Address of the National Democratic Resident Committee.

TO THE CONSERVATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16, 1864.
The National Democratic Resident Committee feel it incumbent on them to urge upon you a general and immediate organization, with a view to an effective and triumphant canvass for the approaching Presidential election. The short period which intervenes, and the momentous interest involved render promptness and energy imperative.

Those rash fanatical parties which, with equal recklessness of consequences, with equal recklessness of consequences, have long been engaged on opposite sides of the slavery agitation, and who in their infancy excited such well-grounded apprehensions in the minds of the patriotic statesmen of the past of the patriole stateshed of the past generation, have at length attained power in their respective sections, and have for the last three years been en-gaged in the destruction of the glorious heritage transmitted to us by our fath-ers. In view of the verification of the warnings and predictions of the good and wise men who have preceded us. and of the unprecedented and appalling calamities with which those fanatics have already overwhelmed the country, it would appear to be no difficult mat-ter to dispossess them of the political power which they have respectively so earfully abused. But, unfortunately, such is not the case. The vast political patronage which is exercised by the dominant powers in their respective sections, the control of the finances and of armic and navies, on a scale hitherto unparal-leled, together with the wide-spread or-ganizations which affiliate with them respectively—all combine to produce an influence difficult to be overcome on

It is not too much to claim that the Abolition organizations—which in-cludes so many of our churcher—the so called) Loyal Leagues and other kindred associations, have been and still are the most formidable political auxil-iaries of the Federal Administration. and only with that Administration and its auxiliaries shall we have to contend in the approaching election. Of the mysterious and almost inconceivable mysterious and almost inconceivable influence exerted by such associations in revolutionary periods, all history bears witness. To the effect of these "leagues" organized infinediately after the elections in 1862, more than to any other cause, are the subsequent reverses experienced by the Democratic party to be attributed.

experienced by the Democratic party to be attributed. \( \frac{\chi}{\chi} \)

If the instrumentality of association could alone be employed successfully in the promulgation of novel and hereficial opinions, then indeed might the Conservatives of the United States well despair of saving from final wreck those institutions, and that course of policy which confessedly represents the highest social and political progress ever attained by the race.

But such is not the case. Association is a means of combining effort and residue of the chord of the party which can be proposed to use at Washington, in addition to other returns, the names of the training and the number of their officers and the number of their number of their number of their officers and the number of their officers and Reeves, a barrister, who had gone out to Newfoundhard some months before in the capacity of Chief Justice to that settlement, returned to London. Having, during his absence, had little intercourse with Europe, he was surprised beyond measure to find, on his arrival in the capitol, that a great change had taken place in the state of the public mind. The rapid progress of French principles, and the consequent dismay which it excited among the well-shipsed part of the community, were indeed well calculated to create both alarm and indignation in a man who loved his country, and nation in a man who loved us commay, and who venerated her constitution as the fer-tile source of every civil and social bies sing. He was astonished to learn that the poor-ting the social strong symptoms of a He was astonished to learn that the page-hace had betrayed strong symptoms of a turbulent and intractable spirit, and that inen of sense and discertained had dremed it necessary to provide themselves with arms, under theimpression that they should soon be called upon to use them in their own defense.

"The very day after his arrival, Mr. Regyes had a consultation with a smell

Reeves had a consultation with a small party of his legal friends, one of them a repectable judge, now no more, another who etually enjoys a seat on the Bench, and hird at present in a high onicial situation third at present in a high oricial situation. At this meeting it was determined that the most proper antidote to be opposed to the prevailing poison of the day, was that which counter-associations, composed of loyal and welf-affected men, would supply; and Mr. Reeves undertook to create them in a short time. He accordingly drew up an advertisement, which, operating like an electric shock, produced the desired effect. The public spirit manifested itself with the rapidity of lightning, crowds instantly flocked to the appointed place of the meeting. pichty of lightning, crowds insumity new a-ed to the appointed place of the meeting, and it became evident that nothing more and it became evident that nothing more than a rallying-point, which the well-direct-ed zeal of an individual had now sing-died, had been wanting, to which the real friends of the echtury might repair in order to com-bine their efforts for the resistance of that rising spirit of disaffection which had al-ricady assumed such an alarming aspect. Such was the eagerness of individuals for a public declaration of their sentiments, and such the zeal and activity which mark, as uch the zeal and activity which mark he conduct of the worthy father of t yal associations, that not more than loyal associations, that not more than tendays elapsed between the conception and the final execution of this most sensemble and well-digested plan. A committee, consisting of nineteen independent gentlement of different descriptions, was formed; appropriate resolutions were communicated to the public, and in a very short time the spirit of loyalty spread through the country, and gave birth to similar meetings is every part of the kingdom.

"In one of the first of these well written papers, which the able pen of Mr. Re very Wicked men, by the means of clubs and associations, had been spreading among the simple, and been means of chibs and associations, had been spreading among the simple and ignorant, seditions opinions, destructive of good government and the happiness of ail. Good means associated to connecract their evil designs, to support government, and to continue to all their present happiness. Such was the avowed object of these associations, which in a few days, changed as a were the whole face of the country. The voice of disaffection, lately so loud, was now sinched or at least reduced to the necessity of an ening its murmurs in private. Confidence succeeded to doubt, apprehension and disc were strengthened by the almost unanimous offer of adequate support in the ardinous struggle in which it was easy to foresee they would be involved. Well might it be observed, a few months after the establishment of the first loyal associations, that it was the general opinion that the declaration of sentiment which resulted from the forming of associations throughout the Kingdom, saved the nation at a time when nothing else could have saved it."

