To an Absent Wife. BY G. D. PRENTICE.

'Tis Morn:—the sea breeze seems to bring 'Tis Morn:—the sea breeze seems to oring Joy, health, and freshness on its wing; Bright flowers, to me all strange and new, 'Are glittering in the early dew, And perfumes rise from every grove, Like spirits o'er yon welkin clear; But I am sad—thou art not here!

'Tis Noon:—a calm, unbroken sleep Is on the blue wave of the deep; A soft haze, like a fairy dream, Is floating over wood and stream, And many a broad magnolia flower, Within its shadowy woodland bower, Is gleening like a lovely star. Is gleaming like a lovely star; But I am sad—thou art afar!

'Tis Eve : -- on earth the sunset skies "The Eve:—on earth the sunset sakes
Are printing their own Eden dyes;
The stars come down and trembling glow,
Like blossoms in the wave below,
And like an unseen spirit, the breeze
Seems lingering, 'midst those orange trees,
But I am sad—I see thee not!

'Tis Midnight :--with a soothing spell Soft as a mother's cadence mild, Low bending o'er her sleeping child; And on each wandering breeze are heard The rich notes of the mocking bird, In many a wild and wondrous lay; But I am sad—thou art away!

I sink in Dreams :- low, sweet, and clear, I sink in Dreams:—low, sweet, and clear
Thy own dear voice is in my ear;
Around my cheek thy tresses twine—
Thy own loved hand is clasped in mine,
Thy own soft lips to mine are pressed—
Thy head is pillowed on my breast;
Oh I have all my heart holds dear,
And Lam happy—they are here; And I am happy—thou art here :

From the N. Y. Dutchnia Brother Sam's Ascension.

A MILLERITE MIRACLE. In a little village in the State of Hoosierana. in the year 1844, there was "all sorts" of excitement concerning the doctrines and prophecies of the arch deceiver, Miller. For months the Midnight Cry, followed by the Morning Howl, and the Noonday Yell, had circulated through the village and sur-rounding counties, to an extent not even equalled by Dr. D.'s celebrated speech. Men disposed of property for little or nothing. The women were pale and ghastly from watching and praying, or at least, those who believed in the coming ascension, looked as it they were about half over a second attack of the chills and fever. There were, however, some "choice spirits," (not choice in theirs, how ever,) who notwithstanding the popularity of the delusion, would not enlist under the banner of the

The night of the third of April was the time agreed upon out west, for the grand exhibition of "ground and lofty tumbling," and about ten o'clock of the night, numbers of the Millerites, assembled on the outskirts of the town, on a little eminence, to stand. In the crowd, and the only representa tive of his race present, was a free negro, by the name of Sam, about as ugly, black, wooly, and rough a descendant of Ham, as ever baked his, shins over a kitchen fire.

Sam's head was small, body and arms very long and his legs bore a remarkable resemblance to a pair of hames; in fact, put Sam on a horse, his legs clasped around its neck, his head towards the tail, and his arms clasping the animal's hames, and at ten paces off, you would swear he was an old set ten paces on, you would swear he was an old set of patent gearing.

The leader of the Millerites, owing to an ancient grudge he bore him, hated Sam, "like smoke," and had done all in his power to prevent his admit tance among the "elect," but all to no purpose; Sam would creep in at every meeting, to-night here he was again, dressed in a white robe of cheap cotton, secured to his body by a belt, and shouting and praying as loud as the best.

Now, on the morning of the third, Cabe had with a deal of perseverance, and more trouble, managed to throw a half-inch hemp cord over the branch of an oak, which stretched its long arms directly over the spot where the Millerites would assemble; one end he had secured to the body of the tree, and the other to a stump some distance of About ten o'clock, when the excitement was get ting about "eighty pounds to the inch," Cabe, wrap-ped in an old sheet, walked into the crowd, and proceeded to fasten, in as secure a manner as possible, the end of the rope to the back part of the belt which confined Sam's robe, and having succeeded, "sloped," to join some of his companions threw a dim light over the scene, and, in a few minutes, the voice of Sam was heard exclaiming "Gor A'mighty! I's a going up! who-o-oh!"— And sure endugh, Sam was seen mounting in the "ethereal blue;" this was, however, checked, when he had cleared, "torra firma" a few fee.

"Glory!" cried one; "Hallelujah!" another; and shrieks and yells made the night hideous; some fainted; others prayed, and not a few dropped their

Now, whether it was owing to the lightness of his head, or the length and weight of his heels, or both. Sam's position was not a pleasant one; the belt to which Cabe's cord was attached was be exactly round his centre of gravity, and Sam swung like a pair of scales, head up and heels down, at the same time sweeping over the crowd like a pen dulum, which motion was accelerated by his stren uous clapping of hands, and vigorous kicking. At length, he became alarmed, he wouldn't go up, and

"Lor a massy " cried he, "just take up poor nig-ger to um bosom, or lef him down easy, easy.— Lef him down, again, please um Lor, dis nigger will go straight to um bed! ugh-h!" and Sam's teeth chattered with affright, and he kicked again more vigorously than before, bringing his head directly downwards and his heels up, when a woman stricken out—

"Oh! brother Sam, take me with you," she sprung at his head as he swept by her, and caught him by the wool, bringing him up, "all standing."
"Gosh? sister," cried Sam, "lef go um poor nigger's har."

