Washington, May 12.

Despatches from the Army of the Potomac, dated the Wilderness battle-field, yesterday, say that probably the most desperate fighting of the past seven terrible days took place on Thesday.

Believing the enemy to have sent the greater part of his troops to Richmond, an advance along the entire line was determined on at an early hour.

The 21 Corps having the right of the line, had not with but stight opposition. In the morning the position of the enemy was found to bear the snape of a horse-shoe, and on Hancock's troops advancing to the attack they were compelled to fall back.

An attempt to break their centre was then ordered, and a part of Hancock's men were sent to support tien. Warren in the movement. Our right was also advanced, and the move was begun in the afternoon. The enemy were driven into their entrenchments in gallant style, and Upton's brigade, of General Steele had, therefore, to act for the safety of the nement years and shad, and a part of Hancock's men were sent to support tien. Warren in the movement. Our right was also advanced, and the move was begun in the afternoon. The enemy were driven into their entrenchments in gallant style, and Upton's brigade, of General Steele had, therefore, to act for the safety of the Arkansza scapital, with the Union population and millions of dollars' worth of Federal stores, as well as for the rescue of his army. He broke through Price's lines, and set out to Little Rock in time to save if from Marmaduke. The latter had with him Generals Magrader and Fagin, and was making in th position of the enemy was found to bear the snape of a horse-shee, and on Hancock's troops advancing to the attack they were compelled to fall back.

Not being supported by other portions of the line, who were unable to gain the tier of works in their front, this brigade was forced to evacuate their advanced position, leaving the captured guns, after spiking them, but bringing off all the prisoners.

The enemy suffered heavy losses during the fight, our snells falling into their works and our infantry delivering their fire with remarkable precision.

Gen. knee was wounded in the thigh, early in the engagement, and died after his leg had been amputated.

Gen. Stevenson is also reported killed. He com-Gen. Stevenson is also reported killed. He commanded a brigade in Burnside's corps.
Our losses were heavy. Gen. Gibbon's division has lost altogether over 1,000 men.
Kobinson's division, after losing both its general officers and about 2,500 men, had no general to command it, and has been broken up and distributed among the other divisions of the 5th Corps. No division of the army lought better than this one.
The 9th New York militia suffered, probably, more than any other. After the action four officers and fifteen men were all that were left of it, excepting a few on detached duty.

WEDNESDAY'S BATTLE. WEDNESDAY'S BATTLE.

The firing, the correspondent adds, has already commenced. The rebels are in strong position in earthworks, behind abattis, and woods in many places almost impenetrable.

General Burnside is reported within a mile of Spottsylvania Court House, about to turn their right. It he is successful we shall have possession of the point for which the past three days struggle has been maintained, and then Lee must retreat.

At 1 o'clock on Tuesday a fire raged between the two armies at a point on the line, and a large numrmies at a point on the line, and a large num wounded of both parties were lying on the spot. Our men, in attempting to get their com-rades off the field, were fired on by the rebel skirhers and driven off, and the poor sufferers had to

The enemy had partially succeeded in turning our left, after several furious assaults, in which they st heavily. Supposing that they had gained an advantage, they renewed the attack along the entire line.

BATTLE FIELD NEAR SPOTTSYLVANIA,
Thursday, May 12—5 a. M.
Our army this morning is entirely engaged in the fiercest of its battle, and pressing on to victory.
After the singuinary but generally unsuccessful battle of Tuesday the army during yesterday was comparatively quiet. A feeble demonstration

In the forenoon two companies on the left of the 6th Corps commenced driving some sharpshooters from position in a house commanding a partial view of our lines, killing and capturing several of their number. In the afternoon rain to some extent fell, continuing until after dark, drying the dust, cooling the atmosphere, and raising the spirits of our troops. Fires were built and supplies cooked, the bands began to play in the forest along the lines, and undisturbed for once by the enemy's shells, our soldiers ate heartily and rested sweetly. The enomy had no ammunition to waste in firing artiflery at random after nightfall. Their officers acknowledged that, and but little was fired.

Meanwhile news arrived toward evening that General Sceridan had penetrated to the vicinity of Beaver dam, on the Orange Court House railroad, had torn up about ten miles of the track, captured a rebel supply train and recaptured above three hundred of our own men taken prisoners in the Old Wilderness battles. This news was so inspiring, that wherever it was known, a general jubilee of cheers succeeded the announcement, and during the night arrangements were pushed for an attack on our side this morning. The enomy had been seen pushing troops toward our right, and ostentatiously erecting abouts in front of Hancock's troops. It was shrewdly, and as the evont showed, rightly suspected that this was only a blind to the real intention of the enemy, which was therefore anticipated. After midnight the 2d odrps (Hancock's) was pushed to the left of the 6th corps (Wright's) between that and Burnside's command, and on the left of Spottsylvania road.

To Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War.
Lee abandoned his position during the night, whether to occupy a new one in the vicinity or to make a thorough retreat is not determined. One division of Wright's and one of Hancock's are engaged in rettling the question, and at 8:30 A. M. had come upon his rear guard. Though our army is greatly fatigued from the enormous efforts of yesterday, the news of Lee's departure inspires the men with fresh energy. The whole force will soon be in motion, but the heavy rain of the last thirty-six hours renders the roads very difficult for wagons and artillery.
The proportion of severely wounded is greater six hours renders the total and artillery.

The proportion of severely wounded is greater than in any or either of the previous day's fighting.

