Look Aloft.

[The following beautiful lines are founded upor the little story said to have been related by the late Dr. Godman, of the ship boy, who was about to fall from the rigging, and was only saved by the mate's impressive exclamation. "Look aloft, you lubber." They were written by the late Jonathan Lawrence, Jr., a member of the New York bar, who died in 1833.1

In the tempest of life, when the wave and the gale Are around and above, if thy footing should fail, If thine eye should grow dim and thy caution de-

Delays.

BY ROBERT SOUTHWELE-1595. [We copy the following verses from an old Eng ish book, and believe their promptings just as good as though they were not two hundred and fifty-seven ears old !! Shun delays, they breed remorse; Take thy time, while time is lent thee; Creeping snails have weaker force;

Fly thy faults lest thou repent thee;
Good is best when soonest wrought,
Ling'ring labors come to nought.

Hoist up sail while gale doth last, Tide and wind stays no man's pleasure; Seek not time when time is past, Sober speed is wisdom's leisure. After wits are dearly bought, Let thy fore-wit guide thy thought.

Time wears all his locks before—
Take thou hold upon his forehead
When he flees, he turns no more,
And behind his scalp is naked. Works adjourned have many stays; Long demurs breed new delays.

Babes of Heaven.

BY MRS. DENISON.

There are some infants who seem destined for There are some intants wno seem destined for Heaven from their birth. Over these the mother may smile and weep, and watch the fragile beauty of cheek and brow in vain.

Old and learned doctors may stand beside their little and the standard besides and some standard besides and standard besides and some standard some standard besides and some standard bes Oid and learned doctors may stand beside the little couches, and count the quick-beating pulse; they cannot stay the steady footsteps of death—they cannot wave him back, that angel of Heaven.—Something is writen in the blue eyes—the gentle smile, that mortals may never interpret; for them the tiny headstones stand in niches, fresh from the graver's hands. For them the little marble urns graver's nands. For them the little marker of the sare already sculptured, and sweet spots in the burial grounds lie waiting. Hug it ever so closely to the fond bosom, the favored immortal is ever in the kands of the angels, and they will claim it.

I have known a few such children. I remember, as I write, a sweet sister, who came when the bird pipes his first May song. For fifteen bright months she was spared to earth, but all who saw her gave ominious shakes of the head, and some said even with tears, "Shall she die."

Of all infant singers, none heard I ever sing like her. From morning till night from her twelfth month, her sweet, clear voice rang through the house. And she was neither taught this, nor paraded for her gift—but a friend coming in would be sure to hear "Old Hundred" from the singing lips of a babe who might be clinging to the chairs in her first happy essay to walk. "China" and many of the ancient melodies, were as household words to that little creature—and every day at twilight, till nearly the day she died, she would sing herself to sleep, lisping those old words:
"Life is the time to serve the Lord."

Precious angel! her life was holy service. How happy she has been these long years, up there—inging.

I had another little sister, who died at the sam age. I remember a still, beautiful night, when sat watching that sweet face—the pale hands, the laboring chest. Her mother, wearied out, had fallen into a light slumber.

Suddenly, in that dying hour, the old ture of Sweet Home " rang out, clear, sweet, distinct.-How can I describe the feeling that thrilled through How can I describe the feeling that thrilled through all my veins, when looking at the little lips, pale and trembling, I saw them moving to the cadence of the cherished melody. There laid a babe, scarcely more than a year old, disease upon her, ber temples whitening in death, singing a triumphal strain with a failing breath. No language can tell how awful was the scene. She sang it through to the last note—and her fragile form sank backward.

In the morning they were laying lightly and ten-

In the morning they were laying lightly and tenderly on her limbs the burial shroud.

I heard lately a little story, which for pathos could not be excelled.

A beautiful infant had been taught to say, (and it could say little else) 'God will take care of baby.' It was seized with sickness, and to was seized with sickness, and at a time when both parents were hardly convalescent from a dan-gerous illness. Every day it grew worse, and at last was given up to die. Almost agonized, the mother prayed to be carried into the room of her darling, to give it one last embrace. Both parents darling, to give it one last embrace. Both parents succeeded in gaining the apartment, but just as it was thought the babe had breathed its last.

The mother wept aloud; and once more the little creature opened its eyes, looked lovingly into her face—smiled, and moved its little lips.

y bent closer down.

