The Attack on Charleston. The following special account we copy from the ew York Tribune: New York Tribune:
The iron-clad squadron, convoyed by a number of gunboats, arrived off Charleston, on the morning of the 5th inst. In the course of the afternoon, the channel across the bar was buoyed out by the Coast Survey steamer Bibb and the Keokuk. channel across the bar was buoyed out by the Coast Survey steamer Bibb and the Keokuk.

It was intended to cross the bar that afternoon, but a high wind acrose, which induced Admiral Dapont to postpone crossing till the next day. Toward evening the Patapaco stood in close to the Light House Inlet, to protect the buoys. It was expected that she would draw the fire of the rebel batteries, but she anchored inside and remained unmolested all night.

In the evening the Admiral issued his order of attle. The plan of the attack was to move the iron-clad equadron up the main ship channel, without noticing any fire of the Morris Island batteries, steet directly to Fort Sunter and engage its northwest face, at a distance of 600 or 800 yards, the fire to be aimed at the centre embrasures. The line of battle to be as follows: Weehawken, Passaio, Patapsco, New Ironsides, flag-ship; Catskill, Nantucket, Nahart and Keokuk.

A squadron of reserve, consisting of the Canandaigus, Housatonic, Huron, Unadilla, and Wissahloon, was to form outside the bar prepared to come, if necessary, to the support of the iron-clads. con, was to form outside the bar prepared to come, if necessary, to the support of the ion-clads. Karly on the morning of the 6th inst., Admiral Dupont and Staff transferred their quarters from the steamer James Adger to the Ironsides.

About 3 o'clock a general signal to get under way was given. Some fears were entertained of grounding when crossing the bar, but all the vessels got over safely, and came to anchor directly opposite Light House Inlet.

It was deemed necessary to await the ebb tide in order to discover more readily the obstructions. The fleet was expected to be able to move to the attack at 1 o'clock P. M., but at that time a thick fog had reconstructed by the shore lines the middle of the shore lines the state of the shore the shore lines the shore at 1 o'clock P. M., but at that time a thick fog had risen, concealing the shore lines, the guidance of which the pilots, among whom were three colored volunteers and Robert Small, required for safe steerieg. The Admiral then reluctantly postponed the attack to the next day.

During the day a brigade of Gen. Ferry's Division worked its way up Folly Island, establishing itself close to the beach and opened communication with the fleet. No portion of the land force got nearer to the point of attack, and all were obliged to play the part of ear-witnesses.

Nothing was done during the remainder of the sixth.

on the morning of the 7th the fog was still thick, On the morning of the 7th the fog was still thick, but by 9 o'clock it had nearly cleared away, and there was no forther cause for delay of the attack. Up to 12 o'clock preparations for the conflict were continued on all the iron-clads.

At 1 P. M., the pilot of the flag-ship at last declared himself ready to move. The signal to get under way was made, and at fifteen minutes before two the whole flast way in rection is therefore.

two the whole fleet was in motion in the order given above. At 2½ o'clock the batteries on Morris Isl-and had been passed by the four first Monitors without drawing the fire of the enemy.

Shortly before 3 o'clock, the Ironsides showed disobedience to her rudder, her bow swinging to the strong ebb tide, and threatening to bring her on the shoals to her right.

She was, therefore, compelled to come to anchor to projectiles.

The Monitors continued their way, replying vigorously from their batteries to the enemy. They passed the northeast face of Fort Sumier, but when hey came near its northwestern face, they made out at a distance three distinct lines of obst sisting of floating logs with torpedoes attached, and net-works of cables held perpendicularly in the water the Patapsoo got foul of one of them, and could not make her screw work for some fifteen minutes, but finally got clear. A torpedo exploded close to the bow of the Woehawken, without, however, deing any damage.

The vessels all steering very heavily, the narrow passages through the line of obstructions could not be reached. After several vain attempts, the four vessels turned about and steamed down the harbor, all the while sustaining a heavy fire, and responding with their guns as vigorously as they could.

The Patapsco had her 200-pounder Parrott gun disabled by its own recoil early in the action.

The turnet of the Passaic was bent in, and cramped her 11-inch gun so as to prevent its working.— Shortly afterward, her turnet stopped revolving, and she lost all her offensive power.

The Catskill, Nantucket, and Nahant received the united fire of both Forts Sumter and Moultrie.

The Keckuk had steered a little more to the left, and for a while received the fire of Fort Sumter alone. She fired the gun in her forward turret but three times, when it became disabled.

