Battle of Chaplin Hillss-Gallantry of the 79th Pennsylvania. TOTH Pennsylvania.

HEADQUARTES, 3D DIVISION ARMY OF } OHIO, in the field, Oct. 17, 1862.

Captain J. A. Campbell, A. A. A. G. 1st Corps d'Armes, Army of the Ohio:
Sir: I have the honor to submit the following report of the part taken by the 3d Division Army of the Ohio, in the battle of Chaptin Hills, fought on the 3th inst.

On the morning of the 8th, on the march, General McCook snowed me an order of General Buell, in which it was said he should move cautious.

eral McCook showed me an order of Genera Buell, in which it was said he should move cautious ly on approaching Perryville, as the enemy would probably make resistance in that vicinity. Wher probably make resistance in that vicinity. When near Chaplin Hills battle ground, and perhaps three miles from Perryville, the report of artillery to our right and front was heard, and Gen. McCook ordered me to advance my cavalry and infantry in reconnoissance, leaving the artillery on an eminence in the road. I moved on with the infantry preceded by six companies of the Second Kentucky Cavairy, Col. Buckner Board, and when near the field of battle Col. Board reported the enemy in sight.

I halted the command, sont back for Gen. McCook, and he and I rode forward to the front, examined the ground, and chose a line of battle, to he adopted the ground, and chose a line of battle, to be adopted if the enemy advanced upon us, and soon afterwards moved up to Bussell's house, on the hill overlooking the field, and there halted the head of the column. the field, and there halted the head of the column. Whilst there the artillery (wwo pieces) of Capt. Harris' Battery, with Gay's Cayalry, continued to fire, and small arms were also heard. Gay addressed a note to me, saying he had been pressing the enemy all the morning, was pressing him then, and much needed a regiment of infantry to support his pieces. I ordered the Forty-Second Indiana Regiment to do so, and rode forward to his pieces and found him and Capt. Harris there. The enemy was just disappearing in the woods, far to the front, and out of range of Harris' ordinary brass pieces. I then ordered up Loomis with two of his Parrott guns, and he shelled the woods, the enemy now and then appearing, until Loomis with two of his Parrott guns, and he shelled the woods, the enemy now and then appearing, until finally he was no longer to be seen, and the firing was ordered to be ceased. Everything indicated that the enemy had retired, and it was so believed. Gen. McCook rode off to see Gen. Buell, understood to be two or three miles on our right. Waiting, perhaps an hour, I concluded to resume the march to Chaptin Creek, then probably a mile to our front, to get water for my men, who were suffering intensely for want of it. There was a small pool in the bed of the little stream to the right of Loomis' two pieces, to which the Forty-Second Indiana was directed, in order to obtain a supply, and the main column was order to obtain a supply, and the main column was then ordered forward; but when the head of the then ordered forward; but when the head of the column was within a hundred or two hundred yards of Loomis' pieces, I halted it and went forward to see what was reported to be the enemy reappearing in the woods beyond, and in a few minutes I could see him plainly, and the discharge of shell from the three batteries, masked, gave evidence of his presence in force. I ordered Loomis to reply and bring up the remainder of his guns, and sent an order to Capt. Simmons, fitth Indiana artillery, to join Loomis, all of which was promptly done. I then sent an order to Col. Lytle to form his brigade on the right in good position, and galloped back to place an order to Col. Lytle to form his brigade on the right in good position, and galloped back to place Harris' brigade in position to resist the advance of the enemy, which I was just informed by a messenger from Captain Wickliffe, of Col. Board's cavary, was being made in that direction in great force of cavalry, infantry and artillery. I aided Colone, Harris, commanding the Ninth Brigade, to form his brigade in two lines, the Second Ohio, Lieut.-Colonel Keil, the Teuth Wisconsin, and the Thirty-Third Ohio Lieut.-Colonel Moore, being in the front line. Soon after this, by a messenger, Col. Starkweather, commanding the Twenty-Eighth Brigade, announced his arrival on the left, his brigade having been unfortunately cut off and separated from my division by Gen. Jackson's column that morning at Mackville, Gen. Jackson's column that morning at Mackville, but he had the good sense when he heard firing in front to abandon the road, move around Jackson's front to abandon the road, move around Jackson's column and by going through the fields to fall in on the left; and I tound his brigade on the wery spot where it was most needed; a large body of the enemy's cavalry appearing that moment a mile and a half to the front, was admirably shelled and dispersed in great disorder by Captain Stone's First Kentucky Artillery. I then directed Colonel Starkweather to place Stone's battery and that of Captain Bush's Fourth Indiana Artillery on a high ridge on the extreme left, and extending diagonally to the front, and to support those batteries with the First Wisconsin, Lieut. Col. Bingham, placed on that ridge, and by the Seventy-Ninth Pennsylvania, Col. Hambright, placed on another ridge running at almost right angles to the one on which the batteries were planted. This formation gave a cross fire and almost right angles to the one on which the basteries were planted. This formation gave a cross fire and proved of infinite value in maintaining that all-important position during the day. These formations were made in great haste, and in a few moments, but without the least contusion or disorder, the men moving into line as it on parade. I then roturned to Harris' brigade, hearing that the enemy was close upon him, and found that the Thirty-Third Ohio had been ordered further to the front by Gen. McCook, and was then engaged with the enemy and needed support, Gen. McCook in person, ordered the Second Ohio to its support, and sent directions to me to order up the Twenty-Fourth Illinois also, Capt. Mauf comup the Twenty-Fourth Illinois also, Capt. Mauf com-manding. I led the Twenty-Fourth Illinois in line manding. A led the Twenty-Fourth Illinois in line of battle immediately torward, and it was promptly deployed as skirmishers by its commander, and went gallantly into action on the left of the Thirty-Third Ohio. The Second Ohio moving up to support the Thirty-Third Onio was engaged before it arrived on the ground where the Thirty-Third was fighting. The Thirty-Eighth Indiada, Col. B. F. Sorthner commanding, then went gallantly into action on the right of the Second Ohio. Then followed in support the Ninety-Fourth Ohio, Col. Frizzell. I wish here to say of this regiment, although new and but a few to Parson's battery giving way, the guns were captured, but the gallant Captain brought off his horess and company.

