HUMAN LOVE.

BY N. P. WILLIS.

Oh, if there is one law above the rest, Written in Wisdom—if there is a word That I would trace as with a pen of fire, Upon the unsullied temper of a child—lif there is anything that keeps the mind Open to an angel visit and repels The ministry of ill—tis human love. God has made nothing worthy of contempt; The smallest pebble in the well of truth Has its peculiar meaning, and will stand When man's best monuments wear fast away. The law of Heaven is love; and the' its name The law of Heaven is love; and tho' its na The law of Heaven is love: and tho' its name Has been usurped by passion, and profun'd To its unholy uses through all time:
Stil the eternal principle is pure:
And in those deep affections that we feel Omnipotent within us, can we see
The lavish measure in which love is giv'n,
And in the yearning tenderness of a child:
In every bird that sings above our head,
And every tree and flower, and running brook,
We see, how every thing was made to love. e see, how every thing was made to love, d now they err, who in a world like this Find every thing to hate but human pride.

THE DEAD CHILD AND THE ANGEL.

As soon as a good child dies, one of God's angels descends upon the earth, takes the child in his arms, spreads out his large white wings, and flies over all the places that were dear to the child, and plucks a handful of flowers, which he then carries to Heaven, in order that they may bloom still more beautifully there than they did here on earth. The beautifully there than they did here on earth. The laying God presseth all these flowers to be beautifully and the second the second time. The second time was the countered their old enemy in the old world, they fell upon and destroyed arms, spreads out his large white wings, and flies over all the places that were dear to the child, and loving God presseth all these flowers to his bosom; and then it receives a voice, and can sing and join in the universal bliss.

An angel of God related this as he bore a dead heaven; and the child heard as in a dream; and they flew over all the spots around the houses. where the little one had played, and they passed through the gardens with the loveliest flowers.—

"The poor tree," said the child, "take it so that it may bloom again on high with the loving God."

And the angel took it and kissed the child; and the little one half opened his eyes; they gathered some of the despised daisy and wild pansy too.

"Now we have flowers," said the child, and the angel nodded, but they did not yet fly up to Hea-

One day in spring his neighbor's son brought him some flowers, and among them was by chance one with a root, it was therefore planted in a flow-er pot and placed in the window close by his bedside. It thrived, put forth new shoots and every year had flowers. To the sick boy it was the most beautiful garden, his little treasure upon earth; he watered and tended it, and took good care that it got every sunbeam to the very last that glided by on the lower pane. And the flower grew up in his very dreams with its color and fragrance; to it he turned when dying, when the loving God called him to himself. He has now been a year with God; a year has the flower stood in the window, withered and forgotten, and now, at the removal it has been thrown among other rubbish in the street. And that is the flower which we have taken into our nosegay; for this flower has caused more joy than the rarest flower in the garden of a

"But how do you know all this?" asked the child which the angel was carrying up to Heaven.

"I know it," said the angel; "I was myself the little sick boy that went on crutches; I must surely

And the child opened his eyes and looked in the beautiful, calm face of the angel; and at the same moment they were in heaven, where was only joy

Courting.

An old paper says:—"Courting is a subject which, always important, is becoming peculiarly so, and we design to call the attention of the young people to it occasionally, in hope of arresting an alarming evil. Young ladies are bound to fall in love as soon as possible, and bound to get a partne for life as soon as the necessary preliminaries are made—such as getting a lover, fascinating him thoroughly, being courted, having the question popped, getting the wedding garments in array, and inviting friends to see him prettily married. The young man is bound to be gallant and polite, and young man is cound to be gallant and polite, and to admire without any stint, all the pretty girls known and unknown, to doff the beaver, offer his arm, invite to ride, pleasant saunter—in short, to all the sundries, indeed to show his devotion and gallantry towards the fair sex until some enchant throws her spell around him, and he sinks, subdued, into a common-place, indifferent, careless Benedict.

Into a common-place, mainterent, careiess benealed.

Now out of these things grow difficulties. A young man admires a pretty girl, and must manifest it; he cannot help doing so for the life of hum.

