Lancaster, Dec. 30, 1856

The State Legislature. The Legislature will assemble to-day, and amongst the first important duties members will have to perform will be the election of a State Treasurer and United States Senator With regard to the first mentioned office, we presume there will be no difficulty whatever in the continuance of the present worthy and able incumbent Col. H. S. MAGRAW. He has proved himself to be so efficient in the discharge of his duties, since he has been at the bead of the Treasury Department, and withal so courteous and obliging in his intercourse with the people, as to have disarmed all opposition, and thus made his re-election a matter of mere form.

In respect to the U. S. Senator some diversity of opinion exists, which of necessity must be the case where so many good men are aspiring to the station, any one of whom would do credit to the place. But public opinion seems to be rapidly concentrating upon Col. JOHN W. FORNEY, whose strength is not confined to any one particular section of the State. His name and fame as a vigorous writer and eloquent speaker are co-extensive with the Commonwealth, and as a Senator in Congress he would very soon take rank with the ablest and most distinguished men of that body. We think, therefore, that if the wishes of the people of Pennsylvania are to be gratified, the Legislature will have no difficulty in conferring the office upon a gentleman so deserving.

The apportionment of the State for Senators and Representatives will also claim the early attention of the Legislature. In arranging this matter there may be considerable difficulty, as the two branches are of different politics. We hope, however, that the Democratic House will do its duty honestly and unflinchinglyasking for nothing but what is clearly right, and submitting to nothing that is wrong.

We shall keep our readers advised of what is going on during the session. The Governor's Message will appear in our next issue. A Black Record!

We are indebted to the Chicago Times of the 29th ult., for the following classification | Committee the Committee adjourned. of the votes in the House of Representatives, for the repeal of the naturalization laws, and the attempt to degrade the white foreign born citizen to a level with the negro. That bill is before the committee of the whole, and it requires two-thirds to force it before the House. Last week, Humphrey Marshall, of a great National statesman, and exercises an Kentucky, the man who was elected by the Know Nothings during the bloody riot of Louisville, in August, 1855, moved to suspend the rules, for the purpose of bringing that bill before the House on its passage; and his motion received the votes of the following members. We invite close attention to the names: Southern Democrate Northern Democrats,

Our readers will see that South Carolina cast no vote to degrade the white man, while Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Hampshire, gave an unanimous vote to reduce the "Dutch and Irish" to the political condition of the negro. Brooks, the South Carolina "Ruffian," stood up manfully to defend and vote for the rights and privileges of the foreign born emigrant, while Burlingame cast his vote to take away those rights. Burlingame is loud and valorous in behalf of the negro, but he thinks a man born in a foreign land unworthy of the ordinary political privileges of/a freeman. We call the especial attention of those naturalized citizens who voted for Fremont to this record. Here are sixty-eight Northern Abolitionists voting to require a residence of twenty-one years on the part of all emigrants before their admission to citizenship, and of that sixty-eight, sixty-three were firm supporters of Fremont. Senator Bigler. This gentleman is deservedly attracting a large share of attention throughout the country. His great speech, in defence of the Administration and the right of the people of for themselves, is every where being copied, in whole or in part, and its distinguished author spoken of in the highest terms of commendation. Governor BIGLER, notwithstanding the short time he has been in the Senate, has already won for himself enduring fame as amount of influence second to no member of that august and talented body. As a Pennsylvanian we feel proud at the commendatory notices which every where meet our eye. The following which we clip from the Memphis (Tenn.) Appeal, is but a sample of scores which we find in our exchanges :-

Hon. Wm. Bigler's Speech .- We devote a large space in to-day's issue to the speech of Senate, a few days since. Without considering the importance which is attack elsewhere, on account of its being delivered by one of Pennsylvania's sons, and a bosom riend of the President elect, we must say it is a great speech. It wants no outside influ ice to commend it to the American people. It is a National speech, and worthy of a Democratic leader. As remarked by the St. Louis Republican, from which paper we extract, it is not entire. We are sorry of this, perusal of this document, without reference italies (which are not ours.) and ask our National men if Hon: WM. BIGLER is not a citizen of whom they feel proud?

Electoral Votes Lost.

