Names Change--Principles Never.

We observe that our Federal cotemporaries of this city style themselves Democratic Whigs, and parade the names of their candidates every week before their readers, as the "Democratic Whig Ticket." We should like to know from our respecdepartment ted neighbor of the Examiner, what has become of the Whig party proper, now that it is no longer identified with its cherished name of some twelve or fifteen years standing. Has it sunk into the tomb of oblivion, to lie buried with Federalism, National Republicanism, Anti-masonry, Native Americanism, and all the other 'isms which have graced the soubriquet of our opponents since the advent to power of the elder ADAMS? We are not aware of any change in the principles of that party. and are therefore at some loss to divine the reason for a change of name. Can it be possible that they have become ashamed of it? or is it done for the purpose of throwing dust in the eyes of the people? We only ask for information, as we are yet some. what of a stranger in this county, and are anxious to get all the light we can on the subject of its politics.

When General TAYLOR came into Pennsylvania agricultural, manufacturing, mining and other interests of the State. But how did he act? Instead of visiting our Farms, Manufactories, Furnaces, Workshops, &c., he hastened from town to town, stopping at Whig Headquarters, devoting all his time to public receptions, and evidently lending himself to the electioneering purposes of the unscrupulous men who had him in keeping. Nowhere, neither at York, Lancaster, Columbia, Harrisburg, Carlisle, Chambersburg, nor Bedford, do we find him devoting any, the least attention to the purpose avowed by him on coming into the State. The Washington Republic, the organ par excellence of the National Administration, which has been regaling its readers for several weeks with accounts of alleged defalcations, is forgetting the best part of the story. Why does not that highly honest newspaper tell the public of the blessings and benefits of the celebrated Bankrupt Law, originated under Whig auspices, established by Whig votes, and repealed under the lash of indignant public opinion, by the same Whig Congress that established it?
