The following beautiful little poem from Ten-DVSOD'S new volume-" Mand and other Poems"s said to be a true passage from the poet's own experience. Whether it is or no, it is natural enough to be thus set down: THE LETTERS

- Still on the tower stood the vane, A black vew gloomed the stagnant air. I peer'd athwart the chanced pane And saw the altar cold and bare. A clog of lead was round my feet. A band of pain across my brow; "Cold altar, Heaven and earth shall meet Before you hear my marriage yow." I turn'd and humm'd a bitter song That mock'd the wholesome human heart.
- We met, but only meant to part, Full cold my greeting was and dry; She faintly smiled, she hardly moved; I saw with half unconscious eye . She were the colors I approved.
- She took the little ivory chest. With half a sigh she turn'd the key, Then raised her head with lips comprest, And gave my letters back to me. And gave the trinkets and the rings, My gifts, when gifts of mine could please As looks a father on the things
- Of his dead sun, I look on these. She told me all her friends had said; I raged against the public liar; She talk'd as if her love were dead, But in my words were seeds of fire "No more of love; your sex is known I never will be twice deceived, & Henceforth I trust the man alone, The woman cannot be believed. Thro' slander, meanest spawn of hell (And woman's slander is the worst.) And you, whom once I loved so well, Thro' you my life will be accurst.' I snoke with heart, and heat and force
- I shook her breast with vague alarms Like torrents from a mountain source We rushed into each other's arms. We parted: sweetly gleam'd the stars, And sweet the vapor-braided blue, Low breezes fann'd the belfry bars, As homeward by the church I drew The very graves appeared to smile, So fresh they rose in shadow'd swells; "Dark porch," I said, "and silent aisle; There comes a sound of marriage bells.'

THE HAZEL DEL. A POPULAR SONG. In the Hazel Dell my Nelly's sleeping Nelly loved so long, And my lonely, lonely watch I'm keeping, Nelly lost and gone? Through the silent shade; Now where leafy blanches drooping downward

Little Nelly's laid. All alone my watch I'm keeping, In the Hazel Dell, For my darling Nelly's near me sleeping, Nelly dear farewell In the Hazel Dell my Nelly's sleeping, Where the flowers wave, And the silent stars are nightly weeping, O'er poor Nelly's grave; Hopes that once my bosom fondly cherished, Every dream of joy, alas, has perished, Nelly, dear, with thee, All alone my watch I'm keeping, &c.

Now I'm weary, friendless and forsaken, Watching here alone, Nelly, thou no more wilt fondly cheer me, With thy lovely tone; Yet forever shall thy gentle image In my memory dwell And my tears thy lonely grave shall moisten, Nelly, dear, farewell

All alone my watch I'm keeping, &c.

LOYALTY OR LOVE. A TALE OF THE FIRST FAMILIES OF VIRGINIA.

In the autumn of 1674 the present site of Richmond was divided into plantations, belonging to Colonel Byrd and Nathaniel Bacon, the mansion of the latter standing upon what is now called Shockoe's Hill. It was one of those fine old mansions patterned after the baronial halls of Old England, and since unequalled upon this continent. A spacious hall, decked with portraits, parlors with furniture of carved oak, a dining hall where a battalion could banquet, and a library with a bow window commanding a prospect of picturesque magnificence, especially when autumn had touched the foliage with his magic pencil. The bright scarlet of the maple, the deep crimson of the dogwood, the mellow brown at a great war dance." of the ash, and the lively yellow of the chestnut contrasted strikingly with the deep ever green of the cedar, pine and hemlock scattered through the forests. Below, the river foamed over its rocky bed to spread into a lake-like sheet, and was

Nathaniel Bacon, the master of the establishment, was a hale and handsome man, with a thick black moustache, clear black in England during the convulsive strughe believed that popular rights were equal at least to royal sway. Not so his sister Henrietta, who had passed a winter with the Governor's family at Jamestown, where she had learned to reverence "the right divine" of her sovereign. Her age at this time was about eighteen, and though her form was not the voluptuary would have called perfect, or her face one that a sculptor would have selected as a model, yet there was a winning expression that enabled her to charm all who knew

At the time when our story commences she had just opened a letter, from which a printed packet fell to the floor. "Here, brother Nat," said she, "is 'one of his Excellency's letters to the privy council, sent back in good London print. Will you read it?" Bacon took the document, but as he

he had perused the epistle, "and regret much to hear of the course of the governor in disbanding the volunteers. Can it be possible that at this time, when the yell of the savage resound through our woods. Virginians must retire to their plantations, there to remain until they are scalped?" "Ah! I am glad to hear you talk so," replied Rupert Wythely, "for I have come expressly to request your acceptance of the commission of general. Here it is signed by over five hundred as brave men as there is on this continent."

