

LANCASTER, PA., NOVEMBER 10, 1863.

OUR FLAG. Now our flag is flying to the winds free...

"CLING TO THE CONSTITUTION, AS THE SHIPWRECKED MARINER CLINGS TO THE LAST PLANK, WHEN NIGHT AND THE TEMPEST CLOSE AROUND HIM." DANIEL WEBSTER.

This is a very general want among the people, except those who are fortunate enough to be connected with the present State and National Administrations.

The war still drags its slow length along. There is really nothing doing worthy of note either in Virginia or Tennessee.

New York Election. New York has followed in the wake of Pennsylvania and Ohio, and elected the Abolition State ticket.

New Jersey Election. The Jersey Blues have again covered themselves all over with glory.

Massachusetts and Wisconsin. Both these States were carried by the Abolitionists, as usual, by large majorities.

Maryland and Missouri. In these States the Democrats did not participate in the election.

Illinois. Illinois has gone Democratic. We should have been disappointed had the election there resulted in any other way.

Several of our Democratic contemporaries, says the Patriot & Union, have run up the name of this distinguished soldier as the candidate of the party for the Presidency in 1864.

But General McClellan is more than a soldier. He has exhibited qualities of mind that stamp him as a statesman, and a control of temper which marks him as a safe man for the times.

Unquestionably he is the man of the hour, and we only hesitate to add our voice to the voices of others in his behalf, because we think it possible that the time is premature.

By copy below extract from a speech, delivered in New York on Saturday evening, by Hon. S. S. Cox, of Ohio.

The traveler who visits that island mowed in the river Thames, near Windsor, now used as a race course, and still known as Runny-mede, does not go there to see the horses run, but because the meadow marks an era in the progress of human freedom.

This was the germ of our civil freedom, which the pilgrims of to-day are endeavoring to uproot, and which has grown from the acorn to the oak!
