

INTELLIGENCER & LANCASTERIAN.

GEO. SANDERSON, EDITOR.
A. SANDERSON, Associate.

LANCASTER, PA., DECEMBER 23, 1856.

CIRCULATION, 2100 COPIES.
Subscription Price, $2.00 per Annum.

State Central Committee.
There will be a meeting of the State Central Committee on the 30th inst., at the Merchants' Hotel, Philadelphia.

Hon. ANTHONY E. ROBERTS will accept our thanks for public documents.

Mr. Buchanan's Policy.
Some of our friends at Richmond and in other parts of the South seem to be unnecessarily excited in reference to what may or may not be the policy of the incoming Administration as regards Slavery, Squatter Sovereignty, &c. The speech of Senator Bixler, in which, by what we conceive to be a forced and unnatural construction of his language, he is represented as advocating heretical principles; and a recent article in the Enquirer of Tuesday last, and features entertained by the editors that Mr. BUCHANAN endorses these views of Senator Bixler and the Pennsylvania.

Now, without assuming to speak for Mr. BUCHANAN, or to promulgate his views on the topics treated of in the Enquirer, we nevertheless venture to assert that Governor Bixler, and nobody else, is himself responsible for what he said of the policy of the Senate—and farther, that neither the Pennsylvanian, nor any other newspaper, speaks by authority of the President elect. Mr. BUCHANAN is now, what he has been for the thirty years or more, a thoroughgoing State Rights Constitution Democratic statesman of the Jefferson and Jackson school, and in his administration of the Government will be actuated, we have not a doubt, by a determination to do equal and exact justice to every portion of the Union. His course of policy will know no North, no South, no East, no West. The Constitution will be his compass and his chart. By it, and it alone, will he seek to guide the ship of State; and his skill as a pilot at the helm, and the lofty patriotism with which he will be actuated, no one who is personally acquainted with the man, can have a shadow of doubt. The Enquirer may, therefore, well venture to anticipate and predict, not only what he shall do in the next Presidential term, but also what he will do in his course of policy, we doubt not, will be alike satisfactory to his friends and the lovers of the Union in Virginia and Pennsylvania—in Georgia and Indiana. But that policy has not yet been adumbrated, except in his endorsement of the Cincinnati platform and in his letter accepting the nomination.

We, therefore, respectfully advise our Southern Democratic friends to keep cool.—The President elect has always stood by the Constitutional rights when assailed by Abolitionists of every hue and grade; and, we firmly believe, he will stand by them to the end. He is, therefore, entitled to the generous confidence, even in advance of his inauguration, as the Chief Magistrate of the Republic. Let them not permit the opinions of A. B. C. who, we do not again aver, speak on their own responsibility, to weaken their faith in the integrity of the President elect. If Providence spares his life until the Fourth of March next, he will then take the oath of office and inaugurate the principles and policy which he intends carrying out in his Administration, and when he does that we have every reason to believe the Enquirer will be abundantly satisfied.

So far as Senator Bixler is concerned, we know him to be a true-hearted, conservative, Union-loving Democrat, who will stand by the Constitution and the rights of the States in every emergency. He is a well-tryed and faithful Democratic statesman, and we have no fear that he will prove recreant, in word or deed, to the great principles which have always been his guiding star, and which we do not soar to every Democrat throughout the broad expanse of our glorious Union.

Senator Bixler's Speech.
On our first page will be found lengthy extracts from the great speech of ex-Governor Bixler, delivered in the U. S. Senate, on the 8th inst., in the debate growing out of the motion to refer and print the President's annual message. The Democracy of Pennsylvania, says the Washington Union, will rejoice at an occasion which has placed their representative's love of country and the peculiar powers of his well-balanced mind in such a prominent and advantageous light before the nation. The Keystone State may well be proud of her popular and distinguished representative in the Senate of the United States.

Mr. Buchanan at Philadelphia.
The President elect has been absent on a visit to Philadelphia, since Tuesday last. He is expected to return to Wheatland to-day or to-morrow.

During the time he has been in the city, we learn from the papers that he has been visited by great crowds of his fellow citizens, who were anxious to see and make the acquaintance of the Chief Magistrate elect of this mighty Republic to whom has been entrusted its destinies for the ensuing four years. They were received with that kindness and cordiality which Mr. B. is so noted.

Saint Theophylus is lecturing again frad and hypocritical. See Independent Whig of Tuesday last. O tempora! O mores! A wag at our elbow says he is almost tempted to apply the old distich of "The Devil was sick, the Devil a sinner would be."
The Devil was the name of the fellow who had always been his guiding star, and which we do not soar to every Democrat throughout the broad expanse of our glorious Union.

