BABY BUNN.

Winsome baby Bunn! Brighter than the stars that rise In the du-ky evening skies, Browner than the robin's wing, Clearer than the woodland spring, Are the eyes of baby Bunn!

Smile, mother, smile! Thinking softly all the while)f a tender, blissful day, When the dark eyes, so like these, When the dark eyes, so like these, Of the cherab or your knees, Stole your girlish heart away. Oh ! the eyes of baby Bunn ! Rarest mischief will they do, Whan once old enough to steal What their father stole from you ! Smile, mother, smile !

Winsome baby Bunn ! Milk-white lillies half unrolled Set in calyces of gold, Cannot make his forehead fair, With its rings of yellow hair Scarlet berry cleft in twain, By a wedge of pearly grain, Is the mouth of baby Bunn ! Winsome baby Bunn !

Weep, mother, weep, For the little one asleep, With his head against your breast! Never in the coming years, Though he seek for it with tears, Will he find so sweet a rest. Oh, the brow of baby Bunn! Oh, the scarlet mouth of Bunn ! Oh, the scarlet mouth of Bunn! One must wear its crown of thorns, Drink its cup of gall must one! Though the trembling lips shall shrink, White with anguish as they drink, And the tample sweat with pain— Drops of blood like purple rain— Weep, mother, weep!

Winsome baby Bunn ! Not the sea-shell's palest tinge, Not the daisy's rose-white fringe, Not the softest, faintest glow Of the sunset on the snow re beautiful and sweet Is more beautiful and sweet Than the wee pink hands and feet Of the little baby Bunn--Winsome baby Bunn ! Feet like those may lose the way, Wandering blindly from the right; Pray, and sometimes will your prayers Be to him like golden stairs Built through darkness into light. Oh. the dimpled feet of Bunn ! Oh, the dimpled feet of Bunn In their silken stockings dressed ! Oh, the dainty hands of Bunn, Hid like rose-leaves in your breast! These shall grasp at jewels rare, But to find them empty air; These shall falter many a day, These shall faiter many a cay, Bruised and bleeding by the way. Ere they reach the land of rest! Ere they reach the land on . Pray, mother, pray!

ILLUSTRATION OF FINE-ABT APPRECIA-TION .- Two very splendidly attired ladies recently made a condescending visit to the studio of one of our distinguished landscapists, and asked the privilege of looking at his pictures. The artist was but too happy to comply with. their request, and placed before them a brilliant sunset which he had just finished. His visitors were lavish of those charming epithets which ladies bestow so liberally upon the objects of their admiration. 'Oh, isn't it lovely! How sweet! How natural!' etc. And then, after gazing at the glowing canvas for a few minutes in rapt silence, the lady who had been loudest in expressing her admiration, said with a naivete which must have penetrated to the very core of the painter's heart :

ainter's heart: 'Pray, Mr. G----, is it a moonlight ?' The artist meekly replied that it was intended for a 'sunset.'

'Oh, indeed !' replied the lady. ' Pray, Mr. G-----, which do you think the most difficult to do, pictures in oils or in worsted?' · Really,' replied the astonished painter, 'I am unable to say, for I have never done anything in worsted.'

'Ah !' said the lady, 'I find it so difficult, in working little dogs, to put in the eyes !'

Had it been any description of womanhood, instead of a gray-haired and evidently not-well-to-do man, I should have gone made me give up reasoning against the home to Mrs. Rugly more puffed up with vanity and self-conceit than the honest shares. They had another fall that very woman was accustomed to find me, for the best-dressed specimen of beauty and fashion in all Belgravia could not have been greeted with a gaze of greater admiration and delight than that he bestowed on my cane colored whiskers and almost carroty hair. Was the man mad, or making game of me? Somehow, he did not look to be either; there was an appearance of perfect earnestness and sincerity in his demonstrations, as if his whole heart was in the business, and he cared for nothing else.

• Do you do anything in the Stock Exchange, sir ?' said he, before I could make up my mind what proceedings to take. Yes,' said I, astonished out of all my caution. 'Why do you ask ?' Because, sir, I want a little business done in that way. It's not much, but I'll pay you any commission I can;' and he pressed so near that I laid my hand on my breast-buttons. 'If you will be so good as to tell me your office or anywhere you made their fortunes and those of their noon.'

'Here's my address,' said I. 'I'm always glad to see people in the way of buget home, and wish you a very good night.' My steps did not linger long after that declaration. The shabby, admiring man the next turn, there he was, standing in united endeavors had not been sufficient out that the sudden accession of wealth, the same spot, and gazing after me as if I to send him and his wife, though employed after such long poverty and frequent dishad been his guardian angel leaving him to that end for the last ten years. Theirs, appointment, upset poor Mrs. Raxworth's to himself. The strangeness and odd ways picture he had painted of S'phiar G-was readily shown to them by the always obliging artist. 'O, ain't that good ! ain't that good oct 27 tf 41

In a short time his countenance lost its usual oily jolly look, and he became oblivious of the solemnities going on around him, and was plunged in a profound reverie over the recent defeat of his party in Maine, which he had been discussing that morning. As he reflected, his face naturally elongated, and his jaw dropped. Noticing his serious and solemn look, and not remembering ever to have seen him before, one of the brethren took him to be a stranger of a religious turn of mind, and leaned over his bench and remarked : "Brother, these are refreshing seasons." Squiggle gazed vacantly at the speaker and groaned inwardly. The brother paused : "It is good to be here."

Squiggle, still absorbed in reverie, groaned again. "Brother, do you often think of your fnture state ?" At the word "state" the eyes of our Democratic friend lost their dreamy look, and his jaw clashed into place like a rat trap. "State !" he exclaimed, bringing down his olenched fist on the back of his questioner's bench, with an emphasis that startled the worthy brother greatly .---"H-11! its gone Black Republican by 15,000 majority !"
