A MOTHER'S PRAYER IN ILLNESS.

BY MRs. OSCOOD.

Yzs! take them first, my Father! Let my dove Fold their white wings in Heaven, safe on th breast, 'Ere I am called away! I dare not leave Their young hearts here, their innocent, thought

Ah! how the shadowy train of future ills Ah! how the shadowy train of future ills Comes sweeping down life's vista, as I gaze!
My May! my careless, ardent-tempered May!
My frank and frolic child! in whose blue eyes
Wild joy and passionate woe alternate rise;
Whose cheek, the mourning in her soul illumes;
Whose little, loving heart, a word, a glance,
Can sway to grief or glee; who leaves her play
And puts up her sweet mouth and dimpled arms
Each meant for a kins and softly asks Each moment, for a kiss, and softly asks, With a clear, flute-like voice, "Do you love me Ah! let me stay! ah, let me still be by, Ah! let me stay! ah, let me still be by,
To answer her, and meet her warm caress!
For, I away, how oft, in this rough world,
That earnest question will be asked in vain!
How oft that eager, passionate, petted heart
Will shrink abashed and chilled, to learn, at length
The hateful, withering lesson of distrust!
Ah! let her nestle still upon this breast,
In which each shade that dims her daring fabe
Left and answered, as the lake reflects Is felt and answered, as the lake reflects The clouds that cross you smiling Heaven!

And thou. My modest Elien! tender, thoughtful, true; Thy soul attuned to all sweet harmonies; My pure, proud, noble Ellen! with thy gifts of genius, grace and loveliness half hidden. 'Neath the soft veil of innate modesty: How will the world's wild discord reach thy heart To startle and appal? Thy generous scorn
Of all things base and mean—thy quick, keen taste,
Dainty and delicate—thy instinctive fear
Of those un worthy of a soul so pure
Thy rare, unchildlike dignity of mien,
All—they will all bring pain to thee, my child.

And oh! if ever their grace and goodness mee Cold looks and careless greetings, how will all The latent evil yet undisciplined The latent evil yet undisciplined
In their young, timid souls, forgiveness find?
Forgiveness and forbearance, and soft chidings,
Which.1, their mother, learn'd, of love, to give,
Ah! let me stay! albeit my heart is weary,
Weary and worn, tired of its own sad beat,
That finds no echo in this busy world
Which cannot pause to answer—tired, alike,
Of joy and sorrow—of the day and night!
Ah! take them First, my Father! and then me;
And for their sakes—for their sweet sakes, m
Father!

Let me find rest beside them, at Thy feet!

SOLOMON SWALLOW: THE WOMAN TAMER.

"Rule a wife and have a wife." colomon Swallow was a bachelor, and a rusty one too ; but nevertheless he had made up his mis to one thing, that he was the only man living who had acquired any knowledge of the art of taking care of a wife. "All the married men are dolts," was Solomon's constant assevration. "There, for instance, is my neighbor; Tom Tangible; his wife makes a sort of a three legged stool of him; she moves him in one corner, and then in another, and n him and walks on him as if he was nobody sits on him and walks on him as in he was hobody in the house; while he, poor man, takes it as easy as though it was the most natural thing in the world. Now if I were only Tom Tangible, I'd first write a series of matrimonal articles, and if Mrs T didtha hide by them. I'd submit her to the whole-T. did'nt abide by them, I'd submit her to the wholeome discipline of bread and water and a padlock and might, perhaps, brighten her ideas, touchingher conjugal duties, by the application of a good cowhide. And there again are Evert Easy, Dick Snooks, and a host more of them in the same condition, but I, I'm the boy that will set them all right, if they only follow my example, after I have o ed to endow some fortunate female with the lega claim to the title of Mrs. Swallow." Brave Solomon Swallow! "Well, Solomon," said a neighbor to him o morning, "as you are always boasting of your skill in managing of a wife, how comes it that you are:

"Why, because I have not perfected my system
You poke your head into the noose without making any preparation, and hence Mrs. Everty makes what she likes of you. But I go to work logically begin by studying the erudite works of Zingrubazo, "On the philosophy of woman's holding her tongue." I then read several treatises "on the ef tongue. I chair teat extend the property of the feet of bread and water dicipline in making good wives." Shakespeare's "Taming a Shrew," furnished me with a few excellent lessons. And I am now generalizing all their systems into one, which shall carry the sway in all future generations, and convert the plague of matrimony In the course of a year or so," added Solomon, "my rules for the regulation of a woman (I intend to publish them.) will be completed, and then I shall the man the man in the man the man them is the man the

