Crusader," a paper published in Boston City, and dated July 8th. The article was brought to my notice by a friend, and after a careful perusal, I desire in the col-umns of your paper to offer the result of my exam-ination, to your readers. The author evidently has nothing to tell, that is no truth to tell; and it is to be regreted that in the exercise of a vindic-tive and bitter feeling, arising no doubt from a dis-appointment in a matter involving dollars and cents, he did not possess courage enough to pub-lish his communication in one of our City papers for the amusement of those conversant with the lish his communication in one of our City papers for the amusement of those conversant with the facts in the case, instead of distributing his miser-able tissue of perverted truth, to the readers of a paper which boasts of its fifty thousand numbers weekly, yery few of which come to this place, or are read by persons who are at all able to judge of the facts of the question at issue. The commun-ication developes some startling and strange disclosures, and most amusing to those who are more directly concerned. The evident design of the whole effort is, to poison the minds of his readers against Franklin & Mar-shall College, the cause of which can very easily be deduced from the few extracts design giving. Our pseudo-friend to justice and charity, alter Our pseudo-friend to justice and charity, after stating a lew facts concerning ine location of this rew Institution in onr midst, gives "verbatim ef literatim," the circular issued by the Trustees of ILEFALTM," the circular issued by the Trustees of the College prior to the collection of the amount specified by the act of the Legislature, for the erection of the College-building—and then pro-ceeds to say—"(from this inducefirent held out, our Lancaster MECHANICS did subscribe liberally, and they raised and PAID the $25,000 required." The stranger's conclusion here must be that this The stranger's conclusion here must be that this amount of money was subscribed and paid, by the Mechanics of Lancaster city exclusively, and for the mere purpose of emolument, leaving the idea of education entirely out of the question. If "More Anon" possesses no feelings of charity, and re-pect for truth, and the T of education entirely out of the question. If "More Anon" possesses no feelings of charity, and re-spect for truth, and the Trustees of the College, he should have guarded against such a wholesale perversion of the motives of that most noble class of citizens, the Mechanics. That they contributed liberally and nobly to this great and good cause, I am glad to admit, and I further contend that their perime work too pure to be groupended by I am gad to admit, and r initial boundary by their motives were too pure to be governed by those which seem to characterize our correspon-dent, that of avaricious selfishness. Mr. Smith being a Mechanic, and an Ar chites to some noticity, and considerable abil-ity, and a responsible man, it is to be pre-sumed that these requisitions, fin connection with others of a satisfactory charactor, in-duced the building committee in which there was not one Catholic to give the contract to him, and not the fact simply that he was a Catholic, as "More Anon" would induce his Know Nothing

Than a "Jesuit College ?" Ahan a "Jesuit College ?" Here, truly, is logic, and most powerful con-clusions. From the burthen of this man's comclusions. From the burthen of this man's com-munication which we have here given, it is very evident that the bitterness of feeling which he dis-plays originates in disappointment in matters of emolument. He exercises a most vindicitive and unrelenting feeling, not towards the Rev. Mr. Keenan, or Mr. Smith; for he respects them as gentle-aguistorial spirit toward the Catholics, in proscent-ing them for the sin of worshiping God accord-ing to the dictates of their own conscience.— bing the letter of its contents. It has been said. Not, because they in action and perhaps senti-ment, reluse to extend to the foreigner the welcome of "bloody hands, to hospitable graves."-But because they, in the distribution of their benmen as gentlemen, and toward the Catholics in the mails in this state-instead of the Post Maste general 'do' their religious sentiments,' and for putting his confidential clerk on the lookout, and doing what he actually has done himself, he de-to watch the rest of those engaged in the office, he nounces them as hypocrites. The point of offence in the case appears to be the fact, that this work was given to a Catholic and a foreigner, and that the Trustees of this In-stitution permit a Catholic Priest to rule them.— Here, it is plain, the lash is laid upon the backs of the Catholics and Joreigners, through the acion of thsoe Trustees. And yet, of the fifty-one persons spoken of in the communication, there are | will be tried before the U.S. Circuit Court at the be respects as such, and for their religious senti-ments, and those, in all that number, are the com-munication headed in the tollowing words: "Re-dition, with the ability to help our mechanics and manism destroys human reason, and brutalizes man. Papists worse than Barbarism." And aiter all this, he cries out lustify for consistency, and complains most bitterly of the hypocrisy of the Trustees of Franksin and Marshall Coilege. Surely this man should not oppose colleges, or especially public schools.

