To all who are afficted with Asthma : I have at different times been afflicted with s I have at dimerent times been amicted with se-vere colds, which produces in my case, the Asthma. I have on these occasions, used Dr. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. Two years ago I was quite sick, so much so, that I could not rest at nights. I. procured of the agent in "this city, a bottle of this Balsam of Wild Cherry. Before I had taken the whole of it I felt relieved. I con-tinued taking it until I had used these of four hot. tinued taking it, until I had used three or four bot tles, which completely cured me. The presen season I took another severe cold, and immediately resorted to this Balsam, and a part of one bottle had the desired effect. I therefore cheerfully recommend my friends and all others who need it, t try this medicine for their coughs and colds, an particularly the Asthma. Respectfully yours, Wm. McGRATH.

eath is a destiny, and man is chained to it Death is a destiny, and man is chained to it; its rule is universal: for it wanders and and triumphs over the diverting influences of the beautiful; and anon! its solemn peal is echoed amid the inspira-tions of terror. In health it hangs above the soul like the sword suspended over the head of Damo-cles; in sickness, like the slowly advancing, yet destructive, Pendulum. Good and bad alike swell the aumher of its ritime, but here see the sourd destructive, Pendulum. Good and bad alike swell the number of its victims; but how sweet are that consolation and hope which meet it with the feel-ings of inspiration: "O death! where is thy sting? O grave! where is thy victory? Thus, this frequent longing for the cold bed of the grave; this repeated panting to embrace the portals shrouded by the sepulchre: there is peace for these—there wo is a stranger, and wo-begone countenances never meet the eye. Adieu! for a moment, adieu! for soon the friends with whom you lived will live with you: the sweeping winds will walt them Hoatc, and the coldness of the earth only sightover their graves— affecting them not. Thy home may be theirs, as their hope was thine—thy death may smooth theirs, as their ministering hands made calm the last mo-ments of thine existence. Though the affected souls and wounded minds may mourn thy loss:— death, to thee, was but the prologue to an unend-ing bio the suce of the prologue to an unenddeath, ito thee, was but the prologue to an unend-ing life of peace and felicity; and all earthly re-membrance, however destined to fade, will again bud forth in primeval freshness, when faded beauty, decrepid age, or blighting disease shall bid defiance to human skill, and seek shelter in wounded hands Divine.
