TO THE GLADE BARD. BY ANNA. My friendly BARD you claim an answer, To the lines you penned for me; How shall I my heart right honest, Openly unfold to thee? Thoughts that now my heart would prefer, May perhaps not answer you;

Still though plain should be my language, ~I will strive and answer true. Pardon me, but let me tell you, That I don't like flattery ; And the hateful grudge you speak of-Finds not now a place in me! I will not pretend to pen you,

Words as sweet as you unfold; For my heart feels silent, thoughtful. Thoughts that seem as yet untold. And the tengue, what folly rules it-When o'ercame by Satan's powers; Still we boast, we've gained the victory, And still build delusive towers.

Self-conceit doth wildly lure us, Pride and folly madly charm; But in ways of virtue only, Can we walk secure from harm A useful lesson, thus can we-By our wayward footsteps learn; Which will guide us, if we heed it. Many idle paths to shun.

May we never list to folly, Never beed her idle stream. Which is like a fleeting bubble-And dissolveth like a dream. It lulls awhile the unguarded spirit In a weak and doubtful sleep; Which will vanish like a vision. And the soul in torment steep. May we learn to rule our passions, And to strictly guard our tongue, This alone will make us happy, Right alone can conquer wrong. Pardon me, if I have uttered-

Aught that may friend annoy; Be the past henceforth forgotten, Future light our only joy. Farewell my friend, and if my wishes I do rightly comprehend; Be my prayers, that Heaven's blessings, May be thine, till life shall end. MT. AIRY, 1857.

The Affection of the Horse.

Riding in a stage, a short time since, over the hills of Western Pennsylvania, I less injury than light swards or stubble asked the privilege of riding out with the lands. driver. This in pleasant weather, and in a strange country, is my favorite seat .- this practice may be appropriately followed Many consider it a disgrace to sit out with by brief directions for performing the work. the driver; but often I find philosophy guiding the horses in a public stage. If a driver, it will be as politely granted; and the local and most interesting history of the country through which the traveler is "That near horse," said I, " is a fine

"Yes," said he; "if I had his mate, money would not purchase them. How old do you think he is?" "Probably eight or nine years," said I. "He is twenty-four," said he. "I have driven him nine years on this route. His mate was just like him; they have grown up together, and stood in the same stable. No person ever appeared to think more of a friend, or even a child, than those two horses did of each other. If one was absent for a night or day, the other whinned, and looked and moved about the stable. calling for his absent friend. "Last winter." said he, "his mate died." Since then he has been constantly mournful and unhappy. He is constantly calling for his permit any other horse to occupy the place of his companion in the stable. In all other places he is quiet and gentle, but will allow no one to be a companion at the stable where he had so often enjoyed the society of his departed companion. But he is failing fast, said my friend; "he is evidently pining away with grief, and poor old Jim will soon join his mate in another, existence. "Why," said I, " do you suppose a horse has a conscious existence after death?" same evidence of it that I shall exist .--Have I love? So has a horse. Have I affection, sympathy, mind, reason? So has a horse. Call it instinct, if you please -I call it reason. True, a horse has not the organs of mathematical calculation: but many human beings are as destitute of them as a horse; and certainly they are not necessary for a future existence. It is the moral faculties that will survive the grave. "In those," said he, Jim is preeminent. Does any one love his friend? Certainly not better than Jim does his .-Does any one strive to do his duty? Jim is a pattern of dutiful obedience. Does any remember, and mourn for his lost loved Poor old Jim is going down sor-

EARLY MARRIAGES .- She stood beside the altar when she was but sixteen. She was in love; her destiny rested on a creature in fashionable clothes, with empty pocket. FALL PLOWING.

The advantages of fall plowing may be enumerated as follows:

1. In the autumn, the team having become inured to work through the summer. is more vigorous and better prepared for labor than in the spring, and other farm work is less pressing in its demands upon the time and attention than in that bustling period. Let all the plowing be done which is possible in the fall, and still the spring work would give abundant employment to the farmer and his teams, in drawing manure, cross plowing, cultivating, har-

2. In the fall, low, moist lands are generally in better condition for plowing than in spring time. We say generally, for this season low, most lands are decidedly moist at present. Still, we cannot hope for any better state very early next year, and if plowed as they should be, wet lands will suffer very little from water through the winter.

