

FOR CANAL COMMISSIONER: ARNOLD PLUMMER, of Venango.

ASSEMBLY: GEO. SANDERSON, CHIEF; A. LIGHTNER HENDERSON, SALLY; GEORGE G. BRUSH, MANOR; JESSE REINHOLD, WEST COAST; JOHN GROSS, WEST DONAGH.

COUNTY TREASURER: CHARLES M. HOWELL, City.

COUNTY COMMISSIONER: WILLIAM SPENCER, Strasburg Bor.

PRISON INSPECTORS: JOHN H. DUCHMAN, City; HENRY ECKERT, Paradise.

DIRECTORS OF THE PORT: PERRY MASON, Manor; BENJAMIN HUBER, Lancaster Twp.

AUDITOR: CYRUS REAM, East Coalside.

Democratic Meeting: A meeting of the Democrats of the City of Lancaster, will be held on Monday, Sept. 25.

MARKET HOUSE: On Saturday evening next, the 25th inst., at 7 o'clock, Address will be turned over to Messrs. Sanderson, Swart and others. Turn out, Democrats, one and all, to the meeting.

Sept. 25. MARY.

Democrats! are you Assailed? We would remind our Democratic friends of the necessity of having their names on the Assessment lists AT EAST TEN DAYS BEFORE THE ELECTION. The lists are now placed at the several election polls, where they may be examined. See that your name is recorded in good time, or your vote will be lost. Young men who last year voted "an age" should see that they have been assessed this year.

The Pledge Signed. The Chairman of the Democratic County Committee, H. B. SWART, Esq., requests us to announce that, in obedience to the resolution of the County Convention, he addressed a letter to the electors, in which he pledged himself to the electors, that he would faithfully and impartially execute the duties of his office, and that he would not be influenced by any party or interest, but would be guided solely by the interests of the people.

Democrats of Lancaster County! But two weeks intervene between this and the election, and what is to be done in the way of organization, for the purpose of bringing every voter to the polls, must be done quickly to have the desired effect. There is not a moment to lose. Our Know-Nothing enemies are busily at work endeavoring to create distraction in the Democratic ranks. They fear that if the Democracy present a united front in support of their ticket, they will succeed, and thus give a death-blow to Cameronianism in Lancaster county. Hence their virulent and vindictive assaults upon several of the Democratic candidates, and hence their efforts to poison the minds of honest, but unsuspecting members of the party against a portion of the ticket. Here, in the City, in this hot-bed of faction and Know-Nothingism, all the schemes and plots originate, and from this center it is sought to poison and corrupt the minds of the people throughout the county.

What say you, Democrats of the County? Will you listen to the false and malicious fabrications of this central banditti? Is there any doubt as to the political integrity of any of your candidates? Are they not men of character as Democrats and as citizens? Can you be led to the charge of such men as Messrs. Henderson, Brush, Reinhold, Gross, Huber, Spencer, Duchman, Eckert, Mason, Huber, or Ream? Dare any one charge them, or either of them, with any thing wrong?—Then why should they not have the cheerful support of every Democrat in the County?—We pause for a reply. Yet these are the men, together with the humble writer of this article, whom the factious and unprincipled in the City are endeavoring by God means to strip of their rights. Will not the Democrats of the County rally to the rescue, and rebuke these political trimmers in the City, and teach them a lesson of honesty and integrity? We believe they will. Yes, we are sure the County Democrats will do their whole duty on the second Tuesday of October.

Know-Nothingism Exemplified. Not content with misrepresenting the course of the editor of this paper, and the course of the Know-Nothing leaders, are they busily attempting to get a prejudice against him because he happens to belong to a particular branch of the Christian Church. This is only carrying out one of the leading principles of Know-Nothingism. First they persecute Catholics—now they are down on the Methodists. Next, we suppose, they will attack the Lutherans, the Presbyterians, the German Reformed, the Episcopalians, the Baptists, and so on to the end of the chapter. Well, be it so, we have no objection to their pursuing such a course, and are prepared for the sacrifice, if it must be so. But will the honest and well meaning part of the community, look upon such conduct with complacency? We were early taught, and so have always believed, and ever shall believe, that religion is a matter between man and his Maker, to whom alone he is responsible for his belief, and that no human power has any right to interfere with it. The Know-Nothing, however, think and act differently—and they do it to the face of the Constitution which guarantees the liberty of conscience to every man. More anon.

