SENTENCE OF A MURDERER.-In giving an account of the sentence of John Fitzgerald, convicted of the murder of his father, mother and brother, the Auburn (New York) American says: "He rose to his feet when requested to do so "He rose to his feet when requested to do so by the judge, and fixed his eyes firmly upon him. The sentence was long, but able, ap-propriate and full of carnest appeals to the heart, the head and the conscience of the wretched culprit. He exhausted language and Fridry last. ingenuity in an attempt to arouse him to a realizing sense of the enormity of his monstrous orime and its awful consequences, but his efforts utterly failed. While all in the ed nuch interest. It was a man and his wife court room were powerfully moved-not a few even to tears-yet Fitzgerald stood unmoved throughout the trying scene. Not a muscle moved. His countenance was bold, hardened n every feature, and his eye cold as marble. When asked if he had anything to say why the last direful penalty of the law should not be passed upon him, he promptly, and in a low voice, replied: "No, sir: not a word!" and when the judge having sentenced him to be hung on Friday, the 28th of March, con-cluded with an earnest appeal to Almighty God in his behalf, Fitzgerald said: "I am much obliged to you, sir!" and took his sent, cluded with an earnest appeal to Almighty God in his behalf, Fitzgerald said: "I am much obliged to you, sir!" and took his sent utterly unmoved and apparently uncou-cerned." EXECUTION OF ARMERUSTER.—Jacob. Arm bruster, who was convicted of the murder of his wife, in Bucks county, last summer, was hung in the Jail yard, at Doylestown, on Fri-day last. He maintained his composure to the last, pretesting his innocence, and appeal-ing to God against his sentence. He ascended the scaffold with a firm step, accompanied by his son, who wept bitterly at the dreadful sit-nation of his father; but after the fatal cord had been adjusted, the prisoner refused to shake hands even with his son at parting, and would not permit prayers to be offered up in his behalf, turning frequently to the Sheriff, and arclaiming with enserver "Yan dare not corned arclaiming the new of "Yan dare not corned arclaiming the anerver "Yan dare not corned arclaiming the new of "Yan dare not corned arclaiming the provide to the output provide to the output provide to the output provide to the state of the state of the state of the state of the control in the state of the his behalf, turning frequently to the Sheriff, and exclaiming, with energy, "You dare not hung me ! You know you dare not !" This painful scene, however, continued but a few minutes; the drop fell, and the doomed man was launched into eternity without a struggle His last words were, "I want no Judge but God !" His neck was not broken by the full

NEBRASKA TERRITORY .- The message of gives a gratitying account of public and pri-vate prosperity in the Territory. Every branch of industry has received, and continues to receive a liberal reward, and the inhabitants are prosperous and happy in a degree hereto-fore unexampled in the history of the settle-ment and organization of former Territories. Business of every kind is in a healthy condi-tion; prosperous and populous towns and cities are springing up as by magic all along the eastern border, and at favorable points to the vestward ; and the beautiful and fertile prairies are fast becoming converted into productive fields, giving good promise of a rich re-ward to the toiling husbandman. Speaking of this glowing picture, the Michigan State

Warket St. Louis, March 7, 1564.
Journal says:
"In view of the fact that the Nebraskians are wisely and judiciously exercising their own laws, we submit whether it would not indicate good sense for all outsiders to mind their own business, and let the Nebraskians attend to their own. They seem eminently capable of self government. Popular severeignty is achieving its genuine fruits in Nebraska. If the outrages in Kansas are the fruits of the Nebraskians is in the hands of her people. Is this right or wrong?"

The Human Hair.—To minister to a penchant for "auburn waves" and "ravan tresses," the brains of inventors have heretofore been called in requisition to lit-tle purpose; for although many oils, baims, dyes, and "specifics" have been the result of the incubation, they have not only proved to be valueless, but many of them positively injurious to the hair and scalp—being the inci-pient of scald-head and various other painful and danger-ons cutaueous disorders.
