No one who has ever visited the Western coun try, can have a correct conception of the real appearance assumed by the present astonishing rise that the waters of waters. The statement. Upper Mississippi have reached a point six feet higher than was ever known by the present resi-dents, carries with it the idea that such a rise must greatly increase the velocity of the current and overwhelm every thing in its onward course. an idea presents an amazingly inadequate impres-sion of the facts.

Up and down this mighty stream there are extensive bottoms on either side, stretching from one to ten miles to high bluffs, on whose summits the table or prairie land commences. These bottoms except some of the lowest, form the banks of the river in its ordinary stage. The soil of these bot toms is allovion of the richest kind, and holds ou strong inducements for farmers to cultivate such land. Many valuable farms are in consequence opened on these rich bottoms. Generally, the bluffs come boldly to the river, and form its only shore on one side, while on the other, bottom land stretches for miles into the interior. Those who travel up and down the river are, at the proper season, struck with the beauty and luxuriance of the vegetation, where the farms are not hidden, as is frequently the case, by a thick growth of timber on the iver margin of the bottom. With this brief description, the reader who has never seen the Mississippi will be prepared to comprehend the extent and dreadfulness of the present alamity, when he is told that the bottoms their beautiful farms, are now covered with water to the depth of from two to eight feet. As rise after rise comes down from the upper country, the water spreads itself over these bottoms, its only barrier being these high and beetling bluffs, which in many places it has already reached. This to us is a wise ordination of Providence. In consequence of vent given to the flood from above, by permitting it to spread over these bottoms in this way the strength of the current in the river proper is not very materially increased. The waters might e rush madly down with terrific velocity and, being confined to narrow limits, do greater lamage than by the present order of things.

The reader can form but a feeble conception of the. immense amount of water that it must take to create this vast longitudinal ocean. Assuming that all the rivers, with the exception of the Ohio, are now as high as the Mississippi, there is at this moment in the valley of the Mississippi and its tributaries an impromptu sea of fresh water five thousand miles long, averaging five miles in width and fif teen feet in depth. The principal mitigation that exhibits itself amidst all this distress and destruction is, that it has come upon us so gradually as to enable the greatest sufferers to save their lives. The work of years has been swept away. Hundreds have been driven from their homes, and are for the present houseless and obliged to take up their abode strangers. But their lives are spared, and by shar-ing in the sympathies and benevolence of those who have not been stripped of their all, as they have been, there is yet cause for gratitude to that Being who causeth the 'waters to flow' for a wise purpose.—Hawk Eye. [A letter to the Editors from Burlington, says 'Five years will not place the country in this vicinity in as good a situation as it was before; and thousands are totally ruined.']-Pittsburg Journal.

A Sensible Argument.

The newspapers every where are discussing the beauty and propriety of the Bloomer or new Turkish dress. For ourself, we care but little how the ladies dress, so that they are beautiful, amiable and kind-hearted towards their husbands and " the rest, of mankind." One of the dress advocates, however, has rather taken us by surprise. He goes fo the Bloomer upon the score of economy, and affirms that under the new regime three yards of yard wide cloth will make a costume, whereas, he says it takes over thirty-six yards by present measurement. He therefore argues after this fashion :

"Hence, it follows that one dress after the present fashion will make twelve dresses after the new If there be ten millions of women within ted States, there would thus be saved by the Turkish costume many millions of yards good cloth, that might be sent to the heathen, and thus every woman in Africa and Asia, and on the Pacific Island, to say nothing of the abes" of the first mentioned region, as Aminadab Sleek says, might be furnished with toggery from our mere surplusage."

The Western cattle dealers now use the railroads for the transit to market of their cattle. In a Louisville paper we see that ninety head of beef cattle were recently sent by the Little Miami and Columbus roads to Cleveland, and thence by steamer to Buffalo, and from that place by railroad to New York city The cost of transportation was $14,50 per head. The owner sold immediately, on satisfactory terms, and returned home, having been absent eleven days. Not the least accident or difficulty occured, and there was very little shrinking in the cattle. To drive a lot of cattle there from e point to New York formerly required seventy-five days, attended with an expense of near $20 per head, and with a heavy loss by shrinkage.

The Putnam County, Ind., Sentinel states that a company of forty persons were recently poisoned in Hennricks County, in that State, and that about thirty of the number are supposed to be beyond re covery. The Sentinel says-The person implicated as being accessory to this horrid deed is said to be an old woman, anxious to get rid of some grand children. She put the poi-son in a barrel of flour which she thought would be used by her intended victims, but by some means the flour passed into other hands, and was used by a tamily who had collected a number of persons together at a quilting party. No somer had the repast been over than the victims commenced violently vomiting, exhibiting evident signs of be-ing poinced. ing poisoned.

MISTAKEN.-The opponents of the fugitive slave law in Vermont f nominated LUCIUS B. PECK, for Governor. He declines the honor, as he believes the fugitive slave law constitutional, and rebukes the act of the Whig Legislature of that State which authorized State officers to take a fugitive slave out of the hands of the United States officers. Mr. Peck, although a friend to free soil, is a Union man, aud will abide the compromite.
