LANCASTER, Pa., June 9, 1848.

Doctor William Steelling:—It affords me great pleasure to state to you that I have used your Pulmonary Syrup with great benefit for Coughs, Pain in the breast, and Bronchitis. It is about one year since I begun the use of it. I consider it the best article I know of for those complaints, having derived great benefit myself from it in those affections, I have no hesitation in recommending it to all who labor under similar diseases. I have also given to my little son with great advantage. THE undersigned adopt this method of informing their friends and the public in general, that they have taken the Marble Yard, formerly conducted by Daniel Fagan, situated in North Queen Street, in the city of Lancaster, a few doors north of Van Kanan's (formerly Scholfield's) tavern, where they are prepared to execute all orders in their line, in the neatest manner, at the most liberal prices, and with every possible expeditions. prices, and with every possible expedition.

Testimony of a well known Merchant of Williams town, Lancaster county, Pa.:—

Dr. Wm. Steelling Dear Sir:—It affords me much pleasure to inform you of the great benefit I have received and also in my family, from the use of your Pulmonary Syrup. I have used it for Canarath on the Breast, and from a very few doses have been relieved. I have also found it a certain remedy for the Croup and all common colds. I have sold it at my store for four years and could give a great many instances of its success in all diseases of the Lungs and Throat.

Respectfully yours, R. M. JONES.

BY INIGO JONES. I'm the child of the Sun, and I love to gaze I'm the child of the Sun, and I love to gaze
On the light of his smile, and float in his blaze.
In contentment I soar, an æronaut gay,
My wings richly gilt with his glittering ray;
Nor, like Phæton, desire to take from my sire
The reins that he holds o'er his coursers of fire; Unhallowed ambition's the perilous sin
That has ruin'd bright angels and maidens and men.
My mother was virtuous, and humble in mein,
And modestly dwelt in her bower of green;
She was pure as the new driven snow in the field,
And armed with sharp weapons her virtue to shield; Each suitor admired her green dress with its frills,

But each stood aloof from her porcupine quills; No lover desired to embrace such a bride, To receive, with her kiss, a thorn in the side; Bargains!

Relations with Tunis.

The Washington Republic of the 3d inst., menmay be done. We were the first to amrm and to proclaim the Independence of France, while she was surrounded with the emissaries of monarchy, tates that the United States steamer Mississippi, commodore Morgan, arrived at that port on the 9th, with the United States consul, Dr. Heep, on board, who is on his way home. It appears that during the last year the American flag, at the consulate in Tunis, had been insulted by the Bey, who had imprisoned the dragomer of the consul. For several years there has een unadjusted a claim upon the Bey, of John Howard Payne, our former consul at that place During the last spring, instructions were sent to our consul, Dr. Heep, to demand payment of the claim and, at the same time, proper atonement for the insult to the American flag, to which we have referred. A duplicate of these instructions was en trusted to Commodore Morgan, who under the or-der of the President, visited the Bey in the steamer Mississippi. Before the arrival of the Commodore at Tunis, the Bey had agreed to pay the money to Mr. Payne. The gallant Commodore has faithfully obeved the instructions of the Secretary of State and has obtained all the atonement for the outrage which was desired. He called in person on the Bey on the 1st of August, and was received in the most friendly man ner; the Bey treating him with the most marked consideration, and assuring him that all he desired was granted before it was asked. The Bey subsely made a written communication to Adm al" Morgan, in which he repeated the assurance o his desire to preserve the most friendly relations with the United States, and promised that a like case to that of the dragoman should not occu again, and that all our treaty stipulations should We have a large and effective squadron in the grave.

