

ELECTION OF 1860.

Official Result—Complete.

Counties. Adams, Allegheny, Armstrong, Berks, Bedford, Bedford, Berks, Bradford, Cambria, Chester, Clearfield, Columbia, Franklin, Fulton, Greene, Huntingdon, Indiana, Juniata, Lancaster, Lebanon, Lehigh, Luzerne, Lycoming, Monroe, Montgomery, Northampton, Northumberland, Philadelphia, Potter, Schuylkill, Sullivan, Susquehanna, Tioga, Union, Venango, Washington, Wayne, Wyoming, York.

Table with columns for County, For Am. Party, and Against Am. Party. Lists election results for various Pennsylvania counties.

ADDITIONAL GENERAL.

Table listing names and numbers under the heading 'ADDITIONAL GENERAL'.

SURVEYOR GENERAL.

Table listing names and numbers under the heading 'SURVEYOR GENERAL'.

CANAL COMMISSIONERS.

Table listing names and numbers under the heading 'CANAL COMMISSIONERS'.

AMENDMENT.

Table listing names and numbers under the heading 'AMENDMENT'.

Pennsylvania Railroad.

The recent letting at Blairsville results as follows:

- List of names and numbers: No. 15 McCabe & Co., No. 16 Martin & Patton, No. 17 Wm. Freeman, No. 18 Jones & Fenlon, No. 19 Col. James Freeland, No. 20 Col. James Freeland, No. 21 Keen & Howley, No. 22 Wm. Freeman & Co., No. 23 Farn & McCannagh, No. 24 George Shuman & Brothers, No. 25 Farn & McCannagh, No. 26 Malone & Masterson, No. 28 Bogle & Price, No. 29 M. D. Madison, No. 30 R. J. McGinnis.

Another Gain—Morrison, (Oem.)

Mr. Banks, the Democratic candidate for Auditor General, has been elected to Congress from the third Congressional District, in N. Hampshire, by about 14 majority.

The Meadville Sentinel is out with a strong article in favor of the election of Col. WILSON McCANDLESS, of Pittsburg, to the U. S. Senate.

The Col. is a first-rate man, and no mistake—and if elected, his superior talents and eloquence would give him a high and commanding position in that body.

CONTRACT—In the Mercantile office, the home of Mr. Banks, the Democratic candidate for Auditor General, that gentleman has been elected to Congress from the third Congressional District, in N. Hampshire, by about 14 majority.

The Borough of York contains a population of 6274 inhabitants—5547 females; and 3992 males.

Intelligence & Journal.

LANCASTER, OCTOBER 29, 1850.

GEO. SANDERSON, EDITOR.

OUR YOUNG FRIEND, MR. NATHAN WORZEL, of Manheim, has placed us under obligations for a list of five new subscribers to the Intelligence. Mr. W. is an intelligent, thorough-going Democrat—was one of the Democratic nominees for the Assembly at the recent election, and desired to be elected, if he was not.

WE are also indebted to GEORGE G. BARNES, Esq., of Manor, and to ADAM W. SHAPE, of several Conestoga, for similar favors to the above-mentioned subscribers. Keep the ball moving, friends!

COL. JOHN W. FOSBERG requests us to state that, owing to absence from the City at the time the last Intelligence reached there, he did not see the notice that paper takes of him until, too late for reply this week. He will answer it, by letter, in the next Intelligence.

WE have received a pamphlet copy of the Orator delivered on the 4th of July last, in Columbia, by the Firemen of Columbia, Lancaster, York and Marietta, by Dr. N. B. WOLFE, of Berks. It is an eloquent production, and reflects great credit on its gifted author.

THE Address of JACOB B. ANSWAKE, Esq., Chairman of the new County Committee, in reply to the Address of the County Committee, which Col. WILLIAM B. FORBES is Chairman, will be found on our first page. We give it a place, so that our readers may have an opportunity of seeing both sides of the question—satisfied that the Democracy of the county will judge intelligently and fairly in reference to the subject in dispute. In this respect, we are more liberal than the Lancasterian, who, peremptorily refused to publish the address from the old County Committee—evinced, by that act, a disposition to keep the truth from the people, and virtually asking the Democratic readers to "go blind" in favor of the new-fangled notions it seeks to incorporate in the policy of the party.

What we are altogether in favor of showing fair play to are nevertheless inclined to the opinion that the learned gentleman, first above mentioned, has entirely failed in his attempt to refute the positions or arguments of the Lancasterian. What his motives were in going beyond 1828, when Gen. JACKSON carried the county of Lancaster by a handsome majority, (which fact he entirely, no doubt, accidentally, omitted in making up his table of statistics,) we are at a loss to divine, unless it be to show that Mr. BUCHANAN happened to belong to the opposition party in 1816, which nobody denies. But he might have waited two years farther back, and found that this distinguished statesman was so much of a Democrat at heart and a patriot in feeling, that he marched at a private soldier in a volunteer company to the defence of Baltimore, in 1814. And by tracing his history down a few years farther he might have ascertained that Mr. B. was an intimate friend of President MONROE; that he was the warm and enthusiastic supporter of General JACKSON in 1824-'28, and '32; that he was always a decided personal and political friend of that glorious old patriot; and that Gen. JACKSON's friendship for, and confidence in, Mr. BUCHANAN, continued unabated from 1824 down to the day of his death. Mr. ANSWAKE might also have pointed out, if he had made the enquiry of Col. FOSBERG, or any other gentleman equally well booked up in the politics of the Nation, that during the latter part of Gen. JACKSON's and all of Mr. VAN BUREN's administrations, as well as that of Mr. TYLER, Mr. BUCHANAN was the great leader and champion of the Democracy in the U. S. Senate, and that his subsequent administration of the State Department, under the lamented Mr. POLK, was able and brilliant—not to be surpassed in the whole history of the government. But, perhaps, it would be better to give these facts; or, if he may, he was unacquainted with this small portion of undoubted history, which is inexhaustible in a politician who figures as the Chairman of a Co. Committee.

