FOR GOVERNOR: WILLIAM BIGLER, of Clearfield County.

JUDGE OF SUPREME COURT: JERRMIAH S. BLACK, of Somerset County.

FOR CANAL COMMISSIONER: HENRY S. MOTT, of Pike County.

Removal.

From and after to-day the office of the "INTEL LIGENCER" will be found in South Queen street a few doors below the Lancaster Bank, and nearly opposite the new Presbyterian Church, Our friends need have no difficulty in finding the office.

Money Wanted.

 We need money badly at the present time; and as we have a large amount standing on our books for subscription, advertising and job work, we should be pleased to see any number of our patrons step up, or down, as the case may be, to the "Captain's office" and settle their accounts. Of course this hint is not intended for those (and we have a goodly number of such) who are always prompt in paying the Printer.

sale of the Public Works.

The bill reported to the House of Representa tives, by the Committee of Ways and Means, for the sale of the Public Works of the Common wealth, provides that, within thirty days after its passage, the Governor shall be authorized and required to sell and convey to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, (not to the highest bidder!) "the main line of public works extending from Philadelphia to Pittsburg, being the Philadelphia and Columbia and Allegheny Portage Railroads, both finished and unfinished, the State Canals from Columbia to Hollidaysburg and from Johnstown to Pittsburg, together with all the real estate thereto appertaining, and all the stock, reservoirs, machinery, locomotives, trucks and materials whatsover and wheresoever thereupto belonging or held for the use of the same," for the sum of $10,000,000 to be paid in the bonds of the Company-one million at the expiration of five years, and an additional million each succeeding year, until the whole debt is discharged. These bonds, it is provided shall bear interest at six per cent. per annum, and be convertible into the capital stock of the Company at any time before maturity, and their payment is to be secured by a mortgage of the property transferred under the sale. The bill further provides that, upon the execution of the deeds, bonds, &c., the Company shall be released from the three mill tonnage now exacted from them; and that the right reserved to the Commonwealth in their original charter to take possession of their road, at a certain period, and under certain circumstances, shall be abrogated .-Authority is also given to the Company to sell the Canal or Canals to any individual or corporation at such price as they may choose, and the lien of the mortgage may be released for whatever parts shall be so disposed of. There is also a section giving to the stockholders of the Harrisburg, Portsmouth, Mount Joy and Lancaster Company to sell both their roads from Dillerville to Harrisburg, and Columbia to Middletown, to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and conferring upon the latter, should such a sale be made, all the rights and franchises of the former.

The subject is one of immense importance, pecuniarily and politically, to the people-being nothing less than the creation of a vast monopoly, an imperium in imperio, which may, in the end, be come more powerful than the Commonwealth itself, unless the interests of the people are guarded with the utmost care. If the bill should become a law, we hope to see such restrictions put upon fine their action to legitimate and proper purposes -if such thing is within the range of possibility, of which we have great doubt.

A Duel--Almost.

A violent personal controversy occurred, some eight or ten days ago, on the floor of Congress, between Mr. Breckenridge, of Kentucky, and Mr Cutting, of New York, in reference to the Nebraska challenge ensued, and it was supposed that nothing short of an exchange of shots would satisfy the belligerent gentlemen. The difficulties, however, after several days effort on the part of their friends, were finally settled on Thursday-both being willing to withdraw the offensive remarks, and an thoring an apology to be mada to the House for Kossuth to the Germans of the U. S .- A let ter from the celebrated Hungarian exile, Kossuth, addressed to the Germans of the United States, has appeared in the New York papers. It censures the act of the U.S. Senate in rejecting the nomination of George Saunders, as Consul to London. The newspapers generally throughout the country de nounce the letter as meddlesome and ridiculous, and say that Kossuth should confine himself to the discussion of matters which he understands. We are decidedly of the same opinion, and consider his conduct impertinent and unjustifiable in the extreme. Whether the Senate did right or wrong in rejecting Mr. Saunders, it is none of Kossuth's business, and he deserves the severest censure for his attempt to exci e the prejudices of the German nonulation against that body.

