The instances of these miraculous escapes are numerous and almost incredible. It seems wonderful that five or six hundred were not buried alive. The Mayor, Daniel Saunders, Jr., has caused the city to be canvassed thoroughly, and informs me that the list of killed, wounded, and missing will be complete to morrow. The registers of the mills are destroyed, and the only way of finding the exact number of the inmates of the building, at the time of the disaster, is by collecting the receipts which have been distributed to the employees, and finding the missing from them. The Mayor sees no reason to-night to alter the figures of his proclamation. The statement that the mill was a notoriously unsafe building is not generally credited. I have been informed by the Mayor, by some who saw the buildings erected, and by some of the employees that they did not hear until this accident that the building was unsafe .-At the time of its erection the undermining of the penstock, or the small canal that leads the water to the wheel, led to the fear that the walls would fall. The damage was repaired, but no portion of the edifice fell. The mills were turning out about two girls were afterwards rescued. hundred thousand dollars' worth of cotton goods per week, and were insured for about $400,000. The opinion is, that no insurance will be paid. There was no extraordinary weight in the building, though the machinery on the lower floor weighed six hundred tons a receptacle for the dead.

Sympathy comes from every quarter.— hysicians and nurses tender their services Houses are thrown open to the sufferfreely. The treasurer of the Pacific Mills has given the Mayor two thousand dollars for the benefit of the victims. The work of removing the ruins for the purpose of searching for the missing sixty five, has been suspended to night, but will be resumed by the Pemberton company to morrow with a gang of one hundred men.-The west side, for two thirds the length and alf the width, has yet to be explored. fully mangled.

Coroner Lamb will hold the inquest to morrow morning. The scene in the City Hall, where the unrecognized bodies are placed, is excruciating. The shapeless, black ened corpses, whose postures denotes the unspeakable agony of their dying sufferings, are spread on the floor; and the crowd moaning anxious friends and relatives, seeking for their lost ones, hover about the corpses, vainly endeavoring to recognize some scrap of familiar garment, or some physical peculiarity. The entire_city is shrouded in sadness. Not the least noticeable portion of this calamity is the deprivation of employment to nearly a thousand employees.

After these resolutions were adopted, another was added that the Chairman select the delegates to the State Convention, which meets at Jefferson city on the 9th of April. Everything passed off harmoniously at this meet Ing-which was termed the National wing, and the other the Dongias wing. The meeting adjourned at a late hours with three cheers for the nominese-whoever they may be-of the State and National Democratic Conventions. The other meeting was addressed by several gentlemen, a series of resolutions adopted-both meetings pledging themselves to abide by the decision of the State and National Conventions. National Conventions.

We do no think that this little squabble amounts to anything, for the Damocrats of this city and county have had quite enough of "splits," and personal quarrels about men, and we hardly think a sufficient number can ever again be found to bolt the nominees to endanger the party or the cause. There will be, no doubt, two sets of delegates sent to our State Convention from this county, and of course those appointed by the regularly organized meeting will be eceived. Our opinion is, however, that the professed friends of Judge Douglas and Col. Kenett, did them more harm than good at this meeting. OLD GUARD.

So wide is the field of its usefulness and so nu-merous are the cases of its cures, that almost every section of country abounds in persons pub-licly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried, its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs that are incident to our climate. While many inferior remedies thrust upon the community have failed and been discarded, this community have linked and been unscatted, this has gained friends by every trial, conferred benefits on the afflicted they can never forget, and pro-duced cures too numerous and too remarkable to be forgotten. PREPARED BY Every gentleman of wealt and refined tasts should have in his drawing-room some of our erquisite views on glass, with a revolving stereoscope, showing 12, 25, 50 or 100 scenes. Nothing can be more facinating, and one can offer no greater trast to a friand fond of the picturesque and the basutiful.

