. From the Vermont Chronicle. GREEN'S OXYGENATED BITTERS.—Facts within our own knowledge justify the belief that Green's Oxygenated Bitters, advertised in our columns, is a very valuable medicine. By submitting the com-position to the judgment of scientific men, the proprietor has obviated some of the strongest obproprietor has obviated some of the strongest objections against most advertised medical prescriptions. It is not empiricism, inasmuch as it is declared by so eminent a chemist as Mr. Hayes to be a scientific preparation, and adapted, in all its component parts, and as a whole, for use in the cases which it is recommended. We know, too, that at which it is recommended. We know, too, that at least one practising physician, a man of thorough science, and as far as any one from countenancing quackery, and who knows the composition of the inedicine, has the same opinion of it that Mr. Hayes expresses, and has accordingly used it in his practice. The certificates speak of the actual offects of the medicine in sect of Purscie A. practice. The certificates speak of the actual effects of the medicine in cases of Dyspepsia, Asthma, &c., in terms that would be thought extravagant but for the intelligence and character of the gentlemen who sign them.

For further information respecting this invaluable medicine, read the pamphlets accompanying the same, which abound with certificates from many distinguished citizens of the United States, such as will convince the most incredulous of the wonder ful efficacy of this medicine. They may be had gratuitously of the Agents.

E. W. FISH'S MINERAL COMPOSITION FIRE-PROOF PAINT!

ONE OF THE MOST INFORTANT DISCOVERIES OF THE PRESENT ACE.

THIS mineral compound is found in the town of Litchfield, Herkimer County, N. Y., in a gulf about six hundred feet below the surface of the surrounding country. When taken from its bed, it presents a beautiful color resembling mahogany.

After Seir risk, it is pronounced by competent. After a fair trial, it is pronounced by competent udges to be far superior to the Ohio paint. One of judges to be as superior on the Onlo paint. One of its important components being red oxyde of iron, an intelligent public will readily see that the different colors are more readily brought out by mixing a less quantity of other paints, than if it were black oxyde, getting a livelier color at less expense.— Forming a perfect cement body, a large portion being silica, it bids defiance to the action of the weather, and is a great protection against the devouring element.

weather, and is a great protection against the devouring element.

All the colors may be got up from this composition, from a beautiful lead to a jet black, with less than half the expense of the usual way, forming a harder coat, which is believed to be twice as valuable. It is also susceptible of receiving a high polish, and may be use for the finest kind of ORNAMENTAL PAINTING.

This composition will be found especially useful for painting all kinds of outside, houses, steamboats, ships, schooners, sloops, &c., as it is wholly impervious to water, and less attractive to the rays of the sun than any other paint now in use.

In introducing this paint to the public, the proprietor flatters himself that the superior advantages he has in obtaining the raw material, it being pure and taken from a bed one hundred a fifty feet in height and being the finest and purest substance of the kind, or as much so as any in the world; and in addition to that, exposed to action of rain and frost, rendering it constantly softer and purer, and no pains shall be spared in manufacturing. After testing its qualities they will be satisfied it is not an imposition upon their credulty, (of which there is so much done at the present day,) but on the contrary, the high commendation it received is sufficient to warms?

For cottages, of either wood or brick, this paint cannot be too highly recommended. For Railroad Depots, Bridges, Cars, and Public Buildings of all Depots, Bridges, Cars, and Public Buildings of all descriptions, it is invaluable. It is now being used on the Atlantic Steamers and Packets, with great satisfaction, and must soon supersede all other paint, for like purpose. For coach painting it is said to be a perfect desideratum, it being susceptible to the highest polish, and forming a surface as hard as marble. For Farm Houses, Out Buildings, Fences, Factories and Foundries, its value can scarcely be calculated; its fire and weather proof qualities have been thoroughly tested, and has found favor with the public, so much so, that a building covered with this paint will insure at less premium than a building covered with other paint. A few testimonials are annexed of men who are

Y., I concur in the above analysis, and believe it to be capable of forming the most durable coat of any substance now used. M. C. Brown. Columbia, N. Y., Feb. 14, 1851.

We hereby certify, that we have used in painting Fish's Fire-proof Paint, and think it excels any thing of the kind we ever used. We have painted some of the best brick buildings in Albany with it. Covering well and giving a fine lustre, we think it equal to white lead or better.

Our passengers and cars must, from their position in the train, be comparatively free from danger. The subscribers are aware of the monstrous monopoly against which they have to contend, but they are determined to encounter it, and relying upon the encouragement of all who are opposed to monopolies and in favor of low rates of fare, they will run this line at the following rates, viz: THREE CENTS PER MILE, no more nor no less, under any circumstances, These are the lowest rates at which passengers can be carried over the road under the present rates of toll charged by the State, which are two cents per to charged of the State, which are two cents per mile on each parsenger, and $4,92 on each car.
