MAYING AND MARRYING.

- No more, as in the ages gone,
- No more, as in the ages gone,
  To celebrate a rite,
  When May, led by the opal dawn,
  Descends in rosy light—
  Come forth, in festive year, a throng,
  With bells and garlands gay.
  And round a Maypole join in song,
  To greet the "merry May."
- No more, as in that gladsome time, Are posies tied with 'slue, In lovers' knots, marked with a rhyme, "Forever true to you!" 'Tis Love's devise; in every flower
- He lurks, unseen, at play, Alluring hearts, with cunning power, As trophies for the May. To build a throne and bridal bower,
- To build a throne and brian lower,
  Glad triends their offerings bring;
  The brightest gems in tree and flower
  Worn on the breast of Spring.
  Sweet-smelling briar and primrose pale,
  Daisy and hawthorn fair;
  Wild flowers, from every hill and dale,
  Perlume the balmy air.
- The trees are set, and overspread
  With canopy of green,
  Festooned with roses white and red,
  To shade the lovely Queen.
  Harmless and happs were the days
  When May, with grateful smile,
  Watched o'er the games and sportive plays
  Youth lavished at her shrine.
- The Queen of Beauty and of May, With bridal charlet crowned,
- Rejoices Love's congenial day
  In vlay's sweet grace is found,
  Conducted to the rural throne,
  Her maidens round her stand; A picture Nature proudly owns As painted by her hand.
- She rises, blushing like a bride,
- She rises, blushing like a blue,
  Her royal part to play;
  The May King comes to share the pride
  And honors of the day.
  He kneels before the bashful Queen,
  By her fair hand is crowned;
  The village bells ring out a peal,
  And flowers are strewed around!
- Marriage, creation's wisest plan,
- Morriage, creation's wisest plan,
  No change thy strength can move;
  Heaven's best gift, still come to man,
  With blessings from above.
  The varied cares and ills of life,
  Have loca their venomed sting;
  Since every useful, loving wife,
  An antidote will bring. Hail, Queen of May! is sung and said,
- With shouts that rend the air,
  While o'er the green all lightly tread,
  Lod by the happy pair.
  At church; their vows of love are paid,
  And home they wend their way.
  With gleesome swains and tittering maids,
  To spend the wedding day.
- These simple rustles of the vale
  Taste happiness complete,
  In breaking cake and quafing ale,
  The bridegroom's welcome treat,
  Sweet sylvan scences, by love adorned,
  Thine artless poys have flown;
  A fashive charge negative's score
- At fashion's shrine cheap pleasure's scorned, ... And Maying's vulgar grown!

LEGEND OF THE PIASAU.

From near the mouth of the Illinois river to th of Alton, on the left bank of the Mississipp are a series of romantic cliffs, intersected occa ally by ravines. The principal break is caused by seem like ruinous towers and ancient castles, the walls of which are crumbling and falling under the destroying hand of time.

Caverns abound in these cliffs, some ot but : caverns abound in these cliffs, some of but a few feet in extent; others more spacious ramify in different directions, and form labyrinths and turnings for hundreds of yards. In these caves are found human bones, the relics of an aboriginal race, and the horse of extends here historials and the horse of extends and the historials. and the bones of animals and birds, which in our uncultivated imagination inspire sentiments

Thirty years since some rude outlines of a picture on red paint could be seen from the river on the smooth surface of a perpendicular cliff, not far above the present city of Alton; and a nearer view could direct the form of a monster—half-bird and half-beast, with expanded wings of gigantic proportions. This was a representation of one of the Manuface of aboriging worship to which the Inmonetoes of aboriginal worship, to which the Indians, as they passed in their bark canoes, never failed to pay their adorations. Their mode of worship was firing their guns towards the monster, smoking their calamuts, and dropping tobacco and other precious articles into the river, to propitiate

The legend of the Piasau has been published in var ous forms. The best one we have seen was written by J. Russell, Esq., of Bluffdale, Illinois, and be found in the "Family Magazine," publish ed in Cincinnati about fiteen years since. We obtained the following version of the story from Gosah, an intelligent Oh-ta-wah Indian, in 1829, who assured the writer that "Indian traditions," which many have relied on for history, are the fictitious productions of the imaginative, or-cultivated savages. Only think of the grave tesnonials of writers on the manners and custo of the Indians, who affirm that mothers teach their paposes the exploits of their ancestors as veritable lacts! Like the nursery tales of our ancestors of the achievements of "Jack the Giant Killer," and the horrid murders of Blue Beard," their storis are all fictitious legends. Savages take delight in nar rating stories of hideous and monstrous imagery.—

