

FOR CANAL COMMISSIONER. ARNOLD FLUMBER, of Vermont.

County Committee Meeting. The Democratic Co. Committee of Lancaster...

The following names constitute the Committee: H. B. Swarr, Chairman. J. W. W. Jacob, J. E. Kautz...

The Riblest Joke of the Season! The following resolution, amongst others, was passed by the Know-Nothing Committee...

Oil and Water—A New Fizzle! The following call appears in the Pittsburg Gazette of Wednesday last. The idea of a fusion between George Darrie and Thaddeus Stevens is rich indeed!

The Elections. Kentucky has gone for the Know Nothings. Our Democratic friends in that State fought most gallantly, but there was too large a Whig majority to overcome.

Alabama All Right! The Washington Union has carried which show that the Democrats have returned the Governor, a large majority of the Legislature, and six of the seven members of Congress!

The Whig County Committee had another meeting on yesterday week, and changed the time of holding their delegate elections to Saturday the 1st of September...

The Democratic State Central Committee will meet at Shober's, on Saturday next, the 18th inst., to fix upon a time for holding the delegate elections...

From recent butchery in Louisiana, we are inclined to believe, that some of those miserable Know-Nothing demagogues, who pretended to stay the work of destruction...

We give below the "explanations" promised by Governor REEDER to the Secretary of State—and the response of the latter...

On turning to the letter of G. W. Clarke, Indian agent, to which you refer, we find that, in endeavoring to expel him from charges of official delinquency...

It is not our duty to defend the two separate charges; first, the purchase of half-breed Kansas lands, and secondly, the purchase of lands in violation of acts of Congress...

The papers were submitted by us to the President, and as the government have been for years past, in the habit of approving similar contracts, we did not apprehend any difficulty...

Whether this last reason was based upon the assumption of actual fraud in the contract, or upon the Commissioner's idea that public officers had no right to purchase, I confess I do not know.

We know that the vendors were entirely correct in their views, and that the Government had no right to purchase, and that the vendors had no right to sell, and we believe so still...

We have already shown that the transaction was marked by fair and honorable dealing throughout, and that the vendors had decided opportunity for consultation and deliberation...

Gen. Sam. Houston has written a letter endorsing the principles of the Know Nothings.

On turning to the letter of G. W. Clarke, Indian agent, to which you refer, we find that, in endeavoring to expel him from charges of official delinquency...

It is not our duty to defend the two separate charges; first, the purchase of half-breed Kansas lands, and secondly, the purchase of lands in violation of acts of Congress...

The papers were submitted by us to the President, and as the government have been for years past, in the habit of approving similar contracts, we did not apprehend any difficulty...

Whether this last reason was based upon the assumption of actual fraud in the contract, or upon the Commissioner's idea that public officers had no right to purchase, I confess I do not know.

We know that the vendors were entirely correct in their views, and that the Government had no right to purchase, and that the vendors had no right to sell, and we believe so still...

We have already shown that the transaction was marked by fair and honorable dealing throughout, and that the vendors had decided opportunity for consultation and deliberation...

Gen. Sam. Houston has written a letter endorsing the principles of the Know Nothings.

We know that the vendors were entirely correct in their views, and that the Government had no right to purchase, and that the vendors had no right to sell, and we believe so still...

We have already shown that the transaction was marked by fair and honorable dealing throughout, and that the vendors had decided opportunity for consultation and deliberation...

On turning to the letter of G. W. Clarke, Indian agent, to which you refer, we find that, in endeavoring to expel him from charges of official delinquency...

It is not our duty to defend the two separate charges; first, the purchase of half-breed Kansas lands, and secondly, the purchase of lands in violation of acts of Congress...

The papers were submitted by us to the President, and as the government have been for years past, in the habit of approving similar contracts, we did not apprehend any difficulty...

Whether this last reason was based upon the assumption of actual fraud in the contract, or upon the Commissioner's idea that public officers had no right to purchase, I confess I do not know.

We know that the vendors were entirely correct in their views, and that the Government had no right to purchase, and that the vendors had no right to sell, and we believe so still...