3. Stiff, heavy soils, plowed in autumn, undergo, by the action of water and frost, a more thorough disintegration-clays are pulverized and crumbled, and heavy loams and hard pan lands are acted upon, in like manner and with like benefit.

4. Heavy, coarse swards, full of rank weeds and grasses, can be better subdued by plowing in the fall, their roots are more apt to die out, and far less liable to sprout again than when plowed in the spring .-The turf is better prepared, by its more advanced state of decay, for the use of crops which may be sown or planted upon it.

5. Fall plowing disturbs the "winter arrangements" of numerous worms and insects, and must destroy a large number of these pests, and also their eggs and larvæ. This is a minor advantage, but one worthy of consideration, especially on lands infested with the wire-worm.

The principal objections to fall plowing are these:

1. The less of that fresh friable condition readily permeable to the air and moisture, and the consolidation of the soil by long exposure to changing and stormy weather. This, on soils of a light character, is a very serious objection to plowing in autumn.

2. The loss of vegetable matter and the gases of the same, while in a state of decay, is another disadvantage. The latter is but a small loss if the work is done late in the fall, but often on hill-sides, a large part of the soluble and floating organic matter is washed away by the heavy rains of winter and early spring time. The soil is also consolidated by the same influences. Heavy swards thus situated would sustain

3. Plow deep and narrow furrows-such will best secure the action of the ameliorating influences of frost upon the soil. A rough broken surface is better than a smooth one for this purpose.—Rural New

A BABY IN A BASKET-A SMALL CAT-ASTROPHE !- The Philadelphia Pennsylvanian has the following among its police

As Mrs. Esther Stansbury, residing in a court running from Race, below Sixth st., was about to bring a bucket of water from a hydrant, last night, she found a basket suspended from the knob of the front door. Putting her hand into the basket, she felt something alive and kicking, so wrapped up in rags that no further discovery could when in the stable; and he will not be made without unwrapping the object. A piece of paper, folded like a letter, lay by the side of the animated bundle. Mrs. Stansbury immediately returned into the house, and by the light of a lamp examined the billet. It was directed to her husband. She tremulously broke the seal and read

"To Joe Stansbury—Sir—I send vou the baby, which you will please take good and I hope and believe, a higher state of care of, and bring up right, so that it may turn out to be a better man than its daddy. Oh, Joseph! what a sly old-rake you are! Who would think that such a sober "Certainly I do," said he, "I have the old spindle-shanks could be such a tearing old sinner? The Grandeur of Nature.

We live peaceably on the surface of the earth, while oceans of fire roll beneath our feet. In the interior of the globe the everlasting forge is at work. How dreadful must an earthquake be, when we are told by Pliny that twelve cities in Asia Minor were swallowed up in one night. Not a the intelligent, and the good. Where you vestige remained—they were lost in the find men that know more than you do, and tremendous forever! Millions of beings from whose conversation one can gain inhave been swallowed up while flying for safety. In the bowels of the earth Nature | It has broken down many a man by associperforms her wonders at the same moment that she is firing the heavens with her ribald song was inculcated—and the inlightnings. Her thunders roll above our decent story, to excite laughter, and influ-heads and beneath our feet, where the eye ence the bad passions. Lord Clarendon of mortal man never penetrated. In the has attributed success and happiness in when it poured forth its cataract of fire over one of the fairest portions of the earth, and swept into ruins ages of industry. In the olcano of Vesuvius dashed its fiery bilows to the clouds, and buried in burning lava the cities of Herculaneum, Stabie and walked, the modern philosopher now stands | vulgar. and ruminates upon fallen grandeur .-While the inhabitants were unmindful of the danger which awaited them; while they were busied with the plans of wealth and greatness, the irresistable flood of fire came roaring from the mountain, and shrouded them in eternal night. Seventeen centuries have rolled over them, and their lonely habitations and works remain as their monuments. They were swept away in the torrent of time-the waves of ages have settled over them, and art alone has preserved her memory. Great Nature how sublime are all thy works!