The legend of the Piasau runs thus:

Many thousand moons before the pale faces came over the great salt water, and when none but red skins roamed over the beautiful meadows and crept through the forests along the "Great River," a monster, balf-bird—half-beast, appeared on these maccessible cliffs, and made his abode in the carerns beneath. He was called Pi-a-sau; or, "De-vourer of Men." His body was of gigantic size, and covered with feathers and long shaggy, black hair. When he passed between the sun and earth, hair. Which he passed the sky; his head and beak were shaped like those of a vulture, but large enough to swallow a dear at a mouthful. His large enough to swantow a deat at a mountain. His large eyes shone like balls of fire, and when he moved in the air the noise of his wings was like distant thunder. The monster had lour legs, and his enormous talons would take up a buffalo, elk, deer, or other animal, and carry them to the top of the highest cliffs. The Indians were horrified with terminating the hoffel bear elk and deer, revolvided by and the buffalo, bear, elk and deer, provided b the Kitche-Moneto for the feasts of the red men, dis appeared from the range of the Piasau.

The real character of this monster soon became known; for as the old men and most distinguished braves assembled in council, aided by all the great "medicine men," with their conjurations, to learn the object of his visit, and precribe the proper forms of adorations, they were horror-struck, for the rumbling wings of the Piasau were heard; a tremendous scream shook the forests and echoed ones the prairies as he propused on one of their the rumbling wings of the Piasau were heard; a gentleman of that city has been appointed Agent tremendous scream shook the forests and echoed of the Panama: Railroad Company, at a salary of over the prairies as he pounced on one of their $60,000 a year; in addition to which four Insur most noted braves, and bore aloft his mangled body. Ance Companies have agreed to pay him: $10,000 to the cavern in the cliffs. From this time, men, a year-making: $40,000. Total amount of sala, women, and even young children, were gorged alivary per annum; One Hundred Thousand Dollars!

by the voracious monster, as he roamed abroad for his prey. The more he tasted human blood, the more voracious he appeared to the terror-stricken Indians. WAH-WAH-TAM was the chief of the Ot-tah-wah mation, and he had obtained that station by his wisdom as a counsellor and his prowess as a brave,. In sullen silence he brooded oversthe ravages of the Piasau, and witnessed the fearful calamity of his people, and the loss of all his sons by the man devouring bird. He called together the chief medicine men," retired with them in to the sacred enclosure, and fasted many days to obtain the favor f the Kitche-Moneto, and learn how the monste bird, the "devourer of men," could be destroyed o driven from the cliffs.

The mode was pointed out in a dream. A noble victim from the bravest warriors must offer himself a sacrifice, while twenty others, equally brave and vittuous, armed with their stoutest bows and ceremonies, the twenty braves appeared armed lor tne terrible contest. None knew who was to be the victim, until Wah-wah-tam presented himself, his face painted with alternate stripes of black and red, and clad with a buffalo robe, which was dressed and decorated in the most approved style. His head was crowned with the skin of an eagle, ris nead was crowned with the skin of an eagle, interwoven with a garland of long red and black feathers! The expostulation of the chiefs, and the low, monotonous wailing of the females, availed nothing; for Wah-tah-tam had resolved to be the He sproke: the Kitche-Moneto is angry with his children, the Ottah-wahs, and has left us to gorge the appetite of the Pissau. I have fasted and dreamed, and he demands the sacrifice. I am like a dry tree without branches leaves. All my chil-dren are gone, andwere I not to become the vic-tim, in a few moons I must visit my father in the spirit land; and my bones will mingle with the dust of the prairie. I have again fasted, and prayed, and dreamed; my heart is strong; I will be the victim." The low wailing of the women ceased;—and sign of approbation was given by the chiefs; Wahbegan to chant his death-song, as with fearless steps he marched to the place of sacrifice. His tall form was seen standing on the beetling cliff, his eyes qualled not, nor was there the least faltering in the cadence of his full voice, nor a rattering in the cadence of his luft voice, not at tremor in his muscles, when the thundering noise of the wings of the Pissau was heard on its approach. And as the monster-bird performed his gyrations in the air, above the place where he stood, and descended nearer and nearer to the victim; the same firm erect position maintained, while the steady eye of the strong-hearted warrior followed the Piasau in his circuitous descent, and the full toned song echoed along the cliffs.

