Wreda of the British Ship Annie Jane-Three Hundred and Forty-eight Lives Lost-Terrible Scene. Our English files by the Niagara announce one of the most terrible catastrophes on record—the to-tal loss of the ship Annie Jane, Mason commander belonging to Liverpool, which was driven ashore on the iron bound coast of Barra Island, during the recent gales, on the night of Wednesday; the 28th ult., when no fewer than three hundred and forty cight passengers—men, women and children—met with a watery grave. The Annie Jane was a large vessel, and sailed from Liverpool for Quebec and Montreal on the 9th of last month, with some 450 emigrants, most of them Irish families. It is pre sumed that she had made some progress across the Atlantic, when she encountered the late tearful soutt-westerly gales, which disabled her and ren dered her unmanageable, and in that hopeless con-dition she was driven back and dashed on the terrible coast of Barra, one of the Hebrides. With point called Vatersay, where the wreck occurred the island is six miles in length and two and a hall broad, and lies some five miles southwest of the There is a lighthouse on the head which is the highest in the United Kingdom, being 680 feet above the level of the sea. Such is the terrible character of the coast, however, that there is little chance of a vessel being rescued when once it is entangled among the reefs. Several of the survivors contrived to get a passage from the island over to Tobermory, a small seaport in the Isle of Mull, and from them the authorities learned that he chief officer, and 12 of the crew, saved. We give below portions of the fearful narrative

348 passengers were drowned, and 102, with Mr. * At the time the ship struck all the officers and crew were below, but there were also on deck a large number of male passengers, who held on by ropes and rigging, and with feelings of despair contemplated their late. Meanwhile, the great majority of the passengers, including all the women and children, were below in their ber he; but the striking of the ship gave them a fearful wakening. Many rushed on deck in a state of nakedness: wive clung to their husbands, and children clung to both, some mute from terror, and others uttering appall ing screams and eagerly shricking, 'Is there hope?'
The scene is described by the survivors as the most agonizing which it could enter into the heart of After the first shock was over the passengers rushed to the boats, three of which were placed between the mizen mast and the poop, and the fourth lay on the top of the cooking house forward. The light boat had already been lost -But the boats were of no earthly use, for they were all fixed down and secured, or lay bottom up.— While the passengers were thus clustered round the boats, and within a very lew minutes after the ship had grounded, she was struck by a see of frightful potency, which instantly carried away the dense mass of human beings into the watery waste and boats and bulwarks went along with them. least 100 of our fellow creatures perished by this tel. swoop. The wild wail of the sufferers was heard for a moment, and then all was still.

The great majority of the women and children well as some of the male passengers, remained below, either paralyzed by terror or afraid that they would be washed away in the event of their com-ing upon deck. But their time also had come.— The frightful thumping of the great ship, taken in connexion with her car go of railway iron, must have immediately beaten the bottom out of her; and while her fabric was in this veakened state, another dreadful sea poard and literally crushed that part of the deck situated between the mainmast and the mizenmas down upon the berths below, which were occupied by terror-stricken women and sleeping children .--They were kiled rather than drowned, as was tully evidenced by the naked, mutilated and gashed bodies which were afterwards cast on shore. The main and mizen masts went at the same mo

This second branch of the catastrophe took place within a very few minutes after the passengers and part of the crew had been swept away from the deck along with the boats. The most of the remaining seamen and passengers now took reluge on the poop, which was a very high one, and each succeeding assault of the sea carried away its victim or victims. In short, within one hour after the Annie Jane struck the remaining stumps of her masts went by the board, and she broke into three pieces. An additional number perished at this diruption; and all the survivors remained on the poor with the exception of seven men, who had secure themselves on the top-gallant torecastle. The poop fortunately floated well, and, as it was about high water, the wreck was dritted inwards by the wind and each heave of the sea, when it finally grounded about 4 o clock a. m. The torecastle, with the seven men, came ashore much about the same

The wreck had been observed from the island almost as soon as the day broke; and, in the first instance, seven or eight of the Barra men came down to render such aid as might be in their pow The remains of the mizenmast were still attached by the shrouds to the wreck of the poop, and by the help of the islanders it was placed so as to form a sort of bridge or ladder between the poon and the shallow water; and as the tide had now fully ebbed, all the survivors got on shore without much difficulty by seven in 'the morning. When mustered, the survivors were found to number a total of 102, of whom one was a child, 12 were women, and 28 belonged to the crew, exclusive of the captain, who was also saved.

When the poop was drifting ashore he secured himself upon its skylight. But the departed friends of the survivors were ashore before them, for the beach was literally lined by their dead bodies, as well as by the innumerable fragments of the broken ship, and the light part of her cargo. None of the survivors estimate the loss of life at less than 350, and consider it close upon 400 souls. The latter would be the case it 500 individuals, including children, were on board, as is generally believed .-Almost all the cabin passengers perished, including Captain Munroe, of Quebec.