Hon. CARROLL SPENCE, our Minister to Con stantinople, is very much ensured by the press gen erally for having, in his address to the Sultan, tool sides with Turkey against Russia. As we are a peace with the latter power, and have always been on the most friendly terms, it is looked upon as be ing in the highest degree imprudent and impolitic for a Minister thus to commit his Government against a friendly nation. Russia will have ju cause of offence, and we should not be surprised if the Czar prefers a formal complaint on the subject, which may lead to the recal of Mr. Spence.

HORATIO KING, Esq., of Maine, has been appointed First Assistant Postmaster General, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the decease of Mr. Hobbie. It is said to be an excellent selection fo the post. Mr. K. has been been for a number of years past, one of the principal Clerks in the De partment, and is thoroughly acquainted with the duties of the office for which he has been selected by the Postmaster General.

The American Volunteer, published at Carlisle, Pa., by our friend JOHN B. BRATTON, Esq., comes to hand for a week or two past clothed in a new and neat dress, and considerably golarged. The "Volunteer" is an old, reliable paper, and has done good service to the Democratic party in many a hard fought battle. We are gratified to see this evidence of its prosperity, and hope Mr. B. will be amply rewarded for his trouble and expense by the Democracy of "Old Mother Cumberland,"

It will thus be seen ger in a state of political isolation. She grows that the aggregate asked for, including the sum nore grain than is required for her own consumpion, the producer of her mines is immense, and since the time of Peter the Great, and more especially during the reign of the present Emperor, her papers: progress in the manufacturing arts has been un-precedenedtly rapid. Of manufactories ofevery kind smelting works, engineering works, cotton and wolen factories, she possesses sufficient to supply the wants of her population, and her inland trade is. carried on by an extensive and admirably devised system of water communication. The national facilities afforded by her great rivers, such as the Volga, Dwina, Dniester and Don, which place the heart of the Empire in communication with the White, the Black, the Caspian, and the Baltic seas | hibit of the contents of the bill, which I shall than have been improved and multiplied by the construction of canals, intersecting the country in every di-

She is dependent uponforeign imports to a comparative y insignificant extent, and the suspension of her exports by the blockade of her ports, will not infict any material injury upon her commerce. They will find new markets either within her own dominions, or fresh outlets and channels through her Atlantic possessions.

Thus situated in a commercial point of view, nd unassailable in her territorial position, Russia has but little to apprehend from the state of isolation in which she finds herself. This very isolation inetead of being a source of weakness, i-, in fact, source of strength to her; for it imparts unity and force to her action, and teaches her to rely alone upon her own resources. A declared enemy is safer than a doubtful ally, and in forcing Austria and Prussia to a categorical explanation of their intentions, the Czar has clearly defined his position, and emoved from his mind considerations that would have ultimately hampered and embarrassed him He now stands unshackled by either political sympathies or former alliances, and is free to give ef fect to the fraditional policy of his predecessors .-The course that he has to pursue is a simple and effective one; and he appears, from his late declaration to the peace deputation, to be fully impressed with its advantages. He has only to act upon the defensive, and wait patiently until the force of events and the diversity of interests that prevails amongst his opponents, breaks up the coalition formed against him, and leave him at liberty to carry out his designs. A year or two of harrassing and resultless hostilities, continued at enormous expense and waste of life, will inevitably lead to discontent and perhaps revolutionary explosions in both England and France, and dissolve of itself this grand political combination, on which the cabinets of the

The Empress Catherine, in writing to Voltaire n 1769, made use of this remarkable and prophec phrase, which up to the present time has been strikingly exemplified:—We have war, it is true,' she said, (war with the Porte,) 'but Russia has been long carrying on that sort of game, and she always issues from it more flourishing than she entered it. Each war is with her the parent of some new resource, which imparts a fresh impulse to her commerce and influence.' The acquisitions that she has already made in Europe, at the expense ol Sweden, Germany, Poland and Turkey, and in Asia by successive invasions of Persia, Georgia, Tiflis, Erivan and Circassia, are but the first steps in a successful career of conquest, which will uldominion than has ever before been ruled over by that can arrest this otherwise inevitable course of the purchasers as will forever compel them to con- old and effete systems of government, and inaugu- the Spanish officials, one of whom assured him that rating a new era of progress far in advance of the semi-civilization of Russia, would give another turn and direction to the affairs of the world. Lease of the Public Works.

