Sr. Louis, Jan. 2, 1860. Another Year has departed and another born, and to day we write eighteen hundred and sixty. The old. ckened with the years before the flood, and of the on just born no man can foresee what it will bring forth Speaking of the advent of the "New Year," the Republ can well-says it were a difficult task to recount in the space we have alloted to ourselves, the distinguishing features of the year that has just ended. They have been promptly recorded on the page of history, and many of them will endure long in the memories of men. But there have been those things that will never be chronicled. The clash of arms, the roar of cannon, the flashing bayonet, the waving flag and spirit-stirring music-the trophies of peace-the gory hand of Faction uplifted against a nation's welfare—intestinal strife and conflict beyond the gulf—national and State questions of policy and politics—these and other matters have been rescued from oblivion and stamped upon the age. But they are not all the themes that crowd upon the mind, looking back upon the events of a twelve-month. It has, perhaps not been written how hearts have bled beneath th ambition prostrated, this or the other side of the goal, and the noblest impulses deadened and laid low. Nor is there any public scroll whereon are inscribed what gayeties and ys, what happy, peaceful delights have been experienced throughout the year. At such a season as this, all these will be ant to be called up. And if there have been fore bodings, and disappointments, and griefs, hope, Pandora's prisoner, will spring amidst the gloom and open out the uture, colored with the brightest and most radiant hues

Plenteousness and peace still shed their benificent smiles over our country. The sails of her commerce whiten every seas. The overflowing of her fields are carried to ery nort. The bloodless victory of the "plow, the loom repaid. Manufactures, mechanics and the sciences keep pace with American genius. The Union, despite the croakings of sectionalists, is yet preserved to us, and above the glorious fabric still floats the starry banner of the brave and free. Long may it wave!

With these introductory remarks, we tender to you and your readers-with whom we have so long held communion-a "happy New Year."

The Price Current and the different newspapers of our city have just published a review of the trade of the pasyear, which has been characterized by quietness and regularity. Nothing but extreme drought, or blighted rops, can prevent the increase of business in this departfertile soil of the West is extended millions of acres annually. With a slight exception or two, speculative excitement has had no sway. When war in Europe was sitively declared, the markets of England and the Continent became imsettled, and under the expectation that heavy orders would be drawn upon this country for prorisions and bread stuffs, holders refused to sell except at a considerable advance, and heavy transactions in Flour and Pork were consummated at high figures. The fever, however, ran but a few days, when trade returned to its fegular channels. Throughout the season grain producers have been looking f rward to a decided improvement in the home markets, and have consequently exhibited an indisposition to part with their surplus till such time as a favorable turn should enable them to realize their expecta- thousand ions. Supplies, therefore, have at no time exceeded the demand to a great extent, and the result has been as we outore remarked, a season of unusual quietness and regu-before remarked, a reason of unusual quietness and regu-larity in traffic of agricultural products.

Receipts as compared with last year have fallen off in but few articles, while in the majority thore is a large excess. There is a deficit in Hemp, Hog Ments, Oats and Whisky, but the difference is more than made up in the augmentation of prices. The increase in receipts of all escriptions of Grain, excepting Oats, of Tobacco, Iron, Hides, Hay, Beans, Groceries and numerous other article with their values calculated at the improved prices which have ruled in most instances, will show a business the past year enlarged, it is safe to say, millions of dollars. Stocks are unusually light to go over into the new year, most leading articles having been marketed exceedingly close, or taken up entirely.

The Gold mines of Western Kansas are beginning to yield satisfactorily, and by another season heavy ship-ments may be expected, to be returned in the shape of nerchandise, agricultural implements, machinery, provisous, live stock, and the thousand articles necessary to pioneer population.

For the future we note highly favorably prospects. It is probable that by the opening of navigation there wil a demand for breedstuffs and as the Wheat crop at the North is short, good prices may be looked for. It is ascer tained that the crops of England, France and Spain will fall short of estimates formed early in the season, and the export trade to those countries has improved materially last two months. Moreover, large instalments of Eastern capital will soon change places with the crops of the West, or will be seeking investment in the rich Iron, Copper and Lead mines of our State, imparting activity to all branches of business, and giving a fresh impetus to enterprises that are destined to make St. Louis the first

I was an observer of its effects in a friend of mine, who suffered almost everything from a neuralgle affection which resisted the best medical treatment in Centre county. We applied free he Galvanic Oil to the painful part, and gave some inwardly, and in 20 minutes the patient was asleep, and when awakened was free from pain, and continued so. This is a positive fact which I am willing to make good at any time. A case of Felon was cured in hearly the same length of time.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE PARMERS MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY, THE FARMERS MITUAL INSURANCE COMPA R THE YEAR 1859.—Read at a meeting of the M s of that Institution, on the 26th day of December 1859, being their Annual Meeting for the Election

D. 1839, being their Annual Meeting for the Election of Officers.

In making up the report of their proceedings, it affords the Directors great satisfaction to be enabled to inf rm the members of the Company that during the past year, the losses enstained by the Company have been very small; so trilling, indeed, that there has been no necessity for levying any tax, during that period. This gratifying circumstance, will be more particularly appreciated, when contrasted with the severity of the preceding year, during which, the Directors were compelled to levy and collect three different taxes. So frequent and operous were the contributions required, that some began to suspect that the increase of insurance Companies, in some way led to the frequency of fires and that the more property there was insured, the more there would probably be burnt. The experience of the "Farmers' Mutual Insurance Company," for the year just brought to a close, has fairly exploded a theory not founded in reason or sustained on philosophical principles. The hand of the merciless incendiary, seems, for a time at least, to have been stayed in this vicinity, and the impending dread of unseen danger, no longer hanuts the peaceful citizen on retiring to his nightly repose.