And Solomon was as good as his word, for at the age of thirty-five, (feeling himself prepared to give battle to any woman in or out of the land of Amazons,) he got married. At this important pe-ried, Solomon was as puffy, comfortable looking a little fellow as you'd meet in a day's walk, for al-beit the crown of his head never stood full five feet rom the heel of his boots, he was of proportions that would have done honor to an alderman, or even a lord mayor; and his gait, (especially when walking with anything in the likeness of a woman,) was as pompous as a Sultan's, while at such times his countenance always assumed at exession that could not have brooked the approach of female familiarity, The lady whom Solomon had chosen for his "worser half," was apparently a lamb like creature, so that the chances w fair that she would not only be a tractable wite but that Solomon would require no help from his system to make her so. Now Solomon had the forbearance not to inter fere with his lady's sayings and doings at the wed-ding, nor is it recorded that he assumed especial authority on the next night either, but about six o'clock next morning, he softly insinuated to his sleeping partner that it was time to get up. "And," he added, "when breakfast is ready, you may come and tell me, but be sure and not burn the toast."

"Breakfast and toast," said Mrs. Swallow, "why, what do you mean ? " Why, my dear, I mean, madam, that I have be-

Mrs. Swallow was about to reply, but she checked herself, as she was ashamed to say much to him on so short an acquaintance; but though in the present instance she did precisely as she was bid, she resolved in her heart that it was the last time she would get up at six o'clock in the morn ing to prepare oreakiast.

At eight o'clock, everything being ready, Mrs.
Swallow called Mr. Swallow.

"Breakfast is ready, Mr. Swallow."

"Is the toast made?"

"Yes"

Not burned?"

Are my stockings aired ?"

You'll do, quoth Mr. Swallow," and to breakfast he went, having received the services of the blushing Mrs. Swallow to assist him in dressing. The breakfast, however, did not turn out to be the thing it had been cracked up for. The toast was done a little too much, and the tea was it done quite enough, the slop bowl was at the wrong end of the tray; and there were several crumbs on the carpet.

"The servant has'nt been here this morning," "Yes," returned the lady, "and you may call me (Va.) Express.

yesterday. You don't think I can afford to keep a servant and a wife, too!" The lady was again posed, and said nothing; but the day wore to its close before she brought herself to the belief that Mr. Swallow had actually made use of the words " servant " and " wife" in the same

The next morning at six o'clock, Mr. Swallow again informed his wife that it was time to get up, coupling the remark with the suggestion that in laure she must save him the trouble of reminding her of so necessary a duty.

Mrs. Swallow, however, benefited nothing by this soft insinuation, for at that moment she either was, or pretended to be, fast locked in the arms of sponse from Mrs. Swallow.

But alas! a slight consciousness was the only response from Mrs. Swallow.

Now this was a ticklish point with Solomon, but he was prepared for it—"What says my system on this nead?" said he to himself musingly. "It says that a lazy wife who lays abed in the morning, may have a morning that he is a second of the same than the the sam that a lazy wife who lays abed in the morning, may be very properly reminded of her duty by the judicious application of a coercion pin." And this magnificent tidea had scarcely crossed the threshold of his brain pan, than he inserted the point of a huge pin in the right arm of the sleeper. As might be expected, the infended effect instantly followed the se, for the astonished Mrs. Swallow sprang from the bed as though she had been thrown from it by housand pieces.

"What a dreadful dream," ejaculated Mrs. Swallow, pressing her left hand on the wounded arm.
"What a dreadful reality," shouted Mr. Swallow,

"Now Mrs. Swallow," said Solomon, "seeing that I can't lie awake to call you up in the morning or eat burnt toast, or drink raw tea, &c., it is time I should begin to instruct you in your duties."

"And what are those, Mr. Swallow?" "Be silent, madam, if you please, not to talk but o listen, is one of the most important of them.

