THE OCEAN BURIAL.

BY REV. E. H. CHAPIN. Bury me not on the deep, deep sea!" The words came faint and mournfully The words came faint and mourffully
From the pallid lips of 'a youth, who lay
On the cabin couch, where day by day
He had wasted and pined, till o'er his brow
The death shade had slowly passed—and now
When the land of his fond loved home was nigh, They had gathered around to see him die

O Bury me not in the deep, deep sea,
Where the billowy shroud will roll o'er me—
Where no light can break through the dark cold
And no sunbeam rest sweetly on my grave, [wave,
It boots not, I know, I oft have been told,
Where the body shall lie when the heart is cold.
Yet grant ye, oh grant ye, this boon to me,
Bury me not in the deep, deep sea!

" In infancy I've listened to well known words-The free wild wind, and the song of birds—
I have thought of home, of cot and of bower,
And scenes I loved in childhood's hour, ry me not in the deep, deep

"Let my death slumber be, where a mother's prayer And a sister's tears may be blended there, Oh, 'twill be sweet ere the heart's three is o'er, To know when its fountains shall gush no more, That those it so fondly has yearned for will com To plant the first wild flowers of spring o'er i

Let me die where lov'd ones can weep o'er me, Bury me not in the deep, deep sea!

"And there is another-her tears would be shed, For him who lay far in an ocean's bed—
In hours that pains me to think of now,
She has twined these locks and kissed this brow
In the hair she has wreathed, shall the sea me

The brow she has press'd shall the cold waves kiss? Bury me not in the deep, deep sea!

"She hath been in my dreams"-his voice failed here— * * * * * * They have lowered him low o'er the vessel's side Above him hath closed the silent tide,-

Where to dip her wing the wild fowl rests. Where the blue waves dance with their crests, Where the billows bound, and the waves sport free-They have buried him there in the deep, deep sea.

The Contrast.

I saw a vast multitude of the sick and dying, all fast hastening to death, and I heard a voice say ing to each and all, "There is life for the asking; and there was but one or two of all that great com

"There is gold for the digging," proclaims anoth er voice; and thousands of eager questioners cry
"Where—where?" Far, far away, over the deep waters, across the dangerous passes of the mour tains; danger and disease must be met, privation and hunger must be braved—but what of all that there is "gold for the digging," at the end. And how they throng, and press, and crowd, to reach

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the system, Nervous Debility and premature decay generally arises from the destructive habit of youth, that solitary practice so fatal to the healthful existence of man, and it is the young who are the most apt to become its Victims from an ignorance of the dangers to which they subject themselves. Parerts and Guardians are often misled with respect to the cause or source of disease in their sons and wards. Alas! how often do they ascribe to other causes the wasting of the frame, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Derangement of the Nervous System, Cough and Symptoms of Consumption, also those serious Derangement of the Netwins system, Cough and Symptoms of Consumption, also those serious Mental effects, such as loss of Memory, Depression of Spirits or peculiar fits of Melancholy, when the truth is they have been caused by indulging Pernicious but alluring practices, destructive to both Body and Mind.