"You surely are not asking my brother to take up arms against Governor Berkley's will?" said Henrietta, with a smile. "Nay, miss; but the country is in danger," said the young man, who had already begun to admire the fair Henrietta.

"It is a grave question," remarked Mr. Bacon, "and I must ponder over it : meanwhile, my sister will escort you to the falls, and to the rock where Pocahontas preserved the life of Captain Smith. At dinner time I will give you my answer." Rupert Wythley was a wealthy young planter near Jamestown, who with a well proportioned person and manly countenance possessed a noble heart and cultivated intelect. His idea of female excellence had been formed upon an ideal model of perfection, in which he had blended the accomplishments of all the heroines of poetry and romance. Vain had been his search hitherto, but ere he had been long with Henrietta he immagined, if her qualities of mind corresponded to her personal charms, he had at length found the beauideal of female perfection.

Meanwhile, her brother had been sorely troubled at heart by the invitation to lead his fellow citizens. Like every true Virginian he felt the country was in danger; for death was ravaging the land under the hideous forms of savage cruelty. The force out under Capt. John Washington had proved entirely insufficient, yet the governor, instead of adding to it, had rebuked them for killing a party of chiefs because it injured the beaver trade of which he had a monopoly. That an armed resistance to the Indians was necessary he did not doubt, but the thought of rising in arms against the will of the king's governor rather staggered him.

"At any way," said he to Wythley, as they sat enjoying their wine after d "I will go to Jamestown and see how matters stand. Let the news reach me that single white man has been harmed by the savages, and I will lead you on to veugeance, commission or no commission."

A long storm at the conclusion of which the fords were impassable, detained Rupert Wythley a week with the Bacons He well improved the time, for, ere he left, Henrietta acknowledged that she was not disinclined to treasure up the rich harvest of affection which he laid at her feet. Nay; she was rather disposed to become more republican in her feelings, and to admit that Virginians might be capable of self-government.

Weeks passed, and in vain did Nathaniel Bacon urge Governor Berkley to abandon his scheme of detatched forts, and authorize a volunteer force of riflemen. At last he left Jamestown in despair, and, ere going home, paid a visit to Henrico, where the sharp-shooters were encamped, unappalled by the edicts of the governor commanding them to disperse. The men soon went of parade under command of Rupert Wythley. ut ere he had heard the reports of sergeants a horseman approached at full galop. Riding up in front of the line, he checked h s foaming steed, and shouted:

"The savages are at the falls of James River, killing and plundering. Turn out!

"Where are they?" asked Bacon, pale with apprehension.
"They first killed all at the mills, and then camped around Bacon's house on the hill. They say it is Powhatan's council ground, and no white man shall possess it.' "And Miss Bacon?" eagerly enquired Wythley.

"I heard they'd got a white gal prisoner and meant to torture her in a few days "Bacon," exclaimed Wythley, "do you now hesitate? "No, no!" Then raising his voice until it rung in trumpet tones over the field, he continued: "Virginians, forgive my hesitation. Now, that my own home is desolate, dotted with small islands, whose shadows can I ask you to to follow me to the rescue

A loud shout of "Lead on!" made the hearts of Bacon and Wythley beat high again, nor was it many hours ere the force cyes, and a florid complexion. Educated was in motion. A braver set of men never hastened to the fray. The sun had see gles between the throne and the parliment, in clouds behind the Blue Ridge, and the woods grew dim as the Virginians approached the house of their general .scouts, who had been sent in advance to reconnoitre reported that there was an intrenchment around the house, within which a huge council fire had been lighted exactly at sunrise. It was evident no time was to be lost. The mounted cavaliers, under the command of Wythley, were ordered to travagance of the most reckless order. The sweep around to the right, while Gen Bacon led the bulk of the force directly up in her eyes and a grace in her movements | the hill, against the frowning, silent breast work.

On they moved, with cautious tread, uncertain as to whether their coming was per cent, in value.

