The above is one of the planks in the Whig platform of 1852, and the only one relating to slavery, as adopted by the Whig National Convention of that year. How our neighbor, Mr. Darlington, who so strenuously contended then that the principles embodied in that platform were correct, can conscientiously claim that, although he now advocates the Black Republican platform with all its heresies, he has not changed his principles, is beyond our comprehension ! It is certainly strange to see E. C. Darlington laying quietly down in the same political nest with Thaddeus Stevens, J. M. Willis Geist, Alexander H. > ----The Truth well Spoken

The subjoined dignified, truthful, and emi nently Christian article we copy from the Baltimore Patriot of the 13th inst. The madness which now rules the hour-the perversion of the sacred calling of so many modern divines, some of them in our own State, and not a hundred miles from our own city-the melancholy attempts to divert the sacred volume to unauthorized and unchristian purposes -to substitute for its teachings of peace and love a warrant of sedition, strife and discord, or to discard it entirely-are candidly and dispassionately alluded to, and the fearful consequences to Christianity itself strongly depicted. The present practice of too many clergymen, in leaving the spiritual wants of their flocks to the tender mercies of the prowling wolves of infidelity, and forgetting almost entirely to "preach Christ and him crucified," s becoming apparent to all in the decreasing interest with which the ordinances and institutions of religion are regarded, and their growing inefficiency upon the spirit of evil which everywhere afflicts society. The extract below is from a letter of an eminent and distinguished Episcopalian clergyman of New England, but applies with equal force in all the States north of Mason and Dixon's line, and is not inapplicable in the city and county of Lancaster. Present appearances would seem to indicate that this country is rapidly tending to the moral condition of Revolutiongeant,) and David Longenecker and William
