A Powerful Poem.

We have the pleasure, and indeed it is no ordi nary one, of presenting to our readers the following remarkable poem from the pen of a young lady who, our readers will sustain us in saying, is unsurpassed by any author in this country.- Louis-

INSANITY.

BY MISS L. VIRGINIA SMITH.

God! what a night of horrors! Wake, rouse me! Ah! take off this fiendish fear That fastens fang-like on my soul, and crush These serpent dreams, that curdle in my brain! Strike down this ghastly Horror, ere its eyes Scorch up my life blood, and its recking breath Blinds me with pestilential poison, foul From out the charnel house !

In pone! Awake!
Is that the sun? I will bethink me, ah!
What hideous dream was that which passed me then? What nameless terror, wrapt in formless gloom, What lurid, dark plumed phantasy of hell! What lurid, dark plumed phantasy of hell:
I am awake, the morn is up, and yet
A dark remembrance lies upon my soul,
Like the chance dropping of a raven's plume
Upon a snow drift drift, white, and cold, and lone.
It is is the shadow of that fearful dream, That vision of the maniac demon-power, That vision of the manna demon-power,
Which waste immortal being like to dust,
And digs a grave for the dissolving soul.
Monarch of Madness, thou and thou alone,
Art "King of Terrors," strong to slay the s
And make its shrinking clay its sepulchre.

Dead despot of annihilation's realm,
Thyself art nothingness, a formless void. Deep shrouded in a veil of vagueness, while Thy features seem a horny, chilling glare, With naught distinguishable, save those eyes. Which hold such deeps of desert vacancy, Which hold such deeps of desert vacancy,
As tell there is no soul within to light
Its star-flame in their dreary solitades!
And yet a mighty power is thine, thou ghoul,
Fall feeding on decaying senses, flend
And vampyre, draining-out the very streams
Of immortality. Stern judgment falls
Before the senseless from his throne, and strong,
Proud resean huilding in her columned arch

Before the senseless from his throne, and strong, Proud reason building up her columned arch Ol lofty argument, forgets her, work.

To die beneath its ruins, when thy breath Orwhelms it like the deserts pillard sands Before the simoon, Fancy's dancing light. The borealis of the mind, is quenched, Imagination's mirror ground to dust, And worse than all, tomb-breaker, thou dost tear The pure heart-graves of memory, and strew The treasures of its buried loves abroad, All trampled and debased.

To see a spirit writhing in the chains, To see a spirit writhing in the chains,

To see a spirit writhing in the chains, As first the struggling senses reel and strive To grasp once more a memory of a hope, And vainly strive, as does the blasted tree To clasp the fleeting wind. Anon the brain Becomes a hungry hydra's swarming lair, Whence, wild with terror, bursting all its bars, The stung and startled spirit, shricking flies On bloody, burning pinions, flies, alas! To faint and perish in thy black abyss. And idiot laughter echoes from its grave, Hollow and fearful as the earth's first fail Upon the confin-lid; and yet 'tis joy 'To thee, thou callous conqueror of the mind, And-thou dost gloat above the spoils of all And thou dost gloat above the spoils of all

Death is kind;
Oh! when the heart is weary, and the soul
Is wrung with wretchedness, she opens her And like some soft voiced angel bids us rest In dreamless slumber on her bosom. Yes; E'en death is kind, but thy devouring worm In madness seize upon the living brain, And riot in the warm and bounding heart.

The affection's torture rack our life In sudden spasms, or drop by drop, the fierce, Wrung spirit weeps it tears of burning gall—
The sngel death come panoplied in woe—
But save us father, from that phantom-king
Who winds around the writhing soul, and drags
It down, down, down to his abysmal heart.

Important Decision.

GIRARD'S WILL AND THE CITY.-We copy from the City papers of Tuesday, the following important opinion of the Supreme Court, delivered by Justice ELLIS LEWIS, on the previous day, in the case of the Wharf Owners against the City of Philadelphia. The ease arose under the construction of a clause in the will of the late STEPHEN GIRARD. The opinion possesses much interest to the commercial community of Philadelphia, is written with great ability, and will be generally read throughout the State.

