CHAPTER I.

AN INTERRUPTED WEDDING. It was the first of May, the marriage day of the Viscount Montressor of Montressor Castle, Dorsetshire, and Estelle, only daughter and heiress of Sir Parke Morelle, Hyde Hall, Devonshire.

A glorious morning! the cloudless, blue sky smiled down upon the green hills and rious specimen of the Creator's workmandewy dales and deep woods of Devon; and the park around the Hall was all alive and height among his countrymen, broad-musical, with the joyous songs of birds, and shouldered and deep-chested, with a noble the merry laughter of young men and maidens gathering to celebrate their May-day ness, his appearance truly indicated the festival, and to do honor to the marriage warm benevolence, clear intelligence, and of their landlord's daughter.

The elm-shaded, winding avenue that led from the highway to the house, was not been able to feel in any other that aparched at each terminus by a mammoth wreath of flowers, and many were the car- any other had been permitted to come; he riages that passed under them, on their crossed the magic circle of her isolation, way to assist at the wedding; and these and conversed with her as no other had contained only the bridesmaids, and the been allowed to do. Early that morning a note from his affianced bride had been put in his hands summoning him to a private conference with her at the Hall before they should proceed to the church. Surprised and filled with vague uneasiness, his lordship lost no time in obeying the behest.

Within the most secluded of her suit of richly furnished apartments at the old Hall. half buried in the depths of a cushioned chair, reclined the bride expectant, in bridal array.

She was alone, her attendants having, by her own desire, withdrawn.

Estelle Morelle-or "la belle Estelle,' "Beautiful Stelle," "the Midnight Star" -as, for her resplendent dark beauty, she was poetically named—was at this time twenty-five years of age, and more lovely than a poet's or an artist's ideal. Her form was of medium height, and very slender, though well-rounded, with a graceful head, over which fell rich masses of jetblack silken ringlets, shading a face of pure, pale olive complexion with large mournful dark eyes, habitually veiled by the long, drooping lashes, and delicate, though full, curved lips, ever patiently closed as in silent resignation. The prevailing expression of her dark, brilliant countenance was a profound melancholy.

The announcement of Miss Morelle's approaching marriage, with the Viscount intressor had created a profound sensation in the fashionable and aristocratic circles. A peerless beauty, the only child and heiress of the oldest, wealthiest and haughtiest baronet in the West of England, her heart had been as much the object of aspiration to the youthful and ardent, as her hand and fortune had been the end of desire to the mercenary and ambitious.

At the early age of seven years, Estelle had been placed at one of the first-class female institutions of learning at Paris, best of their kind in the world, and there had been left to remain until her sixteenth year, when the sudden and calamitous to return. Stella, will you promise me breaking up of the institution, and her own severe illness, had occasioned her removal. That illness had been attended with marked changes in the constitution and temperament of the young girl.

Estelle, previously the most careless, light-hearted and capricious of children, left her chamber of convalescence a subdued, thoughtful, melancholy woman! The laughing lips of girlhood closed in patient sadness, the sparkling eyes sheathed their beams under long, shadowy lashes, now seldom lifted; the silvery, clastic voice, free, glad motions were measured and cou-

To dissipate what was considered a transient melancholy, her parents travelled with her over Europe, pausing at each capital and chief town, to show her all that was interesting and instructive. But though their daughter repaid their attentions with the sweetest gratitude, and obeyed them with the gentlest docility, she showed no interest in the passing scenes. And though everywhere her extreme beauty and sweetness of disposition, not less than her fortune and pomost distinguished physician in Europe had been consulted upon her case, and than before, and then saidthe result of their wisdom was a decision that this melancholy was not the effect of give you that! town that Estelle formed the acquaintance of Lord Montressor, a young nobleman but lately accoded to his titles and estates, but already known as a man of the most hightoned moral and intellectual excellence, as off the coast of Algiers—Estelle uttered a a righteous, as well as a rising statesman, and as one, who in the event of a change of ministry would be likely to fill a high official position in His majesty's cabinet. In thus rejecting his suit she enced and exhibited in his society should have betrayed him into making this declaration, and beseeching him never to renew his suit, but to leave and forget her. There was something in the tone of her refusal which confirmed and deepened his previous conviction that—even in rejecting him she loved him! But with his high toned sentiments he would not in the least degree presume upon that knowledge. Takher hand with deferential tenderness, he "Stella! a man never but once, his whole existence loves a woman as I love you! I will not inquire the cause of the rejection, which you have certainly a right to make without assigning any reason for the act. And after having received this repulse, I may not in honor distress you by a renewal of my suit. But this, in parting, I must say to yon-that, though I go hence, I shall not go out of the reach of your friends; I never shall address another woman; so if ever in the course of future weeks, or months or years, however long, you may think proper to review the decision of this evening, Stella, I implore you to let me know! Write but one word, Come, and I will return to lay an un-changed heart at your feet!"