Col. William Hopkins.
This gentleman made a brief visit to our city on Sunday last. He looks hale and vigorous as he did eighteen years ago when, as Speaker of the House of Representatives, he so gallantly and successfully resisted the tempted treason of the "huckster and ball" administration of Joseph Ritner. The Col. left in the evening train of cars for his home in Washington county.

Col. HOPKINS is spoken of in several quarters as a candidate for Governor. Should he be the nominee of the Convention, we know of no man (and we say this without disparagement to any of the other gentlemen named in connection with the nomination) for they are all good and true men) around whom the Democracy of the State would rally with more enthusiasm. He is emphatically an honest man, in every sense of the word, and therefore enjoys the confidence of the public to the fullest extent.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—SENATE.—On motion of Mr. Dodge, a resolution was adopted, calling upon the Secretary of War, for all letters addressed to that Department, or to Wilson Shannon, late Governor of Kansas, by Colonel Sumner, relative to Kansas, which hereafter have not been communicated.

Mr. Brown gave notice of his intention to introduce a bill providing for the construction of Railroad and Telegraphic communication between the Atlantic coast and the Pacific, and for other purposes. Mr. Wilson introduced a bill, amendatory to the act to organize the Territories of Nebraska and Kansas—Referred to the Committee on Territories.—On motion of Mr. Rusk, a joint resolution granting further time to the creditors of Texas to present their claims and other purposes was taken up. Mr. Rusk explained and advocated the resolution which extends time to January 1st, 1858, and repeals the provision of the former act, for distribution "pro rata" of the claims of those who have filed their releases.

Mr. Whitfield introduced a bill providing for the assessment of damages, sustained by loss and destruction of property belonging to the citizens of Kansas, during the recent disturbances in said Territory; also, a bill for establishing District Courts at Leavenworth and other places in Kansas; also, a bill establishing two additional land districts in Kansas. Mr. Campbell, of Ohio, reported the Indian civil and army appropriation bills were referred to the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union. Mr. Campbell, of Ohio, reported a bill amending the twenty-eighth section of the Tariff act of August, 1842, so as to prohibit importation of ducats, and obscene prints, transparencies, statues, &c.—The parties offending to be proceeded against by due course of law, and the articles destroyed.—Passed. On motion of Mr. Campbell, of Ohio, further consideration of the bill reducing duties on imports, and for other purposes, reported last session, was postponed until the first Tuesday of January. The debate on the President's annual message was then resumed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The House ordered three thousand copies of the President's Message and accompanying documents, to be printed, and one copy to be sent to each member of the House. The consideration of the President's Message was resumed.

Mr. Quitman believed that every word the President had said on the Slavery question, was well timed and true; of the developments in the House show the objects and the Republican party were such as the Executive had attributed to them. Leading men in that organization had declared their purpose to destroy that institution which is entwined with the existence of the Southern States.

Speaking on the subject of Central America, Mr. Quitman said he was opposed, as an American, to bowing and yielding to England or France, this being the rock on which we have split. We want no treaty with any foreign nation relative to our duty on this continent, and should not therefore care on any European power to come across the ocean, to regulate Central American affairs. We should ourselves settle this matter.

He believed General Walker to be an instrument in the hands of Providence to carry out American civilization, and it was the duty of our government not to stop obstacles in his way. The new Kansas appointments, and that of J. W. H. Underwood, of Georgia, as Associate Justice of the United States Court of Nebraska, were read. He resigned, in executive session of the Senate yesterday, referred to the Judiciary Committee. The President likewise said to the Senate the treaty between the U. S. and Great Britain, relating to Central America, which was ordered to be printed for the information of Senators only.

Gubernatorial Candidates.
The following named gentlemen are spoken of in connection with the gubernatorial nomination, viz:
GEO. WILLIAM F. PACKER, of Lycoming.
COL. WILLIAM HOPKINS, of Washington.
HON. WILLIAM H. WYATT, of Philadelphia.
COL. SAMUEL W. BLACK, of Allegheny.
HON. JOHN L. DAWSON, of Fayette.
HON. CHARLES R. BUCKALEW, of Columbia.

Supreme Court.
A candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court is to be nominated by the next State Convention—Chief Justice Lewis' term expires next fall. If the Judge desires to remain on the Bench, we think the Convention would do well to re-nominate him. His great ability and experience are undoubted, and we think the Supreme Court would be likely to lose more than it would gain, in character and reputation, by the withdrawal of Judge Lewis from the Bench.

U. S. Senator.
COL. JOHN W. FORNEY, is strongly urged in many of the leading Democratic papers of the State, for U. S. Senator in place of Hon. RICHARD BROADBENT, whose term will expire on the 3d of March. There is no man in the State more deserving the honor, and of his qualifications for the post there can be no dispute. He would do honor to Pennsylvania in that or any other station.