Seeing the enemy moving toward our left in great force, with the apparent view of turning it, driving some broken and disordered regiments before them, I galloped around to Col. Starkweather, on the left, and directed him to open his batteries.—Stone and Bush—upon the enemy. The order was promptly and effectively executed. The firing was admirable, and the heavy musketry of the advancing enemy was received by the gallant First Wisconsin with shouts of defiance, (then supporting these batteries,) placing their caps on their bayonets.

I ordered the regiment to lie down under cover and await the nearer approach of the enemy. But the artillery repulsed the enemy again and again, and held him incheck for several hours, until finally a fresh and overwhelming force moved toward the guns. I should have stated that the Twenty-First Wisconsin, Col. Sweet, was to the front of these batteries, in a cornfield, tying down, awaiting the approach of the enemy, and when he approached with his overwhelming force, this new regiment poured into his ranks a most withering fire. The steady advance and heavy fire of the enemy, however, caused a portion of this regiment to break in confusion; but the most of it, under its gallant officers, stood manfully to its work until forced to retire, which it did in pretty good order.

The enemy were then in reach of the 1st Wiscon-stood manfully to its work until forced to retire, which it did in pretty good order.

The enemy were then in reach of the 1st Wisconsin and 79th Pennsylvania. I had great confidence in the gallantry of these two regiments, and was not disappointed when this time of trial came. They drove back the enemy several times with great loss, and until their ammunition was exhausted, bravely maintained their position, and then quietly (not under fire) returned under orders to the line of battle originally selected by Gen McCook and myself, when they got a supply of ammunition, and were again ready for action. Their loss was very heavy. The fire of musketry on them and the batteries was terrific, Captain Bush at that place losing thirty-five horses, but he and Stone, taking all their pieces, fell back with their supports, and at once renewed the conflict and continued it until after dark.

