Agricultural Department.

A Few Maxims for Farmers. I. The farmer who does not return to his fields a dressing more than equivalent to the crops gathered therefrom, is as unwise and thoughtless as if he would neglect to feed the horse that was to carry him on a journey. In both cases his help with their minister. And, diminishing the ability of a faithful servant to minister to his wants. II. The husbandman who obtains from a field not properly manured, a to keep it warm, he hit on the dark desmall yield of grain, when by sufficient | sign of burying minister, palace, city, manuring he might have obtained a men, women, and children in one comlarge one, is selling his labor at half its

III. In all cases keep the best products of your farm, whether of grain or stock, for your own use, that improvement in each may result therefrom .-If three poor sheep will bring as much as one good one, keep the one and sell the three.

" IV. Do not permit the remains of animal or vegetable substances to decay about your dwelling, but incorporate them with the soil or the compost heap, thereby securing the comfort and health of your family and adding to the attractiveness of your home.

V. Having things "near enough," often causes much trouble. The headboard to farmer A's cart was a little too short, but it was "near enough," consequently it came out in passing over a out and the wagon and horse got wreckenough"-but it dropped out one day and the cattle got through and destroyed his grain. It is better and cheaper in the end, even it it does take a little more time, to have things just right .-Maine Farmer.

What Grape Vines to Plant.

A gentleman says: "I want to but out 200 vines to raise grapes to sell at the most profit." We advised 20 Creveling, 25 Hartford Prolific, 80 Concord, 30 Delaware, 20 Union Village, 10 Diana, and 15 Allen's Hybrid, and for the following reasons: The Creveling is a fair grape, and being one of the earliest, will sell well on this account alone. The Hartford is the next earliest, very prolific, of fair quality, and will therefore sell well. The Concord will yield more pounds than any other for the same trouble and number of vines, and is also of good quality, so that most people will buy it also. The Delaware grows slowly, and does not yield largely at first, but its superior quality will command a good price from a considerable class of persons. The Union Village is very arre, of fair quality, and will sell well for its size alone. The Diana is of pecuilar flavor, light color, and will suit a paraceular class of buyers who will pay more for it than for the black grape. The Allen's Hybrid is the most promising hardy white grape we have, is debelous eating—the fruit will sell at a high price. The above list we submitted to a large meeting of Fruit Growers, proval. Two or three objected to the Dana; with us it does very well.-- Am. Agriculturist.

Why Bees Work in the Dark.

A lisetime might be spent in investisating the mysteries hidden in a beehrve, and still half of the secrets would cell has long been a celebrated problem for the mulliamutician whilst the changes which the honey undergoes offer at least an equal interest to the fresh from the comb is like. It is a clear yellow syrup, without a trace of solid sugar in it. Upon straining, however, pearance—it candies, as the saying is, and ultimately becomes a solid mass of sugar. It has not been suspected that this change was due to a photographic action; that the same agent which alters the molecular arrangement of the iodine of silver on the excited collodion plate, and determines the formation of bottle, causes the honey syrup to assume a crystalline form. This, however, is the case. M. Scheibler has enclosed honey stoppered flasks, some of which he has kept in perfect darkness, whilst others have been exposed to the light. The invariable result has been that the sunned portion rapidly crystalized whilst that kept in the dark remained perfectly liquid. We now see why bees are so careful to work in perfect darkness, and why they are so careful to obscure the glass windows which are placed in their hives. The existence of the young depends on the liquidity of the saccharine food presented to them, and if light were allowed access to this, the syrup would gradually acquire a more or less solid consistency it would seal up the cells, and, in al probability, prove fatal to the inmates

Sugar as Food.

Mr. Bridges Adams, the physiologist, in a recent paper on the "Uses of Sugar in Assisting Assimilation of Food,'

I know by experience the difference I know by experience the difference in nutritious effect produced by the flesh of tired cauthe on a march, and those slain in a condition arising from abundant food and healthy exercise. In the former case any amount might be eaten without the satisfaction of hunger, whilst in the latter a smaller amount removed hunger. But I discovered that removed hunger. But I discovered that certain other food, of a different quality, such as grape-sugar and fruit, would a up the fired meat to assimilate, and thus to remove hinger." The noise made by the porker was very disagreeable to the emperer, who asked the peasant if he had not learned uniform, but he declared it belonged to the method of making a pig be quiet. The rustic confessed that he had not, but that he should be very glad to be acquainted with it. "Take the pig by the tail," said the emperor, "and you will see that it will soon be silent." There is a giving out of speculation down East." The price of potatoes in the Bangor (Me.) market last week was eighty cents per bushel last week was eighty cents per bushel. The Rutland (Vt.) Heratil says that in Bellow Falls and in the towns around Bellow rails and in the towns around there, potatoes have been freely offered at fifty cents per bushel, and no buyers. This is partly owing to the general full in prices, and partly to the abundant

Legends of Charlemagne's City.--How the Devil was Baulked by a Dame. Night or day the foul fiend never rested after the trick the men of Aix had played upon him by giving him a wolf's soul instead of a man's, in return for cruelest cut of all, it had passed into a proverb that the men of Aix were sharper than the Devil. Nursing his wrath mon ruin. So, one day he went to the sea shore, saw a greathill of sand, which just suited his purpose, put it on his back, and, laughing in his sleeve, set out to crush the city and all it con

Panting and sweating under his burden, he came near the town gate called the "Ponthor," when a breeze sprang up from the east, blew some of his sand into his eyes and nearly blinded him, so that, enveloped in a perfect simoom, he could not find his way to the city.