The young lady has a tender heart, reaching out ne tendrils for something to cling to; she sees the admiration, is flattered, begins soon to love expects some avowal, and perhaps gets so far as to lecide that she will choose a white satin under a thin gauze, at the very moment the gallant the ves is popping the question, (good I ha! ha!)

Now the difficulty is, not precisely, understanding the difference between polite attentions and the ten-der manifestations of sighing love. Admiring a beautiful girl, and wishing to make a wife of her, are not always the same, and, therefore, it is nec-essary that a girl should be on the alert to discover essary that a girl should be on the alert to discover to which class the attentions paid her by a handsome and gay young gentleman belong. First, then—if a young fellow greets you in a loud, free, hearty voice—if he precisely knows where to put his hat, or his hands—if he stares you straight in the eye with his own wide open—if he tells you who made his coat—if he squeezes your hand—if he nats heartily in your presence—if he fails to talk very kindly to your mother—if he sneezes when you are singing, or criticises your curls, or fails to act very foolish in fifty ways in every hour, then don't fall in love with him for the world, he only admires you, let him do or say what he will." admires you, let him do or say what he will."

How we love to see a sweet, intelligent, ex essive, healthy, smiling face, shaded by a Quake nnet., "Git eout."

The Lost Tribes of Israel.

II Having been asked to indicate the "probable ocation of the ten lost tribes," Major Noah says:-The subject, always one of deep interest, has ccupied the research of the most eminent divines and historians. Many years ago, Dr. Boudinot, of New Jersey, published a work of great interest, called the 'Star of the West," in which he attempt to prove that the North American Indians were read and laid axide with incredulity. Forty years however, have developed many circumstances and discoveries, tending to confirm the opinion of Dr. B., and the work, though not out of print, is one which to the curious would amply repay a perusal. We have never doubted the fact. Nine and a half tribes were carried captives from Samaria, two and a half—Judah, Benjamin, and half Menessen—remained in Judea or in the Jordanic cities, and the latter constitute the eight millions of the existing from the second Esdras, an apocryphal book, but ne of great antiquity, and one entitled to respect. "Whereas, thou sawest another peaceable multitude; these are the tribes which were carried away prisoners out of their own lands, in time of Osea whom Salmanzer, king of Assyria, led away cap-tive, and ne carried them over the waters, so they came into another land. They took this counsel among themselves, and they would leave the multiamong themselves, and they would leave the minimum tude of the heathen, and go into a farther country, wherein mankind never dwelt, that they might there keep their statutes, which they never kept in their own land, (Assyria,) and there was a great way to go, a year and a half."

They marched towards the North-east of Asia some remained in Tartary, and many went into China, where they have been 1600 years, and are numerous at this day. The main body crossed Be ring's Straits to our continent, the more hardy keep-ing to the North, Hudson's bay, Greenland; the more cultivated passed down on the shore of the Pacific, through California to Central America and Peru, and there they met their old enemy the Phænecians Canaanites.) who having discovered the country 500 years previously, had formed colonies, built the Pelanque, with pyramids, like those they had erected n Egypt, at Cholula, Otamba, Paxca, Mitlan, Tlasala, together with hyeroglyphics, plenciphenes, zothem a second time; and when Columbus discovered the country, he found the various tribes of In missing tribes, and this is the opinion of Adir, Heckwelder, Charlcoix, McKenzie, Bertram, Bel Heaven ?" asked the angel.

And a beautiful slender rose-tree was standing there; a wanton hand had broken the stem, so that all the branches full of large half open rose buds bung dawn quite withered.

We trace the march of the tribes through Asia summer without the loss of a single plant. Summer without the loss of a singl brvery in war, good faith in peace, to be descendants of the lost tribes and identify them by the fol lowing religious rites peculiar to all our Indians and to the Israelites;

By their law of sacrifices, ablutions, marriages, ceremonies in war and peace, prohibition of eating certain things by traditions, history, characplaster figures, rags, the crowns of old hats; nothing that was not displeasing to the sight.

