CITY OF LANCASTER, TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 20, 1849.

OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND,

Genuine Townsend Sarsaparilla. LD DR. TOWNSEND is now about 70 years o age, and has long been known as the author and discoverer of the Genuine Original Townsend and discoverer of the Genuine Original Townsend Sarsaparilla. Being poor, he was compelled to limit its manufacture, by which means it has been kept out of market, and the sales circumscribed to those only who had proved its worth, and known its value. It had reached the ears of many, never theless, as those persons who had been healed o sore diseases, and saved from death, proclaimed its excellence and wonderful HEALING POWER. Knowing, many years ago, that he had, by his skill, science and experience, devised an article which would be of incalculable advantage to mankind when the means would be furnished to bring it into universal notice, when its inestimable virtue ncapable of degeneration or deterioration. Unlike young S. P. Townsend's, it improves with age, and never changes, but for the better; because it is prepared on scientific principles by a scientific man. The highest knowledge of Chemistry, and the latest discoveries of the art, have all been because the scientific man. well known to medical men contains many medica it for use, produce fermentation and acid, which is injurious to the system. Some of the properties of Sarsaparilla are so volatile, that they entirely evaporate and are lost in the preparation, if they are not those experienced in its manufacture. Moreover, these volatile principles, which fly off in vapor, or as an exhalation, under heat, are the very essential.

of the Sarsaparilla root are first removed, every thing capable of becoming acid or of fermentation, is extracted 5 rejected; then every particle or medical virtue is secured in a pure and concentrated form; and thus it is rendered incapable of losing any of its valuable and healing properties. Prepared in this way, it is made the most powerful agent in the

CURE OF INNUMERABLE DISEASES. Hence the reason why we hear commendations on every side in its favor by men, women, and children. We find it doing wonders in the cure of Consumption, Dyspepsia, and Liver Complaint, and utaneous Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches, IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD. It possesses a marvelous efficacy in all complaints rising from Indigestion, from Acidity of the Stomach, from unequal circulation, determination of blood to the head, palpitation of the heart, cold feet and hands, cold chills and hot flashes over the body. It has not its equal in Colds and Coughs; and promotes easy expectoration and gentle perspiration, relaxing strictures of the lungs, throat, and every other part. But in nothing is its excellence more manifestly seen and acknowledged than in all kinds and stages of FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

It works wonders in cases of Flour Albus or hites, Falling of the Womb, Obstructed, Suppressed, or Painful Menses, Irregularity of the mens-trual periods, and the like, and it is effectual in curing all the forms of Kidney Disease.

By removing obstructions, and regulating the general system, it gives tone and strength to the whole body, and thus cures all forms of Nervous circulation of the blood, producing gentle warmth equally over all parts of the body, and the insensible perspiration; relaxes all strictures and tightness, removes all obstructions, and invigorates the entire nervous system. Is not this then the medicing warms as productions and the medical content of the stricture of the stri

Townsend, and yet he would fain have it understood that Old Dr. Jacob I rownsend's Genuine Uriginal Sarsapa rilla, is an imitation of his inferior preparation.

Heaven forbid that we should deal in an article which would bear the least resemblance to S. P. Townsend's article; and which should bring down upon the old Dr. such a mountain load of complain and criminations from Agents who have sold, and purchasers who have used S. P. Townsend's Fermenting Compound.

As S. P. Townsend is no doctor, and never was is no chemist, no pharmaceutist—knows no more of medicine or disease than any other common, unscientific, unprofessional man, what guarantee can the public have that they are receiving a genuine scientific medicine, containing all the virtue of the articles used in preparing it, and which are incapable of changes which might render them the AGENTS of Disease instead of health. But what else should be expected from one who knows nothing comparatively, of medicine or disease! It requires a person of some experience

Bishop George and the Young

An aged traveller, worn and weary, was gently urging on his tired beast, just as the sun was drop-bing behind the range of hills that bounds the horion of that rich and picturesque country in the cicinity of Springfield, Ohio. It was a sultry August evening and he had journeyed a distance of 35 miles since morning—his pulse throbbing under the influence of a burning sun. At Fairfield he had een hospitably entertained by one who had recognized the veteran soldier of the cross, and who h fits he himself had received from the hand which feedeth the young lions when they lack; and he had travelled on, refreshed in spirit. But many a weary mile had he journeyed over since then, now, as the evening shades darkened around, he felt the burden of age and toil heavy upon him, and he desired the pleasant retreat he had pictured t himself when that day's pilgrimage should be complished.

It was not long before the old man checked his d animal at the door of the anxiously looked for haven of rest. A middle aged woman was at "I don't know," said she coldly, after scrutiniz ng for some time the appearance of the traveller, nich was not the most promising, "that we can take you in, old man. You seem tired, however, and i'll see if the minister of the circuit, who is here to-night, will let you sleep with him." The young circuit preacher soon made his apearance, and consequentially swaggering up to ne old man, examined him for some moments inthe old man, examined him for some mo uisitively; then asked a few impertment questions —and finally, after adjusting his hair half a dozen times, feeling his smoothly shaven chin as often, ented that the stranger should share his bed for the night, and turned upon his heel, and entered

The traveller, aged and weary as he was, dis mounted and led his faithful animal to the stable, and with his own hands he rubbed him down, and gave him food, and then entered the honitable mansion where he had expected so much kindness. A methodist family resided in the house, and as the circuit preacher was to be there that day, great preparations were made to entertain him, and a number of the methodist young ladies of the neighborhood had been invited, so that quite a party met the eye of the stranger as he entered, not one of the eye of the stranger as he entered, not one of whom took the slightest notice of him, and he weat of rily sought a vacant chair in the corner, out of direct observation, where he could note all that was going on—and his anxious eye showed that he was going on—and his anxious eye showed that he was going on—and his anxious eye showed that he was going on—and his anxious eye showed that he was going on—and his anxious eye showed that he was going on—and his anxious eye showed that he was going on—and his anxious eye showed that he was offered for twelve hundred hogs, and it is supposed that even a higher price was paid.—Madison (Ind.) Banner, Oct. 31.

was no careless observer of what was transpiring around him.