ILF At the great meeting in favor of Hungary, held in Philadelphia, on the 20th ult., the following patriotic and eloquent address, from his own pen, was read by Col. JOHN W. FORNEY, of the Penn-people, environed with perils, are fighting the battles of liberty in the Valleys of the Danube. Their achievements have excited the admiration of the world. Their successes have appalled the confederate tyrants who assail them. Every steamer brings us intelligence of some new deed of done, or some imposing advantage won, in the name of Freedom. But while our hearts swell with joy at the tidings of Hungarian victory, we tremble with anxiety at the spectacle of Despotic intervention, with its hordes of wild warriors educated in the work of blood, and intoxicated by promises of rapine and spoil. We turn, indeed, to the fair fields once darkened by the flag of Austria, and rejoice to see them now illuminated by the banners of Liberty. We behold, too, that by a happy, and, let us hope, Providential coincidence, the theatre upon which the present contest is to be decided, is the same upon which, centuries ago, Christianity won some of its noblest victories. But the banners of Hungary float alone, while the blue cross of Russia is united to the crimson standard of Francis Joseph, of Hapsburgh; and both impiously invoke the blessings of God upon a cause which can only be successful by the prostration of man. We have recently too sadly realized that intrepid Hungary has but little to hope for from European nations. False France has betrayed he-roic Rome into the arms of sacerdotal tyranny; while her own indignant masses are held in subjection by a hired soldiery. Prussia has sunk back, paralized by disastrous events in other quarters, into the arms of the monarchy at Berlin. Genoa has fallen—Ancona has succumbed—Piedmont is threatened with new horrors—and though historic Venice holds out bravely against the butcher RADETSKY, in the fastnesses of the Carpathian mountains, b the shores of the river Theiss, and on the broad and rugged plains of Transylvania, the followers of LEWIS Kossuru made their last stand against the mited forces and the accumulated vengeance of nowerful and affrighted Despotism.

Such is the position of the cause, in behalf of which we invoke the aid of the people of Pennsylvania, one of the old Thirteen Colonies. There is peculiar propriety in such a demonstration, cause there is a peculiar similarity between the Magyar Revolution and our own. The same paience in suffering, the same forbearance under outrage, and the same confidence in a treacherous King, has been manifested on the part of independent Hungary, that preceded our own struggle with England. The House of Hapsburg has imitated, and improved upon British example on this conti-nent. It has been equally treacherous and cruel equally corrupt and unworthy; equally false to all the ties of gratitude and of kindred. Hungary, like the original thirteen colonies, has fought the battles of the monarch that oppressed her. On more than one memorable occasion, Vagyar valor saved the crown from passing into other hands. But, like Great Britain, she has responded to the fealty of a patient and uncomplaining people, by repeated injuries and new insults; seeking to obliterate all traces of their natural independence, by taxing them enormously, and then denying to them the right of epresentation, secured through ages by a written constitution; and, finally, to complete the striking parallel, has excited among the rude population of Servia and Croatia, a rebellion that for a time led es before and during our seven years' war agains

But it we trace this singular resemblance between rian Independence! If there is no WASHINGTON to cheer and inspire the struggling masses, there is him another severe blow above the HEYRT, the boldness of PINCKNEY, and the originality of Fisher Ames—and whose powers of endurance remind us constantly of the sleepless chief that led our armies at Princeton and suffered with them at Valley Forge. How easy to trace in the warrior Bem, the celerity and vigor of a Watne—arrive Group who partizen soldier Marion.

A DESPERATE NEGRO .- The Knoxville (Tenn.) Register gives an account of a desperate negro, who was sold by a gentleman in Anderson county, a few years since, to a citizen of Middle Tennessee: The negro was removed to the home of his new master; but in a short time ran away and returned to Anderson county, and secreted himself for a year or more in the neighborhood of his wife, but was discovered and apprehended, and again taken to Mid-dle Tennessee. He remained the second time until an opportunity was presented and again absconded This was six or seven yeaes since. A large reward was offered for his apprehension. Diligent search was for a long time made, but no traces of him being discovered, his running away had passed entirely out of the minds of all but his owners. A few days since, however, two men, residing in Anderson county, by the names of Diggs and Low, were out with their rifles hunting game. Being fatigued and thirsty, for the purpose of refreshing themselves, they concluded to go to a fine spring not far off. This they did, and went up to the cabin, where there were several white women liv ing. Diggs took his seat upon a bed, while his companion, Low, remained in the yard. One of the women was in the cabin, and so soon as Diggs entered, she commenced a sprightly conversation with him, during which she approached the bedside and let fall on the floor a large butcherknife, at which, as soon as it struck the floor, the hand of a negro caught from under the bed. Diggs' suspicion being thus awakened, he, with great presence of mind, kicked the knife beyond the reach of the hand, and instantly a huge negro sprang out, drew up an axe with both hands, and wa swinging it over so as to cleave the skull of Diggs, to the most irightful and bloody results—only paralleled by the insurrection instigated by Great Britain among the fierce savages of our own wilderness. when tortunately the blow was so far checked by or five inches in length. Diggs cocked his gun, observed the precise position of the muzzle, and placed the broad side of the axe before it so that the Magyar revolution and our own, how much like the heroes of '76 are the champions of Hunga sprang upon the negro and grappled, but did not sprang upon the negro and grappled, but did no succeed in throwing him until the negro had struck Kossuth, whose fame is already as extensive as axe.
