WHAT I LOST BY KISSING KATE.

BY WILLIE E. PABOR. There were Lizzie, Kate and Mary, All three beautiful and young, But the name of Mary ever Lingered longest on my tongue And I hopes in secret cherished Of a home that she was queen,

But one day these sweet hopes perished, And left life a desert scene. They and I were once together. Frolicking beneath the moon; In the mildest of mild weather-In the odorous month of June.

And sweet Mary said, "Since kisses In the moonlight time are due, I would take this best of kisses From Kate's lips, if I were you. Scarcely had the thought been spoken,

Ere, with heart and eye elate, I had claimed the honied token From the rosy lips of Kate. But, alack! in thus obeying, I had made a sad mistake; For in heart, the girl was saying, "Kate will lose what I shall take."

"Kiss Kate!" this was what she told me; But its meaning was-Kiss me! Oh! vain heart! and oh! eyes silly, Thus to fail the truth to see!

So we parted; I with sorrow, She with scorn, perhaps with hate; And my heart grows sad by knowing What I lost by kissing Kate.

Stealing Water-Melons.

A man in a country town took great pleasure in having a neat garden. He had all kinds of vegetables and fruits earlier than his neighbors, but thieving boys in the neighborhood annoyed him, damaged his trees, trampled down his flowers, and his watch dogs were poisoned, and settraps caught nothing but his fattest fowls | my hopes and my fears.

One afternoon however, just at nightfall, he overheard a couple of michievous boys talking together, when one of them said:

Now hear the owner's story: I made a needful preparation for the visit; put in brads pretty thick in the scantling along the wall where they intended to get over; uncovered a large water vat which had been filled for some time, from which, in dry weather, I was accustomed to water my garden; dug a trench a foot deep or so, and placed slender boards over it. which were slightly covered with dirt. and just beyond them some little cords. ground. SINGULAR EFFECTS OF ELECTRICITY. cently occurred at the locomotive works in Detroit, is chronicled by the Free Press:

"A locomotive was being moved from the manufactory to the central depot, and Ned wanted to go home at once, but Joe had arrived in the middle of the street, when suddenly all hands dropped the bars with which they were moving the machine and all fell back in amazement. Resumthey applied them again to the wheels, and again fell back paralyzed the instant they touched the iron. The director of the job caught up one of the bars, and making a savage thrust, planted it under a wheel, preparatyry to giving a huge lift. No sooner had it touched, however, than he saw it fall from his grasp to the ground as it had done in every case before. Such singular occurrences excited attention, and an examination was made as to the cause, when it was found that the locomotive, in passing under the telegraph line, had come tiously. At length they arrived at the in contact with a broken wire, that hung sufficiently low to reach it. The whole mass of iron composing the locomotive had thus become charged with electricity, which And down they sat in the midst of them, had communicated itself to the bars that the men held in their hands, and caused the effect described. A SINGULAR CIRCUMSTANCE.—Says the Pottsville Register: The family of an old resident of this borough was awakened, a day or two since, by cries for assistance, Well, then, all I've got to say, is that female domestic slept. The poor girl's situation, it may be imagined, was truly terrible, and the alarm of the family at what at first was a fearful mystery was equally severe.-Had the girl died alone and unheard, and been found next morning weltering in her blood and the room bespattered from one end to the other, it would at the first blush, have appeared a case of murder, and the feelings of the family would have been far from enviable. And yet cases less conclusive have sent to the scaffold many innocent persons. The girl has not yet entirely recovered from the effects of the accident.

LETTING DOWN THE ARISTOCRACY .-The elegant Miss Mason, whose father had made a splendid fortune as an enterprising draper and tailor, appeared at this magnificent entertainment in royal apparel. With that fastidious exclusiveness for which the latest comers into fashionable circles are offers of introduction, as she did not wish to extend the number of her acquaintances.

'Her friends were few and very select.' The beautiful Miss Taylor, radiant with good natured smiles, and once well acquainted with Miss Mason when they went to the public school in William street tohis melons which he had taken so much of the government as to a ship when night gether, noticed the hauteur of her ancient friend, who was determined not to recogtened to the plans of the young scapegraces, a land can be found under the sun; our nize one who would only remind her of her so that he might make it somewhat both- lines have indeed been cast in pleasant former low estate. CAPS AND STRAW HATS.

Our assortment of Caps and Straw Hats is the largest, best and most fashionable in the city.

We are also manufacturing the PATENT FLEXIBLE SILK HAT, which for beauty of finish, cannot be surpassed. The improvement consists of a combination of principle to render the Silk Hat Band, after a slight wear, as soft and pleasant to the head as a soft Hat. The "Flexible Band' combines the softness of the Felt Hat, with the beauty and dressy appearance of the Silk Hat, and from its yielding nature, readily conforms to the shape of the head, thus avoiding in a very great measure, the trouble and inconvenience of conforming and shaping, as the principle of the conformator is embodied in the improvement.

All Hats sold at this establishment are made under our own supervision, and we warrant them to be what they are sold for. We respectfully invite the public to give us a call, as we keep the largest and most complete assortment of all articles in our line in the city of Lancaster.

AMBROTYPES.

This beantiful process, which of late has taken such a hold on the picture loving community, is practised in all its varied branches. These pictures are durable, susceptible of beautiful and life-like coloring, can easily be seen in any light and when made by experienced operators, combine many beautiful effects. The Ambrotypes made at this Gallery are characterized by strength, depth of tone, brillancy, positions artistic, natural coloring and beauty of finish, forming a gem possessing rare merlt, and which defies all competitions to equal.

Persons having children whose likenesses they have heretofore been unable to obtain, have only to call at my immense Sky Light Usilery, where they can be taken in ONE SECOND, and a satisfactory picture warranted.
