For the Intelligencer & Lancasterian. "IT WILL ALL BE RIGHT IN THE MORNING!"

BY CEPHAS. When the bounding heat of the heart of love, And the springing step grow slow; When the form of a cloud in the blue above Lies dark on the path below; The song that he sings is lost in a sigh, And he turns where a star is dawning, And he thinks, as it gladdens his heart and his eye, "It will all be right in the morning !" When "the strong man armed," in the middle watch, From life's dim deck is gazing, And strives, through the wreck of the tempest, to

A gleam of the day-beam's blazing : Amid the wild storm, there hard by the helm, He heeds not the dark ocean yawning, For this song in his soul not a sorrow can 'whelm : "It will all be right in the morning !" When the battle is done, the harp unstrung, Its music trembling—dying;
When his woes are unwept, and his deeds unsung, And he longs in the grave to be lying, Then a voice shall charm, as it charmed before. He had wept or waited the dawning; They do love therefor aye-I'il be thine as of yore 'It will all be right in the morning !''
