Miscellaneous. It will all be right in the morning.

When the bounding beam of the heart of love, And the apron of the girl is blue above.

When the sun is shining, and the dew is on the grass, And the song that he sings is low and sad.

When the "strong man armed," in the middle of the night, is seen, And the watch-dog barks and the door is open.

Thus all through the world, by ship and by shore, Where the mother bends over, And the cradle wails and the babe is born.

It will all be right in the morning.

An Interesting Narrative. WONDERFUL ADVENTURES OF AN AMERICAN.

The following narrative of the wonderful adventures of a young American, which we copy from a Philadelphia paper, will be read with interest.

Our readers have already been apprised, that an Arctic Expedition, intended to search for the missing Sir John Franklin, had been fitted out by the munificent Mr. G. B. Sigsbee.

It was the first time that a vessel of this kind had ever been fitted out in this country.

The Disaster on Lake Erie.

The following account of the late terrible disaster, we find in the Cleveland Herald. It is from the pen of Dr. Maroney, of Louisiana, who was one of the passengers, and who owes his escape from the frightful death that overtook so many human beings, to his presence of mind in the moments of greatest peril.

CLEVELAND, O., June 17. Dear Sir.—About 7 o'clock Sunday evening I got on board the Griffith at Erie. There were on board a great number of passengers.

At 10 o'clock the vessel started on its way. The crew, the clerk told me, consisted of about 30 persons. This morning the boat took fire about the chimney, or as I was told at the time, "she was on fire in the pipes."

A gentleman who slept in the berth under me jumped up and said there was something wrong. I told him no, that we must be near Cleveland, and the noise was owing to the men getting up.

My friend ran out on the guard and instantly returned telling me "the boat was on fire." I got out pretty rapidly, pulled on my pants and took a small valise I had in my hand.

As I was getting into the boat, I saw a man who had been in the boat, and who was in a very bad way. He was in a very bad way.

As I was getting into the boat, I saw a man who had been in the boat, and who was in a very bad way. He was in a very bad way.

As I was getting into the boat, I saw a man who had been in the boat, and who was in a very bad way. He was in a very bad way.
