Democratic Meeting.

At a meeting of the Democratic citizens of the 14th Election District, Colerain, held at the house of C. Milner, on Saturday evening, September 14, 1859, Mr. Alexander Turner was called to the Chair, and William Whiteside appointed Secretary.

The object of the meeting having been stated to be the election of delegates to represent said District in County Convention, to be held in the city of Lancaster, on Wednesday next, and that this meeting instruct their delegates (when elected.) as to the expediency of settling a Ticket to be supported at the ensuing general election, and in such other matters as to this meeting rightfully belong.

On motion, the meeting then proceeded to elect ict. Colerain, held at the h other matters as to this meeting then proceeded to elect On motion, the meeting then proceeded to elect delegates; when on closing the polls and counting the votes, it appeared the following named persons were duly elected, viz. Uriah Swisher, Haslet Turner, Col. Abm. McConnel, Joseph White and Miller Harrar.

The following resolutions were then read and nanimously adopted, viz:

Resolved, That this meeting approve of settling Aresolves, That this meeting applied of the delega-tion in their judgment may deem most eligible. Resolved, That we are opposed to bribery and corruption, come from whatever source they may. Resolved, That Wm. Whiteside, Abm. McConnel, Ebenezer Jackson, Uriah Swisher and Wm. N. Col. Wm. Bigler for Governor.

MR. EDITOR:-I will be happy to have the use of a small space in your valuable paper, for the purpose of presenting to the people of Pennsylvania the name of Col. WILLIAM BIGLER, of Clearfield the name of Col. William interface, of cleaning county, for Governor. I have not often seen among the leading men of any party, one for whom I could lay aside my accustomed diffidence to take the political arena, before Col. BIGLER. Party organization and party discipline, can do but little towards tion and party discipline, can do but little achieving a glorious victory, unless men of probity, honor and integrity, are elevated to office. Corrup-tion may for a time hold the ascendency;—it may e corrupt men to office, but that terrible giant, public opinion, will arouse from its lethargy and hurl into insignificance the impostors. Men may be blinded in the choice of their officers; they may be deceived in those in whom they repose confi-dence;—yet, our institutions are such, that every man has the remedy in his own hands, and needs only to apply it to correct the evil.

In making party nominations, there is a great The character, the credit, and the very existence of the party depends upon making good nominations. Here, in Pennsylvania, where the progressive spirit of the age demands that all the Democratic office holders should be of superior abilities and unflinching integrity, it becomes doubly cessary to have a vigilant eye to the character and do the same. standing of the man the Democracy places in nom-ination for the principal office in the State.

With due deference to the opinions of others, and a proper respect for those spoken of in connection with the nomination for Governor, 1 propose the me of WILLIAM BIGLER, of Clearfield, as a suitable person to place before the Democracy of the ceive their several quotas. W. B. FORDNEY. From that time to the present, he has alwas been a firm advocate of the rights of Man, and a staunch supporter of progressive Democracy.

During the administration of Governor Shunk he was active and energetic, in its defence from the shafts of the enemy. With that great and good man, he was on the most friendly intimacy, entertaining the same views on all important measures, o operating with him in many prominent matters, rendered great service to the State Brarry is a man in whom the party has confided. and may continue to repose the most unbounded confidence. He belongs to no clique or intriguing band of politicians-he is a Pennsylvanian-a man who belongs to no society, and is bounded by no sectional prejudice or interest—but goes for the interest of Pennsylvania—the prosperity of her citi sessary for governing, which we seldom meet corner of William J. At a period like this such a man is of infinite value to any party. A crisis in the history of the party of this State, demands the attention of the discriminating portion of the Democracy. For the Intelligence: The Late Delegate Elections.

MR. SANDERSON:-It the subject of instructing the delegates to the late County Convention, on the Gubernatorial question, "was fully understood and canvassed in every part of the county," prior to the delegate elections, as is alleged by the Lancasterian, may I ask how it is that, out of forty-three waships, boroughs and wards in the county, it has only been able to enumerate nine in which the question was directly or indirectly raised—and one of these, too, the East Ward of this City, where it is notorious that such a procedure was neve dreamed of, until just at the close of the meeting when there were not a dozen of persons present who voted one way or the other.