How this salutary effect has been attained, cannot be readily explained. No one has beer convicted of arson in our county, but some who have been convicted and imprisoned for larceny, or other crimes of inferior grade may have been guilty of the more nefarious one of firing his neighbor's building.

our county, out some who have been convicted and imprisoned for larceny, or other crimes of inferior grade may have been guilty of the more nefarious one of firing his neighbor's building.

By some it is supposed that the rewards offered by the County Commissioners, and the Directors of the "Farmers' Mutual Insurance Company," has been the means of detering ill disposed persons from a further perpetration of those deeds of villatury, that strike at the peace of Society, and spread ruin and desolation wherever they are developed. May we not indulge the hope that some who have been engage in this nefarious business, may have become sensible of the enormity of their crimes, resolved to reform their lives, and abstain from the destruction of their unlighbors' property in future. This would be the most charltable conclusion, and if correct, would be the most charltable conclusion, and if correct, would be the most safequard for our future security. Recent events, however, disclose the fact, that the ruihless incendiary is still in the exercise of his diabolical rocation, and the full that way soon overwhein us.

The only fire of any consequence that occurred in property insured in this Company, was that of a small barn in Lancaster township, the property of Authony Lump, which was burnt on the evening of the sixth of August last.—How the fire originated was not known. Several other fires occurred, which fortunately occasioned but a small amount of damages, which it is not deemed necessary to notice in this report, but are adverted to in the statement of the Treasurer. Although but a small amount of property was destroyed during the year, a considerable amount of money has been paid during that period, this was main for taxes previously sustained, that had not been paid at the date of the last report, and the money collected was for taxes previously sustained, that had not been paid at the date of the last report, and the money collected was been steadily increasing, and, although a considerable amount appears to hav this institution.

The whole number of policies issued during the year was one hundred and seventy-five (175) covering property val.

11 52 HARD RAP.

BY THE BARD OF TOWER HALL.

One night, this week, a merchant wished To test the spirit rappings, To lest the spirit rappings, By seeing if the spirits told The truth in table tappings. A "medium" he found. who said: A rap was on the table heard, Which made the parties wonder The merchant said; "Oh! dear! what's that? Would friends from heav'nly joys, sir, 'Come here, to-night, to frighten me With such a thund'ring noise, air?"

The spirit caller, turning pale,
Replied, "I cannot tell; sir;
For ne'er was heard a rap like that
Which on that table fell, sir!" Then he remarked in whispered words;
"Bear spirits, I'm not able
To call you down for fifty cents,
And have you spoil a table; So please to spell with gentle raps In vain his talk; the table cracked, And from it flew the splinters:— Oh! horior: oh!—the spirits rapped; "Why don't you pay the Printers?" The merchant jumped, and through the doc He bolted like a rocket; For he had Printer's unpaid bills Tucked down in ev'ry pocket! He paid them all within an hour, And then, he proudly started To try the spirits once again, When feeling honest hearted. The spirits rapped: "If you have paid The Printers, one and all, sir; You will be right, if Clothes you wear From Bennett's Tower Hall, sir;"

Then seek the firm at Tower Hall, And buy a suit for Winter Of those who ever cheaply sell, And always pay the PRINTER." Anthony's Instantaneous Sterescope Visws are the latest Photographic wonder. They are taken in the fortieth part of a second, and everything no matter how rapidly it may be moving, is depicted as sharply and distinctly as if it had been perfectly at rest. This gives an additional value, for to the beauties of inahimate nature it adds the charm of life and motion. The process is a discovery of our own, and being unknown in Europe, we receive from London and Paris large orders for Anthony's Instantaneous Views of America life and scenery.

This compound will be found a great promoter of health, when taken in the spring, to expel the foul humors which fester in the blood at that season of the year. By the timely expulsion of them many rankling disorders are nipped in the bud. Multitudes can, by the aid of this remedy, spare themselves from the endurance of foul cruptions and ulcerous sores, through which the system will strive to rid itself of corruptions, if not assisted to do this through the natural channels of the body this through the natural channels of the body by an alterative medicine. Cleanse out the vitiated blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, eruptions, or sores; cleanse it when you find it is obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it whenever it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Even where no particular disorder is felt, people enjoy better health, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. Keep the blood healthy, and all is well; but with this pabulum of life disordered, there can be no lasting health. Sooner or later something must go wrong, and the great machinery of life is disordered or overthrown.

Sarsaparilla has, and deserves much, the reputation, of accomplishing these ends. the world has been egregiously deceived by preparations of it, partly because the drug alone has not all the virtue that is claimed for it, but more because many preparations, pretending to be concentrated extracts of it, contain but little of the virtue of Sarsaparilla.

During late years the public have been misled by large bottles, pretending to give a quart of Extract of Sarsaparilla for one dollar. Most or Extract of Sarsaparilla for one dollar. Most of these have been frauds upon the sick, for they not only contain little, if any, Sarsaparilla, but often no curative properties whatever. Hence; bitter and painful disappointment has followed the use of the various extracts of Sarsaparilla which flood the market, until the name itself is justly despised and has become name itself is justly despised, and has become synonymous with imposition and cheat. Still we call this compound Sarsaparilla, and intend to supply such a remedy as shall rescue the name from the load of obloquy which rests upon it. And we think we have ground for believing it has virtues which are irresistible by the ordinary run of the diseases it is intended to cure. In order to secure their complete eradication from the system, the remedy should be judiciously taken according to directions on the bottle.
