CLEVELAND VERSUS BALTIMORE.

Wendell Phillips writes a Stinging Lei-ter on the Baltimore Diatform—Its Clap-trap Compliments to Lincoln—An Administration which shows Vigor only in Peaceful Citles—A Government Feared only by its Loyal Citizens—" The Union well-nigh Wreeked."

NO HOPE SAVE IN A UNION OF LIN-COLN'S OPPONENTS. To the Editor of the Independent : You refer to me in your notice, last week;

You refer to me in your notice, last week; of the Cleveland Convention, and seem to think I should wish, if fully informed, to withdraw from that movement. I believe I am fully informed in regard to it—at least your article suggests nothing new to me-and L have no wish to withdraw from it. I infinitely prefer its platform to that adopted at Baltimore, and can hardly conceive of your preferring Baltimore asking half a loaf to Cleveland asking a whole loat. What your preferring Baltimore asking loaf to Cleveland asking a whole loaf.

movement which endmineded in the Chereland Convention. The plan of amending the Con-stitution was never suggested by the admin-istration, nor by Congress, nor by any prominent Republican press. It was first urged, and has since been patiently pressed on public attention by the membra interact on public attention, by those who originated the Cleveland movement. From them Con-gress borrowed the idea, and to their labor is due the success it has obtained. Further, with all the pressure I have alluded to, Balwhich are the pressure 1 have attuined to, is at -i timore has not darred to rise to the level of : Cleveland, which not only demands such an amendment, but a further one "to secure all men dasolute equality before the law." To me this is the chief gean of its crown. " There can be no vessible solution for the here can be no possible salvation for the nion, and no safety for the negro in his edom, except on the basis of every manof every race equal in privilege, right, and franchise before the law. This idea, again, owes its birth to the Cleveland movement of Cleveland can be traced is that meaning-less and hyperities for apposed to relate somewhat, but were soon interrupted by the confederates, and both hastily marched a say nothing and yet save appearances—an attempt, the first half of which was alone successful. The Battomere and knew then successful. The Battomere men knew then and know now that Mr. Lincoln with replaces nor will consent to change his cabinet indexs. he is forced to by a pressure outside his party, and so strong as to make it tremble. Two or three clap-trap compliments, one-half of which you know welt, were neither deserved nor sincerely offered, one honorable protest against the government's infamous injus-tice to its colored soldiers, and one brave against the government's immous inpuss fice to its colored soldiers, and one brave demand (the amendment) borrowed from its rival--this is the Baltimore platform. Confiscation urged, the control of recom-struction claimed for Congress and the peo-ple, needless despotism rebuked, and a com-stitutional amendment demanded to pro-hibit slavery and to give to all men the vore, these are the merits of the Cleveland nove-ment; its success thus far has been unmixed and most marked and beneficial. You dread a finion between Cleveland and the Democrats. I should welcome it, The only question is the terms of such mion. I am not myself a voter, and could neither give or take office under the present Constitution, But any Democrat who will join me in securing a mion without a slave, The only question is the terms of such milon. I am not myself a voter, and could neither give or take office under the present Constitution. But any Democrat who will join me in securing a innion without a slave, and with every man, black or white, equal before the law, I shall be glad to work with. If Cleveland initiates the Republican party, and to win office deserts its principles, than I shall desert Cleveland. But as the party now in power has betrayed us and befores only one chance in three of stringthe Union, I an disposed to by any other which gives its ofone choice on three of strengthe Union, I and disposed to try any other which gives its of-hesion to right principles. In ordinary times, polifies is of little in-terest to me. But to-day the nation hangs on the ledge of Niagara. I have some hope though but little expectation, that it will be saved under its present leaders. Duty bids me make every effort to insure its safey. Hence, I joined the Cloveland Convention, as a protest against the calamity of Mr. Lincoln's re-election. I still trust that its aster. I hope that the sound portion of the Democratic party-lovers of their country-will accept an anti-slavery basis of section and join us. Toachievesneh aunion is my present effort. I goee the Republican ad-ministration generous confidence for three years. Compromising, purposetess, hatting, rotury another. Watchfull in the past against to try another. THE WAB NEWS.

(From the Summary of the Age.)