And amid the devastation, the angel pointed to the fragments of a flower pot, and to a clod of earth that had fallen out of it, and which was only held together by the roots of a great withered flower; but'll was good for nothing now, and was therefore thrown out into the street.

saic laws, traditionary with them, were strictly enforced; and Wm. Penn, who had no suspicion of their origin, says; "I found them with like countries to the Hebrew race. I consider these doing well" at the last accounts people under a dark night, yet they believe in God and immortality without the aid of metaphysics.— They reckon by moons; they offer their first ripe fruits; they have a kind of feast of tabernacles; they mourn a year; and regard a Mosaic law with regard to separation."

These are the missing, but never lost tribes of Israel. They resided in C. Ifornia when the ships of Solomon made their thee years voyage, and furnished the gold of Ophir for building the temple; they reside there still. The settlers and proprietors of Mexico, Peru, and the whole of America, they have been here centuries before the advent of Chris tianity, and patiently await the promises of re

The Defence of Ft. Stephenson. FORTURB FAVORS THE BRAVE.

A military officer with whom we have long been intimate, relates two incidents connected with Cro-ghan's gallant defence of Fort Stephenson; one of which affords a strong positive and the other a ing well." strong negative of the proof of the above quoted As the British and the Indians, in their operations, had violated the pledge and the usage of civilized warfare, by wantonly murdering their prisoners, the members of Croghan's little band,—only 100 strong, with a single six-pounder, and sur-rounded by about 600 British troops, and thrice that number of Indians,—had naturally agreed to tand their ground to the last, and sell their lives as dearly as possible.

When all was ready, the British commander sent a messenger, under a flag of truce, to treat for the surrender of the Fort. Croghan pointing to him as he approached, exclaimed—

"It will not do to let him enter here; and see our weakness; who will volunteer to meet him?"

As it was pretty certain that whoever should leave the fort on such a mission would be murdered by a dastard foe, there was a brief pause, whe

ensign Shipp replied:
"I will, one one condition."

" What is it?" "Pledge me your word as an officer, and a man of honor, that you will keep that gun bearing di-rectly upon me, and that you will fire it off the moment you see me raise my hand."

The pledge was given, and Shipp went forth. To all the argument and persuasion of the eneemy, his unwavering reply was:

self by a powerful effort, and turning to the envoy coolly said:

"Sir, I have not put myself under the protection of your truce, without knowing your mode of warfare. "You see that gun," said he, pointing to their solitary six-pounder, "it is charged with grape, and I have the solemn pledge of my commander that it shall be fired at me the instant that I give him the signal. Therefore, restrain these rene and the signal. Therefore, restrain these respect the law of war, or you shall instantly accompany me to the other world."

This was enough. Shipp was no more molested; he returned to his comrades in safety, fought out he desperate action that ensued, and obtained pronotion for his bravery. The counter instance referred to, at the head of our paragraph, was told as follows:

After the British and Indians had withdrawn, Croghan missed one man—only one—who had belonged to his little band, and all efforts for his dislonged to his remains were discovered in the garret of one of the block-houses, where he had crept for aniety, and was cut in two by a cannon ball.

All the rest, considered their chance of life not worth a thought, had only sought to do their duty, and escape alive, from perhaps the most desperate fight on record. The only man who was killed, appened to be the only man who proved himself

Which is the Weaker Sex?

Females are called the weaker sex, but why ?-If they are not strong, who is? When men wrap themselves in thick garments and encase the whole a stout overcoat to shut out the cold, women, in thin silk dresses, with neck and shoulde nearly so, say they are perfectly comfortable. When men wear water proof boots or woolen hose and encase the whole in India rubber to keep them from freezing, women wear thin silk and cloth cover their heads with furs, and then complain the severity of the weather, women half cover their heads with straw bonnets, and ride twenty miles in an open sleigh facing a cool north wester and pretend to not suffer at all! They can sit, too, by men who stink of rum and tobacco smoke enough to poison a whole house, and not appear more annoyed than though they were a bundle of roses!

Year after year they can bear abuse of all sorts from drunken husbands, as though their strength was made of iron.