A proposition has been introduced into the Legislature within a day or two, which strikes us very forcibly as being a decidedly more preferable arrangement than the one of selling the public works bill, which was alike discreditable to both. A The proposition is this, (if the Legislature should agree to pass a bill giving the authority.) that the Canal Commissioners, with the assent of the Gov. ernor, shall, on the first day of July next, let and lease unto John Bingham and Jacob Dock, and such persons as may be associated with them, for the term of ten years, the main line of the public works, extending from Philadelphia to Pittsburg, for the rental of $6,000,000-to be paid in nonthly instalments. The lessees to keep and maintain the said works in good repair, and to charge no higher rate of tolls than is now charged by the Commonwealth. The locomotive engines, machinery, tools, and all other personal property, shall be valued and stand as a charge against the lessees, which they are bound to make good at the expiration of the lease. The Legislature to reserve the right to revoke the agreement and resume pos session at any time the said lessees shall abuse their privileges or suffer the works to go into de-cav or disuse. There are several other provisions of import tance in the bill, but the above will suffice to show ject, and think that such an arrangement will enure to the benefit of the Commonwealth. It would save the three mill tonnage tax to the State, which is proposed to be given up by the bill authorising the sale to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.-This tax, it is estimated, would, in ten years, amount to two and a half millions, which sum added to the six millions rental, would make an aggregate of $8,500,000, to the Commonwealth, and yet the works come under her control and ownership again at the end of the term. How much petter this than to part with them forever for the sum of ten millions which it is proposed to sell them for. If any disposition at all is to be made of the main line, we prefer to see this project adopted by the Legislature. Want of room prevents is from extending our remarks at present—but

VOTE OF THE WHIG CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR SOLDIERS READ!-The following resolution was inroduced into the lower House of Congress, by Mr.

Chase, on the 14th of February, 1848. Resolved, That it is expedient to order our roops to retreat from the positions which they we gallantly won in Mexi co, for the purpose alling back upon a definsive line. All who voted in favor of the resolution were

Whigs; all opposed, Democrats. Among the former is found the name of Mr. POLLOCK, This same Mr. M. C. POLLOCK is now the Whig candidate for Governor of this State. Every one will remember the effect which the above proposition had upon the public mind, and the reception it our readers its general outlines. We like the pro- received in our army in Mexico. Those who advocated, and voted for, the calling back of our troops were regarded by every patriot as traitors to their country and as allies of the enemy. It is almost impossible to conceive of the pernicious consequences that would have followed a retreat from he positions which our brave soldiers had so gallantly min. The first sound of retreat would have been the death note to thousands of hearts, and a prelude to the desolation of an incalculable number of hearths. It would have been an assurance to the Mexican people that their rights had been infringed-than our atmy had tansgressed its duty-the gallant band would have fallen back dispirited, and the outrageous humiliation would have been followed by a protracted and bloody war. But thanks to the Democracy, the traitorous proposition did not prevail. Yet, for the refusal of an American Congress 'to give aid and comfort to the enemy,' James Pollock, the Whig candidate for Sovernor, deserves no credit. He voted with his Whig brethren, the Mexican allies. How will the soldiers of that war-who are citizens of this State -receive the Whig nomination for Governor Will not they, and their friends, assist in driving um into a merited retreat, from which his politi cal friends will not again have the effrontery to

