These, like all the others, maintain their ability to pay dollar for dollar-we would rather see it than believe it. The run on our State Bank is beginning to ease up-though they are still draining the coin from it. Every dy thinks it best for the bank to close its doors, but the officers think differently-they say the trying times of 1837 did not force them to such a measure, and they believ they can weather this storm, the worst of which is supposed e over, but we will see what we shall see.

Our produce market continues in a depressed and unset tled condition, though a better feeling seems to prevail .--There is no sale for tobacco, hemp, rope, or lead, and flour is quoted from $4,50 to $5; wheat 60c to $1 02; Corn 55 65c: oats 35 to 40c; rye 60c; barley 60c cash; hay $1 15; whiskey 16e cash and 18c currency; potatoes dull at 45 and 50c-sweet 70c per bushel; 200 head of hogs for night, there was so hard and stiff a frost in the

We clip the following paragraph from the Memphis Ap neal, because it is one of an unusual as well as most shockng character :

In character: "Among the passengers on board the steamboat Julia, when she left Napoleon. on Saturday night, was a lawyer of Napoleon. nemed Goforth, also a person named Hudson, who, being under bonds to answer for having killed a Mr. Murray, was on his way to the scity to deliver himself up to the Criminal Coart, which commenced its fail term yes-terday. Whon about ten miles on this side of Napoleon these two men got into a violont dispute. The lie passed between them. Guforth drew a pistol, which is said had no cap on, when Hudson drew a kalfe and gave abin a pow-orful stab. In the side. Goforth was taken to his staterroom, and in ten minutes was a lifeless corpso. Itudeon was very cool about what he had done; he said he did not value his life, and they could take it if they wanted; he only acted in self defence. The shayer and the corpse were put on board the Rainbow, which was not after the occur-rence, and sent back to Napoleon. The electuntsfance of an individual killing one man when on the way to answer for having caused the desth of another, is inexpressibly shock ing."
