, enables us to say our Fams are superior in every particular to any here-

Our attention is especially turned to fitting up, and all work undergoes our careful personal inspection before leaving our shop.

In addition to our important improvements, our lans are celebrated for their case in working, and the great expedition with which they clean all kinds of grain, besides their superior finish warrant us in saying they surpass all other mills manufactured, and we confidently warrant them to give entire sat is faction upon trial.

Poetry. LINES---To P.-M. D.

Why dost thou feel rejected and forsaken, And for my image sorrowfully pine? My love has ever stood to thee unshaken,

My heart has beat in unison with thine. No earthly form have I adored above thee No other being shared th' unspoken bliss, And could'st thou feel how fervently I love thee Thy spirit must have fathomed me 'ere this.

My love was silent, yet it was not sleeping,
Nor was it cold to thy resplendent eye,
But secret grief and languid tears were steeping,
My soul in bitterness, as time passed by.
Oft have I dreamed of thee in summer hours,
When o'er the hills I chased the wandering bee,
And patiently I plucked the opening flowers,
And wrought them in a garland fair for thee. From their uplifted couches have I torn them, While yet the sun was towering in the west,
And in my flowing ringlets have I worn them,
Wrought into figures that will please thee best.
Long has my soul adored thee as a brother,
Long has my bosom harmonized with thine,
And yet I thought, perhaps, thou loved another,
And shrunk from soiling what I deemed divine.

Oft in the shades of even I have met thee, But thou didst pass me with a shadowy look, 'Twas this that made me struggle to forget thee, It was for this, thy presence I forsook.

When in a distant land, I have admired Thy image in my vision floating past,
And oft, when all to slumber had retired,
I fancied, that thy image came at last?

But if my features e'er again should meet thee,
'Twill recognize thee as a joyful prize,
And in the fullness of my soul, repeat thee,
That love which I had thought thou would'st despise.

Still if we meet, thy heart shall share my gladness,
Here on this earth may me in sixty and the state of his mare, which he includes the state of the s Here on this earth may we in virtue dwell,

If not, we'll mutely bear the crushing sadness,

And try to meet in heaven—then fare thee well.

SOAR HIGH! SOAR HIGH!! Soar high! soar high! nor fear to fly-Think not about the falling—
Stay not to shrink upon the brink
Of high or holy calling;
But, heing right, with all thy might
Go on—the clouds of sorrow,
That here to-day obscure thy way,
May all be gone to-morrow May all be gone to-mor

The world may sneer, and laugh and jeer, Yet stay not for repining; Alike for all, the great and small, Creation's light is shining.
Take heart of oak, there is no stroke
Man strikes, but it may aid him;
For if the deed from good proceed,
Say what on earth shall shade him?

As every joy, we unemploy Is an ungracious measure;
So every gift we cast adrift
Is a most wasted treasure.
And it may be, perchance, if we
Should once alike refuse them,
We may in vain strive to regain
The slightest power to use them

Soar high! soar high! nor fear to fly—
Think not about the falling—
There is a power in every hour
To help us in our calling;
If only more we would adore,
And seek its mighty aiding;
Nor rack our brains, and take such pains
To search for things so fading. To search for things so fading.

Woman is certainly "Heaven's last, best gift to man," and Campbell tells us that "The world was sad, the garden was a wild, And man, the hermit, sighed till woman smiled."

When men elevate woman in the social circle, they raise themselves. A perfect woman, if such a being could exist, would approach nearer to the naracter of an angel than any thing we can conceive. It would not, however, perhaps, be very difficult to show that woman has been almost equally, the blessing and the curse of the human race. War and peace, tyranny and liberty, have alike been the fruits of her charms or her intrigues her virtues or her vices.

The End of Prudence.

The great end of prudence is to give cheerfulness to those hours which splendor cannot gild, and acclamation cannot exhibitante. Those soft intervals of unbended amusement, in which a man shrinks to his natural dimensions, and throw-aside the ornaments of disguises which he feels, in privacy, to be useless encumbrances, and to lose all effect when they become familiar. To be happy at home, is the ultimate result of all ambition, the end to which every enterprise and labor tends, and of which every desire prompts the prosecution.— We have often wondered if there was an Atheist of which every desire prompts the prosecution.—
It is, indeed, at home that every man must be, We have often wondered if there was an Aineist in the world—a man who believes in no such omnipotent, all-wise and all-governing power, as we call God. We do not believe that such a man extra considerable with a month of the virtue, or felicity for smiles and embroidery are alike occasional, and the mind is often dressed.