At that perilous moment twenty barbed arrows pierced the monster, which in attempting to escape fell over the edge of the cliff, and was never seen Wah-wah-tam stood unharmed, and the Kitche-Moneto put forth his face from behind the clouds, and smiled, clouds, and smiled.

The legend supposes the monster-bird that devoured men escaped into a vast cavern under the earth, towards the head of the stream that perpetuates its name, where he still lives; but dares not make his appearance on the earth any more, since the booming of cannon, and the sharp crack of the rifle of palce faces have echoed along these cliffs. Doubtless, the snorting of the scape pipe and the splashing of the steam monsters of the "great river," the whistle of the engineer, and the astounding coar of the railroad cars, from Alton to Springfield that pass directly over his den, will exterminate this monster, and its name alone be handed down to future generations.

A NEW SYSTEM OF MEDICINE. - The Carlisle Democrat' reports the following case, tried at the last Cumberland Quarter Sessions:—Commonwealth vs. Dr. Waggoner. This was a very amue the doctor being indicted for obtaining money under false pretences, by the following "cute" stratagem in the healing art, played off upon his patient. He told his patient, who was a consumppatient. He told his patient, who was a consumptive, evidently pretty lar gone, that he could, by invoking the assistance of the Holy Spirit and three private interviews, cure him, or he (the doctor) would have no share with God, which the patient was areally as a county to help the county of the second state of the second s wonto have no snare with God, which the patient was credulous enough to believe, and granted the doctor the first interview, whereupon the doctor asked for a black thread, measured the sick man's ally by ravines. The principal break is caused by a sked for a black threat, incasting the head small creek about ten miles above the city of Alsmall creek above the city of small creek about ten miles above the city of Art and a small piece of the gentleman's old shirt tail, which were all produced, when the doctor in a manbluffs near,St. Charl's, these castellated cliffs present a variety of fantastic shapes, and furnish a lively imagination a ware and ancient easiles, the upon earth, stitched the panacea in the waist-band of the man's breeches, and told him now to produce every cent of money he had in the world which modest request was also complied with, the doctor deliberately selecting first a two dollar note, then a five, telling his patient that a five dollar note was no better than a two, and then selected two gold dollars and some silver, amounting in all to twelve dollars and twenty-five cents, asking his very dutiful patient to make choice between these two propositions, "to continue in the deficit, or wish the selected money to pass out of his sight." Health was of course wished for, and the doctor pocketed the dust to get it out of the man's sight; and to do the dust to get it out of the man's sight; and to do this more effectually he thought it advisable to leave for parts unknown. This arrant old villain escaped upon legal grounds. The Court telling the > HORSE-HATE SNAKES .- Concerning these sinuo and attenuated entities, Dr. Gideon B. Smith ad-dresses the following communication to our con-dresses the following communication to our contemporary of the Patriot:

"I would suggest to the citizens of Baltimore a very simple plan for straining all their hydrant water, which, at this season of the year, is a matter of some importance to delicate palates. Take about a quarter of a yard square of good fine flannel, and tie it firmly over the mouth of the hydrant spout, leaving a small sack or bag. of the size of a goose egg, in the centre of the flannel. The writer has fixed his hydrant in this way, and it proves perfectly effectual. At this time, the little horse-hair snake or cel is very abundant in all the streams and pools of water, and frequently makes its appearance in the hydrant water, and the above plan will certainly catch it. This little reptile is believed to be perfectly harmless. It is generally supposed to ance in the ayrant water, and the above plan will certainly catch it. This little reptile is believed to be perfectly harmless. It is generally supposed to be perfectly harmless. It is generally supposed to be produced from horse-hair that has fallen into the water. This is of course a ridiculous common error. It is, like all other organized beings, animal or vegetable, a regular organized animal, propagated by its own kind. Its scientific name is gordius aquaticus. At the present time, and for a flow weeks to come, it appears nearly white, or like a thread of gloss or white horse-hair, only a little longer.—
It is very active, swimming about rapidly. It has probably just cast off its old skin. In a week or two its will be dark brown or nearly black, somewhat like a piece of dark colored horsehair, from two or three to five or six inches long. I have had several of those reptiles brought to me lately, and many inquiries made respecting them. The above plan will effectually prevent their being swallowed. All pools and streams of water in the Middle and Southern States are equally inhabited by them.