At the time this retrograde movement was ordered, I sent an order to Colonel Harris to fall back also. The right, Colonel Lytle's brigade, had an hour before hear dearn; it has

I sent an order to Colonel Harris to fall back also. The right, Colonel Lytle's brigade, had an hour before been drawn in, thus contracting and rendering, more compact the lines so thinned and depleted by our loss in killed and wounded. Before this final struggle on the left, I had heard that Lytle's brigade was outflanked on the right by an overwhelming force of the enemy, and was falling back. During the day I was so hard pressed on the left and centre by the continuous and persistent assaults of the enemy, and knowing if our left was turned our position was lost, and a total rout of the army corps would follow, I felt the importance of my presence there, and could not look after the interests of the Seventeenth Brigade; and besides, Lieut. F. J. Jones, my A. A. General, was often sent to learn its condimy A. A. General, was often sent to learn its condition, and reported to me that, though severely assailed, it had triumphantly repulsed the enemy in several attacks, and that Col. Lytle felt that he could easily maintain his position, but late in the afternoon an immense force of fresh troops of the enemy moving around to his right, concealed by the undulation of the ground, turned his right flank and fell upon the right and rear of his brigade, and drove it and forced it to retire, which it did under the orders of Colonel Lytle, who was at the same moment wounded, as he thought fatally, and refusing to be taken from the field, was taken prisoner by the enemy. Hearing of this condition of things, I galloped over towards the right and found the brigade reformed in line of battle on the right, the 15th Kentucky Volunter of the condition of the c my A. A. General, was often sent to learn its condireformed in line of battle, on the right, the 15th Ken-tucky Volunteers, Col. Pope resting on the hill at Clark's house, with Loomis' battery immediately in the rear on an eminence. The 10th Ohio, Lieut.-Col. Burke, and the 3d Ohio, Col. Beatty, on the left of the road.

These regiments had, without support, struggled hard to hold their line of battle for several hours, and were only forced to retire after immense less and the measure of the company of the several of the company of the several of t which the conservatives had been defeated with great loss by Masquera. It was deeped hard to hold their line of battle for several hours, and were only forced to retire after immense loss, and the movement of the enemy above referred to. Whilst near the 15th Kentucky I saw a heavy force of the enemy advancing upon our right, the same that had turned Lytle's right flank. It was moving steadily up in full view of where General Gilbert's army corps had been during the day, the left flank of which was not more than four hundred yards from it. On approaching, the 15th Kentucky, though broken and shattered, rose to its feet and cheered, and as one man moved to the top of the hill where it could see the enemy, and I ordered it to lie down. I then rode up to Loomis' battery and directed him to open upon the enemy. He replied that he was ordered by Gen. McCook to reserve what am unnition he had for close work. Pointing to the enemy, advancing, I said it was close enough and it would be closer in a moment. He at once opened fire with alsority, and made fearful have upon the ranks of the enemy. I twas admirably done, but the enemy moved straight ahead; his ranks were raked by the battery, and terribly thinned by the musketry of the Sewnteenth brigade, but he scarcely faitered, and finally hearing that re-enforcements were approaching, the brigade was ordered to retire and give place to them, which it did in good order. The re-enforcements were from Mitchell's division, as I understood, and were "Pea Ridge men." I wish I knew who commanded the brigade, that I might do them justice; I can only say that the brigade moved directly into the fight like true soldiers and opened a terrific fire and drove back the enemy. It was a gallant body of men. After repulsing the enemy they retired a few hundred yards to a piece of woods to encamp in, and during the night the enemy advanced his pickets in the woods on our left front, and during the night captured a good many of our men, who went there believing we still held the woods.

I herewith transmith the reports of Colonels Stark-weather, Harris and Pope, and also a list of casualties in my division, amounting, in all, to 1,950 killed and wounded. My division was about 7,000 strong when it went into the action. We fought the divisions of Anderson and Cheatham and Buckner.

LATE FROM THE SOUTH.

The Battle of Perryville—Gen. Bragg's Official Report.

Headquarters Department No. 2, Beyantyulle, Ky., Oct. 12, 1862.

Sir: Finding the enemy pressing heavily in his rear, near Perryville, Major General Hardee, of Polk's command, was obliged to hold and check him at that point. Having arrived at Harrodeburg from Frankfort, I determined to give him battle there, and accordingly concentrated three divisions of my old command—the Army of the Mississippi, now under Major General Polk, Chestham's, Buckner's and Anderson's—and directed Gen. Polk to take command on the 7th, and attack the enemy next morning. Withers' division had gone the day before to support Smith. Hearing, on the night of the 7th, that the force in front of Smith had rapidly retreated, I moved early next morning, to be present at the operations of Polk's forces.