All this commenced four or five years known to the entrenched foe. But when they were within about twenty paces of the breastwork there came along from its of 1853. At the beginning of the present whole front a cloud of arrows, making ma- | year a re-action began to take place. It ny a brave man bite the dust. The scene then became apparent that though the ly warfare, for no sooner had the Virgini- been grossly misused, and that more than read it a flush came over his cheek. whom she loved so well. Morning dawned, and a horrible scene presented itself around the house. There -where St. John's Church now standslay the mangled corpses in the stiff atticared for, the dead interred, and by dinner time the horrors of "grim visaged war" no longer met the eye. The last council fire of the Indian race at James River Fall was extinguished, and the few surviving descendants of the tribe of Pocahontas began their funeral march toward the setting sun. Success insures success. Had Bacon a traitor to his king; but now the haughty governor rewarded him, and he was hailed by the Virginians as their defender .-Marching to Jamestown he forced the governor to adopt new laws, which code was completed July, 1676—one hundred years to a day before the Congress of the United States, adopting the Declaration framed by the statesm n of Virginia began a new era in the history of man. The eighteenth century in Virginia was the child of the seventcenth; and Bacon's rebellion, with the corresponding scenes in Maryland and Carolina and New England, was the early harbinger of American Independence.

And where was Henrietta, that sturdy loyalist? Not in the stately saloons of the governor, but with the sisters of her affiance I lover, Rupert Wythley, who had a residence in Jamestown. Her dreams of royal protection and a noble husband had she now bowed in homage before her heart's turned to the plantation, which Nathaniel Bacon gave his sister as a dower. Some first, but they lived many years in as perfect happiness as mortals can enjoy; nor did she ever forget in after years, in narrating to her grandchildren the events of her rescue, to add: "For all that, my dear, your grandfather did not hold the king's commission. Virginians would act for the mselves." Years rolled on. The Old Dominion became the leader in a great movement, and while the name of the Wythleys is remembered by many who visit the beautiful locality of their home-once the scene of deadly slaughter-history sounds the praise of Nathaniel Bacon, and inscribes his name, in golden letters, high upon the architecture of our National Pantheon.

The following sensible article is from the N. Y. Herald, of the 7th ult:

HARD TIMES. Months and years ago, people said that prosperity was to last forever. Staid sober men deliberately declared their conviction that the discovery of California gold, combined with other causes, was to create an era of commercial enterprise and success unparalleled in history, and there being few like de Quincey to detect the fallacy, and fewer still to remind mankind that in commercial communities periodical crises, embarrassments, and monetary disasters are inevitable, the dangerous delusion was generally believed. An enormous inflation of credit and expansion of paper money followed. An increase of fifty millions in the circulation of the banks, based on an increase of ten millions in specie, afforded unusual facilities to trade. Railroads were projected on the strength of increasing population, and rapidly developed resources. and built with money borrowed on most disadvantageous terms. Merchants imported more than they could sell; retailers purchased more than they could dispose of; private individuals ordered more than they could pay for. Every one, from the corporation of millions to the small tradesman, increased their undertakings in the square of the increased prosperity of the nation; relying on the constant progress of the latter to help them out. Thus it was telle of a million and over in its accounts; thus the merchant who could afford a cottage at Brooklyn, hired a house in Fifth avenue; thus new theatres were built, new ships launched, new villages laid out, and a general plunge made by society into exexpansion of corporate, banking, railroad and private credit led to a general rise in prices. Real estate, farm produce, labor, and all the products of industry were enhanced from twenty-five to one hundred

At that moment the cavaliers under Wythley charged through the savages, and when they had passed, the infantry hastily formed into line, and poured in murderous volleys.—Again the cavaliers moved off a swarth of the how discomfited savages, again a storm of iron had swept through their awayes, and at the two-thirds off of the schemes in painted ranks, and then, with a cheer, the intrenchment was stormed. At the head of those who first entered the breastwork, fighting like a very demon, was Rupert Wythley, and at the door of the oldmansion, as he rode up to it with a heavy heart, he saw his own Henrietta.

"Safe! safe! Thank God she is safe!" Thank God sh Here the laughing girl was interrupted by the entrance of a stranger, who presented a letter to Mr. Bacon. Glancing at the exterior, he introduced the new comer to his sister as Mr. Rupert Wythely, and at the door of the others, ly, of Acomac, and breaking the seal read the contents.

