I WEPT BESIDE THY GRAVE, MOTHER.

BY FRANK MYRTLE. I wept beside thy grave, mother, My heart is weeping still, And fondly lingers near the tomb On vonder lonely hill. I did not hear thy parting words

I did not see thee die But thy last message came to me. When death was hovering nigh.

I have been a truant boy, mother And caused thee many a pain, But I would heal the wound I made, Could'st thou return again; My boyish heart would not obey Thy mild commands. I know And o'er my waywardness to thee

My tears will ever flow I was thy cherished pet, mother, Thy love was fond and true. Thy kisses oft bedew'd my cheek, Ere manhood's care I knew; Affliction's'child from infancy Ye loved me but the more,

Life's pilgrimage was o'er. I've wandered many a league, mother, From where we used to dwell; No cherished one is near me now. Of those I loved so well:

But oft my weeping heart returns To where my precious relies lie And there it weeps for thee

> Congress Thirty Years Ago. "General Sam Houston is said to be the only member of the present Congress who was also a member thirty-five years ago, when Edward Everett formed one of the three hundred constituting that

There are some slight inaccuracies in this statement, says the N. O. Picayune, between George Washington, Esq., of the although not material. Mr. Crittenden, all and every part of his duty as a Gardonthe venerable Senator from Kentucky, was er, to the best of his knowledge and abiliin the Senate in 1817, more than forty years ago. Houston left Congress in 1827, and did not come back till 1846, having been not only out of Congress, but for the most part out of the Union, brought back, if all accounts of his ante-annexation coquetry with England be true, rather against his own will.

That Congress contained a great many men who have since acquired great reputations, and occupied the highest positions in the country. Four of its members-Van Buren, Harrison, Polk, and Buchanan -have since been elected President. Two -Richard M. Johnson and Wm. R. King -have been Vice-Presidents. The presiding officer of the Senate was John C. Calhoun, then in the zenith of his populari-The eccentric Randolph occupied the seat which, at the close of the term, was filled ARRESTED! —On Friday last a most dress; Mrs. Senato: Douglas dways que alike Daniel Webster was in the House, and by John Tyler, afterwards President .singular case of discovery occurred, by a Aurora; Mrs Senator Clay of Abdraca, as Hugh L. In the House, besides McDuffie, and Hamilton, and Philip P. Barbour-men who have left great reputations unconected with public station—there were Edward Livingston, of Louisiana, Secretary of State and minister to France; William C. Rives, of Virginia, also minister to France; Andrew Stevenson, of Virginia, minister to England; and, though we name him last, not the least conspicuous there, Mr. Everett himself, whose name had already become widely known for ripe scholarship, and who became, successively, minister to England and Secretary of State. It was a remarkable body which included these men. Very few of the members survive, and of the whole list President Buchapan is the only one now in public life, excepting General Houston. Mr. Buchanan was, however, a man of mark then. Gen. Houston was only known for some eccentricities, which soon after made him notorious, if not famous; and his titles to distinction, whatever they are, were earned on another field than in the councils or service of the United States.

In looking over the list of members of this Congress, as published in Niles' Register of December, 1825, we notice a curifull names of every member of the House of Representatives but one. There was a new member from Tennessee, whose christian name could not be found out by the compiler; and so he put him down thus:-Polk. Twenty years afterwards this obscure gentleman, of whose identity there was so much question in 1825, was elected ADVICE TO CONSUMPTIVE PERSONS .-

A CURIOUS DOCUMENT.—Washington, as everybody knows, was very methodical; and he was particular to have matters about which a dispute might arise, "put in writing." The article below is copied from one of his, "and is both characteristic and amusing. It is an agreement with his gardener, who, it appears, was in the habit of getting "tight;"

"Articles of agreement made this twelfth day of April, Anno Domini, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven, by and ties, and that he will not at any time suffer himself to be disguised with liquor, except on times herafter mentioned.

"In consideration of these things being well and truly performed on the part of said Philip Bater, the said Geo. Washington both agree to allow him (the said Philip) the same kind and quality of provisions as he has heretofore had, and likewise annually a decent suit of clothes, befitting a man in his station; to consist of coat, vest and breeches; a working jacket and breeches of homespun, besides two white shirts, three check do., two linen pocket handkerchiefs, two pair of linen overhalls; as many pair of shoes as are necessary for him; four dollars at Christmas, with which he may be drunk four days and four nights; ty and the highest vigor of his intellect. two dollars at Easter to effect the same purpose; two dollars at Whitsuntide, to be drunk two days; a dram in the morning and a drink of grog at dinner at noon.

"For the true and faithful performance of all and each part of these things, the parties have becounte set their hands this twenty-third day of April, Anno Domini, PHILIP BALER, his X mark.