The Mayor, Aldermen, and Citizens of Philadelphia vs. Henry Paul Beck et. al. Appeal from Nisi Prius—In Equity. Opinion of the Court.—Lewis J.—The question for decision in this case is, whether of the income of the lund of $500,000 given to the city authorities in trust-for the objects perified in the 22d section of the Will of the late tephen Girud canbe rightfully applied to the ex-

The three objects of the testator's bounty, enu-nerated in the 22d section, are—1st. The laying dit of Delaware avenue; 2d. The removal of all wooden buildings within the city; and 3d. The widening of Water street. Each of these was directed to be accomplished in the order in which

The first object to which the income of the fund is diected to be applied is the laying out, regulating, cubing lighting and paving a street on the east part of the city of Philda, to be called Delaware A enue. In order that this object might be accomplished, it was necessary that the city authorities should acquire powers from the Legislature and rights from lividuals to enable them to remove, or pull down all the buildings, tences and obstructions which an the buildings, lences and obstructions which might be in the way; to prohibit all buildings, fen-ces or erections of any kind to the eastward of the avenue, and to fill up the heads of such of the docks as might not afford sufficient room for the street

As the proposed improvement facilitated access o the wharves and docks, and greatly increased commercial advantages of that part of the city, it was reasonable, and necessary to ment of those advantages, that the individuals who would derive the greatest benefit from the improvewharves in proper condition for their appropriate uses, should be compelled to fulfil their obligations uses, should be compelled to fulfil their obligations in that respect. And the confidence which the test to the married ladies, with the exception that they tator reposed in the authorities of the city, as shown throughout his will, sufficiently incicates the reason for his desire that those authorities should be cloth them with what few foreign articles they may had hit he Jeeislavine with the necessary power to

We think that it was not the intention of the oring for their hair and ladies boots." testator to appropriate any part of the fund to de-fray the expense of cleaning the docks. On the contrary, we think it sufficiently manifest that his intention was to compel the owners of the wharves to perform this duty and to keep their wharves in order, and to remove the platforms projecting there-from over the river supported by piles. This must of course be understood distributionally, according to the existing liabilities of the parties. Each wharf owner to keep his own wharf in order, to remove the platforms projecting therefrom, and to defray the expenses of cleaning the adjoining river in proportion to the number of feet of his lot or landing adjoining on each side of the dock. This duty was imposed upon the owners of wharves by the acts of Assembly of 1698 & 1700; and the act of 1803 made it the duty of the Master Warden to superintend the execution of these laws. Although the drainage of the City may contribute largely to the stiffing of the dealer it must be seen to the city may be seen to be see largely to the sifting of the docks, it must be remembered that this drainage is but the natural dis-charge of deposites which, but for the obstructions created by the wharves, would find their way, without impediment, to their appropriate receptacle. the Ocean. And the increase in quantity arising from the business at the wharves and the drainage of a large and populous city, is but the result of that Commerce which gives to the wharves their chief

It is therefore a principle of obvious justice, that It is therefore a principle of obvious justice, that those who receive the profits of these structures, erected upon the public domain, should bear the charge of keeping them in suitable condition for the uses for which they were constructed. It is to be presumed that the testator was perfectly aware of this just and legal liability of the owners of wharves. and we see no sufficient indication in his will of an intention to take the burthen from the shoulders of those who were so justly bound to bear it, and thus to apply to private advantages a fund which could be more usefully employed in promoting objects of general utility.

The objection, that this construction imposes upon owners of wharves, "a joint obligation to clean all the docks, and thus conveys a meaning that is extravagant," is nothing more than an endeavor to support one misconstruction of the will by another quite as far from the true intention of the testator as the first. It rests upon a verbal criticism, cer-tainly not entitled to controlling influence in the construction of instruments supposed to be frequently prepared in the hour of extremity, without the assistance of professional advice. It is certainly true that there is a looseness of expression in the instrument before us; but this only demands, with more urgency, that the general intent shall overmore urgency, that the general intent shall over-hear small objections of expression and punctuation. There is as much propriety in understanding the testator to speak distributively in reference to the docks and platforms, as in regard to the wharves.