The young minister played his part with all the frivolity of a city beaux, and nothing like religion escaped his lips. Now he was chatting and bandying senseless compliments to this young lady, an now engaged in trifling repartee with another, who was anxious to seem interesting in his eyes.

To Young Women

BY MATHEW CARET. Some one hath said, that "matrimony is with women the great business of life, whereas with men it is only an incident," an important one, to be sure, but only one among many to which their attention is directed, and often kept entirely out of view. Now, this difference gives the other sex a great advantage over you; and the best way to equalize your lot, and become as wise as they are,

The less your mind dwells upon lovers and mat was soon buried in thought holy and elevating, and had food to eat which those who passed him by in pity and scorn dreamed not of. Hour after hour passed away, and no one came to invite the old way, and no one came to invite the old way. assed away, and no one came to invite the old prived, and seek to derive all the benefit you can prived, and seek to derive all the benefit you can upper which was served below.

Towards eleven o'clock the minister came up you talk to them as one rational being should to another, and never remind them that you are can barrased and made to say what is ill judged, silly and out of place; and you defeat your own views by appearing to a great disadvantage.

However secret you may be in these speculations, if you are continually thinking of them, and ness that is held in especial contempt by the stronger sex. Since the customs of society have awarded to man the privilege of making the first advance togreat end of existence—preparation for eternity— may be equally attained in married or single lite, and that no union but the most perfect one is at all desirable. Matrimony should be considered as an incident in life, which if it come at all, must come

"Ash, indeed! You must be very tired after so long a journey for one of your age."

"Yes, this poor old body is much worn down by long and constant travel, and I feel that the journey to day has exhausted me much."

The young minister moved over a little.

"You don't belong to Springfield, then?"

"No. I have no abiding place."

"How?"

"I have no abiding place."

"Who have is havend a thousand thoughts and feelings which they would be ashamed to entertain; and their pre-occupation with a subject which they had better let alone, prevents their being the agreeable and rational companions of the gentlemen of their acquaintance, which they were designed to be.

An Eloquent Extract. Few paragraphs in our language equal the following in eloquence, wisdom and patriotism .-They are from the pen of the immortal Jackson, and composed part of his message on the occasion of his vetoing the U. S. Bank: If I had been ambitious, I should have sought an alliance with that powerful institution (U. S. Bank.) which even now aspires to no divided empire. If I had been venal I should have sold myself to its designs; had I preferred personal ease, to the per-formance of my arduous duty, I should cease to molest it. In the history of conquerers and usurpers, never in the fire of my youth, nor in the vigor of manhood, could I find attraction to allure me from the path of duty; and now. I shall scarcely find an inducement to commence the career of am-bition, when grey hairs and decayed frame, instead of inviting to toil and battle, call me to the con were got for me. If an old man, toil-worn and templation of other worlds, where conquerers cease to be honored, and usurpers expiate their crimes The only ambition I can feel, is to acquit myself to Him, to whom I must soon render an account of my stewardship, to serve my fellow men, and live especied and honored in the history of my country. No, the ambition which leads me on, is an anxious desire and a fixed determination, to return to the people, unimpaired, the sacred trust they have con-fided to my charge—to heal the wounds of the constitution, and preserve it from further violation; to persuade my countrymen so far as I may, that it s not in a splendid government, supported by powerful monopolies and aristocratical establishments, that they will find happiness, or their liberties protected; but in a plain system, void of pomp, protecting all, and granting favors to none; dispensitis blessings like the dews of Heaven, unseen a unfelt, save in the freshness and beauty they con-dull, supine; prosy woman is a poor affair indeed. And we have no particular objection to seeing "the sparks flying occasionally," when something stirring occurs. We like to see her joyful and lively; and if she has a little spice of waggery, we can put up with it very well; nay, we like it all the better. But a cross, sour temper, we have no good opinion of for a woman who can never look pleasant, but is always fretting and scolding, will make an unhappy home for all within her house. And we had as lief undertake to live in a barrel of vinegar in a thunder storm as to live in the house with such a woman. Solomon was right when he said, "It is better to live in the corner of a house

Let a woman wear sunshine on her countenance and it will drive the dark clouds from her husband's face, and joy will thrill through the hearts of her children. Let a woman's words be soothing and kind, and every thing is happy around her. Her influence will be powerful. Others will catch her most like her. Sweetness of temper in a woman is more valuable than gold, and more to be prized than beauty. But may Heaven keep us from an untarned shrew whose looks are wormwood and whose words are gall! We had rather take Daniel's place with the lions, than think of living within zunshot of such a termagant. If women knew ways show sweetness of temper, for then they are