The Electoral vote of Wisconsin was lost in the canvass in the following manner:-The first Wednesday of December being the day for the assembling of the Electors of the several States, at their respective State Capitals, the Electors of Wisconsin started in time, from their homes, to reach Madison, under ordinary conditions of weather and roads, on the day. But a snow storm on the Tuesday previous, shut in the Capital, and prevented all ingress. The legal day passing over without any action of the College, of course the functions of the Electors no longer continued, and all they had to do was to return home, private citizens. By the recent news from California we learn that its Electoral vote came very near being lost by an accident. The boat which left San Francisco on the 2d of December, got stuck on the Hog's Back, to prevent it from interfering with the right and remained there till after nine o'clock the granted to her. next morning, all the Electors being on board; and it was at one time feared that they would not reach Sacramento in time to cast their vote, the hour being fixed by law at two o'clock, P. M. These accidents suggest the close contest such failures would lead to the most acrimonious agitation.

Nicaragua. The Republic of Nicaragua is a little larger about 50,000 square miles of territory. It is the largest of the Central American Republics, but has a smaller population than any except Costa Rica. Its population is estimated atabout 270,000, of whom only about 30,000 are whites, the balance being Indians, negroes and mixed breeds. It will be seen, by reference to a modern map, that Nicaragua extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific, having nearly 200 miles of sea coast upon each ocean. Next south of it lies Costa Rica, the extreme Southern portion of North America, having 13,000 square miles of territory and 125,000 inhabiants. The following is the report of a case decided at the recent term of the Supreme Court ington, there is a bill pending for the repeal Kansas to determine the question of slavery in Pittsburg, which is of very great interest. The decision settles the law in a matter of frequent occurrence: SUPREME COURT IN BANC.

The widow of a decedent is entitled to three hundred dollars out of the proceeds of the sale of his real estate, in preference to a judgment creditor in whose favor the husband had waived the benefit of the Exemption Act of 1849. JOSEPH SPENCER'S APPEAL—FROM THE ORPHANS' COURT OF ALLEGHENY.

27, 1856. Sarah Smith took out letters of administration on the estate of her deceased husband, her administration account she charged herself with the proceeds of a lot of ground, sold by her under an order of Orphan's Court, and this gentleman, delivered in the United States retained credit for the sum of three hundred dollars claimed by her as a widow, by virtue of the act of April 14, 1851. Joseph Spencer held a judgment against James Smith, the decedent, entered Jan. 24, 1854, on a bond with warrant of Attorney, waiving the benefit of the Exemption Act of 1849. Joseph Spencer accordingly filed exceptions to the administration account, and contended that the widow was not entitled to retain $300 as > Lowrie, J.—We thinkt that the learned President of the Orphan's Court decided this cause rightly. The act of 1851, allowing a widow to take property to the amount of $300 out of her deceased husband's estate, is plainly a restriction on the remedies theretofore existing in favor of creditors. A BIG SPECULATION .- One of the bigges speculations of modern times is the Illinois Central Railroad. Congress granted to the necessity of additional legislation, as in a Company for the purpose of aiding in its construction, several millions of acres of the public domain, out of the sales of which, in the first eleven months of the year, $4,484,400 were realized—at an average of $15 per acre. How much was sold previously we are not than the State of Pennsylvania, containing informed, but the receip:s were probably treble that sum. The Company still have one million of acres on hand for which they demand $25 per acre, and before it is half disposed of they will doubtless advance to $50 per acre and get the sum of thirty or forty millions more. The whole cost of the road was not more than twenty millions of dollars, and this corporation has received from Congress a bounty for its construction out of which they realize fifty and possibly sixty millions of dollars.

Horse Exhibitions.

The homely saying of "whipping the devil round a stump" has been most capitally exemplified by the way the white cravat Puritans of New England have recently patronized horse racing under the name of agricultural exhibitions. Ladies, deacons, and aged ministers of the gospel, have participated in the sports of the turf under that disguise, who would turn up their holy eyes in horror at the very mention of a horse race. The thing has been so successful that we see a step in advance is being taken. An association under the name of the "Chelsea Horse Exhibition Company," with a capital of $70,000, is getting up in Massachusetts. They are to purchase a hundred acres of ground, build a spacious hotel, and lay out a magnificent race course for the exhibition and trial of speed The opinion of the Court was delivered Nov. horses. Another Gang of Traitors. The New York Tribune, in silent acquiesence, publishes a call, signed by probably hundred, designating themselves citizens of Worcester, Massachusetts, for a Convention, to be held at that place, on the 15th of Januuary, "to consider the practicability, probability and expediency of a separation between the Free and Slave States, and to take such other measures as the condition of the times may require."