Now what is the logic and force of his conclu-Now what is the logic and lorge of his conclusions? Haplist, Presbyterian, Methodist, Mora-vian, or Lutheran Clergymen' are not Jesuits, — No Clergymen of these respective denominations hold membership in this Board of Trastees. The Trustees constitute the College, and therefore— "what right has this college, in the name than a Jesuit College." This truly is a power in argument rarely presented by modern Polemics, and perhaps it was supposed by "More Anon" that its force could not be appreciated by the citizens of Lancaster, which fact induced him to ol-fer it to the "Know-Nothings," which course, might perhaps possess more significance than ille reader might be able to discover, unless some care bathen with a supersonal significance of the some care be taken in the perusal.

Now let us institute the query, why it is that men will permit feelings of a vindictive 'character so much to control them, as to make of them tools, to do the work of faisifying and calumniating the best characters, and proudest efforts of their fel-low men? Can "More Anon" be a resident of Lanceaster, and yet uncornt of the false constitute he Lancaster, and yet ignorant of the false position he has taken before fifty thousand of his tellow citistates and offer hity thousand of his fellow citi-zens, and, if so, cicar himself of one of the most shamelul impositions and cowardly misrepresenta-tions a man can perpetrate upon his fellow f I trust for the honer of Lancaster City, that this man is ignorant of the facts which make his position, and statements false. But if ignorant, is he not conclusion which will be such as equally culpable, for such an unwarranted and un equally culpable, for such an unwarranted and un-called for display of ignorance ! I wish not to provoke controversy with those who style themselves Know-Nothings, or any class of citizens; but I wish to say, although not in any way connected with the College, that the irriends of this Institution take no alarm from shots, or com-munications of this character. All the enmity that can be sait upon it but those who have to clumping can be spit upon it by those who love to calumniate and destroy, is regarded as potential elements in driving together with more force, and uniting with more consanguinity the hearts and efforts of those who love all the interests of this Institution, and delight in her prosperity. Those who hate it, need not delight themselves with the idea that it is composed of so Irail material that they can injure it, much less demolsh it, with their potato pop-guns. It was "born to live," and is established upon the very best of soil, and surrounded by a good, healthful atmosphere, and the fondest hopes of those who would destroy it will nover be real-ized. In the support of this assertion, I am guided by the "lamp of experience." Denominational influ-ence, and the influence of their Alumni, have built up all the Colleges in the country and are still their who love all the interests of this Institution, and up all the Colleges in the country, and are still their surest safeguards. The German Relormed Church in its rapid developement and growing prosperity, still exerts all its powers to sustain and cherish its Institutions. The Alumni, though young compared in one in the congressional race. A great deal of money has been staked on the probable result of the colleges in the State, still cherish the August election. the warmest and tenderest affection for their "Al-worthy citizens; but as they are unknown to your readers I will retrain from so doing. Cassius M. Clay is delivering lectures throughout the West, wherever he can gather an audience. He has already spoke in Illinois and Iowa. In one of his lectures he is said to have used the following language :- "I honestly believe that every man from the Free States who voted for the repeal of the Missouri Restriction, deserves DEATH."

This is rather strong talk to come from such a weak stomach, but as Cassius M. Clay is the author it don't amount to much. Abolitionists of his stamp have studied the one idea of slavery until they have become monomaniacs, and the best thing to do with Cassius would be to put him a straight jacket! The Whigs and Abolitionists of Iowa are dreadfully fearful of the approaching August election, end cry in pititul tones "save us Cassius, or we sink." A large number of cattle, sheep and hog: are being driven across the plains this season. Some two years since our city was the scene of an election riot in the First Ward, gotton up by reletious teachings from the pen of the ditor of the Anzerger des Westens, a German paper of this

The new organization of "Know Nothings" are said to number 3,000, but I can hardly think so.

They will no doubt have considerable effect upon the election, and as matters now stand, nothing is certain. The friends of Col.