Estelle was weeping too bitterly to reply. "Stella! will you promise to do this?" "Lord Montressor, best and dearest friend! do not seek to bind yourself to one who can give you nothing in return! Try to think of the melancholy girl that you have pitied and loved-only as a shadow that fell for a moment across the sunshine of your path, and then passed away forever and so forget her !" "Stella! I have pledged my honor never to renew this suit, unless you reverse in my favor the sentence you have pronounced upon it; but, inspired by the deep and deathless love I bear you, and 'hoping against hope,' I feel impelled to implore then as now, considered among the very before leaving you, that, in the event of a change of sentiment or purpose towards me, you will not hesitate to give me leave

Now will you promise, Stella? Remember, it is only to let me know in case of a change in your sentiments."

At the end of this period, Lord Montresssor, who had never left England, or lost trace of his beloved Stella, and who was now staying at his castle at Dorsetshire, was one day seated at breakfast when the morning mail was brought him. Among a score of letters the first that attracted his attention was a dainty white envelope superscribed in a delicate handwriting. He took that up first and opened it-it contained but one word-"Come.' The light of an ineffable joy broke over his face! Oh! he had waited patiently, hopefully, years, for that word, and at last he received it! Thanks to heaven in the rang for his valet, and ordered his valise

In twenty more minutes he had reached the railway station just as the cars were at Hyde Hall and standing in the presence happy

With the old chivalric enthusiasm of devotion, he dropped at once upon his knee, and raised her hand to his, saying-"For four years I have hoped and waited for one word from you, and at last, beloved, you have written- 'Come,' and I am at your feet, as I said, with an unchanged heart.

"But I," she said, deeply blushing. while she held both hands to raise him, "I, my Lord, have not an unchanged heart for longer than four years I have loved you more than woman's tongue may tell-and never more, than at the hour in which we bade farewell, as I thought, forever!"

"I know it, beloved! knew it then knew it always! I never doubted it!— Could I be deceived in the dear heart of the woman I loved! No! and that was the secret of my patience!" he replied, taking his seat on the sofa by her side.

"And yet you never inquired and do not even now inquire, why, without explanation and without hope, I sent you from my presence, and why now, without apparent reason, I summon you back!" she said, as a shade of the old sadness fell upon her beautiful face.

"Your motives, dearest, were, and ar your own. Not until your spirit moves you to do so, shall you give them to me I have full confidence in you, beautiful Stella!"

"Confidence! oh my God!" she exclaimed in a low, deep, thrilling voice. "Why, what is the matter, dearest?" She looked up suddenly, a smile of worshipping love, breaking like sunlight over her dark face, and said-" Nothing, nothing, my lord! but that all your thoughts and feelings are so elevated beyond your poor Estelle's! And yet she would almost choose it so! for could she be an angel, she would wish you to be something far higher-a god!" "Sweet enthusiast! moderate your aspirations, or the world and its people will disappoint you! Be not an idolator worship only God, my Stella."

Such was their meeting! Yet, occasionally, throughout the interview, a sudden shadow like the recurrence of a painful thought, would fall upon her bright face and then pass as it came.

They were engaged, and within a few days the marriage was announced to take place on the first of May. But it was observed by the nearest friends of the bride, that from the day of her betrothal, her spirits had been marked by the strangest fluctuations. Sometimes with her beautiful dark face illumined with a deep, still, almost religious joy, she moved about, as it were, on "winged feet." or sat brooding in a happy trance. At other times, she fell into deep gloom and anxiety, as inexplicable as it was alarming to her friends, who greatly feared her relapse into the deep melancholy that had so long overshadowed her, and that they had grown to dread as a serious constitutional malady. But they hoped everything from her approaching marriage with the man she loved. Lord Montressor observed with the deepest interest the uncertain moods of his betrothed; but with the high-toned sentiments that distinguished him, refrained from inquiring, and awaited her volun-

Yet when she heard his firm elastic step approaching,
"Now God have mercy on me!" she prayed, and covered her face with her hands.

He entered, unannounced, and saying, "My beautiful Stella! I am here, you perceive, by your commands!"

