THE LAST ROSE OF SUMMER. BY FRANCIS B. GAGE. "The last rose of summer—Oh! let it remain, Oh! let it be a token of the days that have been..."

THE FIRST NEWSPAPER. It is somewhat remarkable that the newspaper press, powerful element as it is in modern civilization, is scarcely two centuries old.

AN EXTRACT OF A LECTURE ON THE PHILOSOPHY OF STORMS. By W. L. ATLEE, M. D., Professor of Chemistry, Pennsylvania Medical College, Philadelphia, Pa.

When I have spoken of the cloud descending to the surface of the earth, I have merely described the circumstance as it appears to the eye. The cloud does not sink as it appears to do, and as it is seen in motion on Meteorology. From what has been said, the explanation of the formation of this inverted cone or upper projecting from the original base of the cloud, may be anticipated...

At a recent meeting of the Executive Committee of Franklin College, the following Resolutions were unanimously adopted. A communication from Prof. Muhlenberg, in writing, tendering the resignation of his Professorship in Franklin College, was received and read.

A Romance in Indian Life.—A correspondent of the Picayune, writing from Madisonville, La., relates the following incident in Indian life. A large number of Choctaw Indians still reside in the neighborhood, and as I gazed on a group of young squaws, some of whom had recently returned from the war, I felt myself reminded of the play of their Indian dresses and ornaments...

Comparative Census of Cities and Towns in the United States. We have returns of the census now being taken, for the following important cities and towns in various parts of the United States, which we compare with the census of 1840. A few of these are estimates, in part, but sufficiently correct to enable us to make the comparison:

Table with 3 columns: City, 1840, 1850. Includes Baltimore, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Buffalo, Providence, Williamsburg, Richmond, Lowell, Chicago, Milwaukee, New York, Wilmington, Oswego, Poughkeepsie, Patuxent, Patuxent, Oswegatchie, New Brunswick, Nashua, Nashville, Concord, Northampton, Groton, Wethersfield, Danbury, Salisbury, Newport, Macon, Fredericksburg, Chatham, Watavia, Johnston, Massillon, Princeton, Niagara Falls, and total for 40 cities.

An Eloquent Extract. The admission of California, following close upon the heels of the passage of the other peace measures through Congress, is thus eloquently alluded to by the New York Herald: "The crisis of the republic is passed! The great question is settled. Fanaticism is rebuked, and the southern members of all parties are sent back to their kennels. Those despicable legislators who long attended the progress of legislation in Congress, and filled the nation with alarm, are expelled, and the nation is delivered from their grasp."

J. Porter Brawley. The venomous assaults upon this gentleman by the entire Galpin press, says the Venango Spectator, have made his name the most conspicuous one on the Democratic ticket. Notwithstanding these brutal and scurrilous insinuations, in which Whig editors especially delight, Mr. Brawley will receive the support of the true and regular Democracy of the State.

Professor Muhlenberg. By the following proceedings of the Executive Committee of the Trustees of Franklin College it will be perceived that Mr. F. M. Muhlenberg so long and so creditably connected with the highest department of education in our city, has resigned his professorship.

At a recent meeting of the Executive Committee of Franklin College, the following Resolutions were unanimously adopted. A communication from Prof. Muhlenberg, in writing, tendering the resignation of his Professorship in Franklin College, was received and read.