A MOTHER'S GRAVE .-- Earth has some sacred spots, where we feel like loosing the shoes from our feet, and treading with reverence; where common words of social converse seem rude, and friendship's hands have lingered in each other, where vows have been plighted, prayers offered, and tears of parting shed. Oh, how thoughts hover around such places, and travel back through unmeasured space, to visite them. But of all the spots on this green earth none is so sacred as that where rests, waiting the resurrection, those we have once loved and cherished -our brothers, or our children. Hence, in all ages, the better part of mankind have chosen and loved spots of the dead; and on these spots they have loved to wander at eventide, to meditate. But of all places, even among the charnel houses of the dead, none is so sacred as a mother's grave. There sleeps the nurse of our infancythe guide of our youth-the counselor of all our riper years—our friend when others deserted us : she whose heart was a stranger to every other feeling but love, and who could always find excuses for us when we could find none for ourselves. There she sleeps, and we love the very earth for her With sentiments like these I turned aside from the gaities of life to the narrow habitation of the dead. I wandered among those who commenced life with me in hope. Here distinctions are now forgotten; at least by the slumbers around me. I saw the rich and the great, who scorned the poor, and shunned them as if infected by the plague, quietly sleeping by

He turned politician, and bribed his way to power and fame, without reducing his "pile" of gold. He became a "fillibuster," and fitted out ships and armies, but his banker honored all his drafts. He went to St. Paul to live, and paid the usual rates of interest for all the money he could borrow, but though the devil made wry faces when he came to pay the bills, yet they were all paid. One expedient after another failed the devil counted the time, only two years, that he must wait for the soul, and mocked the efforts of the despairing man. The Kanawha Star says:

" It is not believed that the quantity or quality of the coal in the mountains about the falls of Kanawha are any better, if as good, as several of the other localities named. Indeed, the Elk cannel coal has long been acknowledged as superior to any, and the Coal River next to it. Taking, then, one hundred and twenty feet as the thickness, which has been found to exist, and much more may be dicovered where none is now known,) and 20,000 square miles as the area of this Western Virginia coal field, and taking a square foot in the bank as equivalent to a bushel of coal after being mined, we have 66,908,160,000,000 bushels of coal, which at two cents a bushel, amounts to $1,338,163,200,000. But to avoid even the appearance of extravagance, let the estimate be made at only one half the quantity actually measured in the Kanawha hills, and we have $669,081,600,000 for the value of these coal fields, without including the value of the suface as land for agricultural and horticultural purpos-

CAPS AND STRAW HATS.
Our assortment of Caps and Straw Hats is the largest, best and most fashionable in the city.
We are also manufacturing the PATENT FLEXIBLE SILK HAT, which for beauty of finish, cannot be surpassed The improvement consists of a combination of principle to render the Silk Hat Band, after a slight wear, as soft and pleasant to the head as a soft Hat. The "Flexible Band" combines the softness of the Felt Hat, with the beauty and dressy, appearance of the Silk Hat, and from its yielding nature, readily conforms to the shape of the head, thus avoiding in a very great measure, the trouble and inconvenience of conforming and shaping, as the principle of the conformator is embodied in the improvement.

All Hats sold at this establishment are made under our own supervision, and we warrant them to be what they are sold for. We respectfully invite the public to give us a cill, as we keep the largest and most complete assortment of all articles in our line in the city of Lancaster.

NEW CITY MAP.--SPLENDIDLY IL.

LUSTRATED WITH LARGE COLORED MARS,—
The subscriber being about to publish a beautifully illustrated Map of the city of Lancaster, respectfully solicits the patronage of the citizens to the new enterprise.

The Map will be very minute in its details, being a complete plot of the city with all the new and contemplated streets and alleys, and all the original town lost, numbered as recorded, together with a ground plan of all the buildings as they stand on their respective lots, the Schools, Colleges, with all Churches, Hotels, Stores, Manufacturing Establishments and all the edites of professional men in the city, distinctly named and colored, and the names of all the subscribers duly inserted on the margio, making it not only a complete map of the city, but also a business directory; and, in connection with all this, there will be from fifteen of twenty-five original views of Residences, Churches, Colleges, and Manufacturing Establishments the the city and vicinity beautifully colored, the natural color, as I make all my own sketches and color them on the spot, and have them lithographed in the highest style of the art. Samples of which can be shown that were published in West Chester and Chester county, which have never been equalled by any views published on any map in the United States. Having had considerable experience in map publishing, and having devoted a great deal of time to the art of perspective drawing. I flatter myself that I smable so produce beautiful life-like pictures that cannot be excelled; and in fact defy all competition in this style of Map publishing. All persons whining views published on the city map, or having property they wish plated in, will please leave orders at J. Franklin Reigart's office.