The great purpose of such associations is that their members should meet to discuss, to plan, and to act; to develop that magnetic power which results from the contact of mind with mind, to inspire that confidence which springs from mutual sympathy and mutual determination. It is not the mere formal articles of association which has given to this principle affection of the community, than to distance the part in operation without the association may be more advantageously employed in the defence of existing opinions than in the promulgation of new ones.

We have an illustration of this proposition in the truly enot counterfeit loyal associations formed in Great Britain in 1793, to resist the progress of recolutionary ideas disseminated in that country by the Jacobin clubs, under pretences as philanthropic and as patriotic as those now put forth by their successors of the present day. The historian of the life of Pitt informs us that,

As history so frequently only repeats itself may we not infer that as the thorough organization of the Conservatives of Great Britain at the pertod referred to produced such striking results in so brief a period of time, a like or ganization in the Chitael States under present diremnstances may produce even a tone instantaneous effect. Our peril is much greater and our means of intercommuniquation by raifroad and telegraph are vastly superior.

Let them therefore be held as often as practicable—once each day in towns and villages, and at least twice a towns and villages, and at least twice a week in the country. It will only be for a brief period—a small sacrifice of time and trouble, which should be cheertime and trouble, which should be cheerfully made for the salvation of our free institutions.

They represent an active force which, in the moral world, is just a superior to more inert ponderosity as in the domains of physics. It can be quite as effectively exerted to maintain as to overthrow. In fact, it requires less effort to sustain conservative or established opinions, which have been successfully the subject of the community, than to distant them. It therefore follows that association may be more advantageously add in restoring that government, the inestimable value of which is shown by more than severity years of successful trial during which it has become by common consent the recognized master piece of political setchers—the glory and hope of humanity. These Bitters are rapidly winning their way to public favor, and before long will be the only ones in popular demand. The cures they have effected for years past has induced the proprietor to bring them more particularly before the people. They are not a new remedy, the recipe jor. making the "Bitters" having been in the spossession of the proprietor for many years. The ingredients are composed of the following medicinal herbs and roots, all possessing well known curative powers, and are warranted not to contain any other article: Elecumpane, Burdock, Spikenard, Soapwort, Peruvian Bark, Buchn, Spicewood, Mullein, Slippery Elm, Sassafras, Sarsaparilla, Gentian Root, Juniper, Spirits Nitre, Balsam Copavia, Cubebs, Dandelien, Pure Spirits and Barberry. The Bitters have been used by persons afflicted with various diseases for some years past, and such has been their success in curing the most obstinate diseases, that the proprietor is now induced for the first time to offer them to the public, with the full confidence and a willingness to guarantee that if properly used they will effect permanent cures in the most obstinate cases of diseases. They are a certain remedy for Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Loss of Appetite, Nervous affections, Intermittent Fever, Fever and Agne, General Debility, or Weakness caused by exposure, imprudence or excess, Coughs and Colds, Diarrhera Headache, Cholera Morbus, Rheumatism or pains in the limbs, Cramp in the Stomach, Neuralgia, Diseases of the Skin, such as Scrofth, Ilcers, etc. Also, Piles, Worps, especially Seat Worms, and all other diseases raising from a disorganized or diseased stomach or impurity of Blood. HANOVER, Pa., Feb. 16, 1859.
DEAR SIRS: Having realized in my family important benefits from the use of your valuable preparation—Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry—it affords me pleasure to recommend it to the public. Some eight years ago one of my daughters seemed to be in a decline, and little hopes of her recovery were entertained. I then procured a bottle of your excellent faisam, and before she had taken the whole of the contents of the bottle there was a great improvement in her health. I have, in my individual case, made frequent use of your valuable medicine, and have also been benefitted by it.

From tests State. class, should be used with caurion by marries ladies.

Below the afflicted will find a condensed statement of the cures performed on the various individuals whose names are herewith appended, whose Certificates can at any time be seen by calling at the Store of the Proprietor, Centre Square, Lancaster, Pa.

system of practice has been left to sink or swing upon ITS OWN MERITS.

Some of the most respectable and substantial citizens of Lancaster county, have been treated and cured, as can be seen by reference to themselves, or the books of the Institute.

of every kind have been treated successfully, and in a number of instances, after all other systems and medicines had falled, and the individuals had been pronounced incurable and GIVEN UP TO DIE.

Pulmonary Consumption, Liver Diseases, Diabetis, Piles, Dyspepsia, Catarth, Paralysis, Hemiplegia and Paraplegia, Hemeopia, Aphonia, Laryagitis, Trachelismus, and all diseases of the throat and vocal organs, Bronchitis and Pleuritis, Neuralga, Sciatic, Spinal Wealth, Neuralga, Sciatic, Spinal West, Spinales of the Organism; Chorea or St. Vitus Dance, complaints incident to Females, and especially PROLAPSUS UTERI bance, complaints incident to Females, and especially

or falling down of the Uterus, can be permanently cured, and all nervous affections yield to the action of the Galvanic and Electric currents, when properly applied.

One would be led to suppose, from the practical demonstration given of the wonderful healing properties of Galvanism in the above diseases, that its efficacy as a Therapeut'e would be doubted by no one, and yet we occasionally come across an individual who will not believe, simply because the Medical Faculty, as a general thing, have not taken hold of in to them we would say that there is hardly a Erathwait's Ketrospect published but what refers to the healing properties of Electricity, and that if the faculty understood more about it they would prefer it to all other remedies, also that some of the best Physicians in the United States have adopted it. Hereafter, however, in order to gratify all, there will be at the Institute an eminent Physician of FORTY YEAR'S ACTUAL PRACTICE, and we conduily invite the diseased of all classes to call and examine into the merits of this system, as consultation and advice, together with pamphilets, will be given Free of Charge.