Mr. Editor, I like to see fair play in politics as well as in everything else—and to ensure harmony and concord in the party, it is essentially necessary that open, honorable and manly dealing should characterize all our actions. By the Lancasterian's own showing there were delegates but from the ne-fifth part of the county instructed on the subject ernor. Of course, the inference is legitimately drawn that those who were not so instructed were ent without any reference whatever to that sub-The delegates from the remaining thrity-four dis tricts had a perfect right to express their indvidual preferences on the subject; but, I apprehend, they had no right to pledge their constituents to any particular candidate in the absence of everything openly made in every district, it may be that the general result would have been the same-but, in hat event, no one could have with reason com plained, and all would have cheerfully submitted

The thirty-six gentlemen who protested may be called "discontents," and the County Committee, under whose call the Convention assembled, may be charged with "inconsistency" and a "usurpation of power," in very properly, as many Democrats think, postponing the Gabernatorial question, with that of the Judiciary which is yet in abeyance, to a later period; but all this will not be sufficient to convince sensible men, unless they can show that the delegates from more than one-lifth of the districts were elected and instructed by the people— not a city clique—with reference to that question.

The supplanting of the County Committee, an ointed in April last, after they had held the pos but five months, is attempted to be justified on account of what the Lancasterian is pleased to cal tardiness" in assembling the County Convention This, it is presumable, was an after thought entire ly, as I venture to affirm that such a silly attemp stification would never have been made by the writer for that paper had there been any thing of a more tangible character to rely upon as an exse for the unprecedented act. Fellow Democrats-But one week remains for you to perfect your organization. On Tuesday next you will be expected to do your duty, by depositing your votes in the ballot boxes. Are you all ready for the contest! Have your several townships and boroughs been canvassed, and are arrangements made to have all the voters-the young and the middle aged, the aged and infirmat the polls? Have conveyances been provided for those who are poor and who reside at a distance from the place of holding the election? We hope all these arrangements have been made either by the Township Committees or by those of our friends who have the time and means at their disposal. If this has not yet been done in any of the districts-if a thorough organization has not yet been effected, we hope it will be done immediately, so that he might carry out his ulterior designs as there is not a moment to lose. A Full Democratic Vote. The following argument addressed by the veteran Strickland, of the West Chester Republican, to the Democrats of Chester county, will apply with much greater force to Lancaster county, where the Democratic strength is nearly double :--

We trust the Democrats of this county have not lightly regarded the arguments we addressed last week to the Committee of Vigilance, in favor of a full democratic vote in this co., at the approaching election. They err greatly—they not only wrong racy of the State, if they permit the fact that Whig-gery has a majority in this county, to keep them away from the polls. This is a State election, at which democratic candidates for important State ffices are to be elected or defeated; and their success will be promoted just as much and as certainly by democratic votes in Chester, as in any other co. and a Chester co. democrat, at home or not voting, tells just as effectually against our State candidates, and just as certainly brings defeat, as would similar conduct on the part of a Berks Democrat. Hon. Ephraim Banks of Mifflin cc. Ephraim Banks is the eldest son of Gen. James Banks, who represented old Mifflin county in the Legislature, when that body sat at Lancaster, and was one of those Democrats who sustained Goveror Snyder's celebrated veto of the forty bank

The subject of this notice was born in Lost Creek Valley, Juniata county, about the year 1792 or 1793. In early life he resided upon his father's farm in Mifflin county. When quite a young man he was put into the office of Mr. Whitehill of Harrisburg, where he remained for several years. After leaving Harris-burg he returned to Mifflintown, now the county His uniform good conduct, and strict attention to business, soon secured him the confidence of his iness, after a full knowledge of his character and business qualifications.
