The weather has been delightful during the past weak, and suitable for the gathering of the abindant crops now ripening and being harvested, and about the beginning of next weak we expect to see the new The beginning of next week we expect to see the new grain coming forward quite freely. our midst. The Fourth of July, 1855, was an event in the history of the West, and more particularly of St. Louis, long to be remembered; an event that has united with an iron chain the destinies of three pop-ulous and wealthy States; an event that will be look-ed upon in fature ages as of vast importance to the country. There has searcely ever been a celebration of the anniversary of "Independence Day" that has contributed so much joy to the hearts of the inhabi-tants of the States of Missouri, Illinois and Indiana, as that of 1855, which was no less than the event of the inauguration of one of the grandest, as well as most important Roads of the American Continent— the completion to Vincennes of the Ohio and Missis-sippi Railroad—forming a connection with the East-ern States and the cities of the seaboard. The con-struction of this road will draw into the great Val-ley of the Mississippi an immensity of the rich pro-ducts of the soil and manufactures of the States of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky, which have hitherte found a market in other sections, simply because the facilities of transportation were not such as to render it profitable to the farmer, the mechanic and the manufacturer. The President and Directors of this Road, deeming

d the manufacturer. The President and Directors of this Road, deeming it a work of no small magnitude, and worthy of a great glorification, issued about five hundred invita-tions to the merchants and business men of our city --whose interests will be benefited materially by Wabash Valley—to join in the inauguration festivi-ties of the day—a day, too. Shered to every lover of American Independence, and the glorious institu-tions under which we live. Your correspondent was the bearer of one of these invitations, and participa-ted in the celebration and inauguration of this gi-reaties and momentum work and the durat data for gantic and momentous work, and the duty devolves upon him to "report progress" to the readers of the Intelligencer, which I will enter into as briefly as

At half-past six, on the morning of the 4th, the party assembled on the ferry-boat and crossed the "Father of Waters." At Illinoistown we took the cars, consisting of a train of eleven and the locomo cars, consisting 0^{ra} train of eleven and the locono tive "San Francisco," and started off at lightning speed towards the rising sun, which was gently be-ginning its daily circuit, and peering through the trees of the far off hills, as though conscious of its missioi, and gliding our way with its brillinnt and dazzting rays, and bidding us a joyous welcome to the hospitalities of its Eastern sphere. It was not long beiore the banks of our noble and majestic river, and these we loved most dear, were lost to view, and the snort of our "from Horse" on the wide-spreading prairies of Illinois sent terror to the hearts of all animal nature, and wonder at the specta clo so suddenly presented to view, and as suddenly away off in the distance, clinging to the tail of that mighty engine which moves in triumph under the burthen at its back. The entire train was tastefully decorated with embiens commemorative of the day and the consion

The entire train was tastofully decorated with emblems commemorative of the day and the occasion --fory-loar small flags, berring the stars and Stripes, waved from one end to the other of the long and magnificent train, and from the rear ear—which was an open one, and containing a most excellent band, engaged for the occasion at Jefferson Earnetks— flowed a streamer in the breeze some 22 feet in length, on which was inscribed, in large capitals, "Onto and Mississippi Kairoad," and beneath an iron chain was represented, composed of three great links, in each of which appeared in large letters, "Missouri," "Illinois" and "Indiana." The design was appropriate, for those three great States are now linked together with an iron chain, and this connec-tion with prove of immense value to the inhabith. Is or each and all.

or each and all Imagine you see this train crossing "Grand Prai rie," which is thirty infles wide, and not a tree or a house to obstruct the view, and you have a raint idea of the magnificance and grandeur of the scene, it was my good fortune to behold on the Fourth of July, 1000

ut the centre of this vast prairie the Illinois Central Ivailroad crosses the Onio and Mississippi Road. At this point we stopped, and as far as the eye can carry east, west, north and south can be seen Eye can carry easy, wext, horn and south can be seen the non-rais. At all the towns and stations along the road—of which there are a great number—we were received and welcomed by the booming of can-non, the waying of flags, and the shouts and nurrants from the industands who had assembled there from the quarty round. At each station we took on the