Destined for a sacrifice, she had been carefully treated and allowed the every commercial community at certain intervals; and, which, after causing much in- pulverized alum, pull the horses's tongue But that night was to have witnessed her dividual suffering, purge the community, immolation. A Divine Providence had and leave the country better off than before. One of the incidents of the re-action of inpossible, as she was already summoned 1848, has been the large export of gold. We have sent abroad nearly forty millions alarm cry. Then, by the light of the of specie, and have only received about torches, she plainly witnessed the fray, im- | thirty-six from California. People who do ploring, upon her knees before the window, not understand political economy or finance have supposed that this excess of our exports over our imports of specie caused the present depression and suffering. It suffices to note the figures to prove the contrary. The decline of value in railroad stocks and bonds alone during this year tudes of death, and the stream near by was exceeds thirty millions of dollars; that in tinged with life-blood. The wounded were real estate is probably far beyond this figure; altogether we might safely say that upwards of two hundred millions of dollars have been taken out of the pockets of the people by the decline in values during the year. By so much is the country poorer. of her own sister. In assuming the estimates in the Treasury Report to be near the truth, the country the present moment, $60,000,000 of which been defeated, he would have been shot as is in the banks. To suppose that the disasters of the year are caused by an export of $40,000,000 against an import of $36,-000,000, when the country contains $240,-000,000, safely stored up in various places, s quite gratuitous. The gold export is one of the effects, not the cause of the trouble. Gold goes abroad because it is worth more in England than here-just as flour, cotton and tobacco do. When gold ceases to be worth more in London than it is here, it will cease to be exported. But whether it goes or remains, the effect will only be felt by a very small portion of the country. The real source of the suffering in the commercial world lies far deeper.

Nor can that suffering be cured by any egislative means, as sımple people imagine. Some folks think Congress should pass an act to prevent bakers charging over a cerin price for bread, or employers exacting vanished during her terrible captivity, and | so many hours work out of their workmen. The majority of mankind now see that such lord. Soon they were married and re- interferences in the private relations of man are injurious to both parties, and in the long run must be perfectly useless .clouds darkened their pathway of life at | So in the present trouble, legislative enactment will only aggravate it. It is far beyond the reach of tariffs. Time alone, and private failures, can bring it to an end. When half the unsound schemes that have been started, have wholly broken down, and property and labor have found their natural level, commerce will revive. Till then, those who advertise remedies for the evil are nothing but quacks.

> IMPROVED VARIETIES OF WHEAT FROM FRANCE.—There have lately been imported three varieties of wheat :- The Hungarian wheat; the Neapolitan white wheat, and the early Noe wheat. As the two latter have the property of ripening some days before our common varieties of wheat if they otherwise succeed in this climate, great point will be accomplished. A single week gained in the ripening will often secure the crop from the injury of the rust, independent of the advantage gained in the market. The Saumer wheat is originally from the valley of Anjou, a southeastern province of France, and is a very remarkable variety of Winter wheat. The ear is strong and full, of a reddish color, and is very much esteemed by farmers.-The straw is very white, and grows higher than that of ordinary wheat, while it is larger and sweeter. The Noe wheat was introduced by De Noe, and is commonly known under the name of blue wheat, and owing to its hardy and protective nature, is gradually superseding the Saumer wheat in the central part of France. It is much well as a March wheat if sown early.

So it does if fed raw: this can be avoided by boiling For each cow, boil half a bushel of turnips soft, while hot add five or six quarts of sborts, which will swell, and you will get full worth the of it. A mess like this to a cow once a day will produce more milk of that the Eric Railroad borrowed money to a good quality than any other feed at the pay its dividends, and suppressed a baga- same cost. Turnips fed in this way do not taint either milk or butter. One thing in favor of turnips as feed for cows, is that they can be sown in August, or as late as the first of September. I sowed some as late as September last, which very fine. Turnips are also very profitable food for pigs, when boiled in the same way as for COWS .- Plow, Loom and Anvil.

A LONG DRIVE.-A paper in Indiana county, Pa., chronicles the passage thro'the town of Indiana of Mr. J. Grinder, of Armstrong county, with a drove of sever al hundred head of cattle for the eastern markets, which he had bought in Texas and driven overland, a distance of fifteen hundred miles. They looked remarkably fine, considering they had been on the road since the first of April, a little over four months from the time of being started. In view of our numerous steamshins and sail vessels plying between New Orleans and the north, and of the various lines of railway leading to the west and southwest, it s singular that these cattle should be taken such an overland route.

SINGULAR EFFECTS OF MARRIAGE. We see it stated that by the marriage at Macclesfield, on the 15th of July, of Mr. Orobin Ollenshaw, aged 68, to Miss Ollenshaw, aged 28, the bride became the wife of her own uncle, sister-in-law to her aunt, aunt to her brothers and sisters, and step-mother to her cousins; and by another marriage she became the mother-in-law

INTERESTING TO THE LADIES .- A new ontains over $240,000,000 in specie at material for dresses has made its appearance in France, and is attracting general attention. The Paris Bulletin of Fashion says:-- "It is made from a plant which grows luxuriantly in the south of France and Germany, the fibre of which is of so exquisite a fineness that one thread measuring one mile in length weighed less than four grains. A complete dress for August, made for the Empress Eugenie, with double skirt and all the appurtenances, weighed less than one ounce! It is firm and wonderfully strong, and proves cheaper in the end than any other material for the ladies yet known." The ladies on this side of the water will be impatient to see some > far about twenty-two thousand warrants have been issued, confined exclusively to applications made in March. Fifteen thousand more cases filed during that month remained unacted upon, but the pension officers are exerting themselves to the utmost to forward the warrants to the applicants or their agents. It is supposed that several weeks will clanse before claims filed the first of April will be reached.