Cabe give another pull at the rope, but the additional weight was too much, the belt gave way, and down came Sam, his bullet head taking the leader of the saints a "feeler" just between the eyes.

"Gosh, is I down again?" cried the bewildered
Sam, gathering himself up. "I is, bless de Lor!
but I was nearly dar, I seed the gate!" The leader wiped his overflowing proboscis, took Sam by the nape of the neck, led him to the edge of the crowd, giving him a kick, said "Leave, you cussed baboon! you are so ugly, I knowed they

'At a Democratic supper in Washington city, on the 30th December, Dr. Olds of Ohio, was called upon to respond to the following sentiment: The President elect :- The embodiment of Democ racy, lives at Concord. May Concord live with the emocracy during Pierce's administration! Mr. Olds said:—Mr. President and fellow citizens

-I can hardly conceive why I have been called ipon to respond to the sentiment just given. To Franklin Pierce personally, I am an utter stranger. know him only as he is known to every Demoerat throughout the United States. By his votes in Congress—by his speeches and letters—by his patritism and service upon the battle-field he has made bimself known favorably and generally to every one who admires modest, retiring merit, and sound radical and progressive Democracy. I am aware, sir, r political opponents have a thousand times "Who is Franklin Pierce!" I am aware, sir, that they have called him "General Obscurity." You and I sir, have heard them speak of our can You and I sir, nave heard them speak of old and didate as "Wm. R. King, of Alabama, and that tother chap." [Laughter] We have heard him denounced as the "fainting General." But, thank God, Mr. President, the people seem to have known and appreciated Franklin Pierce, and it I mistake not the man on his mission, the Whigs will know who he is on and after the 4th of March next. Such Whig office holders as have denounced him as the "fainting General," will, I trust find no "fainting" The Galphins will find him a political loses, and they will see the Democracy holding up their hands, that the slaughter may continue un wery Galphin throughout the length and breadth of the land, has been nurled from power. This much the people expect; nay; sir, this much the peo-ple demand from Franklin Pierce. Mr. President, in my own beautiful State of Ohio, our Democratic ballot carried at its head, even above the names of Pierce and King, the "hickory broom," bearing the overwhelming majority, were greatly in demand in It is wonderful, Mr. President, that ever since the days of General Jackson our Whig triends always they of General Jackson our Wing Intends always fraint" at the sight of a hickory broom. the Galphins." [Tremendous cheering.]

Sir, if Franklin Pierce comes to the work as signed him by the Democracy of the country, as I have no doubt he will, there will be as big a muss kicked up in Washington city on the 4th of March as there was at Mrs. Smith's house, (as related by by my friend the "Buckeys abroad," when little Jake Smith ran over to Mrs. Brown's to tell her that 'dad was dead; mam was drunk, the old cow got a calf, John had swallowed a pin; Jim had got delirium triangles looking at the rora boreax; [roars of laughter]—and that ain't all neither," says Jake. "What else 'pon 'arth can be the matter," inquired Mrs. Brown. "Why, Sal has broke the butterplate; Susan has spilt the pan-cakes, and Jo has sot right down in the scalding tallow we had had for dipping candles and one of the Maltes kittens has got his head into the molasses jug, and we can't get it outand we are all so durned informal hungry." [Shouts and cheers] Mr. President, in my imagination, the 4th of March is passing before me, and I think I see the Whig Galphin office holders pouring out of the various government departments, with the tears running down their piteous noses, and their lamen-tation is, "that Webster is dead; Fillmore has filli-

The night of the third of April was the time agreed upon out west for it.

Mr. President, I may be considered somewhat blood-thirsty towards the Galphins, but the war of extermination waged by them upon me in my con gressional district, and the fiery ordeal through which I have lately passed, must plead my apology Will you allow me then, gentlemen, in conclusion to offer the following sentiment: Franklin Pierce and his administration—Ma

Washington Prays.

In the winter of 1777, while Washington, with the American army, lay encamped at Valley Forge, a good old Friend, by the name of Potts, had occasion to pass through the wood near the head-quarters. Treading his way along the venerable grove, sud denly he heard the sound of a human voice, which, became like the voice of one speaking very earnest

As he approached the spot with a cautions step whom should he behold, in a dark natural bower of ancient oaks, but the commander-in-chief of the American armies on his knees at prayer.

Motionless with surprise, Friend Potts continued in the place till the General, having ended hi devotions, arose, and with a countenance of angelic Friend Potts then went home; and on entering his parlor, he called out to his wife, "Sarah, my dear! Sarah! all is well! all is well! George Wash-

Well, if I seem moved, it is no more than I am. I have this day seen what I never expected. Thee knows that I always thought the sword and the gospel inconsistent, and that no man can be a sollier and a Christian at the same; but George Washington has this day convinced me of my mistake."