Hon. HENRY D. FOSTER, of Westmoreland, Hon. C. R. BUCKALEW, of Columbia, Hon. JOHN ROBINSON, of Philadelphia, and Col. WILSON McCANDLESS, of Pittsburg, are also urged by the press and by many friends for the same station. These are all worthy and talented Democrats, and with such an array of good men before them the Legislature can hardly fail in making a judicious selection.

Fremont at Home.
If, as the opposition affirmed during the canvass, Mr. Buchanan admitted that Col. Fremont was entitled to the appellation of "Conqueror of California," the vote of that State makes it clear that Buchanan is the victor of the conqueror. The poet says "It is cruelty to load a fallen man," but the truth of history compels the Hartford Times to pile it on thus—
"California gives her son Fremont an unmerciful drubbing. He falls far behind Buchanan that he really among the 'scattering.' His own country—Mariposa—(all but one precinct) gives the following vote:
Buchanan 980
Fillmore 487
Fremont 88
Total 1555
In Merced county the Pathfinder got but two votes out of 400. In Stanislaus, where there is a vote of nearly 700, he does not get a single vote!"

The Union Canal.—The enlargement of this improvement from Leabonon Eastward, to Reading, that was contracted for last fall, is to be completed by the first of April, 1857.

Counterfeiters.—The Harrisburg Herald says, counterfeits 10% on the Harrisburg Bank have made their appearance, and are executed with sufficient skill to deceive persons who are not familiar with the genuine.

—Letters from Liberia state that the culture of sugar has been carried on so prosperously that several sugar growers are talking about exporting it largely to the United States. One of them, named Richardson, expects to ship two hundred hogsheads of sugar, & his first grinding.

American Affairs in Europe.

The British and French press cannot, it appears, reconcile themselves with the fact of Mr. Buchanan's election to the Presidency of the United States. They had come to the conclusion, says the Baltimore Sun, that such a calamity was seriously impending; and now the shock of the reality is upon them; the crisis is about their ears, and we have yet to learn whether Europe will survive or perish.

The fact is, Europe—rather the people—constitute the substance of Europe—having nothing to fear from the success of Democratic principles in the United States, and they know it; and they do not hesitate to say it whenever an opportunity offers for an expression of their opinion. But we have seen during the late campaign in this country, all the sympathies of the government presses of Europe thrown around the "black republican" candidate. In fact Col. Fremont has been extolled as the very embodiment of heroism and statesmanship. His name has been exalted above every name, and the sentiments he has expressed and the platform he represented have been extolled as the only good things in this Nazareth of the United States. His portrait has been copied from the illustrated papers of London and Paris; while the baseness, Buchanan and Fillmore, were being painfully neglected. Indeed, Mr. Buchanan, although he was quite a proper man as a Minister to England, very seriously deteriorated in British and French estimation as a Democratic candidate for the Presidency. And the discourtesy of journalism, which prevails there as well as here, indulged in some very unhandsome and unkind aspersions towards him.

These things are worthy of observation, and afford significant criteria of European sentiment. There is with all the governments of Europe and the affiliated presses of royalism, an unyielding detestation of democratic principles. By whomsoever they are represented, they must bear the odium of their success. And it follows, as a matter of course, that a democratic administration will receive from European governments nothing more than the decent courtesies which custom and interest exact at their hands. Gen. Pierce and his administration have been shown beyond tolerance in responsible journalism.—And this only because he has done his duty, fulfilled the obligations of his office to his fellow citizens, and held the powers of Europe to a just accountability in all matters touching the dignity and welfare of our country.

Europe is only waiting for a weak point in the career of our government, and the servile dupes and emissaries of royalism hold themselves always prepared to provoke, expose and take advantage of it. In the field and even exuberant admiration of Fremont, and the undisguised anxiety for his success, we have an expression in part of British fanaticism in relation to the legal institutions of our country; but mainly betrayed in the style of remark upon the subject, the monstrous hope that his success would seal the destruction of the Union. It is to this as an end, that the government press of Europe extend their favor to every movement or project that promises to contract with our interests, or to shake our stability. And we may rest assured that if ever any event occurs which threatens very seriously to disturb the equilibrium of the States, the interference of Europe will be thrust upon us in some insidious form so as to widen and perpetrate rather than to heal the breach.

