Let more ambitious poets than myself, Who write for praise, for patronage, nor self, Employ their powers, in penning jolly rhymes, Of other wiser sights will meet my eyes. Through fancy's realm they may choose to roam My muse, more humble, fondly thinks of home - (Hill, Lancaster's) progressive city hall. Where honest industry and wealth prevail! How rapid is thy growth! each passing day Brings us a grander and more glorious array. Where once bleak lots and stagnant pools were seen And dissolution saddened all the green - Three great Cotton Mills, and a new found, And handsome dwellings ranged in order round. Within the compass of a single year, No more the traveller has to grope his way, The reign of penny-candies now is o'er, Bright burning Gas illumines every Store; No more the miser's hoard is hid away, The night is made as brilliant as the day; And 'ere the waning of another year, We'll have a splendid first-class City here, And last, not least, 'fore eighteen fifty-one, If that is finished what is now begun, Three Charles Street Mills will thrice the Will ring a very merry Christmas cheer - Much has been done, but much remains to do, - (Center House) now, and a few more to go. But after you have taken your wonted round, And the signs of this vast city found, P. J. KRAMPH'S GREAT CHRISTMAS SEASONS