And Mr. Swallow looking daggers at her for the cond interruption proceeded: "From six till eight, you are to get up, dress quietly, so as to create no disturbance, light a fire, iir clothing and stockings, sweep rooms, prepare

"Mr. Swallow!"

"You're a brute!" and Mrs. Swallow threw her-Now this was a climax. Mr. Swallow was called a brute at his own fireside, and by his own wife, which was the worst of all. He, Solomon Swalthe celebrated founder of a system of Matri nonial Observations, called a brute, and by no le nerson than Mrs. Swallow. At first he was a astonished at such open manifestation of rebellio to his royal will, that he only looked aghast; bu when he came to himself, he saw that something oust be done at once; or the field was lost forever "I did, Mr. Swallow."

"A brute?" 'I'll go mad and break things, Mrs. Swallow."

"As you like sir." And Mr. Swallow did go mad, but he had a method in his madness, for he seized the cheapest articl of delf that was on the table, (an old plate with crack in it,) and dashed it into a thousand pieces on the hearth, as if he was in a tremendous passion "How do you like that, Mrs. Swallow?

"Vastly, Mr. Swallow try it again."

And again he did try it, (for he had become monstrous desperate) and he demolished the cream

"Now," said the lady, "it is my turn," and jumping up she sent the slop bowl to keep compawith its tea table companions.

This was of course too much for Solomon. little reason he had left, and he slapped his help mate—we use the word in its most positive term —on her right cheek; but scarcely had the echo of the blow melted into silence, ere the indignant dame seized the tea pot and shivered it into atoms against the head of the devoted Mr. Swallow. Nor was this all, for as he was rolling heels over head from the effect of the awful collision, she plied the remainder of the tea traps, until there was scarcely a bone in his body which had not echoed to the shock of cups and saucers, and rounds of butters

Unable to carry the war on any longer for that day, Solomon gathered himself up as well as he could, and vowing vengeance, he stuck his pipe in mouth and his hands in his pockets, and then com-menced whistling a jig to the tune the old cow died on, looking as if he could bite a piece out of the griddle, without setting his teeth on edge. His good lady, too, being determined to follow t example of her lord and master in other matters besides the delf breaking, placed another chair back to back with Solomon's, and after providing her-self with a novel, sat herself down, and began read ing away, as if, there was no such thing as beds to make or stockings to mend, in all Christendom.

Here this affectionate couple sat for six morta hours, each bent upon sitting the other down, and ruminating the while upon their relative position. But it must be confessed that Mrs. Swallow had the best of the bargain, for independent of Solomon's mangled bead, par boiled neck and shoulders, she saw as clear as mud, that the watch dial and the crockery must be replaced, so that the reducing of the first chapter in this voluminous system t practice must be attended with an outlay of a least twenty dollars. This being the case, I migh as well be hung for a sheep as a lamb, thought he and with that he rose from his chair, stole softly om the room, and turned the key upon the gentle

The turning of the key made her aware of his atention, when she rushed to the door, but it was oo late. "Open the door this instant Mr. Swallow."

"Not until I have kept you here, for seven days upon bread and water," returned the victorious Solomon, as he went on his way rejoicing.

But alas! how fleeting is human greatness—in about half an hour he returned to see how matters about half an hour he returned to see how matters were going, but scarcely put his eye to the keyhole when he began roaring like a bull, for Mrs. Swallow had torn every one of his fine linen shirts (that on his back excepted) into pieces, to make a rope to let herself down from the wipdow; nor was this all, for upon further examination, he discovered that she had also thrown a variety of chair enshions, bed linen, &c., into the dirty yard, to make her descent safe. her descent safe.

when you have lit the fire and put on the kettle." Solomon! There was no alternative. So he set about his work with an alacrity which showed that he had the terror of a broken head and demolished body linen, running strongly in his memory. In short, Solomon was a conquered man. That day he prepared breakfast, swept the room,

&c. The next his assistance was required in the ubbing of the furniture and the making of beds; before the week was out, he was initiated into the mystery of washing coarse towels.

Degenerate Solomon Swallow! Nay in after times, when the Swallows used to gather about him, it is whispered that his better half used to employ him at yet more deeply conjugal offices.