Her after gun could not be brought to bear effectively and was thus rendered useless. After continuing under the united fires of all the forts and

The Ironsides had already dropped back some distance out of range of Fort Sumter. At five o'- clock the entire fleet was out of range and the ac-The Ericsson raft, known as the Devil, was attached to the bow of the Weehawken, but proved a hindrance instead of a help, by embarrassing the steering of the Weehawken.

with the raft were not used, as they required deli-cate handling, and fears were entertained as to their success. The devil was lost the day after the fight, and weaked select It was the intention of the Admiral to renew the attack on the next day, but when the reports of the commanders of the iron-clads were recived, showing that two, the Keokuk and Passaic, were fully, and three, the Patapsco, Nantucket, and Nahant, were partially disabled, the Admiral determined to desist from a continuance.

partfally disabled, the Admiral determined to desist from a continuance.

In this decision he was sustained by the unanimous opinion of the commanders of all the iron-olads. The firing on both sides was good, and the thunder of the cannounde terrific.

The striking of the heavy missies used by the rebels against the sides, decks and turrets of the Monitors, the reverberations of their own monatrous gaus, the plunging of shot and shell into the surrounding waters, the dense smoke, now hiding the forts and batteries from view, then broken by sheets of flame, the uncertainty as to what new obstacle or infernal machine might be encountered by the iron-clads, the difficulty of properly maneeuvering the vessels, the anxious suspense of the inhabitants of the iron boats as to whether victory or defeat was to crown their efforts—all this made the scene one of unparalleled interest and excitement.

No words can convey an idea of the terrible fire. The Monitors were hit from twenty to sixty times each, with the exception of the Keokuk, which, from her exposed position, was struck by not less than ninety shots.

Her turrets were penetrated a number of times, and her hull, at the water mark, showed nineteen holes. She was only kept affeat by plugging and pumping, until next morning, when she sunk on the bar in eighteen feet of water, her colors still flying.

All on board were saved, but lost everything they had.

LOYAL LEAGUE SENTIMENTS. THADDRUS STEVENS said in Congress-

"I will not stultify myself by supposing that we have any warrant in the Constitution for this proceeding.
"That talk of restoring the Union as it was, and under the Constitution as it is, is one of the absurdities which I have heard repeated until I have become about sick of it. Union can never be restored as it was. There are many things which render such an event impossible. This Union never shall, with my consent, be restored under the Constition as it is, with slavery to be protected by it." STEVENS is a great advocate of Loyal Leagues, and, speaking their sentiments, is supported by them.

MR. KAINE'S REPLY TO JUDGE CHAMPSEYS. The following proceedings occurred in the House f Representatives on the 14th inst: Mr. Hopkins (Wash.) offered the following resolu ion:

Resolved, That the Governor be instructed to di rect the Attorney General to institute criminal proceedings against Simon Cameron, John J. Patterson, William Brobst, and Henry Thomas.

Mr. Benedict moved to amend by striking out the names of General Cameron and the others in the resolution and insert the name of T. Jefferson Boyer Disagreed to by a strict party vote.

The vote was then taken on the resolution of Mr. Hopkins, when Mr. Laporte, Republican, voted aye, and desired to enter his reasons for so doing on the Hopkins, when Mr. Laporte, Republican, voted aye, and desired to enter his reasons for so doing on the Journal, which were as follows:

"As Simon Cameron has, as I am informed, constantly asserted since his defeat that but for his failure to obtain my vote he would have been elected, and as that assertion can only be true, in my opinion upon the grounds that he had purchased a Demogratic vote, I vote aye."

The original resolution of Mr. Hopkins (Wash.) then passed—yeas 49, nays 44.

The resolution then being on final passage, Mr. Champneys rose to denounce the act as the most infamous violation of the Constitution which he had ever heard.

Mr. Kaine. I have no objection, Mr. Speaker, to the resolution offered by the gentleman from Huntingdon. The only difficulty in the case, as it seems to me, arises from the fast, that, I believe, the testimony with the report of the majority of that committee will be printed to-day. But I would preforsir, if this minority report is to be printed, that if should accompany the report of the majority with the testimony. It will then be before the people of this State under the whole evidence to determine which report is entitled to the most favor.