It is the constraints which as a scheduler to be on hit-teen or more delegates, and when they came aboard their hearts were so hiled with joy upon the comple-tion of this great work, that they were scarcely able to restrain the tear which was ready to start. The section of contary through which this road passes, is the most beautiful and fuxariant of the whole West; for miles and miles—as far as the naked eye can penetrate—are fields of dark green corn, in-terspersed with goiden helds of wheat—much of which is already in shock, and the rest ripe and ready for the scale. All along this great road inx-uriant needs of outs, barley and rye gladden the eye on every side, and orefaulds, groaning under the weight of pienty, attract the eye, and cheer the hearts of airs, and no conton help exclaim—how trury grand and sublime the scene. There was sub-ject master to hit columns of your paper, but 1 have aircany to respect upon your finits, and will pass briefly over the resistee of the proceedings of the day. bredy over the restated optimisely of a finite, and with pass bredy over the restate of the proceedings of the day. On, on we went, and returned the weroome shouts as we approached and departed from each station.— We attract at Vincennes—one hundred and fifty miles from St. Louis—about 5 o'clock, and the roar of cannon and the shouts of the multitude, who had assembled there, for infles around, to winces the in-auguration ceremonies of the Onio and Mississippi Kanroad, and to celebrate the Anniversary of Amer-ican Independence. When the cars stanoad we were ican independence. When the cars stapped we were received and welcomed in a neat and appropriate address from the Mayor of that city, to which Mayor King, of St. L uts, eroquently replied and thanked him, in behalt of the excursionists, for the flattering manner in which they were received by the citizens of Vincennes. The platform crected for the occasion of vheetnes. The platform crecked for the occasion, was most becautinuity decorated with flags, flowers and wreaths. The stand was principality occupied by hauss—the hair daughters of the Wabnsh Vairey —the beauty and chivairy of the "Old Fort" was there—the young and the old—the solder and the ervision stood in silence and looked upon the scene there presented and contrasted it with that day there presented and contrasted it with that day seventy-s.x years ago, when the herore Gen. Chark reached Kaskaski and wrested that post from Brit-ish domination, and thereby established a basis of military operations when subsequently enabled him to liberate Vincemens from the same power. Clark and his brave and gatiant little band made the English surrender that fort upon that day seventy-six years ago. What a contrast was there presented. The old house that Gen. Harrison occupied in the "days that tried mea's souls," still stands and bears his name, and is occupied as a hotel. If for no other cause, the history of Vincemes Is sumflene to econ-memorate the day throughout the States, and it was nobly and patriotically performed by the sons and daugners of the Valley of the Wabash. The welkin was made to ring by the booming of cannon and the thomsands or voices that ceheed and re-echeed along the placed stream that divides the States of Illinous and Indiana and indiana The stand, upon which the speakers stood, sat thirten young ladies, dressed in white, representing the "Old Infreen States." Each lady hore the name of a State upon a wide band on a gipsy hat, and held in her haud a small hag with the Stars and Stripes and the escutcheon of the State each repre-sented. Pennsylvanta was there in her glory, and it did my heart good to see that broat name here by t did my heart good to see that proud name bore by so lovely a daughter of the far west. We next partook of a sumptious dinner spread up-on the green, and within ten yards of Gen. Har-rison's out residence. The tables were niled with the "fat of the land," and owing to the stringent liquor Law of Indiana, no ardent spirits were on the ground or to be had for love or inoncy in the town. After dinner we formed in procession, and headed by the original Thirteen, paraded through the city, and muchy halted in front of the market house, and multy halted in front of the market house, where speeches were made and sentiments offered by some oithe distinguished guests. The magnificent bridge across the Wabush river-over which we passed with our lengthy train, is a piece of work unsurpassed in the West 1 tis 800 feet long, and bore the weight upon it with all case. It was said to be a brilliant sight to the citizens of Vincennes when our train, with its waving dugs passed over the river in full view of the cutre city and amid the roar of connou and the welcome hurrahs of those who lined the river bank, and from those upon the train. who lined the river bank, and from those upon the train. We left Vincennes at 9 o'clock P. M. and in con-sequence of a heavy dew that fell during the night, and the long train of cars attached, the locomotive made but null progress, and we did not arrive in St. Louis until 10 A. M. the following day. We had in company Julge Bates of this city, and Jadge Breeze of Hinois ; H. D. Bacou, of the firm of Page & Bacon, who is the President of the road; the Board of Directors, the Mayor and Councils of St. Louis; the man who put the first spade in the road, the man who laid the first syte, the engineer who drew the first valve, and the man who laid the last rail and drove the last spike. I wish my old friend unbounded success in his new enterprise; and hope the day is not far dis-tant when he will abandon the advocacy of the un-constitutional dectrines and measures of the so called American Party. He and they should have no con-necion with each other. The editor of the St. Lonis Morning Herald was obscised on Sunday with last by Mr. W. Bennet.

The editor of the St. Louis Morning Herald was chastised on Sunday night last by Mr. W. Bennet, for a piece of poetry published in his paper reflect-ing on the character of the family of Mr. B. Since which time both parties have published cards, and, both rendered themselves ridiculous—the former fo-publishing the poetry, and the latter for the cowardly manner in which the chastisement was administered. The latest news from the Plains state that there have been no demonstrations of a hostile character by the Indians, and that the previous statements published of murders and robberies are innusually civil and peaceable. All the trains on the road were getting along finely and doing well. The party that brought this news was delayed one day at Fort Kenney by an immense herd of bonfalo, extending on every side as far as the eye could see. (ULD GUARD far as the eye could see. He has an amiable wife and several children. From some cause, the on of Dr. Ferris disliked Gordon, and they remained enemies until the death of Dr. Fer ris. Gordon then made friends with young Ferris, and became intimate with a beautiful young lady to whom he was engaged to be married. Ferris removed to Cincinnati, and during his absence, Gordon used every art in his power to seduce the young girl; but fail-ing in his hellish designs, he administered certain drugs, and thus triumphed over her virtue. By threats of exposure he forced her to continue her criminal connection, and re-ceived from her letters acknowledging her guilt.  C. M. MARTIN.

 Elder J. STAMM;—I deem it an imperative duty to suffer-ing humanity, to recommend the use of your Vegetable Dyspepsia BITEERS to the public, as an invaluable reme-dy for that soroly distressing and extensively prevalent disease which are non-indicates. Experience and obser-vation competence to speak of it in torns of the highest commendation. I was myself-permanently cured by using about 6 bottles, though my stomach was so weak that it would retain on instance among the numerous cases that have' come within the range of my knowledge, has its use failed to give immediate, and when persevered in, permanent relief. I feel no hesitance y in pronouncing it an infailible remedy for Dyspepsia.
 ELDER J. STAMM—Dear Sir: We are curitely out of the Dyspepsia Bitters. We find it a good article, and it will sell. Have a lot ready this week, and forward as soon as possible.