And then is not woman's mental strength greater than man's? Can she not endure suffering that would bow the stoutest man to earth? Call not women the weaker vessel; for had she not beer tronger than man, the race would long since have Man labors ten or twelve hours per day, and then his work is done, both body and mind car rest, but woman's work is never done—she is never idle. From early dawn her hands are busy, a noon she is not idle, and at night her task is no accomplished, sewing or knitting fills up her spare moments till the hour of retirement arrives, and even then when her lord and master is snoozing i as unconscious as a sleeping calm, she must take care of the child and perhaps be aroused from her fitful slumbers ten times each night. If woman was not the stronger vessel she could

whether strawberries could with safety be transplanted at any other period, than late in the sum mer, offers the following remarks:-

"We will briefly state that the spring of the year is decidedly the best time for transplanting, and next, soon after midsummer, or about the time the second growth commences, when the crop has been gathered. Strict care must, however, be taken at he latter period, to prevent perishing by drought.
Watering, merely, will not answer. The best way is to immerse the roots in thick mud, set them out water them freely to settle the earth compactly dians whose origin was unknown. These are the and then to cover the soil about them two or three inches thick with old manure. This keeps the soil trame, Smith, Penn, Menaeseh, Ben Israel, the earl atterward upon this manure, as the soil on exami-of Crawford, Lopez de Gamarra, Acosta, Malvenda, Major Long, Boudinot, and all eminent writers and not harden or crack the surface. This method has succeeded perfectly in the driest part of mid-summer without the loss of a single plant. Straw-and bears profusely with very moderate care. In New England it does not flourish quite so well.— Hovev's Seedling makes the finest show after it has been picked, but is not sufficiently productive under ordinary treatment. The sort most generally preferred for its delicious quality and not even except-ing Swainstone's Seedling, is Burr's New Pine. It is rather large, quite productive, but too delicate in stature to carry to market. The Large Early Scarlet is the very early sort, and the Dundee a fine late variety. Boston Pine if kept in hills, is large, fine in quality, and very produtive Black Prince is a fine, mild flavored sort, large and tolerably productive."

A NEST OF COUNTERFEITERS ROUTED .- Las week Marshal Phelps and Capt. Cozzens; of the St. Louis Police, reached this city in pursuit of a man by the name of Moore, who was in St. Louis : short time since on his return from California.— He was strongly suspected as being the chief of the band of counterfeiters who succeeded in passing the immense quantity of counterfeit Missouri money that had been lately put affoat in California. On reaching this city, the St. Louis officers, together with Marshal Ronald and officer Gilmore of our ity, proceeded to the house of a Mr. Fulgate, i helby county, where Moore had been traced. Fulgate's house stands isolated, and no stranger can approach within 200 yards of it on any side without being seen. The officers were apprize of the watchfulness of the inmates, and mi o reach the house just about day-light, but t rogue they were in search of had flown. He had made tracks in company with Fulgate, a day or two previous, for Virginia. They succeeded, however in aresting a chap with counterfeit Tennessee mon-ey in his possession, the particulars of which were narrated in the Courier, a day or two since. The following additional account of the affair is from the Shelby News of yesterday; the man Burges there alluded to, is not, however, the rogue that is great the Missouri morey. sued the Missouri money.

Arrest.—On Saturday night last, Marshal Ronald of Louisville, accompanied by Sheriff Robinson, o of Louisville, accompanies by sale this county, and two or three officers from Louis ville and St. Louis, stormed and captured "Rogue's Retreat"—Old Fulgate's—in this county, and arrest ed a man named Burgess, charged as the counter feiter who had succeeded in issuing and passin some $80,000 of $50 bills an the bank of Missour in California and other places. We learn that Mrs Pitts, one of Fulgate's daughters, attempted to shoo Mr. Ronald, but the cap exploded without discharging the pistol, and before she could pull the trigger second time the revolver was taken from her The house was then searched; but her husband ha escaped through a window up stairs.

Burgess, when the officers entered the house, wa in the act of putting on his pantaloons; and when he saw the officers he ran his hand in his pocket it was supposed for a pistol—but before he get it out, the officers had him "ruffled." attempted to throw into the fire a large roll of bank bills, but it fell upon the hearth, and was secured by the officers. The roll consisted of over $9000 in counterfeit $20 bills on the bank of Tennessee