She dropped her hands, and revealing a face pale with misery, spoke in a thrilling, deep, impassioned tone-

FARM AT PRIVATE SALE.—The A subscriber offers at private sale, the well known farm, late the estate of Willaim Taggui, deceased, situate part in Northumberland and part in Montour counties, Fa., on the road leading from Milton to Danville, and within one fourth of a mile of the C. W. and E. X. R., containing in all 277 Acres; about 105 or 110 Acres are heavy timbered land, principally Oak and Hickory. There is a large quantity of oak suitable for Ship Timber, and any amount of railroad wood on the farm. The improvements are two good DWELING HOUSES, and one large Bank Barn, handsomely situated; the Chilisquaque Creek running through the center of the farm, on which there is a fall of 6 feet of inches, suitable for a Saw or Grist Mill.

There is also s fine young Apple and Peach Orchard of choice grafted fruit, and a large portion of Meadow Land,

The whole will be sold together, or in part, to suit pur-The whole will be sold together, or in part, to suit purchasers.

The above property has lately been very much improved; within the last year 10,000 bushels of lime has been put on it, and 2 tons of gaune.

This property will divide in equal parts, either by the creek or by the public road. The terms will be made ascommodating to suit purchasers, as but little of the money will be required for several years, unless convenient to those who may choose to purchase. Any person with a small sum to pay in cash, can make the balance out of the timber and wood, as the Cattawissa Railroad furnishes a cash market for all the wood that can be delivered. All the products of the farm will in that place pay better than in the city of Lancaster, in consequence of the markets created by the iron and coal regions close by. After being cleared there will be 200 acres of good timothy meadow as care be found in the State. It will then be a first-rate grazing farm.

The subscriber will also sell on reasonable terms a small Farm, containing 45 Acres of good Land, situate in Chiliseneous township. Northumberland county 4 miles.

The subscriber will also sell on reasonable terms a small Farm, containing 45 Acres of good Land, situate in Chilisquaque township, Northumberland county, 4 miles rom Milton, 4 miles from Lewisburg, and ten miles from Danville. This tract contains about 5 Acres of Timber, and the balance is well suited for raising grain and hay, and has all been limed within the last two years. The improvements are a good TWO-STORY HOUSE, in good condition, and a tolerable Log Barn, which with some improvement will be sufficient for the farm. There is also on it a good APPLE ORCHARD, and other Fruit Trees. This property is within three miles of the Sunbury and Eric railroad, and two miles of the Catawissa railroad. It is in a good neighborhood, and good markets, and convenient to the public schools.

Any person in Lancaster county desirous of purchasing, will please call on Mr. William Carpenter, who will furnish all necessary information or on the subscriber, near Milton, Northumberland county, Pa.

Terms will be made very accommodating.

Chillsquaque twp., Jan. 20. CHOICE FARM LANDS FOR SALE.--

The Illinois Central R. R. Company is now prepared to sell about 1,500,000 Arres of CHOICE FARMING LANDS in Tracts of 40 Acres and upwards, on Long Credits, and at Low Rates of Interest.

These lands were granted by the Government to aid In the construction of this Road, and are among the richest and most fertile in the world. They extend from North East and North West, through the middle of the State, to the extreme South, and include every variety of climate and preductions found between these northese of lattices. the extreme South, and include every variety of climate and productions found between those parallels of latitude. The Northern portion is chiefly prairie, interspersed with fine groves, and in the middle and Southern sections timber predominates, alternating with beautiful prairies and openings.

The climate is more healthy, mild and equable, than any other part of the country—the air is pure and bracing, while living streams and springs of excellent water abound. Bituminous Cad is extensively mined, and supplies a cheap and desirable fuel, being furnished at many points at $2 to $4 per tou—and wood can be had at the same rate ortation.

The great fertility of these lands, which are a black markets North, South, East, West, and the economy with which they can be cultivated, render them the most valuable investment that can be found; and prosent the most favorable opportunity, for persons of industrious habits and small means, to acquire a comfortable independence in a few years.

Chicago is most the greatest grain market in the world—and the facility and comonny with which the products of these lands can be transported to that market, make them much more profitable, at the prices asked, than those more remote at government rates,—as the additional cost of transportation is a perpetual tax on the latter, which must be borne by the producer, in the reduced price he receives for his grain, &c.

The title is perfect—and when the final payments are made, Deeds are executed by the Trustees appointed by the State, and in whom the title is vested, to the purchasics, which convey to them absolute titles in Fee Simple, free and clear of every incumbrance, lien or mortgage.

THE PRICES ARE FROM 86 to $30.—INTEREST ONLY A PER CENT.

20 per cent, will be deducted from the credit price for Cash.
Thus a who purchase on long credit, give notes payable in 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 years after date, and are required to improve one-tenth annually for five years, so as to have one-half the land under cultivation, at the end of that time.

Competent Surveyors will accompany those who wish to examine these Lands, free of charge, and aid them in making solections.

The Lands remaining unsold are as rich and valuable as those which have been disposed of.