51. Louis Correspondence. Sr. Louis, March 21, 1854 Great as has already been the loss of life an destruction of steamboat property on the wester waters, still the dead list is not yet full or the de struction complete. It is my painful duty to again in a shocking and manner. On the 13th inst., as the steam Reindeer was on her way to this city, she collarse a flue, scattering death and deteruction to all around In leaving the wharf at Cannelton, Ind., on the Ohio river, she became entangled among some coal boats, and in her attempt to clear herself careehe considerably, causing the water to run from the upper boiler, which became heated and collarsed ling and wounding about sixty persons-thirtysix of whom were dead at the latest accounts, an cannot recover. The accident occurred about 1 o'clock at night, and the river was running ba ull; the number lost overboard is not known, an consequently not counted in the above where every attention was paid them. The scer must have been truly terrible—sixty persons strip ned of their clothing, lying side by side on the cal n floor covered with oil and flour, uttering bear rending moans and screams, unable to calm th great anguish they were under. This boat had just been purchased, (and was being delivered a the time of the accident,) by the Chicago Railrea o., and was to take the place of the ill-fated Klate Kearney, which blew to atoms a short time sin at our levee.

And yet another! The new steamboat John I

Avery, bound from New Orleans to Cincinnati when at Black Hawk Point, on the Mississippi about forty miles above Natchez, on the 9th inst. either struck a snag or sunk by the water rushin over her guards, as a heavy storm was raging a the time. There are different statements as to the number lost. The passengers on the Avery report one hundred and fifty lost, while another account gives the number at forty or fifty; which of the two statements is reliable I am of course unable to say; but suppose the latter be correct, it is grea enough in all conscience. The river was very high and the wind blowing tremendous gales; the poor creatures but a short time to prepar hemselves to enter into that bourne from whence no traveller returns.' As she sunk, her cabin float off, carrying with it a large number of people The Sultane, passing at the time, picked up th survivers. Two or three of the cabin passengers were lost-the mate and cook of the crew, and I others were mostly German emigrants on their way to seek a home in the distant west-but wh nely found a watery grave. Thus ends an other chapter in the history of the western rivers.

15 We copy the following beautiful and approriate tribute to the memory of the late WILLIAM AATHIOT, from the Examiner of Wellnesday last. is, we think, from the pen of liesten. OBITHARY

When, after a long life of virtue, an aged friend ompletes the circle of his years and sinks into the grave, our grief is tempered by the reflection e has filled the measure of his usefulness. And when the youth in life's green spring,' whose ear-ly manhood gave promise of a worthy age, is tricken from our midst, our sorrow is softe the consoling thought that he has gone unspott from a world of trial, which has stained t purest souls, and withered the fairest hones. But then the mysterious bibs of Providence falls up on the vigorous form of one who has entered on a nath of usefulness, and given assurance of his worth, we lament the trusty citiz-n and triend, and mourn at once the loss of what he was and what he might have been of WILLIAM MATHIOT, Esq. Death overtook him in his youth, but not before he had, in many in stances, displayed his ability to serve his tellow citizens, in important official stations and responsi ble public trusts. Shunk in 1844, he obtained the post of Deputy Attorney General, and conducted the prosecutions of Lancaster county, with equal credit to his qualities of head and hear, until the accession of Gov. Johnson, in 1848. In 1851 the Court of Common Pleas appointed him a member of the Board of Revenue. Commissioners in the proceedings of which body he took an active and influential part. He was repeatedly elected to the Common Council of the city of Lancaster, and for some years presided over its deliberations. As a lawyer, he acquired the respect and confidence of the profession, and the people; as a cilizen, he was enterprising and public spirited; as a man and gentleman, he was courteous, upright and high-mind d. He was no less esteemed for his private and ocial virtues, than for his public qualities. An affectionate son, a faithful husband and a kind and generous friend, he not only possessed the hearts of devoted family, but gathered about him a circle of partial and admiring friends. His amnability of disposition and urbanity of memor still further extended his social influence, and produced upon every acquaintance that favorable impression which never tailed to increase with additional inter-

It will, in all probability, be many years before the people of his native city will find another to supply his place in general usrfulness; in the wide incle of his triends there will long exist an aching void, which Time alone will close, and that sor owing cluster of wife, mother and sisters, from hich the supporting branch has been so abruptly reut will only find its consolation in the untailing word of Him 'who tempers the wind to the shorn amb, and promises an eternal re-union with the lenarted objects of our affections in a purer and