(From the Summary of the 1ge.) The Confederate expedition sent across the Potomac is led by General Early, who succeeds Ewell in command of Stonewall Jackson's celebrated division. The expedi-tion is variously estimated at from twelve to twenty thousand. There is a large force of cavalry and artillery with it. It came from Winchester in the Shenandoah Valley. It advanced from there in two columns. One marched northeast to Harper's [Ferry', twenty miles distant; the other nearly north eighteen miles to Martinsburg. The Martins-burg column found Sigel's advance a few miles south of Martinsburg. The Federal soldiers however retreated, and Sigel evac-uated the town. At Martinsburg, in order to out-maneuvre Sigel, the Confederates di-vided their column i one part followed Sigel eastward six miles to Shepherdstown on the Potomac, eight miles above Harper's Ferry. The other marched northeast to Falling Waters, ten miles above Shepherdstown. This compelled Sigel to cross the river. He abandoned Shepherdstown, and went to Sharpsburg, two miles from the north bank of the river, and on the Antietam battle field. One body of the Confederates fol-lowed him. Hearing that the other body had crossed the river at Falling Waters and Williamsport near by, and were marching down towards Sharpsburg, Sigel hastily re-

at Baltimore, and can hardly conceive of your preferring Baltimore asking half a loafto Cleveland asking a whole loaf. What is the precise value from your pen of the slurring epithet you bestow on Cleveland, "unrepresentative," I cannot tell. From houses, ward-rooms, and mess-tables, so entirely monopolize the saints of the nation that a popular convention is to be scorned in comparason? Better represent nobody than represent rebels. Allow me to remind you how largely the Baltimore Convention was a mob, coming, abody lnew whence, re-sponsible to none, and only pretending to re-present rebels and states not now in existence, though even in that crowd of representatives," without constituents no place could be found for Robert Small and his fellow-herees of Carolina. No wonder, that such a body, unlike Cleveland, was unwilling to press the found for Robert Small and has never put it into efficient execution. No wonder, speculators and constructors, they are willing to press the river. The confederates ind marched from Winchester to Harper's Ferry, and withdrew across the Potomae to Maryland Heights. They took the supplies in the town with them, and boxe down the bridges which tross the river. The Confederates advanced to the town, and occupied it. The river was all that separated the two forces, each com-batant being posted on the hills on his side of the stream. As soon as Harper's Ferry was reached the Confederates sent a force of avalry and artillery the miles down the southern bank of the Potomae, to a place oposite Point of Rocks. Here the point of South Mountain juts out to the river, and for some distance the Baltimore and Ohio Kaliroad runs along the water's edge. The Confederates on the southern bank fired on ceased.

owes its birth to the Cleveland movement, and is, as yet, the high water mark of American politics. Neither the adminis-tration, nor Congress, nor any Republican press or platform has contract to chain it. Repudiated even yet by all these and by many abolitionist, the Cleveland men an-nounce it, marking an epoch in our nation progress. I am glad and prond to be iden-tified with such a movement, and history will ever guard the fact that the Cleveland Convention was the first political body of Americans to make that claim, and to plan-tiself fairly on the Declaration of Indepen-dence, in which they are, at once, consistent, statesmanlike and just. Sherman must cross it. All idea of any more expeditions west of the Mississippi seems to have been given up. General Canby has ordered all the transports and war vessels from the mouth of the Red River and Natchez to New Or-leans. The troops left some time since... The only post now held by the Federal troops west of the lower Mississippi, is Lit-tle Rock in Arkansas. General Steele is there with about five thousand men. It is supposed, however, that he will have to evacuate the place. The Confederates have cut him off from his supply post on the Mississippi, and are closing in around Lit-tle Rock. There has been an arrival from Charles-ton. The siege progresses languidly. The Navy Department is strengthening the blockading fleet. A monitor, a frigate, and several gunboats have been sent to it. For-ty-five Confederate officers of the rank of Colonel and under, have been distributed through the blockading fleet, in obedience to Secretary Stanton's retaliating order... No Confederate general officers, however, have yet been sent. The blockade of the Mississippi is still maintained. On June 26th, the Confeder-ates captured a Federal gunboat in White River, just above its mouth. Nearly all the crew of two hundred men were taken prisoners. Three cannon were taken of the boat and she was burned. ischarged. I, Andrew G. Curtin, Governor of the said I, Andrew G. Curtin, Govarnor of the said Commonwealth, do make this my procla-mation in response thereto, and do hereby call upon the freemen of the Pennsylvania Militia to come promptly forward, as they have heretofore done, to fill the requisition for this important service. It is apparent that the enemies of our Government, in des-peration are threatening us with an armed force, in the hope that the army of General Grant may be withdrawn from before Rich-mond; and I call upon the citizens of this Commonwealth, capable of bearing arms, to come forward without delay, and thus aid our heroic brothers in the great army of the Republic.

A PROCLAMATION.