The gentleman from Lancaster has undertaken to say here that the report of the majority is not an argument upon the facts, but is a partisan argument. That allegation upon the part of the gentleman from Lancaster I utterly and absolutely deny. I say here, in my place, that if there is any thing in that report which should receive favor from the people of Pennsylvania, after they have read the testimony, Lancaster I utterly and absolutely deny. I say here, in my place, that if there is any thing in that report which should receive favor from the people of Pennsylvania, after they have read the testimony, it is that it is not strong enough—that it does not fully come up to the testimony in the case. If there is in either of those reports anything of a partisan character it is in the minority report. That report, Mr. Speaker, says that Charles R. Buckalew is justify chargeable with attempting to use corrupt influences or corrupt means to secure the election of the United States Senator. I say there is nothing in the whole case which justifies any charge of that kind. I say that that conclusion thus drawn from this testimony is as falseas it is maltgnant. I could take the testimony, and by the same course of argument, could prove that every Republican member upon this floor, who voted for simon Cameron, is justly chargeable with complicity in an attempt to bribe a member of the Legislature to vote for Simon Cameron for United States Senator.

Why, sir, what is the testimony in regard to Charles R. Buckalew? Nothing in the world, except the simple stament of Mr. Buckalew called on him, and that he informed Mr. Buckalew what he was doing; that Mr. Buckalew told him to be careful—to be cautious. Is there anything more? Not one solitary word. Upon this alone the minority committee have undertaken to say that Charles R. Buckalew is justly chargeable with using corrupt influences to procure the election of a United States Senator.

In addition to this, the minority have dragged in shoals to her right.

She was, therefore, compelled to come to anchor to stay her course. Meantime the first four Monitors had continued on toward the fort.

The enemy allowed the Weehawken to come within 500 yards of Fort Moultrie, when two shots across her bow from this fort opened the action.

The Ironsides had again got under weigh and approached within 1,200 yards of Fort Sumter, when she once more became unmanageable and was again obliged to drop anchor.

The Monitors ahead of her had then reached the converging point of the fire of Cumming's Point battery, Fort Sumter, Fort Moultrie, and a work between Fort Moultrie and Moultrieville, known as Battery Bee.

A sheet of fiame and volumes of smoke, extending from Morris to Sullivan's Islands, inaugurated what has been undoubtedly the most terrific cannonade of the whole war, if, indeed, it was ever equalled in the history of the world.

A perfect torrent of shot and shell was poured upon the Monitors, wrapping them sometimes almost entirely in spouts of water thrown up by the striking projectiles.

LIEUT.-COL KIMBALL KILLED BY GEN. COR-CORAN.-Lieut. Col. Kimball, of the Hawkins Zouaves, was shot by Gen. Corcoran at Suffolk, Va. on the 12th inst., under the following circumstances: Col Kimball had command of the outer picket-guard, and during the evening Gen. Corcoran approached the post and was properly challenged by the guard. Instead of giving the countersign Gen. C. simply said, "I am Gen. Corcoran." Col. Kimball refused to let Gen. Corcoran. They and the Keckuk and Nahant came under the concentric range of the forts and batteries at about the time the other four Monitors were turning back.

They nevertheless advanced with their guns at work briskly, past the northeast face of Fort Sumter, until their course was likewise impeded by obstructions.

The Catskill, Nantucket, and Nahant received the united fire of both Forts Sumter and Moultrie.

The Keckuk had steered a little more to the left, and for a while received the fire of Fort Sumter alone. She fired the gun in her forward turret but three times, when it became disabled.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

THE BEST MECHANICAL PAPER IN THE WORLD. EIGHTEENTH YEAR.

VOLUME VIII.—NEW SERIES.

A new volume of this popular Journal commences on the first of January. It is published weekly, and overy number contains sixteen pages of useful information, and from first to ten original engravings of new invontions; discoverios, all of which are prepared expressly for columns.

from five to ten original engravings of new inventional discoveries, all of which are prepared expressly for columns.

TO THE MECHANIC AND MANUFACTURER.

No person engaged in any of the mechanical or manufacturing pursuits should think of "doing, without" the Scientific American. It costs but six cents per week; every number contains from six to ten engravings of new machines and inventions, which can not be found in any other publication.

TO THE INVENTOR.

The Scientific American is indispensable to every inventor, as it not only contains illustrated descriptions of nearly all the best inventions as they come out, but each number contains an Official List of the Claims of all the Patents issued from the United States Patent Office during the week previous; thus giving a correct history of the progress of inventions in this country. We are also receiving, every week, the best scientific journals of Grest Britain, France and Germany; thus placing in our possession all that is transpiring in mechanical science and art in these old countries. We shall continue to transfer to our columns copious extracts from these journals of whatever we may deem of interest to our readers.

A pamphiet of instruction as to the leat mode of obtaining Letters Patent on new inventions, is furnished free on application.

