Career of Spring, the Murderer. The New York Tribune gives the following account of the career of Arthur Spring, for the last six or seven years. Spring is an Irishman born—a confectioner by trade; he lived for a number of years and up to 1844-75 in the city of Philadelphia, after which he moved his family to New York and commenced the business of a refectory and liquor commenced in a basement two or three doors from the old Park Theatre. Within three months after he had opened this "place" in Park Row, he was arrested by the Police on a charge of having, in connection with another person, (still residing in New York.) enticed a sailor (the mate, we think,) of a york.) enticed a sailor (the mate, we talk,) of vessel, into his cellar at a late hour of night, knocked him down with a heavy club of wood, (wounding him nearly to death) and robbed him of $600 in gold coin. The evidence against Spring was not conclusive of guilt, but was sufficient to bind him in the sum of $1000 to appear and answer the charge. He procured bail and was released from the Toombs. Spring's family lived in some rooms in the rear of his place of businese, and soon after this charge against him his wife died in child-birth, (as it was said, but otherwise, as it was suspected,) leaving three small children, the eldest a son—the resent witness on the trial for murder-and two infant girls. In less than a month after the first charge, and within a few days after the death of his wife, Spring was again apprehended on a charge of having stolen, at night, in his cellar, (and al-most in the same manner the mate was robbed,) $200 and over from an emigrant lately arrived i the city. A part of the money was found conceal-ed under the steps leading into his rear yard. The offence was fixed upon him almost beyond doubt. Shortly after his arrest he confessed his guilt to Justice (then Clerk) Stuart, admitting also the per-petration of the other robbery—how it was done— who was concerned with him in the felony—in what manner they divided the money, and where what manner they divided in his share, (which on he had concealed the most of his share, (which on searching proved true.) declaring most solemnly that he had committed the second offence for the sole purpose of getting a sufficient amount of money to re-imburse the party first robbed, (his partner in the crime refusing to surrender back any portion of his share) so that the seaman might as he had promised, leave the city and not appear against him at the trial, and he be thereby preserved from State prison and saved to the care and protec tion of the children. Spring pleaded guilty to this second offence, and was sentenced six years in a elon's doom-at hard labor at Sing Sing-leaving leion's doom—at pard lator at Sing Sing—leaving his destitute and worse than orphan children friend-less and without protection. Mr. Stuart had them placed in the kind charge of Mrs. Foster, matron of the City Prison, where they remained for a num-ber of weeks, and were finally removed to the Alms House. Some six or ten months after it was learned that the wife of Spring had some relations, and among them an aunt, owner of some property, at or near Washington. On writing to her, Stuart rereived an answer that it the children could be sent on to Washington, proper charge would be taken of them by their mother's relatives. A small amount of money was raised, a trusty person employed, and these poor children-young Arthur with two smaller sisters-were forwarded to their friends and kindred. Five years passed, when one morning in the early part of December last, Ar-thur—a bright, intelligent lad, who had passed to the age of sixteen or seventeen years—presented himself to Justice Stuart (who was at once re-minded of the unhappy history-of father and fam-ily) stating that he was living an apprentice to a confectioner in Washington—that his sisters were both alive and with their friends-that he had along come on to New York to see if, by some means, he could not get his father pardoned the remaining year of his sentence from the State Prison—that he would have made the effort sconer, but was without money to pay his passage from Washington, and had only then become enabled, by a long and conous saving of all the small means he could hus-d. The magistrate, moved by the noble object of the boy, (who declared that nothing would make him so happy as to be able to take his father home with him to his little sister's) and upon his own knowledge of the whole matter wrote an earnes letter to Governor Hunt, with which the lad pro ceeded to Albany. It is almost needless to say that with a man like Governor Hunt, the brave and ceeded to Albany generous conduct and earnest, artless pleading o this manly and devoted stranger boy for the pardor of a parent so long confined in the dungeon of the State, did not fail of its object. The freed father and thankful child, with heart swollen by emotions of gratitude and bounding with hope in the joyful-anticipation of restoring a long lost parent to the little sisters he so much loved, with no delay left New York by way of Philadelphia for the city of Washington. The rest is known. And this is the son on whom the father now seeks to fix the of-