The call thus published sets forth, that "the result of the recent President Election," they believe, will "involve four years more of Pro-Slavery Government, and a rapid increase in the hostility between the two sections of the Union," that they believe "the existing Union to be a failure," and that the time is rapidly hastening on to prepare for its dissolution .--Hence they are for taking time by the forelook and take steps at once to that end.

WHITE SLAVES .- By the following extract from Drake's History of Boston, it appears that our Puritan ancestors not only owned black, but white slaves. Drake says:-

Irish people had been sent to New England.

On their arrival they were sold by those at whose expense they had been brought over, to any of the inhabitants who were in want of slaves or servants. There arrived the last year a ship called the Goodfellow, Captain George Dell, with a large number of emigrants Greene, master, early in the summer of 1652, about 272 persons. Captain Greene had or ders to deliver them to Thomas Kemble, of Charlestown, who was to sell them, and with the proceeds to take freight for the West

DRATH OF COL. REAH . FRAZER .- We are sined to announce the sudden death of this gentlen which occurred at the State Asylum, near Harrisburg, or Thresday evening last, it is supposed from Apoplexy. having had one or two slight attacks of paralysis, which t some extent affected his mind as well as his body, and he was removed to the State Asylum for the purpose of med-ical and other treatment—his friends fondly hoping that would soon be restored to his wonted health and vigor nt. alas! his time had come, and suddenly, unexpected he was cut down almost in the prime of his manhood and sefulness. But.

"after life's fitful fever he sleeps wall!" Col. F. was an eminent and successful Lawyer, with arge and lucrative practise in his profession, and had, by his industry, economy and indomitable energy, accumula ed a handsome fortune. His decesse will leave a void in a large circle of relatives and acquaintances, by whom he s a heavy affliction. We sincerely condole with his wide and children in their audden bereavement.

The following proceedings, in reference to his death, took place at a meeting of the Lancaster Bar, held on Thursday RAE-TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF THE DECEASED BY HON. I CHAMPNETS-RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE, &c., &c.,-A meet ing of the Lancaster Bar was convened this morning (Thursday) at eleven o'clock, in the Orphans' Court Room to give expression to their sentiments in relation to the decease of REAH FRAZER, Ksq.

The meeting was largely attended. On motion of J. eynolds, Esq. Hon. Henry G. Long was called to the Chair, and, on motion of Bartram A. Sheaffer, Esq., Wm. A. Atlee and Wm. R. Wilson, Esqrs., were appointed

The object of the meeting was stated by Hon, R. Champ neys in a few appropriate remarks. He said they had been called together to give expression to their sentiments in relation to the melancholy event which had robbed the profession of one of its brightest ornaments, and deprived the community of one of its best and most highly respected to almost daily social and professional intercourse with Col. Frazer, the news of his death was more than usually Milwaukie Wisconsin says:—A Mrs. Sullivan calculated to call forth sorrowful emotions. It seems but was literally frozen to death last Wednesday a few days since we met him in the full enjoyment of health, with bright prospects in his future. But a short time ago, he was actively engaged in the onerous duties of active duties of his profession he had acquired a competency and looked forward to that day, then not, seemingly, f n the future, when he could retire to the enjoyments of a hanny home and a beloved family : but in a few days clouds his prospects for this life were scattered to the winds.

This is the true chris another and we hope a better world. She was found dead on the floor, with her children overy generous heart—for the faults of human unture are n to all of us.