Arnold Plummer. This gentleman—the Democratic nominee for Canal Commissioner—is one of the purest and best men in the Commonwealth, and will be elected by an overwhelming majority. The respectable papers of every party in the State speak of him in terms of praise—all, even his bitterest political enemies, admit that he stands before the people with a character, both moral and political, unstained by a single blemish. Such a man the people will always delight to honor.

Peter Martin—Canal Commissioner. This gentleman, it appears, is a Know-Nothing candidate for Canal Commissioner. He is a respectable citizen of Lancaster county, and our regret is that he has permitted himself to be the candidate of such a party.—There are now, we believe, not less than five candidates in the field for the post of Canal Commissioner, viz: Arnold Plummer, (Dem.) Venango; Joseph Henderson, (Whig) Washington; Peter Martin, (K. N.) Lancaster; Kimber Cleveland, (N. Amer.) Schuylkill; Passmore Williamson, (Abol.) Phil. Prison.

The New Republic.—This is the title of a monthly Journal, about to be started in Harrisburg, by John Wolf, an intelligent colored man, who will doubtless be able to make it interesting to all who wish well to the cause of Liberatorian Colonization to which it is mainly devoted. To be published on the first of every month, at $1 per annum. We wish

The Howl of the Opposition. It is either the good fortune or misfortune of at least one of the Democratic candidates, to be the most talked of, and, in some respects, the best abused and misrepresented man in the county at the present time. Not that they pretend to say any thing against his moral or political character—but forsooth, he is a sober man, (not a temperance man according to the common acceptance of the term, for he never was a member of a temperance society) and tries to lead a moral, upright life, without interfering with his neighbors in any way that he can avoid; because he is known to be an early, consistent and unflinching friend of Mr. BUCHANAN; and his cause he is the known and avowed opponent of STROUD CAMERON in all his invidious movements for political promotion. We apprehend that this will be the true reason of the wicked, venomous and continued assaults upon the candidate referred to—hence all the Know-Nothing shafts are aimed at his devoted head, and the edict has gone forth (doubtless from the great Goliath of the Middletown Bank himself) that SANDERSON must be defeated, by all means, should it be at the expense of honor, honesty and even decency itself. From the moment the nomination was made, till this hour, vituperation and calumny have been freely employed by the Know-Nothing partisans of Cameron; and, we have very little doubt, that, in addition to all these foul and unfair means, money will be furnished and freely used to accomplish the object.

The Louisville Banquet. At a public dinner given to Governor Pugh, at Keokuk, on the 8th inst., upon his retiring from the Executive Chair of that Commonwealth, several very able and eloquent speeches were delivered. We make extracts from two of them as follows: Hon. Nat. Wolfe, a former Whig, said: "Mr. President, the party to which I once belonged—the whig party—is no more. But its principles remain, and they remain forever. Believing in their own sense with the permanent establishment of civil liberty and the perpetuity of our institutions, I shall cling to them as the bright hope of the republic, and though but few remain of the gallant band, whose voices served the arm of the immortal Clay, yet, like the leaves of the Sybil, they grow more precious as they diminish."

The eloquent Geo. W. Caldwell said: "The old Democratic party, God bless her! still lives, with all her glorious memories clustering around her. She can boast of a nationality co-extensive with the Union, and she can boast of a history which has proclaimed the same living truths in Kentucky and Indiana, in the Old Dominion and in the Keystone, among the granite hills of New Hampshire or the verdant slopes of the Blue Ridge, or the concealment of dark lanterns; no bloodless proscription, no persecution of races, no religion of innocent victims, mark her career with infamy and gloom. Her motto is the preservation and progress of the Union. Mark the expansion of our territory, the increase of our population, our wide-spread commerce, our happy people, the triumphs of our flag by sea and land, the victories of our armies which the Democratic party have laid at the feet of the Union. In her are all the hopes of the Union centered. Her nationality has secured the preservation of a constitutional Union, and in defence of human liberty, our hearts are cheered and our spirits are invigorated by the noblest of our noble allies—a new continent to the Democratic force, composed of the very elite of the old whig party; their noble patriotism, as expressed in their noble deeds, brings joy to the hearts of the democracy, and gives them renewed confidence in their cause. The allied army, and they only, can perpetuate the Union."