DEATH OF HATE AU.-Intelligence has been received from Vienna, Austria, of the death of General Haynau, famous for his alleged cruelties to the Hungarians in their late rebellion. We copy the following sketch of him from the New York Mir-

fence of a most diapolical murder, of which he

"Julius Baron Von Haynau, field marshal in the Austrian service, was born at Cassel in 1786. He of the Duke of Hesse by a goldwas a natural son of the Duky of Interest by a gold-smith's daughter. In early life he was so notorious for his eccentricities, as to be considered on the verge of insanity. He was educated at Cassel, and entered the Austrian army as lieutenant in 1801. In the campaign of 1805 he distinguished himself so much as to be promoted to the rank of Captain in one of the most notable regiments in the service. In 1813 he was elevated over his seniors to the rank of major, and acquired new laurels in the campaigns of Italy during 1813-14 for his brilliant audacity of tray during 1913-14 for ms birthant advanty and reckless bravery. Little was heard of him du-ing the peace which succeeded the downfall of Na-poleon, until the revolutionary ferment in 1848. in May, 1849, he was made commander in chiet of the Austrian army in Hungary and Transylvania. He it was who led the Austrian army in that san guinary conflict, which terminated in the utter de feat of the Hungarian cause. Gorgey surrendered and the disgraceful cruelties with which Haynau treated the captive Hungarians, both women and men, are fresh in every mind. Since his disgrace at the Court of Vienna in 1850, he has spent his time in travelling over Europe."

THE CUMBERLAND VALLEY TRADE.—The Phil adelphia North American says that the Cumberland Valley trade has lately been the theme of some discussion in that city, and in noticing the fact that both branches of the Legislature of Maryland have just passed an act supplementary to the Charter of the Carroll and Frederick Railroad Company, by which the name of that corporation is changed to that of the Western Maryland Railroad Company and the stockholder's liability clause is rescinded

The road is intended to connect with the Baltimore and Susquehanna Railroad, from which it is to extend, by way of Westminster, to Hagerstown, there to unite with the road leading thence to Chambersburg. When this road is made, Baltimore will possess a short and direct communication with the Cumberland Valley, and the trade of that fertile and prosperous region will become, in a greater or less degree, tributary to the merchants of our southern neighbor. The Company having obtained the tavorable legislation which they have been seeking, will now devote their attention to The road is intended to connect with the Baltiobtained the tavorable legislation which they have been seeking, will now devote their attention to the speedy construction of the road. These things should awaken the earliest attention of our State authorities, and prompt them to remove those onerous burdens which weigh so heavily en the trade of the Cumberland Valley with Philadelphia. Unless this is done speedily, that trade will be entirely lost the to State works, and an important source of profit allowed to be monopolized by Maryland.

THE BURNING COAL MOUNTAIN .- That portion of the Broad Mountain, called the "Fiery Mountain," from the fact of the Anthracite coal at that Gingham, Lawn and Chintz, English Crapes, point being on fire-which has been burning the last fifteen years, is situated about five miles from Minersville and fifteen from Schuylkill Haven. April 5-6t-11 It is now considered a very dangerous experiment to travel over the mountain, as it is supposed that in many places the surface is a mere superficial shell, the coal having been consumed up to the surface, and hence the least pressure thereon, it is presumed, might break through and let the adventurer down into the fiery chasm below. At the base of the mountain in one place a stream of water almost boiling hot comes out. The surface of the mountain presents a desolate appearance as far as the eye can reach. The mountain is either cracked, burned or broken into numerous and fearful depths by the approach of the fires to the upper stratum; roots and trunks of the lofty trees charred and blackened, mingling their pyroligneous odor with the sulphurous vapors from the hot caves and crevices around. The calcined bones of birds, reptiles, and small quadrupeds, lie here and there, half mixed with the mineral ashes, to fill up the blasted view, while amidst the vast scene of desolation may be seen a solitary wood-flower, springing from its perpetual "hot bed," and presenting in the uncongenial atmosphere, a mockery of bloom. It is now considered a very dangerous experimen atmosphere, a mockery of bloom.