But for this we have no proof, only the fact that he was the only nurse Mrs. Swallow would trust with the children About five years after the celebration of his nuptials a friend called to see him. "You must go with me to the theatre Mr. Swal-w," said the friend.

"He shant," said Mrs. Swallow. "He must," said the friend, "and so must you."
"I may, but he can't replied the dame, for he must stop at home with the children. And Mrs. Swallow did go to the play, and Solo-on stopped at home.

O, hen pecked Solomon Swallow! The moral of this authertic tale is that "bachelors' wives and old maids' children" are all excellent in theory, but as bad as can be in practice and that a managed wife is better than no wife all. Had Solomon only treated his better half decently in the beginning, things might have gone on smoothly to the end, but as it was she was compelan earthquake. But, alas! her agility was too cently in the beginning, things might have gone on strikingly manifested, for she not only all but annihilated poor Solomon in rolling over him, but she dashed his patent lever from the nail which sustice to take the consequences.

The Little Quakeress.

WHO WAS IN A HURRY TO GET MARRIED. An amusing matrimonial story is told of the olden time in New England. It so fell out that two young people became very much smitten with each other, as young people sometimes do. The young woman's father was a wealthy quaker—the young man was poor but respectable. The father could tand no such union, and resolutely opposed it, and the daughter dare not disobey openly. She 'met him by moonlight,' while she pretended never to see him—and she pined and wasted in spite of her-

She was really in love. Still the father was in exorable. Time passed on. She let no conceal-ment like a 'worm in the bud prey,' on that damask cheek, however; but when her father asked why she pined, she always told him. The old gentle-man was a widower, and loved his girl dearly.— Had it been a widowed mother who had Mary in charge, a woman's pride never would have given way before the importunities of a daughter. Men are not, however, so stubborn in such matters, and when the father saw that his daughter's heart was really set upon the match, he surprised her one day by breaking out—" Mary, rather than mope to death, thee had better marry as soon as the chooses and to whom thee pleases.

And then what did Mary do? Wait till the birds of the air bad told her swain of the change, or until her father had time to alter his mind again? Not a bit of it. She clapped hea neat plain bonne on her head, walked directly into the street, and then as directly to the house of her intended as the street would carry her. She walked into the hous without knocking—for knocking was not then fash-ionable, and she found the family just sitting down o dinner: Some little commotion was exhibited at so unexpected an apparition as the heiress in the widow's cottage, but she heeded it not. John looked up inquiringly. She walked directly up to him and took both of his hands in here. John got directly up from the dinner table and went to the parson's In just twenty-five minutes they were man and

Her last cal which was handed over to the butcher about th middle of 'April, weighed two hundred pounds, be ing only four weeks and a half old. Since that time, "Bossy," though sick or three days with the hollow Horn," has given milk enough to supply a family of four grown persons, who are not spa ing in their use of the wholesome drink, and make besides from eight to twelve pounds of fin make besides from eight to tweive pounds of line rich butter per week. For some time past, she has been feed on grain or meal of any description; yet last week, in addition to supplying the wants for puddings and custards, coffee and tea, flush, &c, there was churned from her tweive pounds and a quarter, more than the full weight; and the week before, eleven pounds and five or six ounces. If the products of the two weeks had been weighed in the nass, they would have amounted to more than twenty-four pounds. Perhaps other cows may be found, who do better than this; but it is well to no ice more than ordinary success in this branch husbandry, that encouragement may be given to ou dairywomen to bring their animals to the highest Yours, truly.

SECOND MARRIAGES .- It is remarked that wid ows and widowers marry more readily than those who have never entered matrimony. This is one of the greatest compliments to married life that could be bestowed upon it. Were a man not to marry a second time, it might be concluded that his first wife had given him a disgust to marriage but by taking a second wife he pays the highe compliment to the first, by showing that she made him so happy as a married man, that he wished to ne so a second time.

Every lawyer of any note has heard and read of the celebrated Luther Martin, of Maryland. His great efforts in the case of Aaron Burr, as well as his displays in the Senate of the United States, will not be forgotten. Trifles in the history of genius are important, as we hope to show in the story.