Such as were saved remained by until the tide them nearly to the armpits. At daylight the bay with dead bodies to the number nearly 300, greatly disfigured, many of them with out limbs and heads, and nearly all naked, thereby showing how instant must have been their death and the learful strength of the waters, which, in so short a time, made such havoc.

Only one child was saved. It belonged to a hum ble Irishwoman, who, with her two children, werabout to join her husband in America. She strug gled hard to preserve them both, one on her back and grasping the other in her arms; but when the ship parted the latter was dashed into the sea, and the other remained.

RICHMOND, Nov. 2. 1853. FRIGHTAUL SCENE .- Thomas Board, who was rvicted of the murder of the Barber family in this State, was executed yesterday. When the trap was knocked from under him, the rope broke and the unfortunate man fell heavily to the ground. Much excitement followed. The sceriff finally re-adjusted the rope, and the criminal was again placed on the platform. He seemed to be perfectly frantic, and jumped off the platform. Another scene of intense excitement ensued. The prisoner was again second of the service of cured, and the sentence of the law fully carried out.

PORK PROSPECTS IN THE WEST .- A Jefferso City, Mobile paper, says: Farmers are offering to furnish hogs for 21 cents per pound, but whether that is gross or net weight, it does not say, but presume it is for net weight of the pork, as other papers in that State, quote the article at 3 cents Kentucky and Indiana papers, have estimated pork at all prices, from 3 to 5 cents, and speak of hogs being plenty.

GRATIS NOTICES - The Vicksburg Sentinel makes some very sensible remarks on the subject of college, school and other circulars being sent to him, with the modest request, 'please notice,' writ ten on the covers. He says, very truly, that these things are all well enough in their way,—that is, to those benefitted by gratia notices, but they don' pay the compositor, or buy paper or ink.

The Globe.—The official paper of Congress and newspaper for the people.—It will be seen by the annexed extract from a letter of General Vashington to David Stewart, dated at New York 17th March, 1799, that the idea of such a paper as f propose to make the Globe, originated in the mind of the father of his country. He said:
"It is to be lamented that the editors of the diferent Gazettes in the Union do not more generally and more correctly (instead of stuffing their papers with scurrility and nonsensical declamation while few would read if they were apprised of their con-tents) publish the debates in Congress on all great ients) publish the decates in Congress on an secar attornal questions. The principles upon which the difference of opinion arises, as well as the de-cisions, would then come fully before the public, and afford the best data for its judgment." Sparks' Writings of Washington, vol. 10, p. 84 writings of washington, vol. 10, p. 84
In surrendering my interest in the organ of a great political party, I sherished the purpose of continuing the Congressional Grobe, and, if pussiule, in time, to derfect it into a full history of the action of Congress, giving the debates accurately and fully with the proceedings—all stamped with and fully with the proceedings—all stamped with the variety of an official record. From the passage of the letter of General Washington, which I have quoted, it will be perceived that he thought this office night be combined with that of a regular newspaper; and it is certain that the avidity of the contributes to give wings to the weightier matter which may be called Congressional news. Having succeeded in my purpose of perfecting the reports of the debates in Congress and giving hein the official stamp, I now propose to send hem abroad, in connection with the news of the day, in such haste as shall outstrip full and accurate intelligence sent from the seat of governmen in any other form whatever. It will even antici ate the scraps of news forwarded to cities withi we hundred and fifty miles of Washington by tel egraph. Before the events thus transmitted are published in the morning papers, (for instance, of the city of New York,)the Gione containing them will have reached the post office of that city by the Express Mail of the previous night. The process by which this will effected I now lay before the public for news of the less important kind greatly

I will have a corps of sixteen Reporters in Congress; each in succession will take notes during five minutes, and then retire, prepare them for the Press, put them slip by slip in the hands of com-positors, and thus while a debate is going on it Congress, it will be put in type, and in a few min-utes after it is ended it will be in print. I shall by this means be enabled to send by the Express mail of 5 o'clock p. m. for the East, West and North and by that of 9 o'clock p. m. for the South, all the proceedings of Congress up to the ordinary hour of adjournment. Thus the accurate debates of Congress will reach the city, two hundred and fifty miles from the capital, before their deily morning papers are in circulation.

The miscellaneos news I shalled careful to gather from remote sections of the country by telegraph. I will obtain from the Executive Departments, through official sources; the matters of moment transacted in them, and, through agents employed for that purpose, all the city news of con-sequence in sufficient time to be put into the Globe and mailed in the express mail trains. In this way I hope to create a new era in the dissemination of news from Washington before the public mind at a distance had received its first impressions from in responsible telegraphic despatches; or by letter wri-ters biased by peculir riews.

Washington has now become so great a centre of political interest during all the year—the proceed-ings of the Executive Departments, and the infornation collected by them, even during the reces of Congress, is of so much importance to the inter-est of every section of the country—that I shall continue the publication of the daily paper perma-aently, with a view to become the vehicle of the earliest and most correct intelligence.