View of these things, it ought to be a theme of much gratification to the conservative masses of the Union, that a national candidate has been elected by an emphatic expression of the popular voice. It is a result which rebukes the impertinent intrusion of European sentiment into American politics, and proves that foreign influence is powerless, yet to carry its various designs against the integrity of our common country into effect. But it is not only through an issue originating in sectional feelings and relating to one topic, that foreign influence can be directed against our domestic welfare. There are other principal issues, in reference to which it will be ready at any favorable opportunity to exert itself for the aid of this party or that; always sustained by the hope that national dissolution will be our ultimate fate. As we are at present, we are daily foreign influence, and all the efforts of the combined thrones of Europe. But if we disturb the social equilibrium, vitiate the cardinal principles of our political Union, and put life and liberty at the disposal of prejudice and faction, foreign influence will soon exert its insidious wiles, our peace and prosperity be seriously impaired, and the very structure of our government, in time, crumble away under the perversion of those conservative principles by which, alone, it can be perpetuated.

An Important Case.
The case of DEED SCOTT, now being argued before the Supreme Court at Washington, involves the constitutionality of the Missouri Compromise, and the power of Congress to prohibit Slavery in a Territory, in the following manner: Scott is the son of a slave woman belonging to an army officer, who moved with his family and slaves into the Territory where, by the Missouri Compromise, Slavery was prohibited. There Scott was born, but was afterward carried back to Missouri, and is now held therein as a slave. He sues for his freedom, on the ground that he was born free, by virtue of the Missouri Prohibition. The case has been before the Supreme Court a year or more, and was argued, but not decided last winter. It is supposed that the majority of the Court will decide, that Congress has no power to prohibit Slavery in a Territory, that the Missouri Compromise is unconstitutional, and that Scott is hereby held as a slave.

Harrisburg Papers.
The Harrisburg Patriot and Union (Democrat) will be issued twice a week during the ensuing session of the Legislature, and will contain full and accurate reports of the proceedings. The price for the session alone will be two dollars; for the whole year semi-weekly during the session, three dollars; for the whole year, once a week during the session, two dollars.

The Telegraph (Republican) will also be issued semi-weekly during the session of the Legislature. The weekly and semi-weekly paper will be furnished to single subscribers at $2 per annum. To clubs of 5 persons for $9; of 10 persons at $17; of 20 persons at $30. The person who raises a club will receive a copy of the paper gratis.

Those who wish to have full reports of the legislative proceedings, had better commence their subscriptions with the opening of the session.

The Harrisburg Telegraph notices the sudden death of Jacob M. Haldeman, Esq., one of the oldest and wealthiest citizens of that Borough. The sad event occurred on Monday evening week. Mr. H. was seated at the time in his office, conversing with one of his sons, and but a moment before remarked that he never felt better in his life. The disease was apoplexy. Mr. Haldeman was an extensive landholder, and was well known in financial circles. He was 70 years of age.

Iron and Steel.

Among the statistics commented on in the report of the Secretary of the Treasury, are those relating to iron and steel; and when we remember that it is only about one hundred years since it was seriously rooted upon, in Great Britain, that America should not be allowed to make a hob-nail, the facts are encouraging. This country now shows a manufacture of iron and steel of $78,406,529 in value. But this failed to supply our wants, and the imports of the raw material and the manufactured article, in 1855, were $23,945,274 in value. We now export a portion of this, and deducting this, we have an annual consumption of this manufacture of $88,598,340. The Secretary makes the remark that the estimate of the production is too small by ten millions.

The Secretary takes the following view of this vast interest:—
"We have in the United States more iron and more coal, with the usual fixtures, in convenient quantities, and of cheaper value, than all the other civilized nations of the world, and have the necessary capital, skill and labor to produce all the iron and steel, and manufactures of iron and steel, required for our consumption, or that may be required for our consumption for centuries to come, and also to enable us to supply the markets of other countries, in competition with the iron and steel of other nations. The tables show that our production of iron and steel, and manufactures of iron and steel, was greater, in proportion to population, in 1850 than it was in 1840, and it was greater in 1855 than it was in 1850, giving us the right to assume that, influenced by the same causes, it will be greater in 1860 than it now is, and in 1865 than it now is. We have done so much to rescue our barbarism, and upon the theatre where he has long been a distinguished actor, a sudden irruption of fanaticism has completely proscribed him, and he has been invited to emigrate to a brilliant life of usefulness and patriotism by a declaration against the Constitution and the Union which he has long defied. Ingrate, let me say, not by way of including, but of excluding, men and true who gathered around him from the beginning to the end of the fight, but integrate in the sense which comprehends the whole of his career, and his noble and patriotic value and the efficiency of his philanthropic and heroic efforts.

Mr. Burke, in one of his finest speeches, referred to a British scholar who had touched, during his lifetime, two great extremes of national prosperity; and I have often been reminded of the picture while reviewing the career of this man. He had done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he has done his duty with his own humble adventures, and while the great west was in the infancy of its development, he has marched onward from scene to scene, and from duty to duty, until he has advanced within its range like his hand and his brain, and he