IMPORTED CATTLE.—Hon. Huffnagle, M. D., the American Consul to Calcutta, India, has imported several fine cattle and Shetland ponies, which are now grazing on a farm near New Hope, Pa. everal more are on the way and expected o arrive daily. He is also expecting a fine pair of Arabian horses by the next arrival, his object being the improvement of the breed of cattle and horses in this country. -Exchange.

Ague-Ague Cured.

Mount Joy, March, 1855.

Elder J. Stamm:—Dear Sir—For more than one year I was afflicted with the ague. I made every effort to be reliared, but I graw worse, until I used your BITTERS. I am happy to say, that after using several bottles, I was cured of the ague, and have enjoyed good health since.—I had no ague or dyspepsia since August last. I can recommend your BITTERS as a very good medicine, and perhaps one of the best remedies for the Ague and Dyspepsia lnasmuch as it purifies and strengthens the stomach, and gives health and tone to the whole system.

Yours with respect,

Mount Joy, May, 1855.

I have been afflicted with sore threat for some time, which was called Bronchitis by physicians. They treated me with regular treatment, but still I found no rellef.—Your BITTERS was recommended and when I commenced using it I felt my threat getting better; my appetite increased, and my food agreed better with me. I was encouraged to continue with the BITTERS, and now can say these BITTERS cured me. I would recommend J. Stamm's BITTERS to the affilted, for I am confident that my sore threat came from my disordered stomach. My advice is, try it for Bronchitis and Dyspepsia.

Helmhold's Genuine Preparations.—
Helmhold's Highly Concentrated Compound Fluid Extract B. Cill, for Diseases of the Bladder and Kidneys. Secrit Diseases. Strictures. Weaknesses, and all Diseases of the Sexual Organs, whether in male of founde, from whether case theymay have originated and no mighter of how long standing.

If you have contracted the terrible disease, which when ne scated in the system, will surely go down from one zeneration to another, undermining the constitution and sapping the very vital fluids of life, do not trust yourself in the hands of Quacks, who start up every day in a city like this, and fill the papers with glaring falsehoods too well calculated to decive the young and those not acquainted with their tricks. You cannot be too careful in the selection of a generally in these cases.

the selection of a remedy in these cases.

THE FLUID EXTRACT BUCIUL was been pronounced by eminent Physicians the greatest remely over known—it is a medicine beefertly pleasant in its tasts and very innocent in its action, and yet so therough that it annihilates every particle of the rank and poisonous virus of this dreadful disease; and, unlike other remedies, it does not dry up the disease in the blood.

Constitutional Debility, brought on by self-abuse, a most terrible disease, which has brought thousands of the human race to untimely graves, thus blasting the brilllant hopes of parents, and blighting in the bud the glorious ambition of many a noble youth, can be cured by this insellible remedy. And as a medicine which must benefit everybody, from the simply delicate to the confined and despairing invalid, no equal is to be found, acting both as a Cure and Preventive.

HELMIBOLD'S HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA, for purifying the Blood, removing all diseases arising from excess of Mercury, exposure and imprulence in life, chronic constitutions diseases, arising from an impure state of the Blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Servelia, Salt Rheym, Scald Head, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Pains and Swellings of the Bones, Tetter, Pimplesion the Face, and all Scaly Eruptions of the Stin.

Tetter, Pimpleson the Face, and all Scaly Eruptions of the Skin.

This article is now prescribed by some of the most distinguished Physicians in the country, and has proved more efficient. In practice than any other any preparation of Sarsapavilin yet oftered to the public. Several cases of secondary Syphilis, Mercurial and Scrofulous diseases have entirely recovered in the incurable wards of our Public Institutions which had for thany years resisted every mode of treatment that could be devised. These cases furnish striking examples of the saintary efforts of this medicine in arresting some of the most invetored diseases, after the glands were destroyed and the bones already affected. NOTICE—Letters from responsible Physicians and Professors of several Medical Collegos, and certificates of cures from patients will be found accompanying both Preparations.