It is part of my plan to reduce the price of the daily paper to half that of similar daily papers; and thus I hope to extend its circulation so as to invite advertisements. I will publish advertisements of the government. To subscribers in the cities is nope to submit such terms as will induce them t advertise their business in every village through-out the Union, where the Globe is sent daily under the franks of members of Congress, all of whom take it and some of them a large number of copies. The installation of a new administration and . new Congress portends much change in the course of public affairs as the result of the next session.--Many vast interests which were brought up in the last Congress were laid over by the democratic majority to await the action of a democratic execution nation is a democratic executive. The new modelling of the tarif; the new and system; the question of giving homesteads, and making every man a freeholder who may choose to become one; the approximation of the Atlantic and Pacific occans by a national ratiroad across the territory of the Union; reform in the Army, Navy, and civi, offices- all these grea questions, with a thousand minor once, deepty al-ecting multitudes of men and every State in the Union, will, now being matured by public of minon come up for the government's decision. These new issues, co-operating with old ones, coming up to be disposed of by new actors on the scenes at Washington, will be apt to monity greatly it not after essentially, the party organizations of the

To these elements of interest another is likely to be introduced by the interposition of the agua-tions of Europe. After nearly lorty years of peace in Europe, there is an evident restlessness that now seems fraught with tendencies threatening war; and if war comes, in all liketinood there will follow such universal change that the United States can scarcely hope to escape its vortex. Indeed, from late events it is apparent that our Govern-ment is already drawn into European difficulties. public mind towards the next Congress with much rpectation.

The Congressional Globe paper will be made up of the proceedings of Congress and the running debates as given by the reporters. The speeches which members may choose to write out themselves will, together with the message of the President of the United States, the reports of the Executive Departments, and the laws passed by Congress, be added in an appendix. Formerly 1 received subscriptions for the Congressional Globe and Appendix separately. But this has not been found satisfactory, inasmuch as it gave an incomplete view of the inasmuch as it gave an incomplete view of the transactions in Congress; and therefore I have concluded not to sell them apart, considering that neighbors can have the advantage of both by clubing in case individuals shall flud it too enerous to be at the above of the the Approved, August 6, 1852.

As I sell the Daily Globe at half the price of similar publications, so the Congressional Globe and Appendix is sold for half the cost of so much composition, press-work and paper. This I can afford to do, inasmuch as the subscription of Congress almost covers the cost of composition, and this enables me to sell for little more than the cost of press-work and paper. It requires the sale o of press-work and paper. It requires the sale of about 9,000 copies to reimburse expenses. If 500 only were sold, the cost of each copy would be about $104! The debates in the English Parliament cost about eleven times as much as I charge subscribers for the debates in Congress, equal in quantity, and as well reported and printed.

The next session of Congress will be a long one; and it is believed the Congressional Globe, for it, will reach 4000 royal quarto pages, as the last long session made 3842; and the long one before that made 3901 royal quarto_pages—four large volumes each session. If subscribers will be careful to fite all the numbers received by them. Let ill seath all the numbers received by them, I will supply any that may miscarry in the mails. This work increases in value as it grows old. The first sev-enteen volumes will now command three times, and some of the subsquent ones twice, their or ginal subscription price.

most Valuable Agricultural Implement. — A great improvement in Grain Drills, making this excellent Agricultural Implement a perfect Machine, for which letters datent were issued Sepchinc, for which letters patent were issued sep-tember 20th, to Mr. Samuel Jenkins, of York co. The improvement consists in attaching an ad-justable curved cutter of steel, to and through the drag bar and through the point of the tooth or drill, in front of the tooth, forming a triple edge at the point, and enabling the tooth to raise up and glide over any obstructions, and completely regu-lating the depth of furrow required, and depositing the grain to the depth, according to the character f the soil. The Cutter likewise prevents week or stubble from clogging or choking up the mouth of the Drill. Heretofore iusuperable disadvantages have attended the use of the Grain Drill, on any other than a level and even soil; but by this simple invention the operation of the Machine is made complete and perfect, and this valuable Agricultural Implement can now be used on uneven, stony the Machine in the least, or putting the seeding devices out of gear.

The model and specifications are now at the Inventor's Institute, Fulton Hall, where J. Franklin Reigart will be pleased to give every information to persons interested in the matter, desiring to exmine the same more particularly, or to purchas amine the same more particularly, or to putchase County or State rights.

Competent persons desirous of securing the Agency to sell the County and State rights of this most useful Machine, should apply immediately.

To singers und public speakers this remody is invaluable, as by its action on the throat and lungs, when taken in small quantities, it removes all hoarseness in a few hours, and wonderfully increases the power and flexibility of the voice. Asthma is generally much relieved, and often wholly cured by Cherry Pectoral. But there are some cases so obstinate as to yield entirely to no medicine. Cherry Pectoral will sure them, if they can be cured.

Dr. J. C. Ayer:—I write to inform you of the truly remarkable effects of your Cherry Pectoral in this place, and in my own family.