The wharf, the dock, and the platform, are so The wharf, the dock, and the platform, are so connected with each other, in their construction and in their uses, that they may be regarded, for many purposes, as identical. The dock is useless without the wharf; the latter is of no value independent of the dock; the platform is but an extension of the wharf, and the owner of the wharf receives the profits of the whole. Why then should the charges of keeping the whole of this structure in proper condition for its uses be divided? Why should a stranger assume the duty of keeping the docks in order, while the owner, who received all the profits of the dock and the wharf is only required to keep the dock in order? An equivocal declaration of such intention would, of course, be regarded and enforced; but, in our opinion, no such intention is expressed.

The direction to apply the income of the fund to three objects, in the order which they are specified. excluding the two last from any participation until the first shall be accomplished within some determined period, but according to the construction claimed by the appellees, the fund must be applied to a charge of perpetual obligation—to an object which never can be accomplished so long as the rain descends and the streams pursue their courses to the ocean.

There is nothing in the 23d section of the Will to change the legitimate and independent construc-tion of the 22d; taking both together, we see that although the testator desired the City authorities to obtain power to enforce the liabilities of the owners of wharves, yet he did not consider that an object of sufficient importance to make it one of the conditions of his legacy of $300,000 to the State. He intended to specify among those conditions, only such laws as were "necessary to carry into effect the several improvements designated in the section immediately preceding." An act to authorize the City corporation to compel the owners of wharves to keep their docks in order and to remove their platforms, was not in that category; and of course was not named as one of the conditions of the legacy to the State.

The act of 1832, in complying not only with the condition upon which the legacy was given, but with the wishes of the testator as expressed in the 22d section, may be regarded as the enlightened ate branch of the govern ment, in the exercise of its legitimate functions of legislation, in favor of the construction now given to the will by this Court. This construction is in accordance with the justice of the case; and by preventing the application of the lund to objects of private advantage which may be otherwise attained, and securing it to those of public and general bene-fit, we are carrying out what was manifestly the great purposes of the testator.

It may not be necessary, at present to express an opinion respecting the disposition of the fund, after the three objects enumerated in the 22d section shall have been accomplished: but it would cer-tainly he well for those entrusted with its management, to pause before they apply it to the purpose: which the testator intended to accomplish by en-forcing the obligations of the wharf owners, and thus prevent its application to the "further improve-ment of the Eastern front of the city." If the intention of the testator was to secure one beneficial object by compelling the performance of indi-cidual duties, and others by the application of his own funds, the discretion of the trustees must be ontrolled by that intention. The decree at Nisi Prius is reversed; and it is ordered and decreed that the Bill be dismissed at

Fashion at the North Pole.

The way the ladies indulge lancy among the Esquimaux, may be worth comparing with our ways in more temperate latitudes:

"The dress of a married lady is composed of a pair of short seal skin pants, for outside, extending early to the knee joint, where the legs of the boots made of the same material, or of deer shin. upper part of the person is covered with a "jumper," or a kind of sack, with a hood for the head, and sleeves, made whole, with the exception of a place or the face and arms. This also is made of seal covered with a fancy colored cotton cloth sack .-In the coldest and wet weather the cloth sack is removed and a seal skin coverin4, with fur, placed in its stead. This composes their whold dress.— The dress of an unmarried lady is distinguished by a broad band made of fancy figured webbing, about two and a half inches wide, sewed on each side of the front of their pants, extending nearly the whole length of them. A married woman can be distinguished from an A married woman can be distinguished from an unmarried one by the hair, which, in both cases, is tied upon the top of the head, and the ends of that of the married are colored blue, and of the unmarried red. This enables a gallant to act the amiable without danger of making advances to some one already married, and getting a stray shot from an injured husband. The boots are made very nearly, slender and well proportioned. The upper leather is colored. They tau deer skins with urine, and their seal skins are dressed in a beautiful manner, simply by drying and rubbing them with a smooth stone. A pair of slippers completes the wardrobe of a lady in the Esquimaux country; these are made of deer skin, and neatly fringed round the tops with white rabbits air. HORSES MADE SOUND BY THE Horse Owner's Secret,