HARRISBURG, March 28th, 1853.—The State Senate to-day passed a resolution authorizing the Governor and Legislature of Maryland, and Mayor and City Council of Baltimore to visit the State Capitol at some future time to be fixed upon, as guests of the State. The resolution has also passed the House.

OUR FOREIGN MINISTERS .- The following is among the instructions givin by the government to our representatives abroad, in regard to the dress demeanor, &c. "From a proper degree of respect to what is un derstood to be the usages adopted by some governments, requiring the members of the diplomatic body accredited near them to wear a court dress on certain occasions such as their presentation the sovereign or chief executive officers, the President has thought proper to adopt the following as the dress to be used by the diplomatic agents of the United States upon all occasions, being recommend United States upon all observations, being recommended as well by its comparative cheapness as by its adaptation to the simplicity of our institutions, viz.

—A black coat, with a gold star on each side of the collar near its termination; the underclothes to be black or white, at the option of the wearer; a be black or white, at the option of the wearer; a three cornered chapeau de bras, with a black cock three cornered chapeau de bras, with a black cock-ade and gold eagle; and a steel mounted sword, with a white scabbard. It is to be understood how-ever that the use of this particular dress is not pre-scribed by the President. It is barely suggested as an appropriate and convenient uniform dress for the diplomatic agents of the United States residing and natic agents of the United States residing near oreign governments." Among the important duties of a minister, or ther diplomatic agents of the United States in foreign countries, is that of transmitting to his own government accurate information of the policy and views of that to which he is accredited, and of the character and vicissitudes of its important relations with other powers. "To acquire this information, and particularly o discriminate between that which is authentic and hat which is spurious, requires steady and impar tial observation, a free though cautious correspondence with the other agents of the United States abroad, and friendly social relations with the mem bers of the diplomatic body at the same place."

CONSUMPTION.

Fall the numerous medicines extant, (and some of them valuable) for the cure of pulmonary complaints, nothing have ever been tound which could compare in its effects with this preparation. Others cure sometimes, but at all times and in all diseases of the lungs and throat where medicine can give relief, this will do it. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe in accordance with the directions. We do not advertise for the information of those who have tried it but those who have not. Families that have knownits value will not be without it, and by its timely use, they are secure from the danserous consequences of Coughs and Celds which neglected, ripen into fatal consumption.

the providence of God, I will take the interly to express to you my gratitude.

A cough of the alarming symptoms of Consumption had reduced me too low to leave me anything like hope, when my physician brought me a bottle of your "Pectoral." It seemed to afford immediate relief, and now in a few weeks time has restored me to sound health. If it will do for others what it has done for me, you are certainly one of the benefactors of mankind.

Dr. Ayer:—In the month of July last I was attacked by a violent diarrhea in the mines of California. I returned to San Francisco in hope of receiving benefit from a change of climate and diet. My diarroa ceased, but was followed by a severe cough—and more soreness. I finally started for home, but received no benefit from the voyage.—

My cough continued to grow worse, and when I arrived in New York, I was at once marked by my acquaintances as a victim of consumption. I must confess that I saw no sufficient reason to doubt what my friends all believed. At this time I commenced taking your truly invaluable medicine with little expectation of deriving any benefit from its use. You would not receive these lines did I not regard it my duty to state to the afflicted, through you, that, my health, in the space of eight months, is fully restored. I attribute it to the use of your Cherry Pectoral.
