The dear ones who have gathered there, Lie mingling with the dead. I miss affection's welcome kiss,

The clasping of the hand,
The pleasant sound of whispered bliss
Within the household band.
The old familiar songs of praise Seem trembling on the air The tones that mingled in the lays I never more may hear.

Mother ! thy spirit was my guide,
'Twas my directing ray;
Since thou art gone, my pilgrimage Is but a weary way.

And in my hours of loneliness I see a pensive smile, I feel a soft arm twined in mine

That did my carea beguile. And there dwelt one with silver locks, He too has passed away; How fondly was that form beloved These blinding tear-drops say. He held me oft in his dear arms My head on his noble breast—
I saw him die, when he passed away
As a child to its cradled rest.

And then my sisters, brothers dear; They, too, have left my side; The path is drear we used to roam, At twilight's even tide. Oh! it is sad to think That change must ever come E'en to the fire-side and the hearth Of one's familiar home.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27th, 1852.

TO LOUISE. BY FRANK FERN.

Why drape thy fancy in the garb of wo—
Thy tuneful lyre essay the "lonely" strain?
The world is lovely still, if we but throw The sunshine of our hearts o'er lea and plain; Then mourn not gentle one, " For those forever fled; Through Grace, they life resume Triumphant o'er the dead.

Thy sainted Morning, and around thee still
Thy sainted Morning's voice is trembling near,
To guide her child from every path of ill,
That here beset the pilgrim of a tear.
There in thy heart's deep urn,
Thy mather's suirit keen. Thy mother's spirit keep; But o'er the casket, mourn Not her tranquil sleep.

And HE, whose "silver locks," thy beaming eye With fond regret, now blinding to a local series nd its, whose "silver locks," in youanning With fond regret, now blinding teardrops, h, think, Louise, around thee—ever nigh, A spirit guards thee with his ample wing;

The loved one ever lives!

Ambrosial fields are trod

By him, who life receives

From his Creator, God!

Oh, pluck the cygnet's downy wing again!
Invoke the Loves to string thy gentle Lyre;
Awake the key-note of a sprightlier strain,
And wing the flame of Fancy's meteor fire:
Till e'en the earth's dull plane,
With music, soft and light,
Echo to thee again,
Sweet Pleiade of night.

CHERRY PECTORAL

For the rapid Cure of COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

CONSUMPTION.

MANY years of trial, instead of impairing the pulic confidence in this medicine, has won for it an appreciation and noioriety by far exceeding the most sanguine expectations of its friends. Nothing but its intrinsic virtues and the unmistakable benefit conferred on thousands of sufferers could originate and maintain the reputation it enjoys. While many inferior remedies thurst upon the community, have failed and been discarded, this has gained friends by every trial conferred benefits on the afflicted they can never forget, and produced cures too numerous and too remarkable to be forgotten.

While it is fraud on the public to pretend tha While it is fraud on the public to pretent any one medicine will infallibly cure—still there is abundant proof that the CHERRY PECTORAL does not only a general thing, but almost invariably cures the maladies for which it is employed.

As time makes thesefficits wider and better known, this medicine has gradually become the best reliance of the afflicted, from the loganization of the American Persant, to the palbest reliance of the afflicted, from the log-cabin of the American Peasant, to the pal-aces of European Kings. Throughout this entire country, in every State, city, and almost every hamlet it contains, Cherry Pectoral is known as the best remedy extant for diseases of the Throat and Lungs, and in many foreign countries, it is coming to be extensively used by their most intelligent Physicians. In Great Britain, France and Germa-Lunga, and in many foreign countries, it is coming to be extensively used by their most intelligent Physicians. In Great Britain, France and Germany, where the medical sciences have reached their highest perfection, Cherry Pectoral is introduced, and in constant use in the Armies, Hospitals, Alms Houses, Public Institutions, and in domestic practice, as the surest remeily their attending Physicians can employ for the inore dangerous affections of the lungs. Also in milder cases, and for children it is safe, pleasant and effectual to cure. In fact, some of the most flattering testimonials we receive have been from parents who have found it efficacious in cases particularly incidental to child efficacious in cases particularly incidental to child-