This was owing to the great use made of the artillary.

CHARLES A. DANA.

GEN. SHERIDAN'S RAID. General Sheridan's cavalry raid began on last Monday. He passed to the east of the Confederate position at Spottsylvania, and then south to the North Anna river. At Beaver Dam, ten miles west of Hanover Junction, he cut the Virginia Central Railroad, destroying a large quantity of provisions and several trains of care; besides releasing three hundred and seventy-eight Federal prisoners. He crossed the railroad and went to the South Anna; then turning east he went to Hanover Junction and the contraction of the contraction then turning east he went to Hanover Junction again cutting the railroad and destroying provisions He then marched South towards Richmond, having He then marched South towards Richmond, having several contests with the enemy. He crossed to the south side of the Chickahominy, found the Confederate works surrounding Richmond very strong, penetrated to within six miles of the town, and then recrossed the Chickahominy to Mechanicsville. Here he had another severe contest, and marched down the Chickahominy to Bottom's bridge, crossed over, and passing below Richmond he reached the James river just below Malvern Hill, effecting a junction with General Butler. Sheridan's force contained nearly all the cavalry of Grant's army. Gen. J. E. B. Stnart, a noted Confederate General, is reported among the killed.

THE WAR IN ARKANSAS. The expedition of General Steele toward Shreve-port has ended with his return, under rather excitcates to as a statement to the following purport:

General Steele left stitle Rock with some twelve thousand infantry and three thesand cavalry, the latter under command of General Caff. Aviacle phia was occupied without difficulty, and the force moved forward to Camden. Between Arkadelphia and Camden a subsistence train of one hundred and eighty wagons was cut off and captured by the enemy, together with the escort of some four hundred and eighty men, who suddenly found themselves in the hands of a much superior force, and made little resistance.

every possible exertion to reach and bag his proposed game.

At Sabine Fork it became necessary to give Price battle, and this was handsomely done. The rebels were well mounted and in fine condition, and the fight was protracted and bloody, lasting three or four hours. It resulted, however, in a complete repulse of the enemy, leaving Steele to resume his exciting race with Marmaduke.

The latter approached Little Rock, and began throwing shells into the city on the afternoon of the lst instant. Shortly afterward, General Garr's regiments of cavalry ame up, and, joining the troops at the post, compelled Marmaduke to relinquish this undertaking. He made little resistance, as the main body of General Steele's army was rapidly arriving. The shells had done no damage. Thus Little Rock was saved from sasking, and many of its citizens from messacre. The Legislature was in session, and probably not one of its members, if caught, would have been spared by the exasperated foe.

During the entire march from Candan, our troops caught, would have been spared to caught, would have been spared to constantly skirmishing with the enemy, who hung upon their rear and flanks, harassing and strenuously endeavoring to impede their progress.

There were no ambulances for the wounded, and they had therefore to be left in the houses of the residents on the road.

The captured escort of sixteen hundred men was composed of the 36th Iowa, 43d Indiana, and 77th Ohio. Forty-five of the whole number succeeded in captured to the state of the same to the same, by return in the captured to the same, by return in the captured to the whole number succeeded in captured to the same to the same, by return in the captured to the whole number succeeded in captured to the captured to captured to captured to captured to captured

Our informant represents Steele's cavalry as deplorably deficient in horses, while the enemy has fine horses and an abundance of them. Our men have been compelled to use unbroken mules in many instances, or to try to use them, for cavalry horses! The state of the country below Little Rock may be imagined. Price's forces still lingered in the vicinity, and were stripping the often desolated country anew. The Unionists of Arkansas are thus doomed to suffer afresh, and probably their severest period of horrors. Relief, it is earnestly to be trusted, will soon be afforded them.

Farmers, Mechanics, and all men of moderate means have to pay the full amount of their assessment, and if by chance one of them lends a few hundred dollars to a neighbor to enable him to build a house or barn, or discharge a mortgage, he must pay a tax for so much money at interest. But the man of wealth -who is growing still richer by adroit of financiering, in order to escape the tax collector, has only to put his fund into these bonds. Thus the burden of taxation is rapidly sliding from the rich to the shoulders of the producing classes, and in a very short time their condition in this country will be as humiliating as it is in

DR. SWEETS INFALLIBLE LINIMENT FOR HORSES is unrivaled by any, and in all cases of Lamoness, arising from Sprains, Bruisse or Wennching, its effect is magical and certain. Harness or Baddle Galls, Scratches, Mange, and certain. Harness or Saddle Galls, Scratches, Mange, &c., it will also cure speedily. Spavin and Ringle may be easily prevented and cured in their inciplent stages, but confirmed cases are beyond the possibility of a radical cure. No case of the kind, however, is so desperate or hopeless but it may be alleviated by this Liniment, and its faithful application will always remove the Lameness, and enable the horses to travel with comparative ease.

Every horse owner should have this remedy at hand, for its timely use at the first appearance of Lameness will effectually prevent those formidable diseases mentioned, to which all horses are liable, and which render so many otherwise valuable horses nearly worthless.

A LECTURE FOR YOUNG MEN.

A Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Colebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorhoe, or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary
Seminal Lossos, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., also, Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance.

pacity, impediments to marriage, etc., also, Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance.

**E-Pice, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author in this sumirable essay clearly demongirates, from a thirty years auccessful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure, at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

**This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post-paid, on receipt of six cents, or two post stamps.