Mesars, Munn & Co., have acted as Patent Solicitors for more than seventeen years, in connection with the publication of the Scientific American, and they refar to 200 000

OHEMISTS, ARCHITECTS, MILLWRIGHTS AND FARMERS.

The Scientific American will be found a most useful journal to them. All the new discoveries in the science of chemistry are giving in its columns, and the interests of the architect and carpentar are net overlooked; all the new 1. oventions and discoveries appertaining to these pursuiteing published from week to week. Useful and practica normation pertaining to the interests of millwrights amountillowners will be found in the Scientific American, which information they can not presibly obtain from any other source. Subjects in which farners are interested will be found discussed in the Ecientific American; nost of the improvements in agricultural implements being filustrated in its columns

Improvements it agreements. TERM S:

To mail subscribers: Three Dollars a year, or One Dollar for four months. The volumes commence on the first of January and July. Specimen copies will be sent gratts to any part of the country.

Western and Canadian money or Post-office stamps taken at par for subscriptions. Canadian subscribers will please to remit twenty-five cents extra on each year's subscription to pre-pay postage.

THE PATENT STAMP-SEALING AND POST-MARK PRESERVING ENVELOPE.

The preservation on the letter itself of the POST-MARK and POSTAGE-STAMP, generally destroyed with the detached cover, has long been deemed a matter of the first importance. This desideratum is now trimmphantly secured by this ingentions invention. Many obvious advantages must arise from the general use of this envelope.

First.—Increased Safety by additional scaling; the stamp connecting the envelope and letter securely together; and this is never liable to be omitted, though the sticking of the day is frequently neglected or imperficitly done.

Scond—Security against Impertinent Intrusion; the letter and envelope being firmly attached by the stamps, and inclosure cannot be inspected even if the flap be clandestilly opened.

and inclosure cannot be impected even if the flap be clandestinely opened.

Third—Safety against Abstraction of Valuable Inclosures. If the flap be left unsealed, or opened with felonious intent, it will be impossible to open the letter and take thence bank notes and drafts without so mulliating the envelope as to insure detection.

Fourth—Security for the free payment of the Postage; as the stamp, when once properly placed in this window, cannot be removed without its destruction.

Fifth—Advantage therefore to the Government; by the effectual destruction of every stamp in its first use.

Sixth—Facility to the Post Office Department; by a uniform location of the stamp in the upper right hand corner, which is the most convenient position for the Post Office mark. which is the most convenient position for the Post Office mark.

Scienth—Verification of the Malling; by securing on the letter itself the legal criticnes of the time and place of it being malled. This has long been esteemed so desirable, that many prudent persons are constrained to dispense with the use of envelopes, that they may have the post mark on the letter; and others take the precaution to pin the envelope again on the letter for identification.

Kighth—Certainty of the Date and Place on the Latter, which are so frequently omitted by writers in carelessness or hurry.

which are so frequently omitted by whiteher in calcinomather or hurry.

Ninth—Ornamentation; which, though some may think of small importance, certainly meets the approval of all persons of taste.

Tenth—Oost. Notwithstanding the many and unrivalled advantages of the "Stamp Sealing Envelopes," they will be furnished at a very small advance upon the prices of those not having the benefit of this patent.

"THE AGE" will advocate the principles and policy of the Democratic party, and will, therefore, necessarily favor the restoration of the Union as it was, and defend the Constitution of the United States, and that of this Commonwealth. It will freely and fairly discuss all legitimate subjects of newspaper comment, including, of course, and pre-emi nently at this time, all questions connected with the existing unhappy condition of our country.

It will fearlessly criticise the public acts of public servants, and defend the legal and constitutional rights of individual citizens of sovereign States, against assaults from any quarter. dividual citizens of sovereign States, against assaults from any quarter.

It will Stebt to awaken the minds of the people to a proper sense of the actual condition of the Republic—te present to them, truthrully, the fearful perils in which we stand as a nation—to exhibit the magnitude of the task that is before them, if they would check our downward progress—and to inspire them with patriotic determination to apply rins EMENT for our national file.

In brief, it will, in all things, sim to be the faithful exponent of Democratic principles, and to render itself worthy to be an organ of the Democratic party, under whose anspices our country prospered so long and so well. The restoration of that party—the party of the Constitution and the Union—to power, in the legislative and executive governments branches of the States and of the Union, we believe to be necessary to avertanarchy, and the nuter ruin of the Republic. To contribute to that restoration will be our highest aim.

The News, Literary, Commercial, and other departments, will receive due attention, and will be so conducted as to make "TIE Age" worthy of the support of the general reader.