"God will lake care of baby"

Sweet consoling words!—they had hardly ceased when the angel-spirit was in Heaven.—Olive Branch.

DEEMING it unzecessary to remind any member of the Medical profession, of the established medical properties of pure Holland Gin, in many diseases of dropsical tendency, I respectfully invite your examination of a very superior article, cannufactured by myself exclusively, at Schiedam, in Holland, by a process peculiar to my own Factory. It is flavored and medicated, not by the common harsh berry, but by the choice botanical variety of the aromatic Italian Juniper Berry, whose more vinous extract is distilled and rectified with its spirituous solvent, and thus becomes a concentrated tincture, of exquisite flavor and aroma, altogether transcendent, in its cordial and medicinal sroperties, to any Holland's Gin heretofore known.

Amid the influx of interior distillations with which this country is now flooded, physicians find no difficulty in procuring a good and pure Gin, which they can prescribe with confidence in its benefical effects. As an importer of twenty years' standing, in the City of New York, and possessing a matured experience in the manufacture of Holland Gin especially, I beg to submit to your attention my "Aromatic Schiedam Schnapps," as one which cannot fail to realize your utmost expectation, and I shall be happy to forward to you a bottle of it, free of charge, in answer to a letter intimating your readiness to accept it.

It is now scarcely one year since I have prepared and distributed my Schiedam Gin exclusively for medical purposes; yet, within that brief period, I have received one thousand letters, both from phy sicians and patients, testifying to its really extraordinary efficacy in Gravel, Incipient Dropsy, and affections of the Kidneys and Bladder generally. I have no doubt that it would yeild similar results; with prec sion and certainty, in your own professional experience. Put up in Pt. and Qt. Bottles with my name upon the bottle, cork and label, with an essay upon its properties. This article should be in the hand of every traveller.

Another Scientific Wonder!

The True Digestive Fluid or Gastrie Juice

PREPARED from Rennet, or the fourth Stom ach of the Ox, after directions of Baron Liebia he great Physiological Chemist, by J. S. Hough

The great Physiological Chemist, by J. S. Houghton, M. D., Philadelphia, Pal This is a truly wonderful remedy for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Liver Complaint, Constipation, and Debility, curing after Nature's own method, by Nature's own Agent, the Gastric Juice.

Half a teaspoonful of Pepsin, infused in water, will digest or dissolve, Five Pounds of Roast Beet in about two hours, out of the somach.

Persin is the chief element, or Great Digesting Principle of the Gastric Juice—the solvent of the food, the purifying, preserving and stimulating agent of the stomach and intestines. It is extracted from the digestive stomach of the Ox, thus ferming an Artificial Digestive Fluid, precisely like the natural Gastric Juice in its chemical powers, and furnishing a complete and perfect substitute for it By the aid of this preparation, the pains and evils of Indigestion and Dyspepsia are removed, just as they would be by a healthy stomach. It is doing wonders for dyspeptics, curing cases of Debility, Emaciation, Nervous Declife, and Dyspeptic Constitution, supposed to be on the verge of the grave.

Dr. Combe, in his valuable writings on the 'Physiology of Digestion,' observes that 'a diminution of the due quantity of the Gastrie Juce is a prominent and all-prevailing cause of Dyspepsia; and he states that 'a distinguished prolessor of medicine in London, who was severely afflicted with this complain, finding everything else to tail, had recourse to the Gastrie Juice, obtained from the stomach of living animals, which proved completely accessful!

the stomach of living animals, which process completely successfull."

Dr. Graham, aithor of the famous works on "Vegetable Diet," says: "It is a remarkable fact in physiology, that the stomachs of animals, macerated in water, impart to the fluid the property of dissolving various articles of tood, and of effecting a kind of artificial digestion of them in namise different was the natural digestice process."

MERVOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the system, Nervous Debility and premature decay generally arises from the destructive habit of youth, that solitary practice so final to the healthful existence of man, and it is the young who are the most apt to become its Victims from an ignorance of the dangers to which they subject themselves. Parents and Guardiaus are often misled with respect to the cause or source of disease in their sous and wards. Alas! how often do they ascribe to other causes the wasting of the frame, Palpitation of the Hea., Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Derangement of the Nervous System, Cough and Symptoms of Consumption, also those serious Mental effects, such as loss of Memory, Depression of Spirits or peculiar fits of Melancholy, when the truth is they have been caused by indulging Pernicious but alluring practices, destructive to both Body and Mind.