The two armies were formed confronting each other on opposite sides of the town of Perryville.—After consulting the General, and reconnoitering the ground and examining his dispositions, I declined to assume the command, but suggested some changes and modifications of his arrangements, which he promptly adopted. The action opened at half-past twelve P. M. between the skirmishers and artillery on both sides. Finding the enemy indisposed to advance upon us, and knowing he was receiving heavy reinforcements, I deemed it best to assail him vigorously, and so directed.

The ongagement became general soon thereafter, and was continued furiously from that time till dark, our troops never faltering and never failing in their efforts.

our troops never faltering and never failing in their efforts.

For the time engaged it was the severest and most desperately contested engagement within my knowledge. Fearfully outnumbered, our troops did not hesitate to engage at any odds; and, though checked at times, they eventually carried every position, and drove the enemy about two miles. But for the intervention of night we should have completed the work. We had captured fifteen pieces of artillery by the most daring charges, killed one and wounded two brigadier generals, and a very large number of inferior officers and men, estimated at no less than four thousand, and captured four hundred prisoners, including three staff officers, with servants, carriage and baggage of Major General McCook.

The ground was literally covered with his dead and wounded. In such a contest our own loss was necessarily severe, probably not less than 2,500 and wounded. In such a contest our own loss was necessarily severe, probably not less than 2,500 killed, wounded and missing. Included in the wounded are Brigadier Generals Wood, Cleburn and Brown—gallant and noble soldiers—whose loss will be severely felt by their commands. To Major General Polk, commanding the forces, Major General Hardee, commanding the left wing, two divisions, and Major Generals Cheatham, Buckner and Anderson, commanding divisions, is mainly due the brilliant achievements of this memorable field. Noblet troops were never more gallantly led. The country owes them a debt of gratitude which I am sure will be acknowledged.

owes them a debt of gratitude which I am sure will be acknowledged.

Ascertaining that the enemy was heavily reinforced during the night, I withdrew my force early next morning to Harrodsburg, and thence to this point. Major General Smith arrived at Harrodsburg with most of his forces, and Withers' division the next day, 10th, and yesterday I withdrew the whole to this point, the enemy following slowly but not pressing us. I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

The Grand Movement in Kentucky. From the Richmond Whig, Oct. 23.]

Never since the war commenced, says the Greenville (Tenn.) Banner of the 20th, has there been so grand and profitable a tour made, as the one just accomplished by General Bragg. 'Just think of it, he has captured from the enemy, and purchased from the citizens together, enough to load a train of wagons forty miles long. His whole army has fallen back towards the Gap to protect this valuable train, and as it is now safe from capture, Bragg will retire with his army just where it suits him. The arrival of this train will play smash with the jeans' speculation in this country, as it is bringing one From the Richmond Whig, Oct. 23.1 to say of this regiment, although new and but a few weeks in the service, it behaved most gallantly under the steady lead of its brave Col. Frizzeil. Colonel Harris' whole brigate, Simonson's battery on its speculation in this country, as it is bringing one million yards of good Kentucky jeans. They also Harris' whole brigate, Simonson's battery on its right, was repeatedly assailed by overwhelming numbers, but gallautly held its position. The Thirty-Eighth Indiana and Second Ohio, after exhausting their ammunition and that taken from the boxes of the dead and wounded on the field, still held their position, as did also, I believe, the Tenth Wisconsin and Thirty-Third Ohio. For this gallant conduct these brave men are entitled to the gratitude of the country, and I thank them here as I did on the field of battle. After the Twenty-Fourth Illinois went into action, I saw the undisciplined troops of General Jackson, in front in support of Parson's battery of Jackson's division, yielding the field in great confusion, under a most terrific fire of the enemy, who was moving in the direction of my extreme left. General Jackson was killed, the support to Parson's battery giving way, the guns were captured, but the gallant Captain brought of his horses and company.

They also bring a large amount of clothing, boots and shoes, two hundred wagon loads of bacon, six thousand barrels of pickled pork, fifteen thousand good mules and horses, eight thousand beeves, and a large lot of hogs. No wonder Bragg's army feil back to protect such a valuable cargo.''

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial says that "the plunder taken by Bragg's forces is spoken of by men who have seen it as immense, consisting of 3,000 barrels of pork, 8,000 head of cattle, 1,000 mules and horses, and all the stocks of dry goods, groceries and provisions taken from the stores of Lexington, Frankfort, Danville, Harrodsburg and other places. They have flour and corn-meal in conduct these brace and company and the provision of the country, and impressed all the mills to grind it.—And all they ask is to be let alone with their booty.''

