

THE GREAT POLITICAL PLOT IN OHIO.

Since the three historic tailors met in a garage in Toledo last week, in the city of London and there took measures, in the name of "the people of England" to overthrow the great edifice of the British constitution, we have heard or seen of such a conspiracy against established authority as that which has just been brought to light by the omniscient detective police of Cincinnati. This extraordinary case of treason, as the telegraphic reporter calls it, is probably the most important since the release of the rebel prisoners at Camp Chase, the seizure of the Arsenal at Columbus, the storming of the Bastille on Pennsylvania, the release of the prisoners of war at Fort Mifflin and the other guerillas confined there, plundering an armory, and the seizure of the arsenal at Columbus, as a matter of course, the annexation of the State to the empire of the Davis.

Through what powerful agencies was this most magnificent programme to be carried out? The keen-eyed, ready-witted, ubiquitous agents of the United States Marshall and a provost marshal, probed the mysterious plot to its vast depth and brought all its varied ramifications, and arrested all its conspirators and principal managers of it. Who were they that planned the plot? The plot was hatched and carried out by the late Senator Cox, who happened to be in the East making political speeches against the administration of President Lincoln; "perchance," not any other desperado of the day, but in public life, on the stump, on the bloody battle field, or in plundering expeditions. He was the mastermind of the plot to blow up the political edifice of Ohio, and shatter it.

The Guy Wickness of the dark November night, the schoolmaster of Columbus—one whose suspicious "nests" is in the school of the young idea how to shoot—a sutler of the same vintage, who may be supposed to be perfectly familiar with ardent spirits, a rebel agent and retainer of the United States, a Cincinnati tailor and his wife, and finally, a mercenary washerwoman, who carried on her occupation around the camp of the latter city. These are the conspirators who had banded together to bring war to the peaceful hearts of a great community. How shocking to think of it! Well may the people of Ohio be grateful to the police who vigilantly contrasted the treason of the late Senator Cox, who happened to be in the East making political speeches against the administration of President Lincoln; "perchance," not any other desperado of the day, but in public life, on the stump, on the bloody battle field, or in plundering expeditions.

Insurance. NEW YORK, Nov. 10. The brig Santiago from Port Plata, with dates to October 21st, has arrived via Grand Bank. Reliable news confirms the previous reports that after the destruction of Santiago de Cavallero, the Spanish garrison, with 2,000 reinforcements, retreated to Port Plata. The garrison there, in their march to the coast, lost the brig Santiago, of 1,000 tons, 1,200 killed and wounded. Fresh arrivals of troops reinforced them to 4,000 men, and they were confined to the town by the efforts of the Spanish agents, the Spaniards not making a single effort to drive off the assailants. This contingent returned to the town on the 21st, and the contingent of the Spanish forces embarked for San Domingo, reaching the garrison to 1,500. On the 4th, the Spaniards made an attempt to land on the coast, and their houses and stores were pillaged, and the contents not removed were destroyed. Six hundred Spaniards then sailed from the fort, and after the departure of the Dominicans from the town, the Spaniards were assisted by the guns of the fort, which were fired to the town. The fire continued until the departure of the Spaniards, and destroyed, amongst others, the valuable stores, a considerable body of foreign merchants. The whole town, except the Wesleyan Mission, and a few small buildings, was burned. It was believed the rest of the town would be destroyed.

The Spanish soldiers were seen going about with their hands in their pockets, and the Spanish population were seen to be in a state of confusion. It is also said that the whole south side of the island is in actual rebellion, and the Dominicans who were reported to have joined San Juan had deserted him.

Snow.—The principal summits of the White Mountains are now covered with snow, which extends several days down their sides, which houses on Mount Washington, and in the foot of the season last week. The snow was a foot deep near the buildings, and three miles from the summit it was eight inches deep. Persons who ascended the peak of the mountain were richly repaid by the magnificent views obtained, and the strange contrast between the winter and the autumn brilliancy of the mountains. It was not until the middle of the season that the snow began to melt.

Pocket Pickers.—Rev. Daniel Barber, of Milton, Pa., was arrested at the depot in Harrisburg, on Saturday morning. He was seated in one of the Northern Central cars bound for Baltimore, when he discovered that he had no money. He had a pocket-book containing $150, and several valuable papers, as the railroad, several valuable papers, as the railroad, several valuable papers, as the railroad, several valuable papers.

WAR NEWS.

From Arkansas.
MEMPHIS, Nov. 10. The Memphis papers of the 24th have an interesting account of the fight at Pine Bluff. On the 17th, the rebels attacked the place with 3,000 men, and were repulsed with a loss of 1,000 men. The Union forces consisted of 700 cavalry, under Col. O'Rourke, and were supported by a large force of infantry.

THE FIGHT AT WASHINGTON. Major General Meigs, commander of the 24th, was killed. The Union forces were routed, and the rebels entered the city. The Union forces were routed, and the rebels entered the city. The Union forces were routed, and the rebels entered the city.