Judge Watkins against the "Jug Law." The veteran statesman, William Watkins, of the Allegheny district, in his long and able lecture against the so-called "Jug Law" of the last Legislature, and in favor of its repeal. We extract from it the following paragraphs: "I am not an example of reformation. I have been throughout my long days, and in the course of many vicissitudes, a rigidly temperate man. I have never, in the midst of the revel and folly of the festive hour, indulged in any excess of wine or spirits. I have never drunk more than a glass of wine, and I have never taken my seat, brings joy to the hearts of the democracy, and gives them renewed confidence in their cause. The allied army, and they only, can perpetuate the Union."

The attention of the readers of the Philadelphia Intelligencer is called to the notice of the Saving Fund of the National Safety Company, in Walnut street, southwest corner of Third, which has been for a long time, and continues to be, one of the most prosperous and successful of our institutions. It is not a new and untried experiment, but a well established and successful one, which has been in operation since 1841, by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, and since its incorporation it has steadily increased from year to year, until they now greatly exceed the amount of the same kind in this city. The people of Philadelphia are proud of it, and point to it as presenting an instance of successful enterprise, and the success of the enterprise is due to the prudent and judicious management of the directors, and the industry and frugality of the contributors. It is not a new and untried experiment, but a well established and successful one, which has been in operation since 1841, by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, and since its incorporation it has steadily increased from year to year, until they now greatly exceed the amount of the same kind in this city. The people of Philadelphia are proud of it, and point to it as presenting an instance of successful enterprise, and the success of the enterprise is due to the prudent and judicious management of the directors, and the industry and frugality of the contributors.

There is no sum so small, and no sum so large, as to be deposited in this Saving Fund, which has received a very large amount of money. People who call there find that the Secretary and his assistants are ready to receive the money brought by people who are anxious to put it in for the double purpose of having it safe, and that they may be able at the same time to get interest for it.

We are well acquainted with the operations of this Saving Fund. We have ourselves frequently deposited large sums of money in it, and we have seen the accumulated interest, shall enable them to purchase a house or to accomplish some other important or profitable object. We hear every day of persons who have deposited money in it, and who are able to pay for it as its business is conducted, and they all refer to it as a perfect model for all similar institutions.

The reason for this is, that large sums of money are kept in private hands both in the city and out of it, and it is a constant source of anxiety and of real danger to the depositor, and that they are liable to be placed with interest while it remains, and that it is not safe to deposit it in any bank at any moment, he pleases to call for it. Precisely such an institution is the Saving Fund of the National Safety Company, and it is not only safe, but it is profitable, and it is a source of anxiety and of real danger to the depositor, and that they are liable to be placed with interest while it remains, and that it is not safe to deposit it in any bank at any moment, he pleases to call for it.

It may be proper also to state that the money placed in this Saving Fund is carefully invested in the purchase of bonds and other first class securities, which prevent the possibility of loss, and further that by the rules of the Company none of the Directors or Officers can be interested in any way in the success of its money.

The Supreme Court, of the second district, in New York, returned the decision of the Court below, under which a conviction was sustained against a man for having sold lager beer, and another of having sold brandy, in violation of the law. The decision of the Court is unanimous that liquor is property, and that the Legislature has no power to deprive it of its character as such, and to subject it to the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

"How are the Mighty Fallen?" It was one of the boasts of the originators of the "dark lantern party," says the Lewistown Democrat, that the door to their secret councils was open only to "pure Americans." Every mouthpiece of that party proclaimed, in tones more loud than musical, that the ranks of Know-Nothingism were to be filled with men who loved their country for their country's sake; and the monster they were creating in the midst of our country, was pointed at as a creature perfect in its parts, honest, humane, and a respecter of rights. This was the palmy day of the fang, ere its insatiate ravenousness had been exposed. Now the tune is changed, and Romulus never collected around his standard a more dishonorable body of followers than those who sign praise in the skulking "Sam." To save their sinking cause the leaders of that party make their invitation broad enough to meet the case of every man who has been kicked out of every decent political organization. "Black spirits and white—blue spirits and gray," are all solicited to come into the fold and help to "rule America!" Truly "the glory has departed," and the whited sepulchre has been opened! Read the following extract from the Bedford Chronicle, citizens of Pennsylvania, and see the depths to which the vaunting organization has fallen:

The Time is Near.—Americans of Bedford county, are invited to meet on Monday evening the 25th inst., at the election. Are you preparing for the contest? If not, go to work at once. The enemy is now busily and secretly at work, forming phalanxes of American patriots, and are now making up their minds to complete the most perfect organization. Let the Township Council meetings be regularly held and well attended. Invite every one who is capable of doing good to attend. Do not be afraid of exposure, as it will not hurt you to go. If there are some who do not wish to go to the Council, "put them through the mill," and let them be known to all. Where else, the time has come that all parties and prejudices should be thrown aside, and all taken into our party. Whenever we are divided, we are weak, and we are divided by the instant. Friends, attend to this, and all will be well. Go to work at once, for in several of the townships much yet is to be done.

The attention of the readers of the Philadelphia Intelligencer is called to the notice of the Saving Fund of the National Safety Company, in Walnut street, southwest corner of Third, which has been for a long time, and continues to be, one of the most prosperous and successful of our institutions. It is not a new and untried experiment, but a well established and successful one, which has been in operation since 1841, by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, and since its incorporation it has steadily increased from year to year, until they now greatly exceed the amount of the same kind in this city. The people of Philadelphia are proud of it, and point to it as presenting an instance of successful enterprise, and the success of the enterprise is due to the prudent and judicious management of the directors, and the industry and frugality of the contributors.

There is no sum so small, and no sum so large, as to be deposited in this Saving Fund, which has received a very large amount of money. People who call there find that the Secretary and his assistants are ready to receive the money brought by people who are anxious to put it in for the double purpose of having it safe, and that they may be able at the same time to get interest for it.

We are well acquainted with the operations of this Saving Fund. We have ourselves frequently deposited large sums of money in it, and we have seen the accumulated interest, shall enable them to purchase a house or to accomplish some other important or profitable object. We hear every day of persons who have deposited money in it, and who are able to pay for it as its business is conducted, and they all refer to it as a perfect model for all similar institutions.

The reason for this is, that large sums of money are kept in private hands both in the city and out of it, and it is a constant source of anxiety and of real danger to the depositor, and that they are liable to be placed with interest while it remains, and that it is not safe to deposit it in any bank at any moment, he pleases to call for it. Precisely such an institution is the Saving Fund of the National Safety Company, and it is not only safe, but it is profitable, and it is a source of anxiety and of real danger to the depositor, and that they are liable to be placed with interest while it remains, and that it is not safe to deposit it in any bank at any moment, he pleases to call for it.

It may be proper also to state that the money placed in this Saving Fund is carefully invested in the purchase of bonds and other first class securities, which prevent the possibility of loss, and further that by the rules of the Company none of the Directors or Officers can be interested in any way in the success of its money.

The Supreme Court, of the second district, in New York, returned the decision of the Court below, under which a conviction was sustained against a man for having sold lager beer, and another of having sold brandy, in violation of the law. The decision of the Court is unanimous that liquor is property, and that the Legislature has no power to deprive it of its character as such, and to subject it to the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.

The other case is that of Mr. Wilson, who was fatally injured about ten miles east of the city, by the breaking of a rail which ran through the flooring of the car which Mr. Wilson was in. Damages claimed $20,000.

Messrs. Stevens and Dickey owned for the plaintiffs in both cases, and W. A. Stokes & Co. were the defendants. The case was tried before Judge Haines, of West Chester, and Pearson, of Harrisburg; and John Evans, Esq., of York.

There were two of these cases. The first was brought by Mrs. Hudson, wife of the late Wm. Hudson, who was injured on the railroad in February 1854, as the train was backing up, a short distance east of this city, at the time of a heavy snow storm, two trains coming in collision. Mr. Hudson, who was standing on the platform, had one leg broken and the lance and heel of the other crushed and seriously injured, from the effects of which he died. Damages claimed $20,000.