No scenes. Nothing can be more actinating, and one can offer no greater treat to a friend fond of the picturesque and the beautiful. Anthony's Instantaneous Stereoscope Visws are the latest Photographic wonder. They are taken in the fortisth part of a second, and everything no matter how rapidly it may be moving, is depicted as sharply and distinctly as if it had been perfectly at rest. This gives an additional value, for to the beauties of inanimate nature it adds the charm of life and motion. The process is a discovery of our own, and being unknown in Europe, we receive from London and Paris largo orders for Anthony's Instantane-ous Views of America life and scenery. Among other things we have just published Streecescopic Illustrations of the Scene of the Fulton Street Frayer Meetings, in which many hearts feel an interest. The particulares of this will be found in our catalogue. Our Catalogue of subjects and prices will be forwarded to any address on receipt of a stamp. Parties at a distance sending us $3, $5, $10, $15, $20, or $25 can have a good instrument and such pictures as they may request; sent by Express. CURLY AND CRUSTY. BY THE BARD OF TOWER HALL. A dandy at a Ball one night, A mong the pretty girls, A lovely maiden saw, whose head Was crowned with golden curls He watched her through the mazy dance, And scanned her tripping feet, Her steps communing with his heart Which to the music beat; And in the next cotillion formed--Her partner in the dance— His heart's emotions were revealed In many a tender glance. 'Twas not because her eyes were bright The Ball was o'er, and he went home And dream'd of curls of gold;— The morrow came, he sought his love, And all his dreamings told. He said to her, I have a wish, To name it I will dare:-

To name it I will dare;— It is that I may have a lock Of thy bewild'ring hair; For in a locket it should rest Forevor on my heart;--A treasure rare of priceless worth, With which I'd never part. The maken said; "Your earnest wish Shall be my heart's command; So take the curl you want."--She placed The scissors in his hand.

Many thus imprisoned were encouraged and sustained by assurances of safety, and in many cases cups of coffee could be, and were passed down to those below, who, alas! after all this near approach to safety, saw hour after hour pass away, until, at last the frightful ery of fire, and the greedy licking of the flames as they approached with fearful rapidity, crackling and bissing all over the emains on the ground, told them too plainly that all hope of life was gone. The fall of the building took place just as the mill was being lighted up, and outside, of course, all was

After the first hour, however, the work becomes much more dangerous, by reason of the fall of timbers as displacements are made, and often the rescued and the rescuer are again in danger of a fresh entomb-ment. HOW THEY WERE BROUGHT OUT-HORRID SIGHTS The sights and scenes at this period of the disaster were frightful. One poor girl, alive and fully conscious, was dragged from the east oud of the fallen mass, with her left arm torn from the socket, and her body and legs awfully mangled. She was taken by her friends, but could not have survived long. In one place the bodies of three girls were found locked in each other's arms, but quite dead. One Volume 12 mo, toth. Price $1.00 The purpose of the work is to record the actions of some of the most celebrated of the many herces and patricts who distinguished themselves by eminent services in the Revo-lutionary War, in the Southern States of the Union. Among these, General Marion, whose life occupies a con-siderable portion of the volume, was one of the most re-markable characters who figured on the grand theatre of war in these times "that tried men's souls." Marion's achievements were of the most herois and romantic char-acter, and are always read with interest and admiration. General Moultrie, the illustrious defender os the fortress which bears his name, is not less interesting in his way. General Pickons, was the companion of Marion in some of his daring enterprises, and one of the most useful of all the general officers who assisted in recovering the Southern States from the enemy. His heart with rapture big She stepped aside, and in his hand He held the maiden's wig. He heard a laugh; the very floor Was shaking 'neath his feet; And, glancing at the bald, white head, He started for the street. He went at once to Tower Hall, To buy a change of "rig;"— He tried a coat, the salesman said, "It fits you like a wig." "Fits like a wig!" exclaimed the man; Then you the cost may keep;-I know 'tis fine, 'tis stylish too, And very, very cheap!

None are too young, none too old, none too intalligent, none too uneducated, to acknowledge its worth and beauty. No home is complete without it, and it must and will penetrate everywhere. It presents to your view every part of the world, in all the relief, boldness, perspective, and sharpness of detail, as if you were on the spot. Photographers are everywhere exploring Europe, Asia, Africa, America, in search of the grand and the beautiful, and the results of their skill are constantly enriching our Stock.