He then related what he had seen, and concluded with this prophetic remark: "If George Washington is not a man of God, I am greatly deceived; and still more shall I be deceived if God does not, through him work out a great salvation for America."

The True Digestive Huid or Gastric Juice

PREPARED from Rennet, or the fourth Stomach of the Ox, after directions of Baron Liestic, the great Physiological Chemist, by J. S. Houpboton, M. D., Philadelphia, Pa.

This is a truly wonderful remedy for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Liver Complaint, Constipation, and Debility, curing after Nature's own method, by Nature's own Agent, the Gastric Juice.

Half a teaspoonful of Pepsin, infused in water, will digest or dissolve, Five Pounds of Roast Beef in about two hours, out of the stomach.

will digest or dissolve, Five Pounds of Roast Beef in about two hours, out of the stomach.

Persus is the chief element, or Great Digesting Principle of the Gastric Juice—the solvent of the food, the purifying, preserving and stimulating agent of the stomach and intestines. It is extracted from the digestive stomach of the Ox, thus forming an Artificial Digestive Fluid, precisely like the natural Gastric Juice in its chemical powers, and furnishing a complete and perfect substitute for it By the aid of this preparation, the pains and evils of Indigestion and Dyspepsia are removed, just as they would be by a healthy stomach. It is doing wonders for dyspeptics, curing cases of Debility. wonders for dyspeptics, curing cases of Debility, Emaciation, Nervous Decline, and Dyspeptic Consumption; supposed to be on the verge of the grave The scientific evidence upon which it is based, is in the highest degree curious and remarkable.

SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE!

SOIENTIFIC EVIDENCE!

Baron Liebig in his celebrated work on Anima Chemistry, says: "An artificial Digestive Fluid, analogous to the Gastric Juice, may be readily prepared from the mucous membrane of the stomach of the calf, in which various articles of food, as meat and eggs, will be softened, changed, and digested, just in the same manner us they would be in the human stomach."

Dr. Pereira, in his tamous treatise on "Food and Diet," published by Fowler & Wells, New York, page 35, states the same great fact, and describes Diet," published by Fowler & Wells, New York, page 35, states the same great fact, and describes the method of preparation. There are few higher authorities than Dr. Pereira.

Dr. Combe, in his valuable writings on the "Physiology of Digestion," observes that "a diminution of the due quantity of the Gastric Juice is a prominent and all-prevailing cause of Dyspepsia," and he states that "a distinguished professor of medicine in Loudon, who was severely afflicted with this complaint, finding everything else to fail, had recourse to the Gastric Juice, obtained from the stomach of living animals, which proved completely successfull."

Dr. Graham, author of the famous works on "Vegetable Diet," says: "It is a remarkable fact in physiology, that the stomach of animals, macerated in water, impart to the fluid the property of rated in water, impart to the fluid the property of

OFFICE, No. 7. South FREDERICK Street, BALTIMORE, Md., on the left hand side, going from Baltimore street, 7 doors from the corner.—
Be particular in observing the name and number or you will mistake the place. you will mistake the place.

DR. JOHNSTON,
Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States and the greater part o whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, has affected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known. Many troubled with ringing in the ears and head when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, and bashfuness, with frequent blushing, attended, sometimes, with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE

Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by private and improper indilgencies, that secret and solutary habits, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either busines body and mind, unfitting them for either busines or society.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the back and limbs, Pains in the head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptome of Consumption, &c. Mentally.—The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded: Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil of Foreboding, Aversion of Society, Self Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c. are some of the evils produced.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the system, Nervous Debility and premature decay generally arises from the destructive habit of youth, that solitary practice so fatal to the healthful existence of man, and it is the young who are the most apt to become its Victims, from an ignorance of the dangers to which they subject themselves. Parents and Guardians are often misled with respect to the cause or source of disease in their sons and wards. Alas! how often do they ascribe to other causes the wasting of the frame, Palpitation of the Hea., Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Derangement of the Nervous System, Cough and Symptoms of Consumption, also those serious Mental effects, such as loss of Memory, Depression of Spirits or peculiar fits of Melancholy, when the truth is they have been caused by indulging Pernicious but alluring practices, destructive to both Body and Mind. Thus are swept from existence thousands who might have been of use to their country, a pleasure to their friends, an ornament to society. NERVOUS DEBILITY

WEAKNESS OF THE ORGANS immediately cured and full vigor restored.
Oh, how happy have hundreds of misguided youths been made, who have been suddenly restored to health from the devastations of those terrific maladies which result from indiscretion. Such maladies which result from indiscretion. Such persons, before contemplating MARRIAGE, should reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness. Indeed, without this, the journey throlite becomes a weary pilgrimage; the prospect hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair, and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own. Let no talso delicacy prevent you, but apply immediately. He who places himself under the care of Dr JOHNSTON, may religiously confide in his honor as a Gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a Physician