From Thursday's Age. The state of affairs in Western Maryland is very much as we reported it yesterday morning. The important fact is developed, however, that the Confederates intend an invasion into Pennsylvania, not an attack upon Baltimore or Washington. General Sigel, with all the Federal forces in West-ern Maryland, is shut up on Maryland Heights, and has not been heard from for forty-eight hours. The Confederate out-posts east of Harper's Ferry are at Point of Rocks, ten miles south of Frederick, and Middletown, nine miles west of Frederick, and Middletown, nine miles west of Frederick, General Walhace, with a small Federal force, holds Frederick, but will abandon it if any Confederate troops appear, and will retire three miles, to the Monocacy, a line he can detend. The Confederates, however, are not coming east. Leaving a force to besige Library row 25 Interested on the construction of the second secon wealth. A PROCLAMATION. REBEL STARVATION.

One of the correspondents with Grant's army thus dispels the idea of rebel starvation, Pole "The country is abundantly supplied with everything. Granaries are filled with corn until they overflow. Gardens grow all the luxuries of the season. Flocks and herds have not deserted the pastures and hills. Corydon and Thyrsis eat their country's messes in the shade. Fowls frequent the barn yards, and the dove cotes are not abandoned by their meek and innocent inmates. Our horses wade through clover knee deep, and the growing wheat brushes their sides as they pass through it. brushes their sides as they pass mough it. Immense tracts are filled with thriving corn fields. We have very serious doubts, engen-dered by our late experience, of ever starving the Confederacy, and we look for the end only by hard fighting, in connection with General Grant's left flank strategy."

marched thirty miles to the bridge across Staunton River. The track nearly all the way was destroyed. Of the four railroads, the one from Richmond to Burkesville, and the one from Burkesville to Lynchburg, were not injured. The road from Peters-burg to Burkesville was very slightly damaged, the burning of station houses be-ing the original distances. It has hear hance train was loaded with sick and wounded. When the Weldon Railroad was reached, about a thousand men were riding on the wagons and ambulances. They were inable to walk. The railroad was reached just below Reams Station. The enemy was found posted in front. They were al-tacked, but could not be driven off. A con-test was fought for sevaral hours, and at last, under cover of the night, Wilson and Kautz retreated westward, a short distance, and then moved towards Reams' Station, hoping to be able to cross there. The ene-my, however, were there in force. All at-tempts to cross were repulsed. Large bodies of Coufederates came down from Peters-burg. The command was surrounded. There were but two ways to get out. One was across a swamp in front, towards

That way ruin lies. Lamanxious, at least, to try another. Watchful in the past against deceit, I shall watch as vigilantly in the future, and when the Cleveland movement commits folly. I shall rebuke and desert it. At present, its existence is almost my only hope of anything good being bullied out of this administration.
All government in this country is an average made up between the purpose of the majority fears. After his repulse, General Sherman gave up the idea of at-tacking Kenesaw Mountain in front, and began a flank movement around its western side. For nearly a week the various Fed-eral columns were marching, and at length General Johnston abandoned Kenesaw Mountain and Marietta just south of it,— He refired to the Chattahochee river, a few miles in the rear, where high bluffs and a deep, wide valley, with a rapid stream in the centre, will aid his defense. At day-light, the Federal advance captured Keno-saw Mountain, and at eight o'clock they en-tered Marietta. The Confederate reitreat had been successful. In the English Parliament, on the 23d, inquiries were made of ministers as to the proceedings of the Conference, but Earl Russell and Lord Palmerston gave no in-formation beyond the tact that the last sit-ting of the Conference would take place on the 25th, and that on the 27th they would present to Parliament all documents rela-ting of the Conference, and make a state-ment on the subject. Earl Russell admitted that negotiations would probably be broken off and hostili-ties resumed. The London journals generally argue that is will be necessary for England to act in behalf of Denmark. The Morning Post emplatically tells the German Powers that if they are under the impression that Great Britain will content herself with the utterance of a protest, they will probably ind themselves grieveously in error. LIEUTENANT COLONEL BOWMAN.

Licutenant Colonel Bowman, who has charge of the Military Academy at West Point, has been removed from that position by order of President Lincoln. The reason of his removal may be be found in the fact of his removal may be be found in the fact that as soon as it was known that General McUellan was to deliver the oration on the occasion of the dedication of the site of the Battle Monument, General Cullum was sent on by the Administration to insist that an-other orator should be chosen. The com-mittee who had the matter in charge re-fused, however, to make any change after a formal invitation had been tendered and accepted.