We have already shown that the transaction was marked by fair and honorable dealing throughout, and that the vendors had decided opportunity for consultation and deliberation...

Gen. Sam. Houston has written a letter endorsing the principles of the Know Nothings.

We know that the vendors were entirely correct in their views, and that the Government had no right to purchase, and that the vendors had no right to sell, and we believe so still...

We have already shown that the transaction was marked by fair and honorable dealing throughout, and that the vendors had decided opportunity for consultation and deliberation...

On turning to the letter of G. W. Clarke, Indian agent, to which you refer, we find that, in endeavoring to expel him from charges of official delinquency...

It is not our duty to defend the two separate charges; first, the purchase of half-breed Kansas lands, and secondly, the purchase of lands in violation of acts of Congress...

The papers were submitted by us to the President, and as the government have been for years past, in the habit of approving similar contracts, we did not apprehend any difficulty...

Whether this last reason was based upon the assumption of actual fraud in the contract, or upon the Commissioner's idea that public officers had no right to purchase, I confess I do not know.

We know that the vendors were entirely correct in their views, and that the Government had no right to purchase, and that the vendors had no right to sell, and we believe so still...

We have already shown that the transaction was marked by fair and honorable dealing throughout, and that the vendors had decided opportunity for consultation and deliberation...

Gen. Sam. Houston has written a letter endorsing the principles of the Know Nothings.

We know that the vendors were entirely correct in their views, and that the Government had no right to purchase, and that the vendors had no right to sell, and we believe so still...

We have already shown that the transaction was marked by fair and honorable dealing throughout, and that the vendors had decided opportunity for consultation and deliberation...

On turning to the letter of G. W. Clarke, Indian agent, to which you refer, we find that, in endeavoring to expel him from charges of official delinquency...

It is not our duty to defend the two separate charges; first, the purchase of half-breed Kansas lands, and secondly, the purchase of lands in violation of acts of Congress...

The papers were submitted by us to the President, and as the government have been for years past, in the habit of approving similar contracts, we did not apprehend any difficulty...

Whether this last reason was based upon the assumption of actual fraud in the contract, or upon the Commissioner's idea that public officers had no right to purchase, I confess I do not know.

We know that the vendors were entirely correct in their views, and that the Government had no right to purchase, and that the vendors had no right to sell, and we believe so still...

We have already shown that the transaction was marked by fair and honorable dealing throughout, and that the vendors had decided opportunity for consultation and deliberation...

Gen. Sam. Houston has written a letter endorsing the principles of the Know Nothings.

We know that the vendors were entirely correct in their views, and that the Government had no right to purchase, and that the vendors had no right to sell, and we believe so still...

We have already shown that the transaction was marked by fair and honorable dealing throughout, and that the vendors had decided opportunity for consultation and deliberation...

On turning to the letter of G. W. Clarke, Indian agent, to which you refer, we find that, in endeavoring to expel him from charges of official delinquency...

It is not our duty to defend the two separate charges; first, the purchase of half-breed Kansas lands, and secondly, the purchase of lands in violation of acts of Congress...

The papers were submitted by us to the President, and as the government have been for years past, in the habit of approving similar contracts, we did not apprehend any difficulty...

Whether this last reason was based upon the assumption of actual fraud in the contract, or upon the Commissioner's idea that public officers had no right to purchase, I confess I do not know.

We know that the vendors were entirely correct in their views, and that the Government had no right to purchase, and that the vendors had no right to sell, and we believe so still...

We have already shown that the transaction was marked by fair and honorable dealing throughout, and that the vendors had decided opportunity for consultation and deliberation...

Gen. Sam. Houston has written a letter endorsing the principles of the Know Nothings.

We know that the vendors were entirely correct in their views, and that the Government had no right to purchase, and that the vendors had no right to sell, and we believe so still...

We have already shown that the transaction was marked by fair and honorable dealing throughout, and that the vendors had decided opportunity for consultation and deliberation...

Wise majority, 83,424 Flour, 73,244

Wise majority, 83,424 Flour, 73,244