CLIMBING STAIRS BY STRAM.—We find the following item in the papers. It is something new:

"A hotel is about to be erected in Albany eight stories high A person seated in an elegantly arraged car, strikes the bell to indicate the floor to raged car; strikes the belt to indicate the host which he desires to be conveyed, whereupon by means of a steam "dummy," they are elevated to the proper terminus in double quick time, thereby obviating the difficulty experienced in 'getting upstairs.'

A ROUED SALARY .- The New York Mirror says

Flogging an Editor.

About twenty years ago, when a certain West-rn State (which we shall not name) was a territory, and with very few inhabitants, a young law-yer from one of the old States emigrated thither, and settled in the town of K——. He succeeded admirably in his profession, and rose rapidly in popular favor. He had been there nearly two years, when he had induced a printer to come and print when he had induced a printer to come and print a weekly paper, of which he was the editor and proprietor. Squire S—— was much pleased for a while with editing a paper. He was a man of very low stature, but he used the editorial "we" as frequently as if there was a dozen of them, and each as big as Daniel Lambert or the Kentucky giant. Strange to say, there were men at that time in office who were not a particle more hon est than they should be—a thing which probably never happened before, and never will again. Squire S—— felt all the patriotism of a son of 76, and self a sacrifice, while twenty others, equally self a sacrifice, while twenty others bows and sharpest arrows, must conceal themselves near the place of sacrifice. The victim must go forth voluntarily, and stand on a projecting cliff, where the terrible destroyer of men could seize him, while the hidden braves should let fly their arrows at the monster.

In fact, though pointed at no one individual in particular, it was a scorcher. Some three or four days after, he was sitting in his educrial office, which was a quarter of a mile from the said printing establishment. His pen was busy with a paragraph, when the door opened without made agreement and in stalked a man about six

Thinking he had ound a new patron, the little man, with one of his blandest smiles, answered in the affirmative. It was in vain that S.— protested that he had never heard of him before. The wrath of

he had never heard of nim before. The wration the visitor rose to fever heat, and from being so long restrained, boiled over with double fury. He gave the choice, either to publish a very humble recapitation, or take a flogging on the spot. He agreed to retract, and as the visitor insisted on writing it himself, he sat down to his desk.— Squire S made an excuse to go the printing effice, with a promise that he would be back in season to sign it as soon as it was finished. Shad hardly, gone fifty yards when he encountered a man who inquired where Squire S—'s office was and it he was at home. Suspecting that he was on the same errand as the other suitor, he pointed o the office, and told him that he would find the editor within writing a most abusive article agains office-holders. This was enough. The eyes of the former flashed fire. He rushed into the office, and assailed the stranger with the epithets "liar," "scoundrel," "coward," and told him he would teach him how to write. The gentleman suppo-sing it was some bully sent there by the editor, sprang to his feet and a fight ensued. The table vas upset and smashed into kindling wood—the contents of a large jug of ink stood puddled on the floor—the chairs had their legs and backs broken beyond the skill of surgery to cure them. This seemed to inspire the combatants with still greater fury, blow followings blow with the rapidity of lightning. First one was kicked on the floor, then The ink on the floor had found its way to their faces till both of them cut the most ridiculous figures imaginable. The noise and uproar was tremen-The neighbors ran to the door, and exclaimed that two negroes were fighting in Squire Soffice. None dared to sep rate them. At length the circumstances became known, and the next day hardly able to sit on horseback, their heads bound up, they started homewards, convinced that they had obtained very little satisfaction from their at-

I never could see the reason why your smart ousekeeper must, of necessity, be Nantippes. I once had the misfortune to be domesticated during the summer months with one of this genus. I should like to have seen the adventurous spider that would have dared to play his cunning trade in Mrs. Caroit's premises! Nobody was allowed to sleep a wink after daylight beneath the roof. Even her old rooster crowed one hour earlier than any of her neighbors. 'Go ahead' was written on every

She gave her husband his breakfast, buttoned him up in his overcoat, and put him out of the front door, with his face in the direction of the store, n less time than I have taken to tell it. Another Scientific Wonder! GREAT CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA! DR J. E. HOUGH CON'S

The True Digestive Fluid or Gastric Juice

The True Digestive Fluid or Gastric Jules

PREPARED from Rennet, or the tourth Stomach of the Ox, after directions of Bason Liesia, the great Physiological Chemist, by J. S. Hough Jton, M. D., Philadelphia, Pa.