The speaker referred to the sentiment of Brougham that cause he was trying, and remarked that it was strikingly illustrated in the professional character of their decease associate. No man in the profession more closely identified himself with the interests of his client than Col. Frazer .-He was assiduous and untiring in his legal investigations of the law and the facts bearing upon the issue in charge and without detracting from the merits of others, he was free to say that no other profession required larger contributions from all departments of science than that of the Law. It was necessary for its members to be familiar with the institutions and laws of the several States and of the National Government; for in this country the judiciary overshadows the legislative power and acts as a check up therefore closely identified with our political institutions and it might be safely said that the Bar of this country, in character and influence, is not surpassed by that of any in the world; and-without adverting to his political opin ions-no man could be more true to all those great interests which the Bar should cherish and perpetuate than the late lamented associate

Col. Frazer was a noble instance of a self-made man; and t has passed into a proverb that the brightest ornaments of the profession as well as the most distinguished member energies. The Colonel was a law student of the late Amor Ellmaker, Esq., than whom none stood higher in the profession. In addition to untiring energy, industry, and high legal acquirements, he was noted for that high uncompromising moral principle which overshadows all .-Under that influence Col. STEALING BY WHOLESALE.—The Mayor's private office on Tuesday morning last, presented more the appearance of a fancy and variety store than a committing magistrate's office. The large table was covered with bon nets, gum and leather shoes, boots, hoods, laces, fisnnels es, caps, and a variety of other articles, including a number of jars well filled with candies, &c. These goods all of which were stolen, were found at the house of Isaa Wissner, in Mulberry street. From information received by the Police it appeared that Wissner's daughter, Hetty, s girl about 12 years of age, has been in the habit of steal ing goods exposed in front of stores, &c. About two weeks ago she was caught taking a lot of furs from Hager & Brothers, West King street, but, on account of her youth, was allowed to go from Subsequently, Officer Gormley d her loitering about the store of Erben & Brother North Queen street, with a bundle, and under suspicion circumstances. Suspecting something wrong he questioned that the goods she then had in her possession were stolen belonging to Mesars. Erben. His daughter Hetty was also committed to answer the charge of stealing the goods, a the next Court of Quarter Sessions

Among the persons who recognized goods as belonging them were Measrs. Samuel Hensler, S. J. Young, K. to then Sheaffer, John Myers, A. N. Breneman, H. A. Rotharmel & Bro., Hirsh & Bro., B. B. Martin, John Herr, E. M. Hart man, Mrs. Metzger and others.

FINE POULTRY.—The display of Poultry made by Mr. Jonathan Dorwart of this city, at the late Poultry Show in Philadelphia attracted much attention from visitors, and called forth the favorable notice of the press. Among others, we copy the following from the

Evening Argus:

The Poultar Show.—As this exhibition closes to-morrow, we advise those who have not ye wisited it, to avail themselves of the opportunity of witnessing some of the finest specimens of the feathered tribe ever exhibited in this city. We refer to the very large and beautiful display of Mr. Jonathan Dorwart, of Lancaster city, Pa. Mr. D occupies the entire east side of the room, and his large collection has elicited the admiration of every connoisseur in such matters. He exhibits white turkeys, white Guines fowls, scobright bantums, black Spanish bantums, white and buff Shanghaes, white silkey fowls of Japan, Sefton games. African games, Irish games, counterfeit games, Sumatra games, native games and Spanish games. We now particularly notice the games as being of very superior origin, indeed we doubt very much whether they are to be equalled by those of any other exhibition. Mr. D. has given his undivided attention to the raising of fowls, and has perhaps manifested more interest in the improvement of game breed than any other man in the State. Those desiring to purchase his stock can address him at Lancaster.

KILLED. On New Year's eve a man named Isines, a resident of Safe Harbor, was killed by the shot of a gun, from the hands of a young man named Laird .following is the version given of it by Laird:

following is the version given of it by Laird:

"On New Year's eve, I returned home about dark—so dark that I could not see many vards off; when, as I passed into the house, I though! I heard some noise as the stables; having mentioned this to my mother, I took my loaded gun, and went out again into the yard, and I heard a noise of chickens, as if being strangled, and, at the same time, thought I heard, in the direction of the stables, a man say, 'O' we don't care for him.' I could not see any one distinctly at the time, but discharged my gun in the direction of the noise, thinking to 'scare, what I took to be, the chicken thieves directly after I heard persons runding over the frozen ground, and, concluding they were gone. I went in the house again. The next morning I went out to the stables, and saw the shot in the stable door, and a hat lying a short distance off; I followed the track of the intruners, and, in the second field from the house, saw the body of a man lying dead, and in his grasp some of our chickens. I immediately made the circumstance known, with all the particulars, as it had not been my intention to shoot any one, but only to scare them off."