Mr. Martin was on his way to Annapolis, Md., to attend the Supreme Court of the State. A solitary passenger was in the stage with him, and, as the weather was extremely cold, the passengers soon resorted to conversation to divert themselves from too much sensibility to the inclement air The young man knew Mr. Martin by sight, and as The young man knew Wir. Martin by sight, and as he also was a lawyer, the thread of the talk soon began to spin itself out of legal matters.

"Mr. Martin," said the young man, "I am just entering on my career as a lawyer; can you tell me the secret of your great success? If, sir, you will give me from your experience, the key to dis-tinction at the Bar, I will ——"

"Will what?" asked Mr. Martin. "Why, Sir, I will pay your expenses while you are at Annapolis," replied the young disciple.
"Done," responded Mr. Martin. "Stand to your pargain now, and I'll furnish you the great secret f my success as a lawyer."

The young man assented.
"Very well," said Mr. Martin. "The whole reamy success is contained in one little maxim which I early laid down to guide me. If you fol low it you cannot fail to succeed. It is this: Always be sure of your evidence."

The listener was very attentive—smiled—threw himself back in a philosophic posture, and gave his brains to the analysis in true lawyer patience, if "Always be sure of your evidence."

It was too cold a night for anything to be made eculiarly out of the old man's wisdom, and so the promising adept in maxim-learning gave him le to stage dreams, in which he was knocking and pushing his way through the world by the all-powerful words: "Always be sure of your evidence."

The morning came, and Mr. Martin with his practical student, took rooms at the best hotel of the city. The only thing peculiar to the hotel, in the eyes of the young man, was the fact that all the wine bottles and the etceleras of fine living, seemed to recall very vividly the maxim about the evidence.

The young man watched Mr. Martin. Wherever eating and drinking were concerned, he was indeed a man to be watched, especially in the latter, as he was immoderately tond of the after-diner, after-supper, after-everything, luxury of wine. A few days were sufficient to show the incipient legalist that he would have to pay dearly to make the most of his part of the contract. Lawyers, the most of his part of the contract. Lawyers. the most of his part of the contract. Lawyers whether young or old, have legal rights, and so the young man began to think of the study of self-protection. It was certainly a solemn duty. It ran through all creation. Common to animals and men, it was a noble instinct not to be disobeyed particularly where the hotel bills of a lawyer were men, it was a noble institute for the bedselvey aparticularly where the hotel bills of a lawyer were concerned. The subject daily grew on the young man. It was all-absorbing to mind and pocket.

A week elapsed, and Mr. Martin was ready to return to Baltimore. So was the young man, but not in the same stage with his illustrious teacher.

Mr. Martin approached the counter in the bar-Mr. Martin approached the counter in the bar The young man was an anxious spectator "Mr. Clerk," said Mr. Martin, "my young friend,

Mr. ——, will settle my bill, agreeably to engagement." The young man said nothing, but looked every-

"Evidence?' sneered Mr. Martin.
"Yes, sir," said the young man, as he complacently responded, "Always be sure, Mr. Martin, of

DR. JOHNSTON,
Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States and the greater part of whose life has been seen in the themsite of London. vhose life has been spent in the Hospitals of Lon ion, Paris, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, has affect don, Paris, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, has affected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known. Many troubled with ringing in the ears and head when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, and bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended, sometimes, with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE

Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured hemselves by private and improper indulgencies, hat secret and solutary habits, which ruin both hody and mind, unfitting them for either busines or society.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the back and limbs, Pains in the head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irriability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c Mentally.—The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded: Loss of Memory, Contusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil of Foreboding, Aversion of Society, Self Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c. are some of the evils prode, Timidity, &c. are some of the evils pro-

MERVOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness'of the system, Nervous Debility and premature decay generally arises from the destructive habit of youth, that solitary practice so fatal to the healthful existence of man, and it is the young who are the most apt to become its Victims from an ignorance of the dangers to which they subject themselves. Parents and Guardians are often mistaken in the state of the dark heapers to the cause or source of disease themselves. Parents and Guardians are often misled with respect to the cause or source of disease in their sons and wards. Alas! how often do they ascribe to other causes the wasting of the trame, Palpitation of the Hea., Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Derangement of the Nervous System, Cough and Symptoms of Consumption, also those serious Mental effects, such as loss of Memory, Depression of Spirits or peculiar fits of Melancholy, when the truth is they have been caused by indulging Peraticious but alluring practices, destructive to both Body and Mind. Thus are swept from existence thousands who might have been of use to their country, a pleasure to their friends, an ornament to society.