Being a new and certain remedy for the speedy CURE OF HEAVES. By Sir James Lyndonton, Principal Farrier to his Royal Highness Prince Albert.
THE great discovery contained in this little work procured Sir James his Baronetcy. It is really procured Sir James his Baronetcy. It is really its weight in gold to all who own oruse Horses. It prescribes a Certain and Positive Cure for the Heaves, which any person can prepare. The remedy is better and cleaper than any advertised Heave Powder, and is perfectly safe, as any can know who tries it. Horse owners know that many a valuable horse losses half his price by this prevalent disease. The remedy prescribed in this work will cure him and increase his market value, besides relieving the poor beast of a horible complaint, similar to the Asthma in a man. The public can depend on this work: it is no catchpenny humbug. The the Ashma in a man. The public can depend on this work: it is no catchpenny humbug. The articles prescribed by Sir James are all cheap and can be had at any store. To prevent imposition the work will be sent in sealed envelopes. English price, four shillings and three pence sterling.—American price, $1 per copy. Persons ordering Sir James' work are expected to confine his instruction to their own animals. It will be sent to none others. Address, post paid,

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.
Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by private and improper indulgencies, that secret and solitary habits, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either business

These are some of the sad and melancholy of feets produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the back and limbs, Pains in the head, Dimness of Sight, boss of Muscular Power, Pal-Dimness of Sight, tooss of Muscular Power, Pal-pitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irria-bility, Derungement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c. Mentally.—The learful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded: Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil of Forebo-ding, Aversion of Society, Self Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils pro-duced.

NERVOUS DEBILITY. Weakness of the system, Norvous Debility and premature decay generally arises from the destructive habit of youth, that solitary practice so fatal to the healthful existence of man, and it is the young who are the most ant to become its Victims from who are the most any to become its victims from an ignorance of the dangers to which they subject themselves. Parents and Guardians are often misled with respect to the cause or source of disease in their sons and wards. Alas! how often do they ascribe no other causes the wasting of the traine, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Indigestion. Derangement of the Nervous System. Cough and Symptoms of Consumption, also those serious Derangement of the Pervisia System. Output and Symptoms of Consumption, also those scrious Mental effects, such as loss of Memory, Depression of Spirits or peculiar fits of Melancholy, when the truth is they have been caused by indulging Pernicious but alluring practices, destructive to both Body and Mind. Thus are swept from extended the property of use to istence thousands who might have been of use to their country, a pleasure to their friends, an orna-

WEAKNESS OF THE ORGANS WEAKNESS OF THE ORGANS immediately cured and full vigor restored. Oh, how happy have hendreds of misguided youths been made, who have been suddenly restored to health from the devastations of those terrific maladies which result from indiscretion. Such persons, before contemplating MARRIAGE, should reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote consultational happiness. Indeed, without this, the journey thro' life becomes a weary pilgrimage; the prospect hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair, and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own. Let no talse delicacy prevent you, but apply immediately.

THE subscriber respectfully informs the public that he has lately completed a TRIPLE POW-ER INTERNAL GEARED HORSE POWER, which outrivals any other in use. It is made entirely of Iron, both Frame and Gearing. The Journals are Cast-Steel—its weight is 600 lbs. On trial it has proved itself capable of performing from 50 to 100 per cent. more work than other Powers with the same labor of the team. It is warranted to hold 8 horses.

I have also completed a combined THRESHER hold 8 horses.

I have also completed a combined THRESHER AND CLEANER, which is capable of Threshing and Cleaning from 300 to 500 bushels of wheat per day, with from 6 to 8 Horses, and an equal number of hands. 4 horses can thresh with it from 100 to 200 bushels per day of wheat, and 400 to 500 of oats. It is very convenient for those who follow Threshing, and for two or more farmers to own in company; it is more convenient to move than any machine in use. The Machine stands on the wagon while threshing—the Pawer is loaded on the same wagon in moving—two horses are sufficient to move it; it will save enough labor in threshing 2000 bushels to pay its extra cost. It will thresh in the field or by a stack as conveniently as in a barn. York.

The cars are attached to the Way Train, and run in the rear, which gives them a decided preterence over any other cars in case of a collision or a run off, which under the best of management will sometimes occur. Our passengers and cars must from their position in the train, be comparatively free from danger.

The cylinder and concave can readily be adjusted so as to thresh with equal facility both tough and dry grain. It is free from the complication and liability to get out of order of other machines of the kind, and of less cost—price $100,00.