A letter of the 18th, from Knoxville, gives us the assurance that Bragg's army has retired to a safe position; while it would be imprudent to state where that position is, General Bragg has secured four thousand seven hundred wagons loaded with provisions, which have been brought away in safety with his army. He lost 2500 barrels of pork, which was left at Lexington, and fell into the hands of the Yankees. Great dissatisfaction was felt among the officers of Bragg's army at the falling back, and many of them literally wept when the order was given. The letter gives us many particulars of the proper to publish.

The conclusions to be drawn from all the news in our possession are that Bragg has met with an overwhelming force of the enemy, and successfully rewhelming force of the enemy, and successfully rewhelming force of the enemy, and successfully rese, and fought and wearied his troops for an object which he had not daring enough to accomplish.

CODEY'S LADY'S BOOK FOR 1862.

ODE Y'S LADY'S BOOK FOR 1862.

The gublisher of Godsy's Lady's Book, that he was the publisher of Godsy's Lady's Book, that he last thirty, three years of a larger circuistica, than say in America, has made an arrangement with the most popular authores in this country—

MARION HARLAND,

Authoress of "Alone," "Hidden Path." "Moss Side."

"Nemesia," and "Miriam,"

who will furnish a story for every number of the Lady's Book for 1863. This alone will place the Lady's Book for 1863. This alone will place the Lady's Book for 1864. This alone will place the Lady's Book for 1864. This alone will place the Lady's Book for 1864. This alone will place the Lady's Book for 1864. This alone will place the Lady's Book for 1864. This alone will place the Lady's Book for 1864. This alone will place the Lady's Book for 1864. This alone will place the Lady's Book for a literary point of view far absed of any other magasine. Barion Hariand writes for no other publication. Our other favorite, writers will all emittine to furnish acticles throughout the year.

THE HEST LADY'S MAGAZINE IN THE WORLD, AND THE LITER ATURE.

THE LITERATURE
is of that kind that can be read aboud in the family circle and the clergy in immense numbers are subscribers for the Book. Is all original, and would cost 25 cents (the price of the Book) in the music stores; but most of it is copyrighted, and cannot be obtained except in "Godey."

OUR STREEL ENGRAVINGS.

All efforts to rival us in this have ceased, and we now stand alone in this department, giving, as we do, many more and infinitely better engravings than are published in any other work.

GODEY'S IMMENSE DOUBLE SHEET FARHION-PLATES.

CONTAINING THE MUSIC

PLATES.
ON TAINING
From five to seven foll length-Colored Fashions on each plate. Other magazines give only two.
FAR AHEAD OF ANY FASHIONS IN EUROPPE OR

Godey's is the only work in the world that gives these immense plates, and they are such as to have excited the wooder of publishers and the public. The publication of these plates cost
$10,000 MORE

these plates cost

$10,00 M O B E

than fashion-plates of the old style, and nothing but our wonderfully large circulation enables us to give them.
Other magazines cannot afford it. We never spare money when the public can be benefited.
These fashions may be relied on. Dresses may be made after them, and the wearer will not subject herself to ridicule, as would be the case if she visited the large cities dressed after the style of the plates given in some of our so-called magazines.

OUR WOOD ENGRAVINGS,
of which we give twice or three times as many as any other so-called magasines.

OUR WOOD ENGRAVINGS,

magazine, are often mistaken for steel. They are so far superior to any others.

I M I T A T I O N S.

Beware of them. Remember that the Lady's Book is the original publication and the cheapest. If you take Godey, you want no other magasine.

Everything that is useful or ornamental in a house can be found in Godey.

6mg 28 THE GREAT INDIAN HERBAL TEA!

INDIAN VEGETABLE EMMENAGOGUE: INDIAN VEGETABLE EMMENAGOGUE:

This Celebrated Female Medicine possesses virtues no-known of anything else of the kind, and proving effectual after all others have failed; it is prepared from an "Indian Herb" peculiar to Northern Mexico and Texas, and is used by the Natives in producing the Monthly Mickness. It is designed for both married and single ladies, and is the very best thing known for the purpose, as it will remove all obstructions after other remedies have been tried in vain. It is a pleasant tea, containing nothing injurious to health, and a cure can be relied upon in all cases.