WEAKNESS OF THE ORGANS immediately cured and full vigor restored.

Oh, how happy have hundreds of misguided youths been made, who have been suddenly restored to health from the devastations of those terrific maladies which result from indiscretion. Such persons, before contemplating

The True Bigestive Fluid or Gastrie Juice

PREPARED from Rennet, or the fourth Stomach of the Ox, after directions of BARON Lirasio; the great Physiological Chemist, by J. S. Houge's ton, M. D., Philadelphia, Pa.

This is a truly wonderful remedy for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Liver Complaint, Constipation, and Debility, curing after Nature's own method, by Nature's own Agent, the Gastric Juice—Half a teaspoonful of Pepsin, infused in water, will digest or dissolve, Five Pounds of Roast Beel in about two hours, out of the stomach.

PERSIN is the chief element, or Great Digesting Principle of the Gastric Juice—the solvent of the food, the purifying, preserving and stimulating agent of the stomach and intestines. It is extracted from the digestive stomach of the Ox, thus ferming an Artificial Digestive Fluid, precisely like the agent of the stomach and intestines. It is extracted from the digestive stomach of the Ox, thus forming an Artificial Digestive Fluid, precisely like the natural Castric Juice in its chemical powers, and durnishing a complete and perfect substitute for it By the aid of this preparation, the pains and evils of Indigestion and Dyspepsia are removed, just as they would be by a healthy stomach. It is doing wonders for dyspepties, curing cases of Debility. wonders for dyspeptics, curing cases of Debility, Emaciation, Nervous Decline, and Dyspeptic Consumption, supposed to be on the verge of the grave The scientific evidence upon which it is based, is in the highest degree curious and remarkable.

SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE! SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE!

Baron Liebig in his celebrated work on Anima Chemistry, says: "An artificial Digestive Fluid, analogous to the Gastric Juice, may be readily prepared from the muccus membrane of the stomach of the calf, in which various articles of food, as meat and eggs, will be softened, changed, and digested, just in the same manner as they would be in the human stomach."

be in the human stomach."

Dr. Pereira, in his tamous treatise on "Food and Diet," published by Fowler & Wells, New York, page 35, states the same great fact, and describes the method of preparation. There are few higher authorities than Dr. Pereira.

Dr. Combe, in his valuable writings on the "Physiology of Digestion," observes that "a diminution of the due quantity of the Gastric Juice is a comment and all revaying cause of Dysensia." a prominent and all-prevailing cause of Dyspepsia;

a prominent and all-prevailing cause of Dyspepsia," and he states that "a distinguished professor of medicine in London, who was severely afflicted with this complaint, finding everything else to fail, had recourse to the Gastrie Juice, obtained from the stomach of living animals, which proved completely successfull."

Dr. Graham, author of the famous works on "Vegetable Diet," says: "It is a remarkable fact in physiology, that the stomachs of animals, macrated in water, impart to the fluid the property of dissolving va. yous articles of food, and of effecting a kind of artificial digestion of them in nowise diffreent mro the natural digestive process."

AS A DYSPEPSIA CURER,
Dr. HOUGHTON'S PEPSIN has produced the most marvellous effects, in curing cases of Deblity, Emaciation, Nervons Decline, and Dyspeptic Consumption. It is impossible to give the details of cases in the limits of this advertisement; but authenticated certificates have been given of more than Two Hundred Remarkable Cures, in Philadelphia, New York and Boston alone. These were nearly all desperate cases, and the cures were post only rapid and wonderful, but cermanent. not only rapid and wonderful, but permanent. It is a great Nervous Antidote, and particularly useful for tendency to Billious disorder, Liver useful for tendency to Billious disorder, Liver Complaint, Fever and Ague, or badly treated Fever and Ague, and the evil effects of Quinne, Mercury and other urugs upon the Digestive Organs, after a long sickness. Also, for excess in eating, and the too free use of ardent sprits. It almost reconciles health with intemprance.

OLD STOMACH COMPLAINTS.

There is no form of Old Stomach Complaints which it does not seem to reach and remove at once. No matter how bad they may be, it gives instant relief!