This is a truly wonderful remedy for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Liver Complaint, Constitution, and Debility, curing after Nature's own method, by Nature's own Agent, the Gastric Juice.

Half a teaspoonful of Pepsin, infused in water, will digest or dissolve, Five Pounds of Rosat Beef in about two hours, out of the stomach.

Persun is the chief element, or Great Digesting Principle of the Gastric Juice—the solvent of the lood, the purifying, preserving and sumulating agent of the stomach and intestines. It is extracted from the digestive stomach of the Ox, thus term-agent of the stomach and intestines. It is extracted from the digastive stomach of the Ox, thus ferming an Artificial Digestive Fluid, precisely like the natural Gastric Juice in its chemical powers, and furnishing a complete and perfect substitute for it By the aid of this preparation, the pams and evils of Indigestion and Dyspepsia are removed, just as they would be by a healthy stomach. It is doing wonders for dyspeptics, curing cases of Debitty, Emsciation, Nervoes Decline, and Dyspeptic Consumption, supposed to be on the verge of the grave The acientific, evidence upon which it is based, is in the highest degree curious and remarkable.

**SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE!**

in the highest degree curious and remarkable.

SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE!

Baron Liebig In his celebrated work on Anima Chemistry, says: "An unificial Digeative Fluid, analogous to the Gustric Juice, may be readily prepared from the mucous membrane of the stomach of the call, in which various articles of food, as meat and eggs, will be softened, changed, and digested, just in the same manner as they would be in the human stomach."

Dr. Pereza, in his tamous treatise on "Food and Dr. Pereira, in his tamous treatise on " Food and Diet," published by Fowler & Walls, New York, page 35, states the same great fact, and describes the method of preparation. There are few higher authorities than Dr. Pereira.

Dr. Combe, in his valuable writings on the "Physiology of Digestion," observés that "a dimination of the due quantity of the Gastric Juce is a prominent and all-prevailing cause of Dyspepsia," and he states that "a distinguished professor of medicine in London, who was severely afflicted with this complaint, finding everything else to fail, had recourse to the Gastric Juice, obtained from the stomach of living animals, which proved com-pletely successfull."

pletely successfull."

Dr. Graham, author of the famous works on "Vegetable Diet," says: "It is a remarkable fact in physiology, that the stomachs of animals, macerated in water, impart to the fluid the property of dissolving va. ous articles of food, and of effecting a kind of artificial digestion of them in nowise diffreent mro the natural digestive process."

AS A DYSPEPSIA CURER. AS A DYSPEPSIA CURER,

Dr. HOUGHTON'S PEPSIN has produced the most marvellous effects, in curing cases of Debdity,
Emaciation, Nervons Dectine, and Dyspeptic
Consumption. It is impossible to give the details of cases in the limits of this advertisement; but of cases in the limits of this advertisement; but authenticated certificates have been given of more than? Two Hundred Remarkable Cures, in Philadelphia, New York and Boston alone. These were nearly all desperate cases, and the cures were not only rapid and wonderful, but permanent.

It is a great Nervous Antidote, and particularly useful for tendency to Billious disorder, Liver Complaint, Fever and Ague, or badly treated Fever and Ague, and the evil effects of Quinne, Mercury and other drugs upon the Digestive Organs, after a long sickness. Also, for excess in eating, and the too free use of ardent spirits. It almost reconciles health with intemprance.

OLD STOMACH COMPLAINTS.
There is no form of Old Stomach Complaints which it does not seem to reach and remove at once. No matter how had they may be, it gives once. No matter how bad they may be, it gives mestant relief! A single dose removes all the unpleasant symptome; and it only needs to be repeated short for a time to make these good effects permanent. Purity of Blood and Vigor of Body follow at once. It is particularly excellent in cases of Naussa, Vomiting, Cramps, Soreness of the pit of the Stomach, distress after eating, low, cold state of the Blood. Heaviness, Lowness of Sprins, Despondency. Emaciation, Weakness, tendency to insanity, Suicide &c.

Dr HOUGHTON'S PEPSIN is sold by nearly all the dealers in fine drugs and Popular Vedicines.