Now, it so happened that a decent old woman came up on her way to market, while he was trying to get to the town. He accosted her most courteously, saying:

"Can you show me the way to Aix, good dame?" At that very instant, by rare good jolt, and with it half the potatoes. The keys to Mr. B's wagon thills were rather small, but they were "near enough" livek, she eaught a glimpse of the cloven foot. present position from the sea shore was firmly believed by the burghers of old, who would cite, as proof positive of the truth of their story, that scallops and other sea-shells, turned to stone from their long rest inland, are found bedded in the soil, while there is not a trace of them in any part of the country

Ever since the hills were landed in 12 their present station the Devil has let the Aix folks alone; and the clever way in which they took him in gave rise to the proverb, "De Archen sind der Duccel ze lous," which means in their dialect, "The Aix folks are craftier than | the Devil himself." s

Tale and legendfail in fitly protraying his wrath, now that the destined instruments of his vengeance have become two smiling hills, from which the traveller views the lordly sight of city and minister rising proudly and unharmed from the plain below. # Somnambulism.

One of the most remarkable cases on record is related by the Archbishop of Bordeaux in the " Encyclopedia Methodique," It was concerning a young priest in the Catholic Seminary, who used to rise in his sleep and write sermons Having written a page, he would read hive, and still half of the secrets would be undiscovered. The formation of the cell has long been a celebrated problem ning of one of his sermons which he had posed, but one correction surprised me. Having written at first the words cedivin enfant, he had afterwards effaced the word divin, and written over it adorable. Then perceiving that ec could not stand before the last word, he had dexterously inserted at, so as to make the ASSIGNED TOTAL OF BARRARA BESS VALUES BARRARA word cet." He continued to write, although a card was held between his eyes and the paper. Did the history stop here, we should have a well authenticated case of vision without the aid of that this writing was accomplished not by sight, but by a most accurate mental representation of the object to attained, as will be further illustrated in our next case. For after he had written a page requiring correction, a piece of blank paper of the exact size was substituted for his own manuscript; on that he made the corrections in the precise situation which they would have occupied on the original page. A very astonishing part of this report is that which relates to his writing music in his sleeping state, with, it is said, perfect precision. He asked for certain things, and saw and heard such things, but only such things, as bore directly upon the subject of his thoughts. He detected the deceit when water was given him instead of brandy, which he had asked for. Finally, he knew nothing of all that had transpired when he awoke, but in his next paroxysm he remembered all accurately, and so lived a sort of double life, a phenomenon which we believe to be universal in all the cases of exalted

WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY.

So general has the use of this remedy become, and so popular is it everywhere, that it is unnecessary to recount its virtues. Its works speak for it, and find atterance in the abundant and voluntary testimony of the many who from long suffering and settled disease have by its use been restored to pristine vigor and health. We can present a mass of evidence in proof of our assertions, that

These Bitters are rapidly winning their way to public favorjand before long will be the only ones in popular demand. The cures they have effected for years past has induced the proprietor to bring them more particularly before the people. They are not a new remedy, the recipe for making the "Bitters" having been in the possession of the proprietor for many years. The ingredients are composed of the following medicinal herbs and roots, all possessing well known curative powers, and are warranted not to contain any other article: Elecampane, Burdock, Spikenard, Sonpwort, Peruvian Bark, Buchu, Spicewood, Mullein, Slippery Elm, Sassafrus, Sarsaparilla, Gentian Root, Juniper, Spirits Nitre, Balsam Copavia, Cubebs, Dandelien, Pune Spirits and Barberry. The Bitters have been used by persons afflicted with various diseases for some years past, and such has been their success in curing the most obstinate diseases, that the proprietor is now induced for the first time to offer them to the public, with the full confidence and a willingness to guarantee that if properly used they will effect permanent cures in the most obstinate cases of diseases. They are a certain remedy for Dyspejsia, Liver Complaints, Loss of Appetite, Nevrous affections, Intermittent Freer, Fever and Ague, General Debility, or Weakness caused by exposure, imprudence or excess, Coughs and Colds, Diarrhora, Headache, Cholera Morbus, Rheumatism or pains in the limbs, Cramp in the Stomach, Neuralgia, Diseases of the skin, such as Serofula, Ulers, etc., Also, Piles, Worms, especially Seat Worms, and all other diseases arising from a disorganized or disease faiters are also without a rival, and should purither and Tonic or general Appetizer ites. following statement for the benefit of the afflicted:

HANOVER, Pa., Feb. 16, 1859.

DEAR SIBS: Having realized in my family important benefits from the use of your valuable preparation—Wistar's Balsam of Tid Cherry—It affords me pleasure to recommend it to the public. Some eight years ago one of my daughters seemed to be in a decline, and little hopes of her recovery were entertained. I then procurred a bottle of your excellent Balsam, and before she had taken the whole of the contents of the bottle there was a great improvement in her health. I have, in my individual casse, made frequent use of your valuable medicine, and have also been benefitted by it.

PROLAPSUS UTERI or falling down of the Uterus, can be permanently cured, and all nervous affections yield to the action of the Galvanic and Electric currents, when properly applied.

One would be led to suppose, from the practical demonstration given of the wonderful healing properties of Galvanism in the above discusses, that its efficacy as a Therapeutic would be doubted by no one, and yet we occasionally come across an individual who will not believe, simply because the Medical Faculty, as a general thing, have not taken hold of it, to them we would say that there is hardly a Braithwalt's Retrospect published but what refers to the healing properties of Electricity, and that if the faculty understood more about it they would prefer it to all other remedics, also, that some of the best Physicians in the United States have adopted it. Hereafter, however, in order to gratify all, there will be at the Institute an eminent Physician of FORTY YEARS ACTUAL PRACTICE, and we cordially invite the diseased of all classes to call and examine into the merits of this system, as consultation and advice, together with pamphlets, will be given Free of Charge.