But, what we are on this subject, there is another piece of statistical information in the Address, which we happen to know something about, as we were a delegate to that body—we allude to the gubernatorial Convention of 1848. The balloting are given correctly; but the writer neglects to inform the public, that the Lancaster county delegates went over in a body to Mr. LOXSTREET on the third ballot, when on the second he lacked thirteen votes of a nomination. All eyes in the Convention were turned to the Lancaster delegation—and had they, after leaving Judge GRANFORD, went for Col. BUCHANAN, as they should have done, there would undoubtedly have been the nominee, as he would quite a number of delegates, to our certain knowledge, who were ready to drop Mr. LOXSTREET and the other candidates, and go for BUCHANAN the moment they saw a chance for his nomination.

After the six Lancaster delegates went over to the Democrat, all that the convention was virtually at an end—and on the fourth ballot, five of the friends of BUCHANAN voted for Judge BLACK, swelling his vote to 30, and he voted for LOXSTREET, making his vote 64. On the next and last ballot, the friends of Judge ELDER went over en masse for Mr. LOXSTREET, and, together with our colleague from Cumberland, swelled his vote to 83, thus giving him the nomination.

We cast our vote for Mr. LOXSTREET, solely because we wished to place the county we represented in a proper and favorable position, and we did not think, and still do not, that it was a mistake policy to nominate him. We knew he would be nominated, when the Lancaster delegates went for him, and therefore we acted with a necessity. Had they voted for either BUCHANAN or BLACK the result would doubtless have been different, and one or other of those gentlemen would have been the nominee of the party.

In that event—with either BUCHANAN or BLACK for our standard bearer—William F. Johnston would not have been the Governor of Pennsylvania, and the Nation perhaps might have been saved the infliction of a bad administration.

As this is another item of history which our friend, Mr. ANSWAKE, may have forgotten, although he was one of the principal actors at the time, we have thought proper to direct his attention to it. There are several other omissions in the Address, which might be supplied if we had the room—but not having space at our command, we are obliged to reserve further comments, at least for the present. Whether the old County Convention or the new one will think it necessary to answer this distributive A. V. we do not advise. If they see proper to do so, the hantling is "a gone dander, and no mistake."

"Robinson Crusoe."

A new edition of this work has just been published by the "JOHANNESBURG PRINTING UNION," an association recently formed in Philadelphia, to whom we are indebted for a copy. The book is very handsomely gotten up—embellished with good type and on excellent paper—brimmed with good engravings—containing 404 pages. The work is edited by FREDERICK W. LAXA, a member of the Union, and is furnished at the low price of $1.50. It has already run through two editions, (of 1000 and 2000 copies,) and the third and enlarged edition is now selling off very rapidly.

It is scarcely necessary to say that "ROBINSON CRUSOE" has a world-wide reputation. The young and the old—all classes and conditions, read it with avidity—and whether it be considered a work of fiction or of facts, still it will be read as long as reading is fashionable in the world.

We recommend the work to the attention of our young friends especially, as one eminently deserving of their patronage.

Public Opinion.

To show the Democracy of Lancaster county, what is thought elsewhere of the state of things in this quarter, we insert the following article from the Harrisburg Inquirer, calling the attention of its readers to the Address of our County Committee which is published in this paper of Wednesday last. The address was also published in the Pennsylvania Freeman of Friday week, with approbatory comments.

The Union says—

We publish in another column the very able address of the standing committee of Lancaster county, which W. B. FORBES, Esq., is chairman. This document, it appears to us, advances sound views, and should have the effect with the gallant Democracy of that county of staying disunion, and uniting them in the bonds of brotherhood with the Democracy of the balance of the State. Why it is that these latter disunionists should arise in such a county as Lancaster, where the Democracy are in a hopeless minority, we cannot imagine; and that effect should be made to take away the vote of that county, in the gubernatorial convention from a man who has now, and has had for years, more strength than any man, who is not a citizen of the county, for the purpose of paying a compliment to a citizen of Lancaster, is wondrous strange.

It appears to us that the sad experience of 1848 ought to be a lesson to those who have been leaders in that county. On that occasion compromise delegates were appointed, and they were not equal to the occasion. The friends of Col. BIGLER and Judge CAMPBELL, and we believe, not a vote was cast at the primary elections for Judge Longstreth; yet, the delegates never once voted for him, but cast the vote of the county for Judge Longstreth, from the moment that Judge Campbell was abandoned.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Remarks of Mr. Buchanan.

As soon as Col. Buchanan opened the Central Railroad to Harrisburg—October 18, 1850.

The President of the Company, Col. W. C. Patterson, concluded a short address by proposing the following toasts:

Pennsylvania—rich in everything but a knowledge of her own strength.

As soon as Col. Patterson concluded, and had taken his seat, there was a call from all parts of the house for the Hon. James Buchanan to speak to the toast in honor to Pennsylvania. When he rose he was greeted with loud and repeated cheers. He acknowledged the compliment, and proceeded to thank the President and Directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for the invitation to accompany the excursion. He considered it a high honor to be called upon to respond to a toast to Pennsylvania.

We have heard in our State, as elsewhere, a great deal about disputes and divisions on the subject of platforms, but here is one that will unite us all.—The event that we have met this day to celebrate, brings to view a platform broad enough to hold all the people of Pennsylvania.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

It is one upon which we can stand with pride and feelings of fraternity, for it can only occur to the best friends of the Union, and the best patriots of the State, to unite in the celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.